An Ordinance from Com. Council, to sell the old Ferry Landing at North End to the Concord Railroad to enlarge their wharf, referred to Com. on Bills on 2d Reading.

In Convention, balloted for Assistant Engineer. Whole number votes 17: Allen A. Rand had 6, John Stavers 6, Chas. W. Plaisted 5, and there was no choice. Second ballot, A. Rand 1, Chas. E. Plaisted 4, Allen A. Rand 9, and Mr. Rand was declared elected.

It being stated that Mr. Rand would not accept, Mr. Jas. T. Gammon moved that a Com. of one be appointed by the Chair, to ascertain; and Mr. Gammon being appointed, waited on Mr. Rand, and reported that he declined and recommended Mr. John Stavers.

On third ballot, John Stavers had 2, Chas. E. Plaisted 6. John H. Locke 9, and was elected Assistant Engineer. The Convention then rose, and the Aldermen resumed.

Ald. Cotton called attention to the slippery condition of the sidewalks near the High School and other City Buildings Ald. Slater suggested that a box-sled be constructed with perforated bottom, to sift sand on icy walks. The Mayor thought a man with a sieve would do as well: but that the Street Commissioner and his men at this season had plenty of time to see to this matter. Voted that the Commissionar be requested to sand the walks in front of City Buildings when neccessary.

Ald. Cotton stated some one should be appointed to clear the walks of snow front of the Engine Houses. Voted that the Com. on Streets request St. Com. to attend to both these duties.

Mrs. David Moulton asked that a tree near her dwelling on Chestnut St. be removed. Referred to Com. on Streets.

Ald. Cotton reported sidewalk on Washington St., near Chas. Robinson's house, to be in dangerous condition. Referred to Com. on Streets.

There being no more business to give this Committee, the Board adjourned.

☞ We understand that Mr. Warren K. Day of this city, has accepted the position of Organist at the South Congregational Church in Concord, and has entered upon the duties of the position. The Society is a very large and strong one, and their new Hook organ we believe the finest and most costly in the State. While we shall regret to lose so valuable a citizen, so capable, earnest and studious a musician, and such a right-down good fellow,—we can but congratulate both the church and himself on the new arrangement.

Mr. Day has lived in Portsmouth for about five years, we think, and has a large circle of personal and business friends, who will regret his removal; but we have no hesitation in assuring our Concord friends, that they will soon discover that our loss is in very fact their gain. He is an enterprising, public-spirted business man, as well as laudably ambitious professionally, and a nice church organ is one of his accustomed delights and means of improvement for himself and pupils, as well as the public; and he resigned his organ here, and now leaves a good business and changes his residence, mainly if not wholly became of the superior advantages offered in this respect in Concord. He has always shown himself public spirited and ready to favor every good work here, and we wish him the best success wherever he may abide.

☞ The rare beauty of model of the little Episcopal Chapel, and the neat fitness of the surroundings and adornments of his elegant residence in this city—are monuments to the excellent good taste of the late Rev. Dr. Burroughs—the one in comparitive youth, the latter almost the last business of his long and useful life.

☞ Philharmonic Rehearsal this (Friday) evening, promptly at half-past 7. All members and other good singers invited.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

1000 MILES UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

467 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81s) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $28,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,065.97
" Freight	2,040,233.19
" Express	51,423.08
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	91,626.27
" Government troops	104,977.17
" " freight	449,440.33
" Contractors' men	201,179.09
" " material	968,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street, —AND BY— JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 53 Wall Street, And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a full report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Office or to any of the advertised agents.

Morning Chronicle.

DROLL REASONING.—Congress, in the early part of the present session, called upon the President for a copy of his recent Amnesty Proclamation, and the authority under which he issued it. A partisan paper is indignant and says:—

"If one branch of the Government may thus become amenable to another branch, for the very reasons and motives, as well as the regularity of its conduct, then clearly, the President may at any time call Congress to an account for its freaks of legislation, or Congress demand an explanation of the Judiciary for its decisions, with equal right and justice."

Another paper replies to its neighbor in this way:—

Following out his line of reasoning, we present the following propositions, to which he will doubtless give his sanction. If the Executive branch of the Government may become amenable to the Legislative branch for its conduct, even to the extent of impeachment and deposition from office, then clearly, the President may at any time call Congress to account, and impeach and depose it. Our neighbor must allow that this is an excellent illustration of his theory. And as Congress has the power and authority to remodel the Judiciary, of course the Judiciary has an equal power to remodel Congress.

BONE SETTING EXTRAORDINARY.—A little fellow in Hartford, fell from the top of a coal bin and put his shoulder out of joint, and a surgeon was sent for at once. Though suffering severe pain, the lad, who is a regular climber, got into a chair and on top of it, and fell headlong to the floor, his mother supposing that he had broken his neck this time. But he jumped up, and, swinging his arms, gleefully, shouted. "It's all right, it's all right!" and, sure enough, the second fall had put his shoulder joint in place again, and he was as good as new without the aid of a doctor.

TRAGEDY.—One Thomas Carr, who lives near Sewellsville, Ohio, desired to marry Louisa Fox, a girl of 14 years, but her parents objected on account of her youth. Carr commenced to cut the girls' throat in presence of her little brother, 9 years old, who ran to alarm the father: and he found the daughter dead. Carr fled, and next day he shot himself, and cut his own throat, but was found alive, and arrested. He confessed the deed, and said, that while he talked, for half an hour, with the girl, before the murder, he drank three pints of cider.

—A man who was up to a thing or two, once offered to bet that he could prove that this side of the river was the the other side. His challenge was soon accepted, and a bet of ten dollars made; when, pointing to the opposite shore of the river, he shrewdly asked: "Is not that one side of the river?" "Yes," was the immediate answer. "Agreed," said the man; "and is not this the other side?" "Yes," said the other. "Then," said the man, "pay me my ten dollars, for by your own confession I have proved that this side of the river is the other side." The dumbfounded antagonist overcome by this profound logic, immediately paid the money.

DEFECTS OF BUILDING MATERIALS IN RELATION TO HEALTH.—The author of an article in the British and Foreign Medico-Chirugical Review, dwells upon the dangers of buildings constructed of materials saturated with saline matters. Among these materials are mortar mixed with sea sand, and imported lumber. Wood absorbs moisture very rapidly, and upon a sea voyage becomes charged with the saline deposits. The walls of buildings constructed of these materials are continually absorbing moisture, and by their dampness predispose to rheumatism, phthisic, ect.

—John Chinaman in California is clear at a bargain. His ideas of the "credit system" are extremely safe though rather vague. A merchant of unbounded credit in San Francisco recently applied to a Chinese merchant, through his agent, to purchase a cargo of rice on time. The agent duly set forth the opulence, standing, &c., of his principal, to which Chinaman replied: "Yes, him welly good man. Me trust-ee, him pay me one-halp cash-ee, other half when me deliber rice-ee."

—A Cuban gentleman who is direct from Havana expresses his confidence that the revolutionists will ultimately triumph, and annexation and emancipation, which are their watchwords.—The Spanish troops are demoralized, and their officers admit that unless peace can be restored before the commencement of the sickly season, the chances are that the yellow fever will compel them to leave the island. The revolutionists are supplied with improved American arms and ammunition, nor do they lack money.

—Gov. Brownlow of Tennessee will resign his position as Governor, on the 26th inst., to take his seat in the United States Senate as Patterson's successor. The Governor has been confined to his room most of the time for the last eighteen months. DeWitt Senter, Speaker of the Tennessee Senate, will fill out Gov. Brownlow's unexpired term. Col. W. B. Stokes and Andrew Johnson are expected to be the rival candidates for Governor at the August election.

—Why is the world like a piano? 'Cause it is full of sharps and flats.

My Boy.

A lock of golden hair,
Tied with a silken thread,
A tiny shoelet lying there;
A snow-white curtained bed;

A little broken toy;
A book all soiled and torn;
A jaunty velvet cap my boy
Has often, often worn—

Alas! is all that's left!
(Such is the Father's will,)
His joyous laughter sounds no more,
His little heart is still.

☞ A few days since a lady of Gloucester, Mass., had occasion to leave her house for a few moments, and left her six months' baby on the floor. On returning, she was surprised to find the child missing. After searching for some time she discoveredthat the family dog had taken the baby to the garret and deposited it in a basket of rags.

—A letter bearing the following superscription was recently received at the Silver City Post Office from Iowa:

"Augustus Jones, a web-foot scrub,
To whom this letter wants to go,
Is chopping cord-wood for his grub,
In Silver City, Idaho."

—The Rev. Mr. Murray, a young man recently settled over the Park church in Boston, startled his parishioners the other Sunday by inserting a petition in his prayer that the Lord would "bless those middle-aged females in the congregation whose youthful hopes had been disappointed."

—Suppose the ladies were to practice smoking, would one of them allow another to stop her in the street for a light without being introduced, or knowing who her dressmaker was, or where she bought her bonnets?

—"What have you caught there?" said a citizen to a policeman who was conveying a refactory bootblack up street. "Caught," said the officer, "nothing but a shiner."

— Mr. Butler's amendment to consolidate the South American missions has been killed, and Kilpatrick will return to his mummies.

TEA COMPANY

WILL Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Teas direct to consumers, by the pound, as low as by the cargo, saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to FINE FLAVORED TEAS, of full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price lists."

EXPERIENCE PROVES the Finest Teas relatively the cheapest, as the Government Duty, 2 cents in Gold, or nearly 40 cents in currency, and also the freight, packing and other expenses of importing, are as much on the poorest as the finest.

OUR COFFEE DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

WE GUARANTEE all our Goods to be precisely as represented, and WARRANT them to give perfect Satisfaction or to return the money at any time and pay all expenses.

SEND FOR PRICE LIST and blank club orders.

Address all orders and communications to the

Saved by clubbing together and buying COTTON CLOTH, DRESS GOODS, WOOLEN GOODS, HOSIERY, BLANKETS, SHAWLS, &c., &c., together with BOOTS and SHOES, BOOKS, CUTLERY, SILVER-PLATED WARE, CASTORS, FANCY GOODS, &c., of

EASTMAN & KENDALL,
65 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.,
LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.
Established 1864.

The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WHITE BED QUILT or a SILVER-PLATED REVOLVING TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL. Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The origin of this firm has become as familiar as household words' throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles than any one, or than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, cotton cloth made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

A partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

Set of Furs, Muff and Collar.

It is impossible to give a complete list of goods, but Agents desiring articles not named above, will please mention them, and we will accommodate them if possible. If you have a club ready, or intend to raise one for any other house, DON'T FAIL TO SEND IT TO US, AND AT THE SAME TIME ASK FOR OUR NEW CIRCULAR AND SEE WHAT AN EXCHANGE LIST. Parties acting as agents for other dollar houses in this city will please send us their address, and that of a dozen or so of their male and female friends, as we can make it for their advantage to do so. Male and female agents wanted as usual.

Send Money in Registered Letter in every instance, and we guarantee that it will come perfectly safe.

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE,
20 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:
Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,
S. DANA HAYES,

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
PRACTICAL AND ANALYTICAL CHEMISTS,
LOWELL, MASS.

THE DOORSTEP.

BY E. C. STEDMAN.

The conference meeting through at last,
We boys around the vestry waited
To see the girls come tripping past,
Like snow-birds willing to be mated.

Not braver he that leaps the wall
By level musket-flashes littten,
Than I, who stepped before them all,
Who longed to see me get the mitten.

But no, she blushed and took my arm!
We let the old folks have the highway,
And started towards the Maple Farm
Along a kind of lovers' by-way.

I cant remember what we said,
'Twas nothing worth a song or story,
Yet that rade path by which we sped
Seemed all transform-ed and in glory.

The snow was crisp beneath our feet,
The moon was full, the fields were gleaming;
By hood and tippet sheltered sweet,
Her face with youth and health was beaming.

The little hand outside her muff—
O sculptor, if you could but mould it!—
So lightly touched my jacket-cuff,
To keep it warm I had to hold it.

To have her with me there alone,—
'Twas love and fear and triumph blended;
At last we reached the foot-worn stone
Where the delicious journey ended.

She shook her ringlets from her head,
And with a "Thank you, Ned," dissembled,
But yet I know she understood
With what a daring wish I trembled.

A cloud passed kindly overhead,
The moon was slyly peeping through it,
Yet hid its face as if it said,
"Come, now or never! do it! do it!"

My lips till then had only known
The kiss of mother and of sister,
But somehow, full upon her own
Sweet, rosy, darling mouth—I kissed her!

Perhaps 'twas boyish love, yet still,
O listless woman! weary lover!
To feel once more that fresh, wild thrill,
I'd give—But who can live youth over?

"VIRGINIUS," of the Boston Sunday Times, is writing some interesting and amusing papers on "Dramatic Memories," from which we make the following extract.

Junius Brutus Booth was once playing a brief engagement in the north of England, and opened in his favorite, King Richard. The manager, who expected a full house, resolved to take the money himself and resign his character of King Henry to another actor, simply announcing himself for the small part of Tyrrel, who appears in the fourth act, which he thought he might play by the help of a black cloak without being absent from the pay office more than a few minutes. But it unfortunately happened that the play acted shorter than usual, and the half-price people who were let in at nine o'clock could not gain admittance until the middle of the fourth act, the time Tyrrel had to go on the stage. The clock struck nine, the rush was tremendous, half crowns and shillings tumbled in by hundreds.

The manager was called for the stage. "I can't come," he replied. "What is to be done?" said the prompter, "Send some one else for the part." "There is no one disengaged." "Then do it yourself." "I play Catesby, and he is on the same scene," replied the prompter. "Then make John, the new property man, do it; tell him he has only to say yes and no." The fatal scene came.

Booth spoke his soliloquy on the death of the young princes with admirable effect, and while doing so the industrious prompter seized the unfortunate John, an important Yorkshire clown, who had only seen the inside of a theatre for three days, and telling him it was a part of his duty, and that he had only to say yes or no every time Mr. Booth stopped speaking, thrust him on the stage. Booth, somewhat startled by the strange appearance of the man before him, put the question—"Now, my Tyrrel, how are the brats disposed? Hast thou dealt upon 'em?"

John, frightened out of his senses, remained silent.

"Speak," said the prompter.

"Yes," said John.

"But did'st thou see them dead?"

"No." "Yes," from the prompter.

"Yes," echoed the Yorkshireman.

"And buried, my good Tyrrel?"

"Yes," said John, who had recovered his courage.

"And buried?" repeated Booth.

"Yes, by Gum, I told thee so before."

Booth, scarcely disconcerted, paused for a second, and then went on—

"I have it—get thee a spade, and dig them up again. Then get a coffin full of holes, &c."

The audience, who perceived the joke, laughed immoderately, and Booth thrust Yorkshire John from the stage, amidst the applause of the whole theatre. It was his first and last appearance, for the next day John was non est inventus.

—A recent English writer says that the distinctive difference between an English and purely Irish face is, that the former looks as if the hand of nature had been passed over it downwards when coming into the world, while the Irish face looks as if, on that occasion, the hand had been gently passed over the features in a contrary or upward direction.

LADIES IN POOR HEALTH.
ONE OF THE BEST MEDICINES,
Probably the very best ever prescribed, for the numerous and distressing ailments known as FEMALE COMPLAINTS, is Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator. Headache, Pain in the Back and Limbs, Palpitation of the Heart, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, Bearing-down Pain, Prostration of Strength, Retained, Excessive, Irregular or Painful Menses—all yield to the magic power. For Hysteria, Epilepsy, Melancholy, &c., it is all but infallible. It is also most valuable to ladies who are experiencing the change incident to advanced years. Then it is that constitutional maladies make their appearance, if any be lurking about the system, and give cause for much pining days. Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator greatly assists nature at this important period, maintaining the vigor and tranquility of early life, and carrying them with ease and safety through.

IMPORTANT CERTIFICATE.
[Communicated by a Physician.]
Some months ago I was called to attend a lady of Williamsburg, N. Y., who had long been suffering from troublesome uterine disease. Its presence was marked by constant vaginal discharge, sometimes of a watery consistency and sometimes creamy and muco-purulent. She had been under other treatment for some time, but constantly she grew worse. Vaginal examination disclosed extensive induration and ulceration of the cervix uteri. The uterine inflammation, which was evidently assuming a chronic form, was also aggravated by long-standing constipation, palpitation of the heart, nightsweats, cough, poor appetite, and almost daily faintings. She fainted to entire insensibility during one of my first visits. I commenced, of course, by using the local treatment as the ulceration demanded, and then applied myself to a recuperation of the general health. It was inconvenient to see her at her residence, except to mark the healing of the ulcers, in the early stages, I visited her only every other week. For tonic and constitutional treatment, Dodd's Nervine only was prescribed. I had sometime before become acquainted with its properties, and knew of nothing more safe or more efficacious in its effects. And the result completely justified my expectations. In less than a fortnight the bowels had become free and regular, the night sweats, the night-sweats disappeared, and appetite began to grow. The fainting spells became less frequent, and at each consultation, which was fortnight there was no more cough, the vaginal discharge was sensibly diminishing, sleep was normal, and on reaching, and examining, I heard decidedly improved. What remains is soon told.—The patient continued the use of the Nervine, (and no other medicine) for some weeks longer, when my further attendance was not required. Since her recovery I have seen her but once. She is now quite robust. Her joy over restored health is naturally enough most enthusiastic. She never before had a medicine give her such comfort—and such appetite—and such sleep—and such courage—and such strength. She wouldn't wait to keep house again without it, and so forth, and so forth. It is my opinion that the Nervine is the best tonic and corrective of the female organization that I ever come under my observation. I shall not fail to continue its use in all similar cases, and the profession know they are numerous enough.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

SATURDAY, FEB. 6, 1869.

The News.

Mrs. Betsey Rogers, the noted "berry woman," of Newbury, Mass., died on the 30th ult. from the effects of a fall on the ice. She was ninety six years old, and is believed to have carried three thousand bushels of berries to market during her life.

Some wag has got up a petition to Congress to prohibit the sale of milk by individuals, on the grounds that exorbitant prices have been charged, and that unwholesome milk has been sold. It is proposed to have the Government seize all milch cows, remunerate the owners thereof, and have milk sold at post offices. In large cities the letter carriers could deliver it without much additional tribute. Any cream that could be obtained from the milk while in the post offices, would be the perquisite of the post master.

Compressed coal is the latest invention.

Velocipedists have encroached so greatly upon the privileges of pedestrians in Lyons, France, that the Mayor has issued a proclamation compelling the former to attach lanterns to their machines at night, and to keep the middle of the street.

A house in Lawrence was struck by lightning between one and two o'clock Thursday morning, and a chimney partly demolished.

Weston left St. Albans, Vt., on Thursday, and crossed Lake Champlain to Rouse's Point on the ice. The snow materially impeded his progress.

Gen. Grant is in New York.

The Central Pacific Railroad has been completed 510 miles east of Sacramento, 150 miles from the head of Salt Lake, leaving 240 miles of trans-continental road to be built. The tract of the Central Pacific road is being laid at the rate of from three to four miles a day.

Congress.

The Senate debated the proposed new constitutional amendment, on Thursday, without taking any definite action thereon.

In the House, E. D. Holbrook, delegate from Idaho, was publicly censured for declaring that Gen. Butler had made statements which he knew at the time were false.

At the evening session Mr. Ela of N. H. made an able speech on the subject of Currency and the Finances. He defended paper, which he claimed, instead of being a cheat and delusion to the laborer, had given him more constant employment and better remuneration. He argued that the last seven years had been more continuously prosperous than any which had preceded. He advocated an increased tariff on luxuries and economy in the government as one great step toward the resumption of specie payments.

He took the ground that it is impossible to resort to specie payments without contraction, and that contraction at the present time would be disastrous to the whole debtor interest of the country; that it cannot be maintained until specie is cheaper; that we have got to increase our products, cut down our expenses and stop the importation of foreign luxuries before this can be done. To undertake to fix a time within one or two years for the resumption of specie payments would be to stop all business until that time was reached. When a man is sure that his money will increase twenty-five per cent within a year, in his pocket, he will not hazard it elsewhere, with the chances of losing twenty-five per cent.

HENRY C. DORSEY,—the man who gave our State Prisoners a turkey dinner the other day, is an ornamental painter in Pawtucket, Rhode Island, "with more work ordered than he can do in three years," as we are informed by a line written on his business card. Mr. Dorsey has provided a fund to feed the prisoners in Connecticut and Rhode Island, and we have the best evidence of his sympathy for those unfortunates who are in prison. He is strong in the faith "that a man totally depraved is a miracle," and he adopts this method of showing his interest in criminals. We trust he will long live to feed the prisoners, and that his business may so prosper that another year he may have sufficient surplus to repeat the donation.

Die Modenwelt for February, a superior number, is at hand. The magazine is a very valuable one and is filled to overflowing with patterns and illustrations for the use of the ladies in the thousand and one knick knacks they conjure up in the way of dress, and for domestic purposes. The price of the magazine is small compared with its real value.

Mrs. Woodel, whom Kenney attempted to murder at Claremont, is slowly improving, though not yet out of danger. The trial of Kenney was postponed to September on account of her inability to appear in court, she being the principal witness.

The town of Milford is considering the subject of building a town-house of wood, 4 stories high, 100 feet by 60; stores in the basement, Post Office, selectmen's room, and three large stores in the first story above; a great Hall in the second, &c.

The Amherst Cabinet says that two full grown white rats have lately been caught in that place. We have seen white mice, Ben Davis had some once at Concord, and Mr. Stratton used to have some, here, in Smyth's Block—but white rats we never saw, nor have we ever heard of any except these at Amherst.—Manchester News.

RAILROAD CASE SETTLED.—The indictment against the Boston and Maine Railroad, found by the grand jurors at the last October term in Rockingham County, for killing Hiram Witherell at Plaistow in February last, has been settled by the payments of $1,000 to the widow and children, funeral expenses, costs before coroner and costs of court, amounting in all to about $1200. This accident occurred at what is known as Witch Lane in Plaistow, one of the most dangerous crossings on the line of the road. Trains have heretofore been driven across this road,—owing to its not being much frequented,—at a furious rate of speed, without giving the usual signals to warn persons of their approach. There have been several very narrow escapes at this place, and it is hoped and expected that the company will consult their own interests, as well as the safety of the public, by requiring their engine-men to whistle at this crossing in future.—Mirror.

CALIFORNIA FLOUR.—Ten years ago California imported 20,500 barrels of flour; this year she has 420,000 to spare, the most of which was produced within one hundred miles of San Francisco. The quality is good too. A thorough trial of the barrel sent us by our old friends Main & Winchester, several weeks since, proves this flour to be of superior quality—a little dark, or a trifle yellow, which is hardly an objection for family use, though sometimes so considered; but sweeter, more sugary, than almost any wheat we ever ate. Verily, the Grains of the Golden State will prove more valuable even than her Metals.

☞ Several days ago U. S. Detective Kent of this city was ordered to look up a lot of counterfeit money in circulation at Bangor, Me., and immediately left for the "seat of war." The result is the arrest of a man there named Benjamin Fowle, formerly of Lowell, Mass., on the charge of being connected with an extensive gang of counterfeiters.—Detective Kent rarely, if ever, misses his man when once he gets fairly on the trail, and his last achievement is another proof of the wise policy which led to his re-appointment, after being removed on political grounds.

THE AMERICAN NEWSBOY originated with the first penny paper in New York—the Sun—in 1828. Mr. George H. Evans, its publisher, hired a number of boys, at $2 per week, to carry the paper about and sell it. The first edition sold so fast, that on the return of the boys for more, he sold the paper to them for nine cents per dozen and started them as venders in their own interest. Exchange.

The American Newsboy, we think, is a nuisance, as we also similarly regard almost all pedlers, especially those who cry their wares.

MISS JUDITH RUSSEL, of New Bedford writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the PLANTATION BITTERS. 15

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Do not Trifle with Danger.

A single spark may kindle a flame that will consume a city; so small ailments, neglected, may end in fatal disorders. Bearing this fact in mind, let the first symptoms of debility or nervous prostration be met promptly with invigorating treatment. Foremost among the vegetable tonics of the age stands HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, and whenever the vital powers seem to languish, or there is any reason to suspect that the animal functions essential to the sustenation and purification of the body are imperfectly performed, this invigorant and antiseptic stimulant should at once be resorted to. Indigestion always produces weakness. Sometimes it happens,—and this is more frequently the case in Winter than at any other season,—that the appetite demands more food than the stomach can digest; although not more, perhaps, than is required to keep up the waste of the fabric. In this case, under such circumstances, is to increase the digestive capacity of the assimilating organ, so as to make it equal to the duty imposed upon it by the appetite, and capable of supplying the building material of the system as fast as it is required. This object is fully accomplished by the use of the Bitters. They tone and gently stimulate the cellular membrane which secretes the gastric juice, and the result is that the solvent is mingled with the food in sufficient quantity to convert all its nourishing particles into pure and wholesome element. If, on the other hand, there be a deficiency of appetite, without any corresponding deficiency of digestive power, the effect of the tonic is to stimulate a desire for food. In nineteen cases out of twenty, headache, nausea, nervousness, spasms, fainting-fits, and, indeed, most of the casual aches and pains to which humanity is subject, proceed primarily from indigestion complicated with biliousness; and for both these complaints HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are recommended as a speedy and certain remedy.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on other watches, yet he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. Attracted by some fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, we only have made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and village of the country some wearer of a Waltham Watch may be found. Let the party about to buy ask this owner of an American Watch this question: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy such to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself where he can get a Waltham Watch at THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell to our products at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that to-day we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together. We can, AND DO, MANUFACTURE WATCHES CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the refusal of nearly all inventions intended to improve the article, and have adopted all those, and those only, which have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we had, when our services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country. In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, our being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a retail profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced, drew wards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"broke up the congestion" in his own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, dashed down, upstairs with water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when our arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

"Bitter Sweet"

Gave Timothy Titcomb the approval of a wide circle of readers. The most palatable and invigorating sweet-bitter known to the world—SONOMA WINE BITTERS—is gaining the approval of all who need a cordial tonic. Sold everywhere.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the cough and night sweats go; the lungs, and the patient out grows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or the matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

The Seaweed Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the liver thoroughly and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive power, locks up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either in ulceration, tubercles, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now is the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to work, digest the food, make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, wants every one to be healthy, knowing by the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and unable to give him to his friends, he resorted to the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK unless possible, when his patients are examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each place from 9 to 3 P. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

For the Chronicle.

Portsmouth & Dover Rail Road.

After the defeat of some of our live business men in attempting to call a Meeting to see if the City would vote to take stock in the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad, the project has seemed to fail. Not that there was anything binding in the proposition as presented to the Mayor and Aldermen,—the only object being to get an expression of the people of the city towards the enterprise. We doubt if there is another town in the State that would not vote to take stock by a three-fourths vote, where the benefits resulting to the city are so apparent.

This town seems to be under the influence of a fogyness that is absolutely astonishing. Some of the people say go ahead, put it through, pay the bills, the Lord be with you; here are some cakes of ice to put in your pockets to comfort and cheer you on your way; we want the Railroad, but don't want to pay for it. We bid you God speed.

The man of money sees in it nothing but the scheme to wrest his dollars from him. The quiet people, who had hoped to live and die here without any further manifestations of activity, fret over the agitation. The real estate owner is afraid the value of his property will be raised, followed by increased demands from that great enemy of mankind, the tax collector; and the Rips generally rub their eyes, roll over, growl and snarl at the confounded talk about a Railroad they don't want, and nestle down for more slumber and sleep.

But still, knowing the history of all similar enterprises—that they have only been carried by long and persistent efforts, against derision, against open and covert opposition—we shall continue the agitation. We can lead a horse to water, but we cannot make him drink; still, we know he must drink, sometime, and we can wait till he is dry. Let us have patience and keep at work. B.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. Charles A. Barker of this city was found dead in his bed at his boarding house in Ladd Street, early Friday morning. He had been unwell for a week, but was not considered dangerously ill, and only complained of a severe cold, with slight symptoms of fever, for which his physician had left some simple powders to be taken every four hours. On retiring, Thursday evening, his room-mate, Mr. Wheeler, who slept in the same bed with him, gave him one of the powders, and was directed to give the second at twelve o'clock should he be awake at that time. Shortly after twelve Mr. Wheeler awoke, and finding Mr. Barker quietly sleeping concluded not to disturb him, and again went to sleep.—At 4 o'clock he again awoke, and was startled at finding his bed fellow cold and stiff in death, lying on his back as before, with his eyes and mouth open. His death probably resulted from heart disease.

Mr. Barker came to Portsmouth from St. Johnsbury, Vt., about two years ago, and had been employed as a writer in the Navigation Department at the Navy Yard for a year past. During his short residence in this city he had made many friends and acquaintances, being naturally of a genial temper, and of unexceptionable character. His sudden death is a sad bereavement to his parents and friends, and the Associations in which he had been active in membership will miss him sadly.

Funeral services this (Saturday) morning at 7 1-2 o'clock, after which the remains will be taken to Vermont for interment.

☞ We are authorized by Mr. T. S. Nowell to state that if any of the men recently discharged from the Navy Yard are good shoemakers, they or others can find steady work at fair wages at his Shoe Manufactory. His orders warrant his adding 25 hands to his present force. If any young, self-made man has done more for the business interests of Portsmouth than Mr. Nowell, we hardly know who it is.

☞ There is a fine chance for a school for velocipedarians and for velocipede manufacturers in this city.—There's a large profit in the business at present prices.

☞ Brewster Street looks better now that the forest of trees in that thoroughfare has been thinned out.

☞ The programme of the Concert by the Cornet Band, which comes off Monday evening, will be found in the advertisement elsewhere.

☞ Ex-City Marshal Emery A. Dresser, formerly of this city, is now on the Boston police force.

ONCE MORE AWAKE.—The Portsmouth Mercantile Library Association.

OUR PORTSMOUTH POLICE FORCE get more blame than praise in certain quarters, where impartiality is never known and political prejudice always fails to give credit where credit is due. The difficulties attending the performance of the duties of a policeman are seldom thought of by those who easily fall into a carping, fault-finding way through heedlessness, in other quarters, and who never think it worth their while to praise those who faithfully perform the arduous and disagreeable duties assigned them.

We do not say that our city police force is infallible, nor that it is perfect, but we know that rascals of all kinds and criminals of all degrees are cognizant of the efficiency and pluck of our local officers, and that the rogues, in consequence, generally give this city a wide berth, and prowl elsewhere with greater success than they might achieve in their villainous operations in this vicinity.

The reputation of Portsmouth officers is known as well to the authorities of other cities, and their detective abilities are often called into requisition elsewhere. Portsmouth seldom suffers from the high-handed outrages which disgrace other cities, some afar off, and some in the New England States,—and will not be likely to as long as an efficient police force is maintained. Our citizens are never anticipating disaster by fire, nor are we often regaled with the horrible details of murders, committed in our midst; neither do we as a community pass sleepless nights, fearful of burglaries and other dire calamities.

Portsmouth is free from all such visitations, comparatively if not literally speaking, and is disturbed only occasionally by an inundation of prize fighters or reckless fishermen, whose strength and capacity for mischief lie principally in the force of numbers.

We do not hold up our Portsmouth policeman to view as better than any other class of individuals, but are of the opinion that they should be judged by their acts, and no one questions their faithful performance of duty. To them we are indebted for the peace of our city and the safety of life and property, and this security comes from their thorough knowledge of those who live in our midst. Suspected parties arriving by the cars and other conveyances are soon put under surveillance, sometimes without knowing it, and though in some cases innocent people may be annoyed, personally, and are subjected to a little inconvenience, the community at large are the gainers.

Our policemen should be upheld in their laudable efforts to preserve order, by public sentiment, and all should bear in mind that it is easier to growl and find fault with the conduct and management of public as well as private enterprise, than to go boldly at work to check evil without fear of results and regardless of favor. Our police force have never yet turned their back upon the enemy at large and we have no doubt will ever be found prompt and effective in the performance of duty.

☞ Wendell Phillips' Lecture (which is to be upon the Lost Arts, although we are sure he has not lost the art of lecturing or the magic of oratory) will be given at Congress Hall, and not in the Temple as announced. That hall ought not to be half sufficient to contain those who should hear this charming discourse on old times.

☞ Auctioneer Wendell announces a large sale of Furniture and Varieties today; among the rest, a Horse, and 2 elegant and superior new Sleighs. See his advertisement.

☞ Thirteen laborers were discharged from the Steam Engineering Department at the Navy Yard on Friday.

☞ Philharmonic Rehearsal Tuesday Evening, Feb. 9th, at half-past 7.

We understand that the house and land of the estate of the late A. W. Simpson Esq. was sold at auction on Thursday last week to Mrs. Wadleigh of Savannah, daughter of Elbridge G. Pierce, Esq. of this city. Mr. Pierce will occupy the mansion and Mrs. Wadleigh will make it her summer retreat from the Sunny South.

The Howard Benevolent Society in this city has been in existence forty years. During that time its disbursements have amounted to $16,854,66—15,000 of which has been given in charity.

DEATHS.

In this city, Feb. 5, very suddenly, Mr. CHARLES AUSTIN BARKER, formerly of St. Johnsbury, Vt., aged 22.

—Feb. 5, MERCIE S. PLUMMER, wife of Moses Plummer.

☞ Funeral Sunday, Feb. 7, at 1 o'clock, at No. 4 Mulberry Street. Relatives and friends are invited.

With a full knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,600,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,065.97
" Freight	2,040,233.19
" Express	51,423.08
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	91,626.27
" Government troops	104,077.77
" " freight	449,440.33
" Contractors' men	201,179.09
" " material	968,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,

And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing through local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

Morning Chronicle.

Korn Kobbs on the Grecian Bend.

I've got the Grecian Bend at my house, Mr. Editor. It was brought in late one afternoon by the milliner's shop in three bones. The boy who brought it wanted to know if I would pay for it now or should he call in the morning. (That boy's mother, whoever she may be, should teach her son discretion. If she doesn't he'll be carried home to her some fine morning with his toes turned up, as a melancholy warning to all boys not to be over-zealous in their profession.) As my wife wasn't expected home for some time, I thought I'd examine her purchases. It was the most extraordinary conglomeration of articles I ever set eyes on. There were some pieces of horse hair, five or six pounds of cotton batting, a lot of corset strings, three or four bunches of steel wire, and enough whalebone to construct the frame of a great sea-serpent. It looked like the wreck of a half dozen hoop-skirts and twice as many chignons. I cogitated over it long and anxiously, but I could arrive at no satisfactory conclusion with regard to it.

At first I fancied my wife proposed going into the upholstery business, as some of our sofas and chairs are the worse for wear. Then I thought Mrs. K. K. and her family had been struck by lightning, and these were the melancholy remains brought home to the bereaved husband and father. I rejected both propositions, however, as I never allow myself to be too sanguine over anything. I tried it on the hall stove to see if it would make it draw, but it didn't. Then I put it in the front garden with a sign attached to it, "Beware of Man traps," but a crowd collected and obliged me to take it down, as they fancied it was an infernal machine to blow up the neighborhood.—My wife, however, soon solved the question. It was the great Grecian Bend, the successor of hoop skirts, crinoline and bustles—the ne plus ultra of fashion.

This was about a week ago, and now I have it in good order all over the house. My wife has it, her daughters have it, the cook has got it, and even the cat gets her back up with it occasionally. Its the infernallest contrivance I ever saw. It wont fit into anything. Its neither high church nor low church. The sofa is short for it and the chairs are too straight, and the hall is too narrow for it. It can't sit down nor stand up—it can't do anything but Bend. It can't un-Bend either. It goes all over the house knocking down tea cups and books, and stools and tables, and playing the devil generally. If it comes in from the front door it is obliged to go straight through the hall into the back garden before it can turn round. Sometimes it gets stuck in the stairway, and intercepts all communication between the upper and lower regions. Not to mention money, it has cost me more time and trouble than anything I ever experienced. It's worse than measles, small pox and cholera combined.

As I said before its the infernallest contrivance I ever saw. You can't eat it, you can't drink it, you can't do anything but blaspheme at it. I don't know how it got into my family. They say it is hereditary, and that my wife's mother was troubled with it. She was, it is true, but I have my own private reasons for believing that she acquired it over the wash tub, at three and sixpence per dozen, and I don't think any of the present generation of Kobbs are in danger of catching it in that way. This is entre nous, however. We are in society now, and there is a well-grounded belief among our acquaintances that my respected mother-in-law's ancestors came over with William the Conqueror.

I have tried many ways to eradicate this disease from my household, but to no purpose. I have administered pain-killer, worm candy, soothing syrup, castor oil, pulmonic wafers, pain paint, and a lot of other medicines, but in vain. The doctor has recommended an application of hickory stick, and if it fails I don't know what I shall do.

If you could suggest anything, Mr. Editor, that would help me in my troubles I would take it as a great favor.

KORN KOBB, JUN.

GENTLE UTTERANCE.—When a boy of fourteen, following a plough drawn by oxen, our father said the first day of work, "Let us see who can talk the lowest to Buck and Bright; it isn't the sound that makes the team go, but the understanding that springs up between driver and team." The thing was new to our ears. We had always heard the "whoa waw, Buck," or the "whoa haw, Bright," given in tones of bawling only, and had grown to the belief that bawling was the only way of driving. But a little experience on the low keys showed that an ox, dumb and slow as some call him, had not only a show of intellect, but also of the proprieties of his situation. Buck and Bright answered as well to a few words quietly spoken, as to the many vociferated,—as all oxen, horses, dogs, &c., will.

—The little fellow who was reported as killed in the Falmouth (Me.) woods by the glancing of an axe, still lives, and is likely to recover, although the axe nearly severed three ribs, exposed the liver, and reached within an inch of the spine, the cut being five and a half inches in length. Sweet, the innocent author of the calamity, is also mending from the dangerous convulsions into which he was thrown by the shock.

—We have ever found that blacksmiths are more or less given to vice. Carpenters, for the most part, speak plainly, but they will chisel when they get a chance. Not unfrequently they are bores, and often annoy one with their old saws.

"POWER OF A GROWING TREE."—A friend recently requested us to publish a little article, which has been "going the rounds" for several years past, about a filbert tree that grew up through the hole in a millstone, until it not only filled the hole, which was eleven inches in diameter, but lifted the whole stone, which was five and a half feet across and seven inches thick, from the ground and wore it like a crinoline about its trunk.

As this did not accord with our observation of the growth of trees we could not believe the story, although it was admirably told by a Mr. Waterton, and gave this as a reason for declining to publish it. Its appearance in the Prairie Farmer, however, was the occasion of the statement by a correspondent of the following reasons why the story cannot be true.—N. E. Farmer.

1. The filbert is a shrub, much like our hazel bush, only about six to eight feet high, and probably never exceeding three inches in diameter.

2. No tree ever raises an object upon the side of its trunk, because the tree only grows in length where the branches are small and young. For instance, drive a spike into the trunk of a young tree, four feet from the ground, and it will never get any higher.

SETTING OUT TREES IN WINTER.—A writer in the Cultivator and Country Gentleman, says that last winter, in January and February, he set out over 200 trees, bass-wood, elm, hard and soft maple. Of these not one failed to leaf out and grow; but about ten per cent died during the hot weather of July and August. He chose mild days, and covered up the trees while moving them, as they had to be carried about two miles. When the day was too short for him to finish his load, he dug through the snow, set the trees on the bare ground, covered well with snow, and left them till next day. Transplanting trees when the ground is frozen, may be more laborious than during the spring, but in winter farmers and others have a good deal of time on their hands, and a little of it spent in planting trees in the vicinity of their houses, will be amply repaid by the grateful shade in succeeding summers.

TEA COMPANY

WILL Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Teas direct to customers, by the pound, from the cargo, saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to FINE FLAVORED TEAS, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price Teas."

EXPERIENCE PROVES the Finest Teas relatively the cheapest, as the Government Duty, 2 cents in Gold, or nearly 40 cents in currency, and also the freight, packing and other expenses of importing, are as much on the poorest as the finest.

OUR COFFEE DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when remitted with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

WE GUARANTEE all our Goods to be precisely as represented, and WARRANT them to give perfect satisfaction or to return the money at any time and pay all expenses.

LICENSED WHOLESALE DEALERS BY THE U. S.
Established 1864.
The goods sold by us are described in printed slips or checks, which are sent to any address at the rate of ten cents each, in clubs of ten, twenty, thirty, forty, sixty, one hundred, one hundred and fifty, two hundred, &c. For a dollar the receiver can buy the article described in the check, or exchange it for any one of two or three hundred other articles in our circular. As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our checks can be exchanged for a WEBSTER'S BED QUILT or a SILVER-PLATED REVOLVING TABLE CASTOR, WITH FIVE BOTTLES. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:—
"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as 'familiar as household words' throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business dealers they are noted by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in country towns, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, calicoes are made to their order by the yard, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."
Now is the time to get signed and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.
Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautiful rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.
STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE, 20 State Street, Boston.
MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:
Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,
S. DANA HAYES,
State Assayer for Massachusetts.
Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO., No. 5 Chatham Row, Boston.

AYER'S
HAIR VIGOR!
FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.
The Great Desideratum of the Age.
A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.
Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.
Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.
Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.
Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.
Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.
Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.
If wanted merely for a
HAIR DRESSING,
nothing else can be found so desirable.
Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

WE'VE ALL OUR ANGEL SIDE.

The huge rough stone, from out the mine,
Unsightly and unfair,
Have veins of purest metal hid
Beneath the surface there.
Few rocks so bare but to their heights
Some tiny moss plant clings.
And round the peaks so desolate
The sea-bird sits and sings;
Believe me, too, that rugged souls
Beneath their rudeness hide
Much that is beautiful and good—
We've all our angel side.

In all there is an inner depth,
A far off secret way
Where through the windows of the soul
God sends his smiling ray;
In every human heart there is
A faithful sounding chord
That may be struck, unknown to us
By some sweet loving word.
The wayward heart in vain may try
Its softer thoughts to hide,
Some unexpected tone reveals
It has an angel side.

Despised and low, and trodden down
Dark with the shade of sin
Decyphering not those halo lights
Which God hath lit within;
Groping about in almost night,
Poor prisoned souls there are
Who guess not, what life's meaning is Nor dream of heaven afar.
Oh! that some gentle hand of love
Their stumbling steps would guide
And show them that amid it all
Life has its angel side.

Brutal, and mean, and dark enough,
God knows some natures are,
But, he, compassionate, comes near
And shall we stand afar?
One cruse of oil will not grow less
If shared with hearty hand.
For words of peace and looks of love
Few natures can withstand,
Love is the mighty conqueror
Love is the beauteous guide,
Love with her beaming eye, can see
We've all our angel side.

FRENCH ALMANAC.

JANUARY.—He who is born in this month will be laborious, and a lover of good wine, but very subject to infidelity; he may too often forget to pay his debts, but he will be complaisant, and withal a fine singer. The lady born in this month will be a pretty, prudent housewife; rather melancholy, but very good tempered.

FEBRUARY.—The man born in this month will love money much, but the ladies more; he will be stingy at home, but prodigal abroad. The lady will be a humane and affectionate wife, and tender mother.

MARCH.—The man born this month will be rather handsome, will be honest and prudent, but will die poor. The lady will be a passionate chatter-box, somewhat given to fighting, and in old age too fond of the bottle.

APRIL.—The man who has the misfortune to be born in this month will be subject to maladies. He will travel to his advantage, for he will marry a rich and handsome heiress, who will make—what, no doubt, you all understand. The lady will be tall and stout, with a little mouth, little feet, little wit, but a great talker, and withal a great liar.

MAY.—The man born in this month will be handsome and amiable; he will make his wife happy. The lady will be equally blest in every respect.

JUNE.—The man will be of a small stature, passionately fond of women and children, but will not be loved in return. The lady will be a giddy personage, fond of coffee; she will marry at twenty-one, and be a fool at forty-five.

JULY.—The man will be fair; he will suffer death for the wicked woman he loves. The female of this month will be passably handsome, with sharp nose and sulky temper.

AUGUST.—The man will be ambitious and courageous, but too apt to cheat.—He will have several maladies and two wives. The lady will be amiable and twice married; but the second husband will cause her to regret her first.

SEPTEMBER.—He that is born in this month will be wise, strong and prudent; but too easy with his wife, who will cause him much uneasiness. The lady will be round faced, fair haired, witty, discreet, affable, and loved by her friends.

OCTOBER.—The man will have a handsome face and florid complexion; he will be wicked in his youth, and always inconstant; he will promise one thing and do another, and always remain poor. The lady will be pretty, a little given to contradiction, a little coquettish, and sometimes a little too fond of wine,—she will give her preference to eau de vie. She will have three husbands who will die of grief, and she will best know why.

NOVEMBER.—The man born now will have a fine face, and be a gay deceiver. The lady of this month will be large, liberal and full of novelty.

DECEMBER.—The man born in this month will be a good sort of person, although passionate; he will devote himself to the army and be betrayed by his wife. The lady will be amiable and handsome, with a good voice and well proportioned body; she will be married twice, remain poor, but continue honest.

—A man named Isaac Poison, in order to have some fun, climbed upon the roof of a shanty occupied by Louis Cote, at one of the lumber camps near Green Bay, Wisconsin, on the evening of the 8th inst., and imitated the screech of an owl. Thinking it was really an owl, one of the inmates of the shanty took a gun, and seeing an object on the roof fired at it. Poison was shot in the head and so badly injured that he died in a very short time.

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have, and when it comes, arrange to stay, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or to help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the hoarse and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stolidly unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the controlling word. Whooping cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your children from the misery of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.

Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.

J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.

I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they have undertaken my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken of rest at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.

This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine an hour going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—a season of rest ensued, during which she lay revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to become into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

State elections are to be held as follows: New Hampshire, March 9; Connecticut, April 4; Rhode Island, April 7.

Santa Anna, the ubiquitous, is once more making trouble in Mexico, and several Generals have pronounced in his favor.

Mr. John J. Piper, a native of Strafham, N. H., and for many years editor of the Fitchburg, Mass., Review, died on Friday.

In St. Johnsbury, Vt., 475 hands are engaged in making Fairbanks' scales, the sales of which, last year, aggregated $1,500,000.

A Cincinnati dispatch says, the war between the Erie Railroad, represented by the Atlantic & Great Western and the Cincinnati & Dayton, and the Pennsylvania Central, represented by the Little Miami, grows fiercer, more bitter and to the companies more ruinous every day. One of the effects of the rivalry has been an immense reduction of freight rates between this point and New York. On Monday last the rate to New York was seventy cents per hundred weight. To-day freight can be sent over either line for thirty-seven and a half cents. The Erie has asked the Pennsylvania Central to play quits in the matter of cutting each other's throats.

Congress.

Senator Sumner occupied nearly all of Friday in delivering a great speech in favor of a new Constitutional amendment which he has proposed, regulating suffrage.

New Publications.

The New Hampshire Register and Farmers' Almanac for 1869, published by the Claremont Manufacturing Company, is a bound volume of 140 pages, containing much information in a small compass.

☞ The New York Sun reports that the Tribune Association has insured the life of Mr. Greeley for $100,000, and that the premiums, amounting to $7000, are paid in advertising.

—As a general rule, great talkers are small doers. Words are not deeds; though it is a very admirable characteristic of some people to make them so. Talk is simply rubbish, unless pushed beyond the lips. "All's well that ends well," particularly if it is truth and is at the bottom of one.

—An Ohio editor is getting particular about what he eats. Hear him. "The woman that made the butter which we bought last week is respectfully requested to exercise more judgement in proportioning the ingredients. The last batch had too much hair in for butter, and not quite enough for a waterfall. There is no sense in making yourself bald-headed if butter is thirty-five cents a pound.

What it Costs to "Run" a Circus and Menagerie.—The following statement shows the expenses and receipts of a first class show, last year, from April 1st to October 1st.

Nearly three thousand miles were travelled over in that time, an average of 18 miles being made on every day the show moved at all. Ninety people drew salaries from the proprietors in various capacities. The expenses for hotel bills, 207 days, were $22,448 for people, $27,052 for stabling and feeding stock. The animals required a hundred and fifty pounds of beef a day.—The total expenses were about $800 a day, and reached in the aggregate $141,600. The total receipts, on 177 show days, exceeded this amount by $55,100, but from this profit the expense of wintering the animals must be deducted.

Go to Farming.—A good living is what comparatively few men make in town or city life, and yet nothing is more easy of accomplishment on the farm. Besides, there is a pleasure in cultivating and embellishing the earth, improving and increasing its products, thus adding to the aggregate of human happiness. Why, then, should young men hesitate to be farmers? It is both profitable and honorable. It is the nearest approximation to independence that man, as a member of society, can make. A gentleman farmer—and all farmers are, or should be, gentlemen—belongs to an order of nobility that is not indebted to place-holders for its installation, and may if he chooses, be ranked among the greatest benefactors of the human race. Let all idle young men go to work on farms, and quit seeking public office or third or fourth rate clerkships. In short, go to farming and quit begging.

—Gen. Grant was met coming out of his headquarters looking as indifferent as if he were not oppressed with the cares of a nation. A friend saluted him, "Good morning, General." "Good morning." "General, you don't look as if you were President of the United States." "I am not."

The Alabama Claims are now up again for adjustment, and the British government has expressed itself desirous of an arbitration. Among the claims persistingly pressed, are those of the ever-present and active J. C. Ayer & Co., for the value of shipments of Cherry Pectorial, Sarsaparilla, Ague Cure, and Pills, intransit for Oregon, Vancouver's Island and Russian America, destroyed on the Anna Schmidt off the coast of South America. So universal is the use of their remedies, that they are afloat on almost every sea; and this firm is frequently caught between the upper and nether millstones of contending nations. But they are known to stand up for their rights, and to get them.—[Republican, Washington, D. C.

"Barrett" uses Vegetable matter.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Do not Trifle with Danger.

A single spark may kindle a flame that will consume a city, and small ailments, neglected, may end in fatal disorders. Bearing this fact in mind, let the first symptoms of debility or nervous prostration be met promptly with invigorating treatment. Foremost among the vegetable tonics of the age stands HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, and whenever the vital powers seem to languish, or there is any reason to suspect that the functions essential to the sustentation and purification of the body are imperfectly performed, this invaluable invigorant and antispeptic should at once be resorted to. Indigestion always produces weakness. Sometimes it happens,—and this is more frequently the case in Winter than at any other season,—that the appetite demands more food than the stomach can digest; although not more than it may be required to keep up the full strength of the frame. The object, under such circumstances, is to increase the digestive capacity of the assimilating organ, so as to make it equal to the duty imposed upon it by the appetite, and capable of supplying the building material or the system as fast as it is required. This object is fully accomplished by the use of the Bitters. They tone and gently stimulate the cellular membrane which secretes the gastric juice, and the result is that the solvent is mingled with the food in sufficient quantity to convert all its nourishing particles into pure and wholesome element. If, on the other hand, there is a deficiency of appetite, without any corresponding deficiency of digestive power, the effect of the tonic is to stimulate a desire for food. In cases of dyspepsia of twenty, headache, nausea, nervousness, spasms, fainting-fits, and, indeed, most of the casual aches and pains to which, human nature is subject, proceed primarily from indigestion complicated with biliousness; and for both these complaints HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are recommended as a speedy and certain remedy.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale on such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the unwary purchaser to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold more than one million of them, every town and village of the country some wearer of a Waltham Watch may be found. It is the party about to buy such a timepiece of an American Watch Company: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to purchase a watch to guide themselves by this answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are the CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell to sell our products at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that today we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together. WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the refusal of nearly all inventions intended to improve watches, purchased all those and adopted those only which have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we have ever had, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country. In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, one being the only establishment that turns out what has become in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a fair profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

Holloway's Pills.—A successful physician, being challenged by some medical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I can." Dr. Holloway might say the same to the faculty as regards Dyspepsia. His celebrated Pills cure it infallibly, and when all other remedies have proved utterly useless. There is no disease of the Stomach or the Liver, acute or chronic, slight or violent, which the Pills will not ameliorate and relieve. Sold by all Druggists.

The Plaster of the "Time,"
ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden lar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regular ity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"popped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded, by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out everything that burned, "bothered about the house afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

"Bitter Sweet"

Gave Timothy Titcomb the approval of a wide circle of readers. The most palatable and invigorating sweet bitter known to the world—SONONA WINE BITTERS—is gaining the approval of all who need a cordial tonic. Sold everywhere.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the blood begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration; for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they damage the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Rheumatism, or rated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, then Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 226 pounds, was asked what he would do in Consumption, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to die. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

A GEM.—We are in receipt of the first number of a very neat little paper, "The Gem," printed in this city by Frank W. Robinson—to be issued once in two months; but the price and office of publication are not stated. F. W. and Helen N. Robinson are given as the editors. The paper is a sheet 10 by 13 inches, of four pages, well filled with original and selected matter; and there is also a supplement of half the size accompanying, containing more reading matter and several advertisements.

The little sheet, as the editor states, is issued for the amusement of the publisher and the family, (that of Charles Robinson, Esq.,) and as the boy printer states, he has had no instructions whatever in the art. We knew he had a miniature office at home, and years ago we supplied him with types and fixtures for it; but we never dreamed the little fellow would become so decided a rival.

Why, his paper looks as well as anybody's, and better than most. How much preferable for boys, and girls too, to interest themselves in matters such as this, than to idle away all their time, (or worse than that,) as many do. We congratulate our young friend on his surprising success; and are sure he will find much profit as well as amusement therein. We venture to say that he will not learn any such habit as smoking, while working up such a problem as his newspaper must have been to his untutored fancy. Success to The Gem.

☞ The Third Annual Charity Ball comes off to-morrow (Tuesday) evening at Congress Hall. Tickets $1.50 for each gentleman or lady, may be secured of Mr. March or at Mr. Foster's Bookstore. As it is desired to keep expenses as small as possible, for the sake of the cause, no general refreshments will be furnished, but these will be supplied in the ante-room to order.

The first of these Balls netted $284 for the City Mission and Howard Benevolent Society; the second, last year, $168; and it is hoped the net result will be handsome this time—and there certainly is need enough of it, and ample call for all that can be had.

Lamprey & Tompson's Quadrille Band furnish the music; and there will be opportunity for a fine dance, making the money count twice, once to your own gratification, and again to that of the needy. Mr. March has the very efficient assistance of Paymaster Gilman in making the general arrangements. The charitably disposed can present tickets to their friends, or send donations to the parties named above.

BUST OF SHILLABER.—Mr. Cyrus Cobb, a young Boston artist of much promise, has executed a clay model of that genial writer and poet, Benjamin P. Shillaber, which is pronounced a decided and pleasing success by all friends of the subject who have had the privilege of seeing it. The marked, vigorous and dignified features of the man in repose are strikingly brought out, yet admirably blended with a fine expression of that sympathetic benevolence and cheery good humor for which he is so well known in this community, and which his writings have tendered to foster in the world. The public's old friend, "Mrs. Partington," is altogether capitally presented in the bust, wherat all appreciative "Ikes" cannot fail to rejoice. The work can be seen at Mr. Cobb's studio, 223 Washington street, room 15.—Transcript.

☞ We print this morning, from the Journal, the official correspondence relative to Hon. J. H. Ela's renomination to Congress. It is brief and to the point, as all such matters should be, and will be when in the hands of such sound and practical men. Mr. Ela's is eminently a nomination fit to be made, —and his re-election will confer honor mutually on himself and his constituency.

AFFECTING INCIDENT.—Mr. Leander Garland of Newcastle purchased a new cap in this city one day last week, and as he was crossing the bridge on his way home, a gust of wind lifted his hat from his head and dropped it into the Piscataqua. Leander did not swim for his hat, but coolly drew forth his new cap and wore it home.

ARLINGTON.—Rev. C. C. Salter preached his farewell sermon before the First Church of Arlington, yesterday morning. It was a manly and dignified production and gave much satisfaction. Mr. Salter is to leave the pulpit for a profession more congenial to his tastes. He is a young man of decided ability.—Boston Transcript.

☞ All who deem the Portsmouth Cornet Band a benefit to the city, should see to it that they do something for their benefit to-night. We learn that tickets are selling rapidly, and hope the Temple will be crowded, for the Concert will be a fine one.

☞ A magnificent bald headed eagle was observed flying northward, from the Newcastle toll bridge Friday.

Communication.

THE PORTSMOUTH CORNET BAND issues a strong invitation—see programme—to the Temple this (Monday) evening. There can be no necessity of urging the merit of the South Parish choir, which bears so large a part of the entertainment. It would also be superfluous to praise the wonderful performance of Professor Wallach to those who have heard him before. It is well, however, to urge upon the public a generous consideration of the claims of the Band. They never fail to respond when they are needed. Their services were given gratuitously to the Fairs of the G. A. R., the Baptist and Freewill Baptist churches. Let us reciprocate their generosity—give them a full house and enjoy their really enjoyable programme. MUSIC.

WENDELL PHILLIPS

Has kindly yielded to the earnest wish of his friends in Portsmouth, and will lecture on Wednesday evening, February 17th, at Congress Hall, on the LOST ARTS, a lecture so full of curious facts as to be no less interesting when heard for the third or fourth time. The Boston Traveller thus speaks of it: "The lecture of Wendell Phillips on the 'Lost arts' was without exception the most interesting lecture to which we ever listened', and the Boston Advertiser thus: "This lecture was first given by Mr. Phillips thirty-two years ago, in the old Odeon, at the foot of Franklin street, before a society of which George Bancroft was president. Since that time it has been repeated on many occasions and in many sections of the country—losing nothing of its freshness and interest by the repetition. The chapel was crowded to overflowing by a sympathetic audience, manifesting the same interest as if the lecture had been then given for the first time and had been prepared for its benefit."

The simple announcement of an opportunity of hearing the "Silver tongued" orator will doubtless crowd our Congress Hall with an appreciative audience, glad to listen to an orator of calm, sparkling conversational grace of restrained intensity, of insuperable poise, and universal culture like Phillips. Tickets 35 cts. may be obtained on Monday next of Messrs. Foster, Preston, Thacher and Joy.

BUY AT HOME.—One evidence that fools are not all dead, is found in fact that dollar sales, "gift enterprises," and lottery swindles, continue to flourish. The circulars of these bogus concerns are thrown out from the cities by the million; and there is no lack of folks to send these dollars to the swindlers. Common sense ought to teach people never to buy any thing which they do not want, and usually to deal directly with some honest, reputable trader in their own neighborhood.

There is no better rule for general observance than that of buying every thing wanted in the community where one resides. This course keeps your money in circulation at home, and benefits your neighbors and of course yourself. In this way you trust nothing to chance; you expect no more than the worth of your money, and are pretty certain to get all you expect. At any rate, let dollar sales and similar humbugs alone.—Con. Statesman.

☞ The regular Monthly Meeting of the Managers of the Portsmouth Board of Trade will be held at the Common Council Room on Tuesday Evening, Feb. 9th, at 7 o'clock. Also, Election of Officers, adjourned from last month.

A FELLOW has been imposing upon the people of York county, Me., by selling, for from $50 to $200 each, town rights for a patent to make a pound of butter from a pint of milk.—Exchange.

Could any body who ever made butter be green enough to believe such a scheme?

MR. ELA'S ACCEPTANCE.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Jan. 5, 1869.

SIR:—At the Convention of the Republicans of the First Congressional District of this State, held this day, you were unanimously nominated a candidate for re-election as a member of the U. S. House of Representatives from this District, and the undersigned were appointed a Committee to inform you of your nomination, and request your acceptance thereof.

The enthusiasm of the Convention, and the unanimous endorsement of your Congressional career, promises the same hearty support of the Republicans of this District, that was accorded to you at your former election.

We have the honor to be,
With great regard,
Your friends and constituents,
WILLIAM H. HACKETT,
E. G. WALLACE,
B. J. COLE,
JOHN M. BRACKETT,
Committee.

Hon. JACOB H. ELA,
U. S. House Rep.,
Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 1869.

Gentlemen:—Your letter conveying the official notice of my unanimous renomination for Representative to the next Congress for the 1st District was promptly received but the answer has been delayed by causes partly beyond my control.

In accepting that nomination allow me to convey to the Republicans of the First Congressional District my gratitude for their generous support and my purpose and hope to improve with experience in the discharge of the duties which come from their favor. It has been a pride and satisfaction after so many years of conflict with the slave power to be an actor in the closing scenes of an institution which has sapped the foundations of republican liberty and attempted to destroy our nationality. The high and noble purpose for which the Republican party was formed will soon have become history, with every man secure in the possession of his civil and political rights, and the means of maintaining them when untainted with crime.

The debt of the war incurred to secure liberty and nationality is already pressing more heavily upon the people, and among our first efforts should be its funding at lower rates of interest, and freeing our Bank system from monopoly, and allowing it to go where business shall require, secured and based upon a low interest bond. It should also be our aim to concentrate our efforts upon developing and productive enterprises at home instead of diffusing them upon unproductive ones abroad. We should, at present, build no more railroads into the wilderness with subsidies drawn from the people to enrich corporations and with grants of land which make them giant monopolists of the soil. It is not desirable to scatter our population beyond the possibility of good roads and schools or society, or remunerative production for a long time, in order to increase the value of the lands which make fortunes, for the monopolists who hold them. We must stop waste and extravagance, husband our resources and develop the Territory already under settlement, keep our labor employed, if we would lighten the burdens of the people. It will be my purpose, if elected, to favor such measures as will secure these results.

Very respectfully,
Your obedient Serv't,
JACOB H. ELA.

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,065.97
" Freight	2,040,233.19
" Express	51,423.08
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	91,626.27
" Government troops	104,077.77
" " freight	448,440.33
" Contractors' men	201,179.09
" " material	968,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 53 Wall Street, And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease. ☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time. ☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. OUR BABY.

A BACHELOR'S EXPERIENCE WITH IT.

It was a very pretty baby—that is, for a baby. I had no fault to find with it, so far as its individual identity was concerned. If babies must exist—and I suppose there is a necessity for the thing, or else where would all the grown people come from?—this baby was as well in its way as any other baby.

I mention these facts merely to prove that I am in no way prejudiced. As far as mortal man can be, I am entirely an impartial witness.

It was fast asleep in its cradle—a little white-headed doll, with long, dark eyelashes, and a crimson dot of a mouth, against which lay its tiny fist, with five well-defined dimples, in the five joints thereof. It was fast asleep, I say, when Bertha came airily into the room.

"I am going over to the depot to see mother off, Joseph. I'll be back in half an hour. Just keep an eye to the baby, while I am gone, will you?"

I looked blankly at my sister. But while I was considering how best to express my total dissent from her audacious proposition, she tripped out of the room, her ribbons fluttering in the soft spring air.

Silence doesn't always give consent, but Bertha had taken it for granted, in this matter, and I was left an unwilling guardian of my little nephew.

However, he was fast asleep; that was one circumstance in my favor.—Mortal baby couldn't present a more innocent and cherubic aspect than he did. So I calmly went on with my writing, soon becoming oblivious to his infantile presence.

"Talk about tending babies," quoth I to myself, dipping my goose-quill triumphantly into the ink, "why it's the easiest business in life. I should never spend my money in hiring nurses, if that little one was mine; but women never do know how to economize properly."

As these fancies passed through my mind the baby woke up and sneezed.

I gave the cradle an oscillatory kick, and then burst forth into the well known burden of "Bye a baby bunting," but the villain absolutely declined to shut his eyes like a sensible baby. He opened them wider than two miniature moons, stared at me with an air of malevolence that made me a firm believer in human depravity ever since, and deliberately began to cry. And the harder I rocked the cradle and the louder I sang, the more resolutely did that baby cry.

"He's hungry," thought I to myself. "Babies must be fed, and it's highly reprehensible of Bertha to stay away so long."

So I went down into the pantry and instituted a search for milk, which I had a vague idea was the diet generally preferred by toothless infancy. But milk there was none. Lamp oil, Stewart's syrup, kerosene, brandy; everything but milk was there; every known or conceivable fluid, in aggravating profusion, but not a drop of milk.

All this time, meanwhile, the roars of my nephew, but slightly softened by distance, followed me about like a Nemesis.

I rushed frantically up stairs, armed with a lump of sugar, the first soothing expedient I could think of.

"Bless its dear little heart, there, there; contound your racket, can't you keep still? Take in sugar from its own, own uncle, that's a little golden boy."

But the golden boy resolutely rejected the sugar, screaming louder than ever; as if its lungs were forty-baby power, and warranted never to tire out. It kicked and struggled, it pawed the air, it got purple in the face. Ashes of King Herod and all the Egyptians! what was a man to do?

In vain I executed a war dance around its cradle; in vain I rang the dinner bell, and jingled the china ornaments, and waved the feather duster, and swung my gold repeater, and bawled nursery ballads at the top of my lungs. Talk about perseverance. Robert Bruce's spider was nothing to that atrocious little lump of mortality.

"There's nothing for it but to capitulate," said I to myself, as I jammed my hat on my head, viciously thrust my arm into my overcoat, and seized the baby out of the cradle.

Leave it absolutely alone I dared not, and the nearest grocery where milk was procurable lay full three blocks off.

Thus, in a sort of stony despair, I issued forth from the house, carrying my persecutor like a bundle under my arm.

I thought he would stop crying when he got into the open air, but not he; oxygen only seemed to increase the shrill power of his villainous little pipes! People turned to stare at me, as if I were an escaped lunatic or an abductor of infant innocence. Women looked indignantly at the baby.

Blue worsted socks and little, pink legs kicked blindly from beneath my arms. Children ran after me, dogs barked, and I kept doggedly on my way, walking into the grocery with a resolution second only to that of the Roman fellow who jumped into the crater, nobody knows how many years ago.

"A pint of milk, if you please."

"Milk, sir? Have you brought anything to put it in?"

I thought of my tobacco box, my pocket handkerchief, the corner of my hat, all of the impracticable places for the deposit of the lacteal fluid.

"I never thought of that!" I said, righting the baby, who came head uppermost with a very crimson countenance, and eyes looking defiantly into mine—eyes that said as if they had spoken in so many syllables—"I won't stop crying. I'll die first!"

The storekeeper looked on sympathetically. "I could sell you a nice little pitcher, sir, if——"

"The very idea," I interrupted, "a pitcher of milk, and please take the change out of this portemonnaie; for if I had three pair of hands I couldn't more than hold this kicking little demon with 'em!"

To be concluded to-morrow.

THE "SUPERINTENDENT OF THE CRYPT."—A Washington letter says Gen. Butler has unearthed a novel sinecure. Among the appropriations he discovered an item providing so much per annum for the "Superintendent of the Crypt." Not understanding what this meant he sought knowledge from his fellow members, but they were no wiser than he. He then consulted the appropriation bills for fifty years back and found the same thing charged in each bill. After a determined search among the servants of the Capitol the Superintendent of the Crypt was found. He was brought forward and made to relate his history. It seems that shortly after General Washington died, an act was passed by Congress providing for the building of a vault beneath the Capitol, which was to hold the remains of the immortal statesman and warrior, and to be called the Crypt. It was found necessary to have a man to watch the sacred spot, and accordingly an officer was employed, to be called Superintendent of the Crypt. The duties of the Superintendent were to sit near the Crypt daily from 9 A. M. until 3 P. M., and see that only one gas burner was used. This the present occupant has done for the last forty years, and now Gen. Butler cruelly proposes to abolish the office.

—A wandering Yankee who had put up for the night at a hotel in a Western border town, on entering the bar room next morning found the landlord sweeping up what he supposed to be grapes. He said to him: "You have pretty large grapes out here?" "Grapes!" said the landlord; "them's eyes that were gouged out here last night!"

As a guarantee of the worth of every article sold by us, any article on our school can be exchanged for a Water Bed Quilt or a Silver-Plated Revolving Table Caster, with Five Bottles. Read what the great paper of the Northwest, the Toledo Blade (Nasby's paper), says of us:

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL. Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The firm is of this firm has become as familiar as household words' throughout the Middle and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are endorsed by the best firms in the country. The extent of the system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to keep down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, as, for instance, all paper of the kind used in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone."

Now is the time to get signers and sold in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of soiling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

THE FAT CONTRIBUTOR of the Cincinnati Times says:

I have just had an interview with Gen. Grant, and obtained some of his ideas of public men, not given in the opinion published in the New York World, which I herewith send you:

"Ben. Franklin is unquestionably a rapid type-sticker, and his enterprise in collecting the latest news renders him invaluable to an almanac, but he is visionary. His theory about lightning-rods protecting houses and barns during a thunder-storm is one of the most absurd things I ever heard of. Old Parr is a young man of brilliant talents and ambitious, but he ought to take better care of himself. I fear that he is hastening to an early grave.

Washington is an efficient General of Militia, and one of our most civil engineers. Many have censured him for that little affair with his father's cherry tree, but I think it is time for us to bury the hatchet. I have never seen Webster yet, though I have read his dictionary. It is not surprising to me that a man of so many words couldn't be President. Geo. Francis Train is one of our most noble women. His appeals in behalf of her sex are both powerful and convincing. No one can read her speeches without being convinced he ought to vote. Brick Pomeroy is the modern Alexander the Great, weeping because there are no more Worlds to conquer. What profiteth it a man though he gain the whole World and lose both his daily and weekly circulation? I have no idea of removing "Nasby" from the post office. He must be a substantial addition to the revenue of the Department, for his "letters" pass through every post-office in the United States.

Brigham Young is a multitudinous husband and a numerous father, who has done a great deal for Utah. How far he is going to "do" the UnitedStates remains to be seen. "J. N." is not as crazy as he might be. I am not sure but he would make a good Secretary of the Treasury. He is in favor of deeding all the land back to the Indians, and let the Indians assume the national debt. This would certainly be an easy and rapid solution of our financial difficulties. Peabody is a well-meaning man, of much principles upon which he has realized a great deal of interest. His princely gift to the London poor, I fear, is working harm. Men who were in comfortable circumstances before that donation was made, reduced themselves to abject beggary for the purpose of getting a portion of the legacy, thereby setting a very bad example indeed.—Fisk is a well-meaning man—toward Fisk. He has great versatility of talent and can run a big railroad, an opera house and the Springfield Republican all at once. He is not a temperance man exactly, but he don't take his bowls as much as he did. There is a great deal of useless talk about Morrissy's having been in the "ring." A Member of Congress who isn't in some sort of a "ring" nowadays is very rare, indeed; and there are few of those "rings" as respectable as the prize ring. Big men have helped Morrissey to fortune. His club-house is said to be the house that Vanderbuilt.

INDEPENDENT JOURNALISM.—Mr. Curtis in Harper's Weekly, sets forth the duty and opportunity of independent journalism as follows: "But the more deeply an independent journal sympathizes with the principle and purpose of a party, the more strenuously will it censure its follies and errors, the more bravely will it criticise its candidates and leaders, for the purpose of keeping the principle pure, and of making the success of the party a real blessing.

The public will gradually learn, that only in such papers can they find true statements of events, with comments that aim at the public welfare, and not merely at a party success. In such also, and only in such, will public men be considered impartially, and the plain tendency of an independent press, will thus be to elevate the national life and character, and to keep party spirit within its due bounds. But only as really able men enter the profession of journalism is such independence possible. Hypercriticism, cynicism, captiousness, persiflage, are not its characteristics, but profound conviction, tact, knowledge, humor and good temper. Fifty such journals from Maine to California, prosperous, sparkling, vigorous and rigorous, would rattle the dry bones of party hacks, and instill a most wholesome terror in charlatans of every kind."

—A pretty face alone has no chance by the side of a woman of taste and brains. It is good to please the eye, but that is never sufficient to a man whose good opinion is worth having. A majority of women have been, are now, and will be plain. Let them not despair, but rather take hope and press on. Nature has simply favored them by not making them fools. They have the better and nobler task to be good in reality, instead of good looking. To our mind, a sensible woman as far outshines a merely pretty one, as the sun does an old fashioned tallow candle.

—A few days since a German called at the post-office for a letter, but did not have English enough to make himself understood; whereupon a friend who was with him said, "He has not learned many words yet; he only knows how to swear."

THE PROPHECY;
OR, THE BRIDE OF FATE.

BY ELIZA A. DUPUY.

CHAPTER I.
A HEARTLESS OLD MAN.

The night was cold and blustering; the wind wailed around the gables of an old Virginia mansion, but it finally exhausted itself, and the soft, muffled sound of falling snow filled the atmosphere.

The history of the ruined family who had occupied the decaying mansion, was one of common occurrence in the old Dominion in its palmy days. From father to son they had lived beyond their means, keeping open house, and entertaining all who asked hospitality at their hands, with a recklessness of expense that was almost royal in its profusion.

Acre after acre was shorn from their broad domains, till the Vale, as the old place was called, with a small farm attached to it, was all that remained of the once princely estate belonging to the Falconers.

Reginald Falconer, the last one of them who had possessed it, was now a drivelling old man, trembling on the brink of the grave, who, by the terms of the contract when parted from his property, was to remain in the house, and be taken care of by the new purchaser, whose name was Ashford, till death released him from the mortal coil which had become a sad burden to him.

In his youth, Reginald Falconer had been a gay rollicking man, devoted to field sports, and fond of gay companionship. He hunted, drank and gambled, with reckless care for either health or fortune, and at sixty he was a broken down man—ruined. Twenty years later, on the winter morning on which my story opens, he lay gasping out his life, with few regrets that the end was so near; for he had been struck with paralysis, and to him death was preferable to the helpless inanity of his present condition.

As he lay on his bed, moaning at intervals, he recalled his wasted life, and thought, with remorse, of one act in it which he would have given much to be able to atone for. In the heyday of his career, he had married a fair and gentle girl, who, had she lived, might have changed his future, and made him happy in his home, but she was snatched from him shortly after the birth of a daughter, and he returned with keener zest than before to the amusements from which the influence of Mrs. Falconer had, in a measure, withdrawn him.

Fanny Falconer was placed with a sister of her mother, and her father almost forgot her existence. She grew into a fair and winsome maiden, happy in the home in which she had been placed, unconscious of the dark future that lay before her. At the age of seventeen, her aunt died, leaving her small independence, and Miss Falconer was removed by her father from the gay town in which she so long lived, to preside over his disorderly home.

A girl of refined tastes could find little that was congenial in that home, and Fanny recoiled from it with an aversion her father took little pains to overcome. He found an elderly woman of staid character and respectable antecedents for her companion, and thought his whole duty to his motherless daughter was accomplished.

Among the gay companions Mr. Falconer collected around him were many men younger than himself, and among them was one named Harry Hurst, who boasted that he had never yet failed to win the affections of any woman he desired to fascinate. Hearing of this boast, his host significantly said to him:

"There is one on whom your powers are not to be tried, Harry Hurst; remember that. The girl I refer to has a destiny before her. My English cousin is now on the way to this country to visit my daughter, and if things go pleasantly with them, the two branches of the family will be united, and Fan may be a countess yet. Clement Falconer is the heir of his mother's brother, and he is Earl of Rochdale, with a handsome rent-roll. Besides, the marriage of Clement and Fanny, who are the last survivors of their race, would be the fulfilment of an old prophecy."

The young man to whom this caution was addressed was handsome enough to win the favor of any one of Eve's daughters, and in spite of his vanity, he possessed many good points of character. He was generous, and warm-hearted—capable of strong attachment, but incapable of self-sacrifice. He had been strongly attracted by the fair Fanny, and the intimation that a rival was about to appear on the scene, only added strength to the fancy he had taken to the neglected daughter of the house. Slightly elevating his eyebrows, Hurst carelessly replied:

"'Forewarned is forearmed,' you know. I hope that you do not suppose me capable of trifling with your daughter, Mr. Falconer, whatever I may have done with others?"

"I would not advise you to attempt it; that is all," was the cool reply. "I have lately remarked that you are more attentive to Fanny than I quite like—she is romantic, as most girls are, and you are deucedly handsome, Hurst. I thought it fair to you, and to her, to tell you that nothing can come of a grand passion between you two. My daughter shall marry as I choose, and her fate is already settled."

"Have you informed Miss Falconer of the destiny in store for her?" asked Hurst, with perfect coolness. "You are very considerate to warn me off dangerous ground, but I think she should not be kept in the dark as to the brilliant prospects opening before her."

The elder man shortly replied:

"It will be time enough to open my plans to her when Clement has seen her and had opportunity to make himself aggreeable to her. As to the impression she will produce I have no fears, for she is as pretty a little wild-flower as any man would care to gather. There is the bell for dinner. I hope you quite understand me, Harry?"

"Oh, perfectly—I shall be careful to avoid doing anything to displease you so far as Miss Falconer is concerned."

If this conversation had never taken place, the result might have been different; but the want of tact displayed by the over-anxious father defeated the plans he had so carefully matured. The young man withdrew the delicate attentions he had lately lavished on Fany Falconer, and she showed pique and surprise at his defection. Hurst was the only one of her father's guests to whom she had shown any favor, and his falling away from his allegiance was a shock to her pride, and in some slight degree a trouble to her heart.

To win him back was her one thought, and her feminine wiles to that effect awakened in the heart of her admirer a deep and genuine passion. He met her in her walks, betrayed to her the expected arrival of her cousin, and the result that was anticipated to follow. He pleaded his own cause with the passionate ardor of a lover, and won it. Fanny immagined herself the heroine of a romance, and anticipated persecution at the hands of her father if she refused to give herself to her unknown cousin.

She thought her lover the handsomest and most fascinating of men;—what were rank and wealth when placed in comparison with a life passed with Harry Hurst, even in obscurity? She answered the question as most girls of her age would have done, by vowing eternal constancy to her adorer.

CHAPTER II.
THE DISOWNED DAUGHTER.

Clement Falconer arrived in due time. He was a bluff-looking Englishman, about thirty-five years of age, with a frank manner-that, at times, was almost brusque. He admired the delicate beauty of his proposed bride, and supposing that the affair was already settled, and Fanny ready to pick up the handkerchief when he deigned to throw it, he made few lover like advances and fewer pretty speeches to the lady he had crossed the Atlantic to win. "To come, to see, to conquer," was his idea of his present venture; but Fanny had no idea of being taken possession of in this indifferent fashion; she had listened to the breathings of passionate adoration from lips she thought touched with divine eloquence, and she turned from this matter-of-fact wooer with a feeling little short of loathing.

To appeal to her father would, she knew, be useless—the first effect of her remonstrance would probably be imprisonment in her own room, from which she would not be permitted to emerge until her consent to give her hand to her cousin had been wrung from her. On this reasoning she acted, and when the preparations for her marriage were actually begun she communicated secretly with her lover, and arrangements were made for an elopement.

These were successfully carried into effect, and one morning, Mr. Falconer was aroused from his late slumbers to learn that his daughter was not to be found in the house; that the grounds had been vainly searched for her, and there was little doubt that she had run away from the bridegroom provided for her.

To paint the anger and dismay of the father would be a vain attempt. He stormed, he raged through many hours, and vowed those who had gone in pursuit of the missing girl returned with the information that she was already the wife of Harry Hurst, he uttered a curse so bitter that those around him shrank from his cruel words.

The forsaken bridegroom spoke in defence of the runaway:

"Nay, nay, cousin, recall those words—you cannot mean them. Though Fanny has treated me badly, I can forgive her, and so will you, her only parent, when your wrath has had time to cool."

"That proves how little you know me," was the savage response. "I never forgive. She knew that when she defied me, she did not care. Let her go with the beggar she has chosen, and sup poverty to the dregs; she may die in a ditch, and I will not put out my hand to help her."

"Tut, tut! that is nonsense. After all, Fanny is your child. You could not be so hard with her."

"Couldn't I? Well—we shall see. She is no longer my child—I disown her now and forever. When I had settled everything—when a future so brilliant was within her grasp, she has elected to mar her own fate, and link in with that of a man who has nothing—nothing but a handsome person and his oily tongue. Perdition seize them, I say, and I mean it too!"

Clement made no reply to this; for he saw that Mr. Falconer was too much excited to listen to any excuse he might attempt to offer for his daughter's conduct. He went out to expedite the preparations for his own departure, and soon went away, never to return. He made a lengthened tour through the United States, and saw all that was most interesting to a thoughtful and cultivated mind like his; and finally, in a quiet Southern village, he made the acquaintance of a poor, but learned, professor in a college of small repute, and was invited to his lonely home to see his daughter—a girl of twenty, with whom he fell desperately in love. His heart had never been touched by his cousin; he had admired her, was willing to accept her as his wife, and had fancied that to be all that was necessary to respectable happiness in his station of life. But Marion Fairfax taught him a different lesson. Her dark, brilliant beauty, her passionate nature, was a new revelation to him; and, before the calm, middle-aged man was aware of his danger, he was made captive by this young syren, married her privately, and remained in domestic felicity till he was summoned to his home by the illness of his uncle, Lord Rochdale. He sailed from a Southern port, leaving his wife behind till he should be able to reconcile his aristocratic connections to his plebeian marriage. The vessel on which he sailed was wrecked, and every soul on board was lost. Marion was repudiated by her husband's connections, and the claims of her baby boy were set aside in favor of a younger sister of Lord Rochdale. In a few years, Marion married a Mr. Melrose, removed with him to Virginia, and settled on a valuable farm within a few miles of the Vale, where the vindictive old Mr. Falconer was passing his solitary life. Marion was aware of the connection between her gentleman and her former husband, and as Clement Melrose, he was known to the neighborhood.

Within a mile of her residence was an humble cottage, with a few acres of badly kept land around it, which was the home of Mrs. Hurst, the discarded daughter of Mr. Falconer. The old man had kept his word, and every overture toward a reconciliation was harshly refused. The fortune of Hurst was small, and from year to year it diminished under his careless management. He was not a man of business habits, and he had little steadiness of character. He loved his wife, and was always kind and gentle with her, but both soon awoke from their romantic dream of love in a cottage, to find how utterly they were unsuited to the life they had embraced. Poverty came swiftly enough, but love did not forsake them, they clung together through all and bore their hardships as only united hearts can bear them; for

"Love will make endurable a thing which else
Would overset the brain or break the heart."

Utter ruin came at length; and, in a state of desperation, Mrs. Hurst took her only surviving child, Mary, a lovely girl of fifteen, and set out to make a last appeal to her father. But she found the old man as relentless as fate itself. He drove them from his presence with bitter taunts, and finally threatened to set his bloodhound on them, if they did not instantly leave his premises. They turned to go, when the merciless old man cried out:

"Stop—let me say a few parting words; as they are the last I shall ever address to either of you, you may spare time to listen to them."

His daughter paused as if spell-bound, sustaining her trembling form on the arm of her excited child. Mr. Falconer pitilessly went on:

"Like me, you have but one child, and she a daughter. May she bring home to you the sorrow and disappointment I have suffered through you. May she follow her own blind will in defiance of you, and find what you have found—misery and degradation as her portion; the child of such parents merits no better fate."

Having uttered these terrible words, he wheeled, and suddenly disappeared among the thick shrubbery, whistling his dog to follow him.

Mrs. Hurst sunk down completely overwhelmed. Mary knelt beside her, chafed her cold hands, and finally aided her to rise to her feet, and drag her weary steps to their desolate home. At intervals, Mrs. Hurst pressed her handkerchief to her lips, and when they were once more in the lighted room at home Mary was shocked to see that it was stained with blood.

The violent emotion which Mrs. Hurst had undergone, had caused her to rupture a blood-vessel in her lungs, and in spite of all the aid that could be rendered to her, before morning dawned the worn spirit was at rest.

They laid her in the neighboring churchyard beside her mother, and the two bereaved ones prepared to leave the humble cottage which had so long sheltered them; and Harry Hurst, ruined in fortune and broken in spirit, went forth with his young daughter, as unfit to cope with the outside world as she was.

Mrs. Melrose was very kind to them in their sore trouble, and she wanted to retain Mary with her till her father had settled on some plan for their future support. But he would not listen to any arrangement that separated them. He had a friend in Philadelphia who would help him to get into employment, he said, and to that city he went. Those who had known him in his country home lost sight of him from that day, and what his fate was, or that of the fair girl who accompanied him, remained a mystery to them.

If Mr. Falconer was struck with remorse for the harshness which had resulted so fatally, no one knew it; for he went on his way as calmly and immovably, as if nothing had happened to trouble or annoy him. As time passed on, and years came and went, even the memory of the discarded daughter was lost. The old man fell into the last decrepitude of age, and to prevent the small remnant of his estate from passing into the hands of his daughter's descendants, he sold the Vale, as before stated, to Mr. Ashford, who had farmed it for several years past, with the proviso that he (Falconer) was to be taken care of as long as he lived, and buried respectably at his decease.

CHAPTER III.
A HOPELESS DEATH BED.

Such was the retrospect that passed through the mind of that old man, hovering on the brink of the great change. As the morning light penetrated to his room, he knew it was the last time his eyes would unclose to behold it, and he was not sorry that it was so. Life had become a burden to him, and he was willing to lay it down in that last slumber from which he believed there was no awakening.

He was attended by Mrs. Ashford, a faded and disheartened looking woman, of middle age. Mrs. Ashford had been the principal of a flourishing seminary before her marriage, and had accumulated several thousand dollars. Mr. Ashford was one of her assistant teachers, and had married her for her money. She had loved him, because he looked like a corsair and was a fine scholar. Ashford was a tyrant, and a canting hypocrite. He had got his wife's money into his possession, and was now meditating a flight to Europe with all her wealth, intending to leave her and their little daughter Fantasia to shift for themselves.

Ashford hated his wife and also his child; and the latter returned his hate. Fanty, as Mrs. Ashford called the child, was a bright, daring little creature, and the idol of her mother's heart. She called her pet name Chub, a contraction of Chorub, which was the name Mr. Ashford had called his wife before marriage, and which he had continued out of satirical spite after she had found him out.

When Ashford bought the Vale, and agreed to take care of old Mr. Falconer as long as the latter would live, he supposed he would die in a few years. But the vindictive old man had taken the avaricious hypocrite in sadly. He had lived on for twenty years, to the intense disgust of Ashford, who regarded his tenacious hold on life as an outrage and a swindle. Right glad was Ashford, therefore, on the morning on which our story opens, to learn, at last, that the old man wanted Mr. Whitney, the lawyer of the vicinity, to come and draw his will, as he felt sure he should expire by the hour of noon, in accordance with a prophecy of the Falconer family.

Ashford had been for the lawyer, and was waiting for his wife to serve breakfast, which she was preparing to do, when a wild cry from Fanty drew her hurriedly to a portico in the rear of the house, from which the sound proceeded.

Breathless with dread lest some misfortune had happened to her darling, Mrs. Ashford rushed out, and saw her bending over a large wicker basket, on the top of which was written in a large, clear hand:

"A present for Mr. and Mrs. Ashford."

The child exclaimed:

"Oh, Chub, there's a puppy or a kitten in there, for I hear it scuffle". Oh my! how nicel but what did it come in a basket for?"

To bewildered astonishment, Mrs. Ashford lifted the basket, and carried it into the kitchen. As she set it down, a faint wail came from the occupant, and she gasped:

"Good Heavens! it is a child! Why on earth was it brought here, of all places in the world? and what I am to do with it? Apollo (the name by which she called her husband) will never let it stay, for he hates children, and he has no patience with his own."

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have; and when it comes, arrange to say, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers through. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utter unmanagemanship but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stolidly unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator, treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.

Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.

J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.

I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects in any form; circumstances under my notice, I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken of rest at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.

This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The effect was immediate and marked in increased quietude; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon got her accustomed sleep—rapidly revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, who, in like circumstances, an' have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

The News.

Boston has good sleighing.

Great preparations are being made in Washington for the inauguration of Gen. Grant.

Salnave has attacked and destroyed the town of Forbeck in San Domingo. He also bombarded and destroyed Port Salat, and bombarded and captured Aquin. The inhabitants of Aux Cayes and the other towns in that vicinity are panic stricken, and all who are able are emigrating to Jamaica.

Claflin & Co., of New York city sold 43 million dollars worth of goods last year. A. T. Stewart wholesaled 30 millions in the same time.

Philadelphia had a firemen's riot on Saturday, one man was mortally wounded.

Michael Kauffman, a German barber of Pittsburg, Pa., shot a little boy named Edward Miller, on Saturday, for looking in K's shop window. The boy was killed instantly.

The Alabama Treaty will probably be rejected by our Government.

Congress.

In the Senate on Saturday Mr. Howard, from the Committee on Pacific Railroads, reported a bill to aid the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, the Union Pacific Railroad Company, Eastern Division, the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, and the Oregon Branch Company, to construct their roads, by guaranteeing the interest on their bonds, which was ordered to be printed.

Mr. Morgan made a minority report against the bill, because they thought it inexpedient and injudicious for the Government to guaranty the bonds of any railway company to any extent or for any purpose.

Mr. Ela of N. H. asked leave to introduce a joint resolution reciting the facts of the assault upon Mr. Duncan, a witness before the Printing Committee, by Dempsey, a contractor, and directing the Postmaster General and other heads of Departments to rescind all contracts with Dempsey, there being good reason to believe that he had practiced frauds upon them. Mr. Kerr of Indiana objected.

On Monday, in the Senate, a bill was introduced which proposes that the Tuesday next after the first Monday in December, 1870, and every second year thereafter, as the day on which elections for members of Congress and delegates shall be held in each State and Territory.

Rev. Mrs. Hanaford, of Hingham, has accepted the call of the Second Universalist Church in Portland, Me., to become their pastoress.

Notes from New York.

Feb. 2, 1869.

Goupil's Gallery is a restful place at any time, specially to one weary from a long tramp among the thousand and one celebrities of art and marvels of industry that enrich this great metropolis.—Seated here in this quiet gallery, just in front of a grand painting by Bonheur, I take out my book to give you a few pencillings, in rapid rehearsal of what has been seen by me the past day.

From the din of Broadway I found soon after my arrival, a sweet retreat in the gallery of Snedecor, where Prang of Boston is exhibiting a superb lot of paintings and chromos in charge of C. H. Brainard of the same place. A rumble down town among the publishers followed. At Harper's I explored the establishment "from turret to foundation stone," and was more than ever impressed with the immense amount of mechanical industry there in operation. There are 500 persons employed and 34 Adams power presses at work. The bills from a single firm, alone, are $1000 a day, for supply of paper. This is but an item in the expenditure.

Then, in another department of industry, take A. T. Stewart & Co., employing in their retail establishment 2000 persons. Two acres of ground and 18 acres of flooring are covered; over seven miles of wiring, electricity passes to light the palace: ten boilers heat the steam for warmth. Messrs. Denning and Tullen are joint superintendents. The addition opened since my last visit cost a million and a quarter. Then there is a wholesale house 175 by 165 feet, corner of Chamber, Broadway and Readar streets. But I will not enlarge.

What queer methods of advertising they have here. I met an Irishman on the Bowery this morning, clad in a black rubber suit, on which, front and back, large letters were painted, advertising certain parties. I asked him how much he received a day for walking about, wearing that painted suit. "Tin shillings, sir," was his answer. A cheap advertisement, $1.25 a day. "Hot Tom and Jerry" is a sign that has repeatedly met my eye. Guess the Mainelaw isn't in vogue here. "Won't you take a glass of ale?" said one of our business men to me just now. He had a bit of a temperance lecture from me you may believe. More anon. Duo Ala.

Strangers in New York will find the new guide by James Miller a very helpful little book. It is embellished with cuts and a map of the city. Mr. M.'s publishing house is 647 Broadway.

Pearl Goods. Dealers will find the best stock of pearl jewelry, buttons &c., at 101 Chambers street,—S. E. Clapp.

Herring's Safes. These have won a world wide reputation, especially since the great success gained at Paris over the Chatwood safe. Office 251 Broadway.

Increased Railroad Facilities.—The hearing before the Massachusetts Legislative Committee, on the petition of the Boston & Lowell Railroad Company, for increased depot facilities, has been continued for several days, pro and con, in Boston. The Lowell Road asks a charter of extensions, so as to enable them to remove several buildings and erect a new Depot, &c. And the Eastern Road desire to buy the Lowell Road's present buildings and location.

Geo. M. Browne, president of the Eastern Railroad Company, made statements relative to the increase of the business of that road and the necessity of increased depot facilities. The increase had been two and a half times the number of passengers and nearly three times the quantity of freight in six years. At the same rate of increase, in six years more the number of passengers carried would be 7,250,000; and that was not impossible, for the capacities of the business of the East had not sufficiently been estimated, while there were numerous projects for extension of railroads in Maine and the Provinces.

Mr. Prescott, Superintendent of the Eastern Railroad, concurred with the President in relation to the business of the road, and did not doubt that the freight business would be doubled in three years with sufficient facilities on this side of the river, with a saving of fifty cents per ton, the cost of cartage from East Boston. His opinion was that none of the Eastern or Northern lines of railroads had sufficient facilities for their present business, much less for a prospective increase.

Of course this Road is opposed—who ever heard of a road that was not? No, if there was no path open to heaven, and it was suggested to make one, the opponents would be all ready to crucify the projector, as of old..

Montgomery Blair, is a native of West Wrentham. He was appointed a cadet by Horace Maun in 1851, and his career has been honorable and upward ever since.

Miss Juditu Russel, of New Bedford writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While staying one week in New York, I was persuaded by my friends to use the Plantation Bitters, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the Plantation Bitters. 15

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Do not Trifle with Danger.

A single spark may kindle a flame that will consume a city, and small ailments, neglected, may end in fatal disorders. Bearing this fact in mind, let the first symptoms of debility or nervous prostration be met promptly with invigorating treatment. Foremost among the vegetable tonics of the age stands HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, and whenever the vital powers seem to languish, or there is any reason to suspect that the animal functions essential to the sustenation and renovation of the body are imperfectly performed, this invaluable invigorant and antipeptic should at once be resorted to. Indigestion always produces weakness. Sometimes it happens,—and this is more frequently the case in Winter than at any other season,—that the appetite demands more food than the stomach can digest; although not more perhaps, than is required to keep up the full strength of the frame. The object, under such circumstances, is to increase the digestive capacity of the assimilating organ, so as to make it equal to the duty imposed upon it by the appetite, and capable of supplying the building material or the system as fast as it is required. This object is fully accomplished by the use of the Bitters. They gently stimulate the cellular membrane which secretes the gastric juice, and the result is that the stomach is supplied with the food in sufficient quantity to convert all its nourishing particles into pure and wholesome element. If, on the other hand, the deficiency of appetite, with, without any corresponding deficiency of digestive power, the effect of the tonic is to stimulate a desire for food. In nineteen cases out of twenty, headache, nausea, nervousness, spasms, fainting-fits, and, indeed, most of the casual aches and pains to which mankind are subject, result primarily from indigestion complicated with biliousness; and for both these complaints HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are recommended as a speedy and certain remedy.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are many, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade have their reasons for not wishing to be made by dealers in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are continually making inquiries about such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy other a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be misleadingly affected by the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and village throughout the United States and Canadas they may be found. Let the party about to buy ask this owner of an American Watch this question: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer. The satisfaction as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by any establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell to sell our product at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that today we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together. WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have been the successful of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all those, and those only, which have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we have ever had, whose services were of value to the Company, and the most of our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country.—In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a retail profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

Holloway's Pills.—A successful physician, being challenged by some medical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I can." Dr. Holloway might say the same to the faculty as regards Dyspepsia. His celebrated Pills cure it infallibly, and when all other remedies have proved utterly useless. The worst disease of the Stomach or the Liver, acute or chronic, slight or violent, which the Pills will not ameliorate and relieve. Sold by all Druggists.

The Plaster of the "Time,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. He was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But this seemed improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"a vital spring," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—that Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire;" and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration; for nothing has ever been invented, except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

The Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole system, and they locked up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Scrofula, Catarrh, Consc

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Communication.

Messrs. Editors:—Believing that an account of a pleasing little incident which took place in this city lately, will be gratifying to your readers, I send you the following sketch of the affair for publication.

On Sunday last I went to church, and secured a good seat: heard a good sermon, and good singing. But my going to church is not the affair of which I have spoken, but is only incidentally mentioned. When I entered the church I noticed several gentlemen standing about on the steps, but regarded them not particularly; but that they observed and recognized me was proved by subsequent circumstances, for as I left the building I found a large and respectable body of citizens drawn up on the steps, on both sides, to do me honor.—At first I thought it possible they were drawn by admiration for my new coat and vest, for which I paid nine dollars, and which attracted considerable notice from the clergyman, but the truth soon dawned upon my mind—it was to honor me in my public capacity as a representative of the press.

It was with a just and honest pride that I stalked up street and home, after passing through the throng of admirers; and with a pardonable exultation that I related to the family the honors which the Press had received, through me, its humble representative. Mark the baleful effects of envy! Envy caused the old original Serpent to implant in the breast of our ancestress Eve a kleptomania for apples,—and envy made one of my auditors utter the following absurd and ill-natured speech:

"Pooh! 'twasn't you they wanted to see at all. They're always there to see the folks come out, every Sunday.—Half of em' don't know any better, and 'tother hat stand there to be looked at. A lot they cared about you!"

This statement I knew was all humbug—not that I don't respect humbug, which enters so largely into all the affairs of life, and particularly the liberal professions—love, law, physic, politics, &c. Does not a man call his wife "My dear," and then make her get up and kindle the fire? And the law—is there not a suspicion of humbug even about the law, sometimes? Do not advertising, lecturing quacks make big fortunes, and ride in their carriages with looks as innocent as though they hadn't poisoned half the human race, and were trying to finish off the rest? And has not New Hampshire Democracy professed patriotism! and nominated Union men to high office? Verily, humbug is too mighty to be despised; but that envious, derogatory speech was simply ridiculous,—I shall notice it no further.

I know that those people were on the church steps out of respect to my position as a newspaper correspondent; and I desire to convey through your columns my warmest, heartiest thanks to each and every gentleman who gaped at me as I left the church on Sunday last.

PAKEHA.

☞ Some time ago, we advertised the loss of richly-bound Hymn Book, from a pew in the Stone Church. It was not to be found in the house, but within a few weeks it has been returned to the pew of the owner, with the name scratched from the cover. As the name was in gilt, probably the borrower erased it to prevent his guilt being apparent so long as he kept it. Queer thing to steal, a sacred hymn book.

☞ Whitmore & Clark's Combination Troupe of Minstrels and Gymnasts, give their first entertainment at the Temple, this evening, and are advertised for one night only, as they appear elsewhere tomorrow. The troupe is composed of some of the best stars of the profession, and their performances in other cities are highly commended by the press. Their novel programme embraces many new specialities.

Chronicle Correspondence.

EXETER, Feb. 8.

The recent snow-storm gave us about six inches of good snow on a splendid foundation, and our lumber and wood dealers, business men and pleasure seekers are making the most of the fine sleighing.

The Squamscott river affords but a scanty supply of water this winter, which interferes materially with many kinds of business. There has been hardly water enough to run the cotton-factory, and the hub-factory, grist-mill and saw-mill have been able to run but a small portion of the time.

I learn that the Exeter Manufacturing Co. intend building a new stone dam the coming summer. This is as it should be, for the present (upper) drain is not considered sufficiently strong to stand many more spring freshets; and if it should give way, much damage must ensue.

Our fire department has been augmented (and none too soon) by the addition of a handsome and serviceable hand engine, from the well-known establishment of Hunneman & Co. It is not a new machine, but has been used but very little. It has a double suction, and two deliveries. It is handsomely painted, and bears the name of Fountain, No. 1, the same as the one recently condemned as unserviceable.

The velocipede mania has reached this section. Several are in process of manufacture at the Exeter Machine Works, and an exhibition and school of instruction is to be opened during the present week, at our Town Hall.

In one of our saloons, on Saturday, an inoffensive person was assaulted by two intoxicated young men, and shockingly beaten about the head and face.

So common have rows and assaults become in one locality, that it has received the very appropriate, though not very euphonious, name of "Bloody Corner." When it comes to distressed wives begging and praying the rum-sellers, through our local press, to sell their husbands no more liquor, and to men tearing the scalp from their wives' heads in fits of drunken madness, and the assaults, insults, brawling and rowdyism so common in our streets, it is evident that the peace and safety of the community demand that effective measures should be taken to put a stop to this destructive traffic. Our beautiful village is cursed with no less than thirteen places where the unrestricted sale of liquor is carried on, and three where ale is sold. Allowing the receipts to average $50 each, per week, (probably a low estimate,) and we have the sum of forty-one thousand, six hundred dollars, expended annually for the miserable poison sold under the name of liquor.

But the pecuniary loss is trifling, in comparison with the incalculable misery inflicted on the families of the consumers. Who shall attempt to estimate the heart-rending agony of the wives and children of drunkards? the sleepless nights, and anxious watchings for the return of the misguided inebriate? the hopes and fears of parents in behalf of their boys who frequent the saloons and bar-rooms?

We hear of temperance revivals in various parts of the State. Can any unprejudiced person say one is not needed in Exeter?

A letter just received from A. B. Goodwin (son of the late Major R. F. Goodwin, well-known as the former landlord of the City Hotel, Portsmouth, and other hotels at Rye Beach, Kittery, &c.,) informs me that he is employed as conductor on the Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railroad, of which Charles L. Frost, Esq., formerly of your city, is President. He says: "There is no snow on the ground here, (Warsaw, Ill.,) and the trees are putting forth leaves; while across the Mississippi, in Missouri, the peach trees are in bloom. The weather is like that of May in N. H."

THE DEAD.

BY ALBERT LAIGHTON.

I CANNOT tell you if the dead,
That loved us fondly when on earth,
Walk by our side, sit at our hearth,
By ties of old affection led;

Or, looking earnestly within,
Know all our joys, hear all our sighs,
And watch us with their holy eyes
Whene'er we tread the paths of sin;

Or if with mystic lore and sign,
They speak to us, or press our hand,
And strive to make us understand
The nearness of their forms divine.

But this I know—in many dreams
They come to me from realms afar,
And leave the golden gates ajar,
Through which immortal glory streams.

WENDELL PHILLIPS.—BY LOWELL.

He stood upon the world's broad threshold; wide
The din of battle and of slaughter rose;
He saw God stand upon the weaker side,
That sank in seeming loss before its foes;
Many there were who made great haste and sold
Unto the cunning enemy their swords,
He scorned their gifts of fame, and power, and gold,
And, underneath the rot and flowery words,
Heard the cold serpent hiss; therefore he went
And humbly joined him to the weaker part,
Pausing named, and fool, yet well content
So he could be the nearer to God's heart,
And feel its solemn pulses sending blood
Through all the wide-spread veins of endless good.

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST
ARE
Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,005.97
" Freight	2,040,233.19
" Express	51,423.68
" Mails	130,225.59
" Miscellaneous	91,626.27
" Government troops	104,977.77
" " freight	449,410.33
" Contractors' men	201,179.69
" " material	968,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 53 Wall Street,

And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a full report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

OUR BABY.
A BACHELOR'S EXPERIENCE WITH IT.
Concluded from Yesterday.

"Well, sir," said the storekeeper, "he does seem a rare'on for usin' his legs, let alone his lungs. Yes, sir, thank'ee.

Now I have always laid it up as a grudge against human nature, that that unprincipled grocery man took a five dollar bill out of my portemonnaie, knowing that I should not discover it until it was too late to rectify the error! I wouldn't have treated a Turk so!

I took my pitcher of milk with my right hand, still balancing the baby skillfully against my left arm and side, and started for home.

"Now I'll settle your business, my fine young friend," I thought. "Is it possible that I was ever such a nuisance as this?"

But my triumph was soon reduced to the lowest pitch of humiliation.

"Dear me, Mr. Beverly, is it possible that this is you?"

It was Kate Milton's self, radiant in spring bonnet, lilac silk walking dress, clocks fringed parasol, and the daintiest of lilac kid gloves. Kate Milton, with an air of astonishment that served to make her one degree prettier than ever.

My first instinct was to turn and flee ignominiously; my second was to drop my nephew and his milk into the gutter and resolutely deny all connection with them; my third prompted me to stand my ground.

"Yes, it is I, Miss Milton—a—fine day."

"Very fine."

Kate eyed me dubiously, and no wonder. One sock, curling and twisting as if a serpent were inside of it instead of a baby's foot, appeared beneath my coat-skirts, flanked by about a quarter of a yard of Swiss embroidery and tucks, wofully cramped by the fiery ordeal through which we had both passed. The milk had dripped down the full length of my pearl colored pantaloons, and my hat, bent and bruised, was thrust rakishly on the side of my head. I was gloveless, flushed and disheveled, and take me "for all in all," I must have appeared considerably like a pick-pocket, or an old clothes man out for a walk.

I passed on, followed by the sound of faint, subdued laughter—a sound that stung me to the quick.

So Kate and her companion were laughing at me; this was, indeed, the unkindest cut of all. I resolved never to dance the German with Kate Milton again.

The house was quiet and deserted as I returned and inserted my night key in the little circular lock. What could have become of Bertha? The cold dew oozed out of my brow as I, for one instant, contemplating the horrible possibility of my being left, a sort of modern Robinson Crusoe, with that dibolical little man Friday on my hands.

Nonsense! there was no probability of that. I set down on Bertha's low rocking chair, and planting the baby firmly on my knee, applied the spout of the pitcher to its mouth.

Would you believe it? he wouldn't drink a drop. He screwed his mouth as tightly shut as if he never intended to open it again, and doubled himself over backwards with a strength of will which would have been remarkable in a full grown man, but simply marvellous in a ten-months old baby. I persevered and he persevered. I poured the milk over his neck, his embroidered dress-waist and his coral amulets; he would have been drowned sooner than open his mouth half a quarter of an inch. Probably, of such stuff were our revolutionary fathers made, and this baby had, through some inscrutable blunder of Dame Nature, come into the world just a century too late.

I put him back in the cradle, flat on his spinal column, and looked at him more in sorrow than anger.

"My youngster," I addressed him, "cry your lungs out—break a blood-vessel or two if agreeable to you—fracture your trachea! I can't be held legally responsible for it, thank Providence!"

I took up a book and sat down by the cradle, rocking it recklessly backward and forward, regardless of the screams which still rent the air.

I wasn't going to waste any more time in trying to quiet him. Let him cry! This is a free country!

"Why, Joe, what's the matter?"

It was Bertha's voice. I jumped as if a cannon ball had smitten me, and dashed my book upon the floor.

"Matter, ma'am? matter? The matter is that I'm going mad. I shall be a fit subject for a lunatic asylum in about fifteen minutes more."

But I might as well have wasted my despairing eloquence on a plank wall. She did not heed nor hear me. She was loading the little wretch with caresses, pity and blandishment. And—I should not have credited the sudden turn of affairs, if I hadn't witnessed it with my own eyes—the baby absolutely laughed up in her face, as if to say, "I have given my uncle a pretty good time time of it."

"Has he been good, Uncle Joe?"

I looked volumes at my sister.

"Bertha, if you ever leave me again in charge of that—that little atrocity, I'll commit suicide."

"You needn't speak so loud," said my sister, in an injured voice. "I intended to have been home before, but the train was delayed, and—bless its heart, did it want to come to its mamma's arms—and was Uncle Joseph crosser than an old bear, and wasn't it the sweetest little rosebud that ever——"

I waited to hear no more, but rushed precipitately from the room, convinced that of all fools, a young mother was the most hopeless specimen.

That's the last time I have had the heir of the family confided to my guardianship. I think Bertha is a little afraid to leave me alone in the room with him. "So mote it be."

"CARL BENSON" was challenged the other day to find or make a rhyme for velocipede. He did it thus:

"There was a man on a velocipede,
Who said, I need not give my horse a feed;
Without oats or hay,
He will go all day;
Its a cheap thing to keep, a velocipede."

—Rothschild said, one day, he always knew, when people were talking about his fellow Hebrews, whether the latter were rich or poor. Upon being asked to explain how he came to know that, he replied: "Why, you see, when people are talking about a wealthy man of my creed they call him an Israelite, but if he is poor they call him a Jew."

—The "play folk" of Chicago are a very proper set of people. Three or four of the prominent actresses are church members, two managers are constant attendants at church, and several of the leading ladies are attached to the most exemplary and respectable families in the city.

—A cynical old bachelor, who firmly believes that all women have something to say on all subjects, recently asked a female friend: "Well, Madam, what do you hold on this question of female suffrage?" To him the lady responded calmly, "Sir, I hold my tongue!"

—Most people take one another by the hand, but barbers take folks by the face. To them people's faces are a handy business. In their hands only, it may be added, is shaving an honest thing; and the closer they shave the more faithful they are.

"WHAT WE SAW AT THE HUB.—Curiosity led us, while recently in Boston, to visit the dollar establishment of Messrs. EASTMAN & KENDALL.—Their trade has become so immense that they now occupy four stories in the elegant block No. 65 Hanover Street. The name of this firm has become as familiar as household words throughout the Mississippi and Western States, while as prompt and honorable business men they are equalled by the best firms in their own city. Their Club system of selling goods has done more, we believe, during the past few years to break down the prices of domestic articles in every day use, than all other influences combined. Most of their goods are manufactured expressly for them, by such first class cutlery made to their order in Sheffield, England, and imported in large quantities for their dollar trade alone.
Now is the time to get signers and send in clubs. Ladies specially wanted as agents.
Partial list of articles allowed as commission to any one sending in clubs:—

CAN A PERSON LIE WITHOUT KNOWING IT?—Henry Ward Beecher says he never preached from the text "It is d——d hot," though people insist upon it as a fact. He says the story was true of Rowland Hill, or at least told of him. A short time ago he was called upon to deny it again, after having denied it in print many times. Concerning this denial and the funny circumstances of it, we will hear Mr. Beecher himself:

Sitting at a friend's table one evening, I was telling an incident that befell me—in this wise:

"A young man from Buffalo called to see me to-day. He said that he had heard a young lady, in a large company, relating the story of my beginning a sermon with the phrase: 'It is d—d hot.' He at once contradicted it. She affirmed it positively. He replied: 'I have lately read a published denial of the story from Mr. Beecher himself.' She answered: 'Why, I was present myself at his church and heard it with my own ears.' Of course, he could not say what he thought, but replied, 'I am going to New York, and I will myself call and ask Mr. Beecher.'"

The case seemed so flagrant, that I said to him:

"When you go back, I wish you would take occasion, before witnesses, to say to this lady, from me, "that she lies, and that she knows that she lies, and that she knows that I know that she lies.'"

This was very improper language, but I was angry, and besides, had been reading the Tribune.

When I had got thus far, a sweet young girl who sat opposite me, brought up under my eye almost from the cradle, and as incapable of knowingly telling a falsehood as a rosebud would be of committing burglary, this innocent and charming child of fifteen looked over at me, and said:

"But you did say so, didn't you, Mr. Beecher? I heard you!"

For a moment there was silence. Then came a crash of laughter from the whole company. Confused and blushing scarlet, she said:

"Why, I always thought that I heard you say it!"

For the first time I then believed that a person might distinctly remember what never took place. I take back the message to the Buffalo lady, and humbly apologize for supposing that one could not recall a thing which never happened.—N. Y. Ledger

FEMALE SUFFRAGE.—The Illinois House of Representative passed the following bill at one of its sessions lately:

SECTION 1. That after this act shall have taken effect, all political, civil, and social power in this State shall be and is hereby vested irrevocably in the female portion of the population above the age of 16 years.

SEC. 2. It shall be the exclusive right and prerogative of the women to call on, visit, and woo the other sex, escort them to balls, festivals, evening parties, church, and lectures, and to protect from barking dogs, hissing geese, bellowing cows, vicious sheep, and grunting hogs, on moonlight evenings; to propose and be accepted; and it shall be esteemed a high misdemeanor for any male person between the ages of 19 and 75 years to beg to be excused and not become the head of the family.

SEC. 3. Upon the marriage of any male person, all his property, real and personal, shall rest absolutely in his wife, and shall be subject to her exclusive disposition and control; and marriage settlements whereby any estate is or may be secured to such male person, are hereby prohibited under penalty of death.

SEC. 4. It shall be unlawful for any male person over the age of 12 years to be seen on the streets of any city or incorporated town of this State, at 7 o'clock in the evening, unless under escort of a female qualified to vote under the provisions of this act; and the women shall have the sole and exclusive right of keeping late hours, attending horse-races, seven-up parties, Masonic and Odd Fellows' Lodges, and scientific lectures.

SEC. 5. After this bill becomes a law, any male person convicted of preaching, offering to vote or voting at any elections, except for officers of sewing circles, missionary societies, and temperance organizations, making a stump speech, running for Congress, drinking lager beer, or refusing to cook or nurse the baby, shall be punished by confinement.

SEC. 6. Nothing in this act contained shall be so constructed as to authorize any male person to put on the Grecian bend or wear trains more than seven feet long, and any one violating this section shall, on conviction, be summarily banished. This act to take effect and be enforced from and after the millenium.

—"There now," said a little girl while rummaging a drawer in a bureau, "grandpa has gone to Heaven without his spectacles."

—"Husband, I can't express my detestation of your conduct." "Well, dear, I'm very glad you can't."

—The reason given why "Hell Gate" is being widened at New York, is because the people are getting so bad there.

—Premiums are to be given to velocipede racers by the Michigan Agricultural Society.

THE PROPHECY;
OR, THE BRIDE OF FATE.

BY ELIZA A. DUPUY.

CHAPTER III.

A HOPELESS DEATH-BED.

She gathered courage to untie the arched lid that was securely fastened down, and nestled in warm blankets was a fair, plump child about two years of age. The blue eyes half unclosed as the folds of flannel that enveloped it were turned back, but they dropped to again as if unable to wrestle with the narcotic with which it had evidently been drugged.

Mrs. Ashford was passionately fond of children, and she lifted the little waif tenderly in her arms, and examined it with gentle care. The clothing it wore was perfectly plain, though of fine material and daintily made. On its bosom was pinned a scrap of paper, on which was scrawled in nearly illegible letters:

"Her name is Violetta, and as you deal with her, may God reward, or punish you."

During this time Fantasia was dancing and clapping her hands, uttering shrill cries of delight over the newly found treasure:

"A baby's better'n a puppy, Chub, an' I'm goin' to have it to play with; oh, my! aint it nice?"

At that moment Mr. Ashford came into the kitchen, and viciously snapped out:

"What's all this clamor about, and the breakfast burning to a cinder? I smell it now; it won't be fit for a pig to eat. What's that you've got there, and where did it come from?"

His wife held the sleeping child towards him, and said:

"You can see for yourself what it is, but it is a strange present to be sent to us. If you will take her a moment, I'll look after the birds. I am afraid they are scorching a little."

"Upon my word, madam, you take this very coolly—its the most unheard of impudence in whoever sent this brat here, and I am not going to be burdened with it, I can assure you. Fasher back where she came from, and look after your proper business. When breakfast is over, I'll see that the basket and its contents are packed off to the poor-house."

Mrs. Ashford knew there was no appeal from this decision, but she timidly suggested, "Maybe there is something in the basket that may make you change your mind. Hadn't you better look through it? The little thing looks as if she belongs to respectable people—that is, I mean people well to do, and she'd hardly be put on us, without giving something to keep her on. Everybody around knows that we are too poor to burden ourselves with a strange child with nothing to pay her way."

She knew that to appeal to her husband's cupidity was the only chance to interest him in the helpless little creature, and he proved that she understood his nature, by drawing nearer and stooping over the basket.

"There's some sense in what you say, and I'll look, but if there's nothing, I shall do as I said—send the brat to the poor house. It's lucky that its only a few miles distant."

As he spoke, he dived among the blankets in which the child had lain, and brought out a letter addressed to himself. On breaking the seal his eyes sparkled at the sight of a bank-note for a hundred dollars, and he rapidly skimmed over the lines addressed to himself as follows:

"I am acquainted your character, Hiram Ashford, and I know the child I have taken the liberty of giving to you would be thrust ignominiously from your roof if she alone were sent. To prevent this, I enclose a sufficient sum for her expenses for a year. As she grows older, the annuity will be increased in proportion to the outlay you will incur on her account, and at a future day it may be a good thing for you to have sheltered this helpless, but not friendless, little creature. Make no efforts to discover whence she came, or to whom she belongs, for they are no concern of yours. I know your good wife to be a good woman, and to her care I especially recommend this little girl. Her name is Violetta, and while she remains with you she can be known as Violetta Ashford. The time may come when her true name and position may be made known. If that day never arrives, she will, at least, be respectably provided for."

"Upon my word—that is something like! The man who wrote that letter is no fool. Give me the child, and look after your cooking. I don't want everything spoiled. You know I can't endure my food unless it is properly prepared."

Mrs. Ashford hastened to do as she was bid, and having attended to her duties, they sat down to breakfast. By the time breakfast was over, Mr. Whitney, the lawyer, arrived, and proceeded at once to draw Mr. Falconer's will. The old man left all he had to Mrs. Ashford, and ordered Whitney to settle it on himself and Clement Melrose, as Mrs. Ashford's trustees, so that Ashford could in no wise interfere with the money, nor wheedle her out of it. The lawyer knew Ashford well, and drew the will so that the hypocritical tyrant could never interfere with his wife's legacy. The will being completed, the old man died at the hour of noon, as he had firmly believed he would do.

CHAPTER IV.

THE NEWLY-ARRIVED FOUNDLING.

Mr. Whitney seemed agitated about the newly arrived foundling, and Ashford, suspecting that he knew more of the matter than he cared to confess, secretly determined to fathom the mystery.

When Mr. Whitney left the Vale, he drove around by the residence of Mr. Melrose, and informed him what had transpired. Melrose agreed to accept the trust reposed in him, and readily relinquished all claim to his dead kinsman's meagre estate. He and his wife were greatly interested in the story about the baby foundling, and strove in vain to conjecture some clue to the mystery.

When the lawyer reached home, his first statement to his wife, (who had been a pupil of Mrs. Ashford's in her school-girl days,) was that little Violet had found a home with Mrs. Ashford, and that Mr. Falconer had left his property to her, so she would be independent of her husband.

This news filled Mrs. Whitney with joy, and she immediately sent a servant to call "Mrs. Brent, the strange woman," from an adjoining room, and as Mrs. Whitney left the parlor by one door, another on the opposite side, unclosed, and a middle-aged, thick-set woman, in a dark travelling dress, entered. Her black hair was thickly streaked with gray, and the face it framed was that of an honest affectionate woman, who tried to do what she thought right, even in her present difficult and painful position.

When she saw Mr. Whitney, she came rapidly forward, and in agitated tones, asked:

"Oh, sir, what have you to tell me! What has been the fate of my darling? She did not suffer from the exposure—those people did not refuse to take her in, when the weather is so dreadful. I've been asleep I believe, but I didn't know I could sleep with such a care resting on my mind as the fate of the child I nursed and loved as my own."

"Violet has found an asylum in the house you wished her to become an inmate of, Mrs. Brent; so set your fears at rest on her account. She was discovered very soon after your emissary placed the basket on the porch at the Vale, and the kind heart of Mrs. Ashford was at once touched by her helplessness. In consideration of the money offered, Ashford is willing to keep her."

"Oh, thank God for that much! but the old gentleman, sir? Has he seen her—is he willing that she shall stay at the Vale?"

"I am sorry to tell you that one part of your plan is a failure, for Mr. Falconer is dead. That is why I remained away so long."

"Dead!"—and a blank look came over the face of the speaker—"ah, well, its the fate that must come to us all, and he was very old—I ought not to have expected much from him at any rate—if my mistress told me rightly, he was a hard man to deal with. Not that she knew much of him, poor thing; it was only from what her father said, she know anything about him."

"Was the mistress you speak of Mr. Falconer's grandaughter, Mrs. Brent, that she wished her child left at the Vale? Come—I don't like half confidences, and the service I have already performed for you, entitles me to know the whole story about this child. Who is she? and why is she to be placed among strangers for safe keeping?

"Mr. Whitney, that is just what I ought not to tell you. I brought her to this out-of-the-way place as much to keep others from prying about her as to keep the half promise I made to her mother when she knew she must die—she only said to me, 'If my little one ever wants a shelter, Judy, you must take her to a place called the Vale situated among the mountains in Virginia. I have some claims on the old man that owns the farm, though I never saw him. But he must not know who she is, for in that case he might refuse to receive her. My child has no claim that will be considered on any one else, but he may take pity on her and provide for her."

"That was the day before she died, and she did not know that her own father had repented of his unkindness to her, and left that will that is the cause of all the present trouble. It is a dreadful story, Mr. Whitney, and if I tell it to you no name must be mentioned. You must swear to me that you will not try to find out who this child is, though if you insist on it, I must tell you why I am putting her away from myself, to keep others from tracing her through me."

"I do insist on it. It is my right to know that much at least; and I pledge you my sacred word that I will do nothing to compromise yourself or the child. If that does not satisfy you, I am willing to take an oath to that effect. But if I am to be a sort of guardian to this little waif, I must know something more about her."

Mrs. Brent walked to and fro in an excited manner, apparently making up her mind how much to tell, and what it was necessary to withhold. She finally sat down, and looking Mr. Whitney clearly in the face, said:

"What I am going to tell you, sir, is so strange and unnatural, that you may find it hard to believe, but every word will be as true as if I was making my confession on my death bed. I hope you will place confidence in me, Mr. Whitney?"

"I see no reason to doubt you. I can judge of people pretty well, and I believe you to be an honest woman, Mrs. Brent."

"Yes, sir, I am an honest woman. I have never been anything better than a servant, but I have done my duty in the condition of life appointed me, as far as I understood it."

Mrs. Brent then proceeded to narrate a series of events of the most startling character, which the reader will perceive have an important bearing on the fortunes of the heroine of this strange history.

It appeared from Mrs. Brent's story that she had lived with the mother of little Violet, and took care of her and her sister, (Violet's aunt,) from the time they were children. That the mother of Violet died when the child was a mere babe, and left her to the care of her aunt. That the grandfather of Violet, who was rich, had left his property so that Violet would inherit it all, in case her aunt should die without children of her own. That the aunt's husband, who was a heartless gamester, and whose wife had no children, wished to have Violet poisoned, so that her fortune could come into his clutches, but finally compromised with his wife, over whom he held a secret power, and agreed that a man named Higgs, who was going to Oregon, should carry the child off and rear her as his own. But the aunt had plotted with Mrs. Brent to defeat her husband's scheme, and hence the flight of the nurse with Violet, and her appearance with her at Mr. Whitney's. She had come to have Violet left in charge of old Mr. Falconer, to whom she was related thro' her grandmother, and had been assisted on her way by a priest in New York named Father Boyle, who had sent her to another priest living near the Vale, called Father John, and he had sent her to Mr. Whitney's.

Having told her story, and refused to give the name of Violet's aunt or uncle, Mrs. Brent was taken to the turnpike gate where the stage-coach passed, put into it, and sent on her way home, leaving word with Mr. Whitney that he could at any time communicate with her by sending a letter to the care of Father Jerome Boyle, in New York.

The next day Mr. Falconer's funeral took place; after which the will was read, and Mrs. Ashford learned that she had been made the old man's heiress. The avaricious Ashford was greatly displeased when he found that the property had been settled on Mr. Whitney and Mr. Melrose as trustees for his wife, but he did his best to hide his chagrin under an air of sanctimoniousness.

Ashford had fully resolved to abandon his wife and child as an early day, but accidentally discovering that Fantasia had great dramatic talent, and might be developed into an actress of unusual merit, he resolved to train her for the stage, and so delayed his plans of desertion. In the meantime he resolved to find out the parentage of Violet, as he felt assured, as he said, that he "could make money on her, if he only knew who she was."

With a view to feeling his way in the matter, he one day, on seeing his wife looking over some articles of children's clothing which she had purchased, carelessly asked:

"Did not Violet need anything? These few articles are for Fantasia, I suppose."

"I found a sufficient supply of clothing for Violet," replied Mrs. Ashford, "in the bottom of the basket in which she was placed. They are of fine quality, and beautifully made."

"Indeed! and is there no name to be found on any of them? Have you examined them carefully?"

"Yes, very carefully; for I have had to mend nearly every garment where the name had been removed by using an acid which destroyed the fabric."

"Umph! was there no trace of a letter left on one of them?"

After a momentary hesitation, Mrs. Ashford replied:

"Violet could be distinguished on some of them, but on only one piece was there a trace of the last name. I could not quite make out whether there was an R or an L. You will discover nothing from such a source as that."

"Ah! well, that is something; and putting fragment after fragment together, may bring me certainty some of these days. I have been looking up evidence while I have been away so much, and to-morrow I shall see Whitney about that letter. He knows who the child is, and I will know too—on that I am determined."

Mr. Ashford lost no time in prosecuting his search, and having worked up his case with the skill or a detective, he prepared to make his attack on Mr. Whitney. The stakes were great, and the players skillful, and which won, we shall see as the story progresses.

The above is all of it that will be published in our columns. The continuation of it from where it leaves off here can be found only in the New York Ledger, which is for sale at all the bookstores and news depots. THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the worst cases of Whooping Cough. Experience shows that all children are expected to have; and when it comes, strange to say, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stolidly unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.
Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.
J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.
I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken of rest at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.
This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the paroxysms became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon got her accustomed sleep—rapidly revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What Dodd's Nervine and Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most complete means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurer as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends, and the misunderstandings which the latter are sure to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 10, 1869.

The State Police of Massachusetts.

Letter from Rev. I. F. Holton, So. Malden, Mass.

Dear Uncle Toby: — You remember that desolate Rev. B. F. Clark, who has just resigned his pulpit because no one would exchange with him. He had sold himself to the rum interest and had been rewarded with the chaplaincy of the House of Representatives of our General Court. You offered to exchange with him and give him a temperance congregation at that. You did not then know to what great honor he was to come. Perhaps the Legislature to which he was fit chaplain, foresaw that it was likely to be followed by one of unusually sound temperance views. It was therefore a good practical joke to give it this same Clark for preacher of the "Election Sermon." So men sat there in the Old South, hearing him ex-officio, who in their individual capacity would have walked out of their own church as he walked into its pulpit. And he taught them that the end of the law was not to reform but to punish. And here he would accord with the aged present preacher in that same pulpit, who says "what I want is the enforcement of the law against drunkards." "We have no right to condemn liquor-sellers—good and respectable men in society — for doing their duty in the station it has pleased Providence to call them." "You must make laws that will strike the drunkard." Is not that horrible? The seller is rich, can drive to the Old South in his own coach, and sit in his own pew, —a good and respectable man who pays his minister's salary without grudging; but the poor fellow who has drank up his fame, his health and respectability, who is ashamed to show himself among well-dressed folks, and has within him an unquenchable thirst—"make a law that will strike" him.

The State Police has had a prosperous year, though the authors of the license law carefully excluded them from licensed places without permission of the local authorities to enter, a permission that was refused in Boston. But the local authorities could not thus protect those worthy citizens who were selling without license, so the State Police entered 2607 complaints against illegal selling. How many who would have otherwise sold without license, were compelled by this roaring lion to buy the protection of the law, we cannot tell. It has driven the results of pedler's licenses up from about $600 to more than $25,000. Add to these invisible results $49,385 of stolen property recovered and returned; and $374,401 fines, costs and confiscations, and you make a sum of about $450,000 in three years. Double this for the pecuniary losses that would have resulted from the crimes which the police has prevented by imprisonment, and deterring those who would have committed them, and with a moderate allowance more we have a million dollars, which certainly falls short of what Massachusetts has gained in clear cash by her State Police, besides the incalculable values of life and innocence. Among the rest they detected sixteen incendiaries, most of whom are now in prison. I think, at the rate they were burning two years ago, there are about a million dollars' worth of churches, stables, schools and stores, now standing, that, but for the State Police, would be heaps of ashes. They have exchanged shots, equal-handed, with suburban robbers; and, as one of the robbers was killed on the spot, the experiment is not likely to be repeated.

Now what have the police cost us? There was appropriated for them $358,250; they expended $301,743.03, and returned $56,506.97. This was for three years. There was employed last year a clerical force on duty, 5; detectives, 7; others, 57. They have been present at all the musters, agricultural fairs, and wherever mischief was most likely to be. Their witness-fees at courts have been $8,200.60, of which the last $6,613.23 have not been paid them; but, instead of going into the Constabulary fund as it should have done, it has been retained by the counties. I see not the least ground for Major Jones' opinion that it should have been paid the men, extra, as if they had been mechanics called from police work to testify in court; for the time taken by the county belonged to the State. The informant-money, $670, the deputies received and gave to Surgeon-General Dale, for sick and wounded soldiers.

In no branch of service has the efficacy of the Constabulary been more conspicuous than in the suppression of gambling, against which all other modes of enforcing law have been absolutely powerless, except when some victim has dared take his own case in hand. David Aymer, Hiram Rollins, J. H. Carson, John Riley, W. B. Dexter, J. L. Thayer, and H. S. Benton, victims, have recoved $60, $225, $942, $25, $75, $145, and $76 respectively; the fines paid amounted to $9,442, and the value of implements seized was estimated at $10,000, the whole being probably more than the gaming houses of Boston earn in a week. But the doings of the gamblers by the constable, and the doings of the constable by the gamblers, would fill all this sheet.

Men of New Hampshire! do you wish your laws executed? Or do you wish them shams and scarecrows that will not frighten old birds? If you would have the law maintained in its integrity, employ a State Police. Let some true soldier be its head. Get one of our best men on his staff. Let there not be a man in the force who has not been wounded in battle.

Against this you will have the outcry of every regular law-breaker in the State. "No domineering," they cry, "let every county, town, ward and school-district select its own agents to execute the will of the State." "But why?" "Well—well—I don't want a man appointed away off in Concord to arrest me. I want a voice in electing the man who is to put the law in force against me." "No doubt you do. But it happens to be the State's duty to see her laws executed, and if she leaves you to select the agents by which she is to do her duty, the bigger fool she!—That's all."

I grieve to think that some good men will aid all rascals in opposing a State Police. The most atrocious lies are told about them here; and if they ransack the house of a culprit and do not find corpus delicti, there is a great cry over it. It is absurd to think they ever take that trouble without good reason. These men are growing more necessary to us every year. The few changes made in the staff are improvements, and their experience adds greatly to their efficiency. It is quite a question whether they shall not supersede all local police, so that the State shall guarantee the execution of municipal law.—Never, in my opinion, has there been so efficient a body in our free country.

The Manchester Mirror says that on Wednesday night Feb. 3, the house of Mr. A. Coburn of North Salem, was struck by lightning and set on fire. The fluid passed down the wall of a room near where children were sleeping, but did no damage. It then entered another room, knocked plastering down upon a pillow by the side of persons asleep, tore a door from its hinges and threw it upon the bed, set the room on fire, but doing no serious injury. It then passed within the wall and reappeared in a pantry, where there were several pans of milk placed side by side, in contact with each other. Some of these pans were soldered together by the melting of the metal with which they were made, and others were bored through by the lightning.

The Starch Company loses $6000, Morse & Co., $10,000 and the Messrs. Richardson $8000; total $24,000, with no insurance.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Do not Trifle with Danger.

A single spark may kindle a flame that will consume a city, and small ailments, neglected, may end in fatal disorders. Bearing this fact in mind, let the first symptoms of debility or nervous prostration be met promptly with invigorating treatment. Foremost among the vegetable tonics of the age stands HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, which whenever the vital powers seem to languish, or there is any reason to suspect that the animal functions essential to the sustenation and purification of the body are imperfectly performed, this invaluable invigorant and antispeptic should at once be resorted to. Indigestion always produces weakness. Sometimes it happens,—and this is more frequently the case in Winter than at any other season,—that the appetite demands more food than the stomach can digest; although not more, perhaps, than is required to keep up the full strength of the frame. The object, under such circumstances, is to increase the digestive capacity of the assimilating organ, so as to make it equal to the duty imposed upon it by the appetite, and capable of supplying the building material or the system as fast as it is required. This object is fully accomplished by the use of the Bitters. They tone and gently stimulate the cellular membrane which secretes the gastric juice, and the result is that the solvent is mingled with the food in sufficient quantity to convert all its nourishing particles into pure and wholesome element. If, on the other hand, there is a deficiency of appetite, without any corresponding deficiency of digestive power, the effect of the tonic is to stimulate a desire for food. In nine cases out of twenty, headache, nausea, nervousness, spasms, fainting-fits, and, indeed, most of the casual aches and pains to which humanity is subject, proceed primarily from indigestion complicated with biliousness; and for both these complaints HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are recommended as a speedy and certain remedy.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.]

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves, but the position of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which competition is unknown. Not content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked for a Waltham Watch, use this peculiar kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

Here for the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold about 400,000 watches, and in every town and village of the country some wearer of a Waltham Watch may be found. Let the party about to buy ask the owner of an American Watch this question: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy a watch to ask the question of THE CHEAPEST and BEST PAID PITIFUL OF WOMAN, AND HER DISEASES, Probably illustrated by the very best engravings. This book is also from the pen of Dr. Hayes. Among the various chapters may be mentioned, Physical Beauty of Life, Beautiful Offspring,—Beauty, its Value to Woman,—Marriage,—General Hygiene of Woman,—Puberty,—Change of Life,—Excesses of the Married,—Prevention to Conception, &c. In beautiful French cloth, $2 00; Turkey Morocco, full gilt, $3.50. Either of these books are sent by mail, securely sealed, postage paid, on receipt of price.

The "PEABODY JOURNAL OF HEALTH," a first-class paper in every respect,—8 pages, 32 columns,—published in the 1st of February, and every month during the year. Subscription price per year only 50 cts. Specimen copies sent free to any address, on application to the Peabody Medical Institute.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Holloway's Pills.—A successful physician, being challenged by some medical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I can." Dr. Holloway might say the same to the faculty as regards Dyspepsia. His celebrated Pills cure it infallibly, and when all other remedies have proved utterly useless. There is no complaint of the human kind, be it acute or chronic, slight or violent, which the Pills will not ameliorate and relieve. Sold by all Druggists.

The Plaster of the "Time,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—how we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced after the pain had subsided induced him to have another applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words, "and I was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good, the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder; the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to dry up the phlegm, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

STRANGE NOISES on the evening air saluted the early dreams of a happy couple in this city on Monday evening, who had just embarked on the broad ocean of matrimony. Windows within a half mile of the scene of action flew up and startled residents of the neighborhood, clad in suits of white, arose from their slumbers dismayed at the confusion of sounds which rent the air. Gongs, horns and sleigh-bells smote their tympanums, and the tintinabulations of the bells were heard chiming in grotesque contrast to the dire sounds which set all canines within hearing howling like demons. Anxious felines, disturbed in their harangues and enraged at the interruption of their wooing, energetically expressed their enmity and sharply entered the controversy, forgetting alike their sorrows and their joys in this new revelation of the infernal in music.

The soloists and other performers in this hideous orchestral concert doubtless imagined that the whole thing was funny, smart. They probably enjoyed their evening's entertainment much better than did the parties they intended to compliment and the neighbors who slept not for their wretched music. Thoughtless and careless people seldom think of the comfort of others, and heedlessly enter into such performances regardless of the wishes of those whom they disturb by their harmless and innocent (?) amusement—at other people's expense. The Choctaws could hardly adopt a more barbarous mode of celebrating such occasions, and we have no doubt that the serenaders for once forgot the Golden Rule, and we question whether they would care to be the recipients of such an impromptu rehearsal in which they all seem so proficient, were they placed in similar circumstances. "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them."

☞ Officer Shannon, on Tuesday, arrested an unknown man, drunk and helpless, who had on his person $770,—which of course was exposed to danger until his arrest, but is in safety now.

☞ We learn that a Velocipedagogue is to open a school in a day or two, at the Rigging Loft of Mr. Deering on Pier Wharf, foot of State St. He will doubtless have plenty of scholars and spectators.

☞ This being Ash Wednesday, there will be services at the Episcopal Church at the usual hours of church service.

☞ Lewis Huntress, Esq., of the famous Senter House at Centre Harbor, is spending a few days with his friends in this, his native city. His appearance is another evidence that that noted hostel is a good place to stop at.

☞ "Pat," said an employer to a citizen of the "Green Isle," I understand that your wife has had five children in one year—is it so? well sir not exactly, but she has had five of thim within twelve months;" meaning parts of 1868—'69.

☞ The splendid Painting of the Pilgrim, which is spoken of in the highest terms of praise by the press and people wherever it has been exhibited, will open at the Temple on Monday evening next, Feb. 15th.

FIRE —At about half past ten o'clock on Tuesday evening fire was discovered in Stevenson's Carriage Manufactory on Bow street. It caught near a chimney, on the second floor, and was soon extinguished, but not until considerable injury had been done, by fire and water.

OBITUARY NOTICE.—Died in North Hampton, Feb. 3d 1869, Mrs REBECCA FRENCH, aged eighty three years, widow of Rev. Jonathan French., D D., to whom she was a most efficient and delightful helpmeet during his long pastorate, and to the close of his life. His success in the ministry, and his happiness and comfort every way, were largely promoted by her placid temper, intelligent active mind, easy and graceful manner, and cheerful christian firmness.

Her children, eleven in number, all survive her, and may well rise up and call her blessed, as they say, The Lord gave, and he hath taken away,—blessed be the name of the Lord: for she was as eminently a good and judicious mother, as she was a pleasant and faithful wife.

Her worth was known and appreciated by all the people of her own place of residence, and many others, especially by the hundreds of ministers who visited North Hampton Parsonage within the fifty years in which she presided there with true christian hospitality without grudging, and without ostentation. To the few of them who survive her, her memory is precious, as it is to all who knew her. T. H. M.

For the Chronicle.

KITTERY.—On Monday evening a lecture on Italy was delivered in the new church at the Navy Yard Village, by Rev. Antonio Arrighi, an Italian clergyman of the M. E. Church, who was formerly a drummer-boy in the patriot army of Italy, and was wounded while serving under Garibaldi during the seige of Rome by the allies in 1849; was taken prisoner and held for five years, after which he escaped to this country, where he has since remained.

The speaker opened his lecture with a glowing eulogium of the skies and the scenery of his native land; drew a gloomy picture of the almost hopeless state of ignorance and degradation in which the people had been kept for ages, and from which they are but just beginning to emerge; spoke with admiration and hope of Victor Emanuel and his liberal political, religious and educational policies; alluded in terms almost of reverence to the patriot hero under whom he once served, and ended by singing (and singing well, too,) the hymn of the Garabaldians, in his native tongue.

He spoke with a marked, but not unpleasant, foreign accent; and a quiet vein of humour ran through his discourse, which frequently aroused the mirth of his audience, which was much larger than a stranger would have expected to see in so small a place. The lecture was received, as it deserved to be, with marked attention, and gave general satisfaction; although the remarks on American affairs may have hit some of the hearers rather hard, for, though the speaker loves and admires Italy, Garabaldi, liberty and American institutions generally, his affection for Papal rule or the principles of Judas Iscariot or Jeff Davis is not only very limited in quantity but rather feeble in quality.

The new church of the M. E. Society, in which the lecture was given, is a neat and substantial wooden building, 64 by 46 feet on the floor, the church proper having a height of 24 feet in the clear, with a commodious vestry for Sabbath Schools &c., extending under the whole building. The pulpit and its furniture are of black walnut, and very neat and appropriate; the church is heated by a furnace in the basement, and lighted by bronze chandeliers; the pews are well arranged and comfortable; and although much is yet to be done,—as carpeting and upholstering pews, hanging blinds &c., yet the church, as it is, is highly creditable to the liberality and energy of the Society and its friends, and they may very reasonably be proud of their really fine house of worship. There is but one thing about it which I dislike, and that is the gallery for the choir, which is over the entrance to the church, and facing the pulpit; but, as I detest galleries, and always did, perhaps I may not be an impartial judge. If those who have expended between $6,000 and $7,000 on the house are satisfied with the gallery, I've no business to complain; and it certainly increases the capabilities of the house by so much.—May the Society have all the success their exertions deserve. CABINET ORGANS.

The success of the Mason & Hamlin Organ Company, now the largest manufacturers of instruments of this class in the world, producing and finding a demand for an average of one hundred and twenty-five organs per week, illustrates what can be done by energetic and persevering pursuit of right principles in business. The following are what may be said to be Articles of their Constitution, kept always in view, and never deviated from:

1. Excellence in the manufactured article must never be sacrificed to economy and cost. The best, only and always.

2. No degree of superiority shall be considered satisfactory as long as improvement is possible.

3. The use of every valuable invention and real improvement must be obtained at whatever cost.

4. Productions to be sold at lowest possible prices; these to be printed and offered to all alike, thus dealing fairly and impartially with the public.

This Company have expended an immense amount in experiments for improvements, in which they have been greatly successful, developing, enlarging, improving and adding to the well-known Melodeons of former times, until they have become the magnificent MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS of the present, to which was awarded the Paris Exposition Medal for superiority last year.

They have just introduced an important improvement, the MASON & HAMLIN IMPROVED VOX HUMANA, a beautiful invention, which is said to be as great an advance upon the Vox Humana already used as the Cabinet Organ is upon the Melodeon. They also announce important reduction in prices, offering their Organs at prices which are even less than those commonly demanded for inferior workmanship. This is the natural result of their greatly increased facilities for manufacture, and fixed rule to sell at smallest profit.—New York Tribune.

SINGING,

SPEAKING AND READING.

Mr. W. J. PARKERSON would ask the attention of all persons interested in these arts, to his SYSTEMATIC DRILL for securing the most pure, easy, energetic and prolonged use of the Vocal Organs.

This Drill, the result of patient study and varied experience, both in Europe and America, is based on an improved combination of the best methods for beautifying and perfecting the voice as exemplified by the great masters.

Mr. Parkerson claims that more solid and brilliant results can be reached in a shorter time by his peculiar mode of practice than in any other way.

Especially will Teachers of Vocal Music find the information he offers inestimably valuable to them.

He invites an examination of his system and of his testimonials.

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

967 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST

ARE

Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,005.97
" Freight	2,040,233.19
" Express	51,423.08
" Mails	136,235.99
" Miscellaneous	91,626.27
" Government troops	104,077.77
" " freight	449,440.33
" Contractors' men	201,179.09
" " material	968,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in

PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,

And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sent free, but parties subscribing through local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a full report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

On the Death of Mrs. Albert Leighton.

BY PHILIP O'NEILL.

Alas! alas! that she should die,
The loved and beauteous one;
Even as hope gleamed fitfully,
She smiled and passed on.

Mourn for the dear one dead,
Mourn for the love-links parted,
Mourn for the sunshine fled
From the home of the broken-hearted.

O! sad is the lonely heart
That feels the scathing blight
Of tendrils torn apart
From an earthly love too bright.

Oh! grief of the desolate soul,
Is there no hope that swells!
Yes, in the light of glory's goal,
Behold, thy loved one dwells;

The love that grew on earth,
Now blooms in Paradise;
God loved her from her birth,
And called her to the skies.

From the Missionary Herald.

MOWLI, WESTERN INDIA.

BY MRS. A. E. DEAN.

The town of Mowli is situated at the junction of the Yenna and the Krishna rivers, which renders the place very sacred in the eyes of the Hindoos. The town itself is not noted for anything except perhaps the great number of brahmin widows who have taken up their abode there, but the river Krishna, with the fine stone temples on its banks, attracts great multitudes who resort thither for purposes of religious rites and worship. It is told as a fact, that once in twelve years a flood of pure milk flows down from its source! The city of Satara lies about three miles to the west, and a fine, broad, macadamized road, with shady banian and pimple trees growing on each side, connects the two places.

Every morning, at the earliest dawn, some old brahmins, or other devoted Hindoos, of both sexes, may be seen either going or returing, with a brass "lota" containing the holy water. The first Monday in each month, hundreds of them, women and children, throng the road. The blind, cripples, and lepers sit on the roadside, calling aloud for charity, in the names of the gods. Alms are given by the passers-by, who go prepared to answer their calls.

The Rance of Satara, in her close palkee, preceded by heralds and trumpets, and followed by a cavalcade of richly-caparisoned horses—some mounted and others led—and a train of elephants, joins the crowd. A close tent is pitched for her on the very edge of the water, so that she can perform her religious rites without being subjected to the vulgar gaze of the people. The river banks are alive with people—bathing, washing their clothes, filling their "lotas," worshipping the idols and presenting offerings to the priests.

This place is also a great burning-place of the dead. Daily a great number of bodies are taken from the city to be burned where the ashes can mingle with the sacred waters. Instead of being placed in a box, the corpse is besmeared with red and yellow paint, dressed in either red or white cloth, and laid on an open bier. Preparations for removing the dead are commenced as soon as the breath leaves the body, so that often in an hour's time, the body is hurried off to Mowli.

A curious affair took place there about three or four years ago. A man (supposed to be dead) was borne along by his relatives, who, as they chatted, soon commenced quarreling about the property of the deceased. In the heat of the discussion they put the bier down by the roadside. Meanwhile the opea air had revived the poor sick man, who opened his eyes and sat up, to the horror of the mourners, who jumped up and away, leaving him to find his way home as best he could!

—Josh Billings divides the human race into three classes: "Those who think it is so, those who think it isn't so, and those who don't care whether it is or not."

— A few nights since, as a son of the Emerald Isle was riding from Salem to Beverly, Mass., on a horse car, the conductor called for his ticket, but the passenger was unable to find it. "What will I do?" says Pat. "Pay me seven cents," says the conductor. "Murther an' ouns, but I didn't give but six for the ticket!" "Can't help that," replied the conductor, "our fare is seven cents, or a ticket," which sum Pat unwillingly passed over. Soon after he called the conductor, with joy beaming on his countenance, and said: "I've found it, now give me back my cint and take the ticket," which was done, much to the amusement of the passengers, poor Pat not thinking he was paying double fare.

SIDEWALK ETIQUETTE.—There is a very prevalent idea that, when a lady and gentleman promenade on the sidewalk, the gentleman should always give the lady the inside of the pavement and occupy the outside himself. The true rule requires that the lady always walk at the gentleman's right, whether it be toward the inside or outside of the pavement. Then the lady is not liable to be jostled by the passers by whom she meets.

UNFAILING EYE PRESERVERS!
LAZARUS & MORRIS' CELEBRATED
PERFECTED SPECTACLES
and Rye Glasses.
The large and increasing sales of these
SUPERIOR GLASSES
Is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality.
With a full knowledge of the value of the assortion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.
Mr. J. F. SHORES, Jr., Bookseller,
Has always on hand a full assortment, suitable for every difficulty.
We take occasion to notify the public that we employ no peddlers, and to caution them against those pretending to have our goods for sale.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.
THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.
WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

NEW METHOD OF HEATING AND VENTILATING CARS.—Travelers constantly experience so much annoyance from overheated and badly ventilated railway cars, that they will cordially welcome any invention which will insure warm feet and a good supply of pure air. The Eastern Railroad Company, in keeping with their usual enterprise, have recently, thoroughly tested an invention for this purpose. One of their best cars was fitted up for the occasion and attached to the train for Newburyport.

The heaters which only occupy half the space of ordinary stoves, are placed at opposite ends of the car. Self-acting "bonnets" on the roof of the car conduct the outside air into a box partly filled with water, which being constantly in motion, frees the air from all dust and cinders. The air then passes into a hot air chamber, formed by the firepot and an iron jacket surrounding it, and, getting heated, forces its way through a pipe extending the length of the car. This pipe being perforated under each seat, the feet of the passengers are kept constantly warm, and the pure warm air is diffused equally around, making a most agreeable and healthy atmosphere.

The motion of the cars keeps up a constant circulation and supply of fresh air, and when the car is still, the heaters, by opening the registers, act precisely like a common stove. The impure air is not heated, as in the case of the ordinary steam heaters. The air rendered impure by breathing escapes through the ventilators. The ventilation, consequently, is perfect. The heaters are entirely safe, as, in case of accident to the car, it is impossible that the coal can get out. They are much more economical than any other apparatus and will act during a ride of a hundred miles without replenishing.

Mr. Prescott, Superintendent of the Railroad, extended every faculty to Mr. Edward Foote, the President of the Car Heating Company, and his coadjutors, to thoroughly test the merits of the invention, and the result was perfectly satisfactory. The extreme purity and agreeable temperature of the air supplied by the heaters, were strikingly shown by comparison with the heavy atmosphere in the other cars warmed by the old-fashioned apparatus. At Newburyport the company were very courteously entertained with a sleigh ride and an excellent dinner at the Merrimack House, by Mr. M. S. Little, the proprietor.

DISCHARGE.—Edward Murphy has just been discharged from the Michigan State Prison, where he had been confined seven years and a half, on a charge of murder, of which he was entirely innocent.—Exchange,

Not confined seven years and a half in a state prison, on a charge of murder, but it must have been on a regular conviction, and a sentence! We should not make too much out of this case, or any one case: but we must say that it affords a very strong argument in favor of the law and usage in the State of Maine. By the way, we see that the Legislature of Maine calls loudly on Gov. Chamberlain, to stay his hand, as to the Auburn murderer.

A WHOLESOME REBUKE.—A good story is told of the celebrated Whitelock and his servant, who appears to have been able to preach on occasions as well as could his master, and sometimes to his master. When Whitelock was about to embark as Cromwell's envoy to Sweden, in 1655, he was much disturbed in his mind as he rested in Harwich, on the preceding night, when he reflected on the distracted state of the nation.

A confidential servant slept in an adjoining bed, who finding that his master could not sleep, said: "Pray, sir will you give me leave to ask you a question?" "Certainly," "Pray, sir, don't you think God governed the world very well before you came into it?" "Undoubtedly." "And pray, sir don't you think he will govern it quite as well when you have gone out of it?" "Certainly." "Then, sir, pray excuse me, but don't you think you may as well trust him to govern it as long as you are in it?" To this question Whitelock had nothing to reply, and, turning about, he soon fell asleep.

—A pretty young woman astonished the graycoated policemen and pleased the public generally by appearing in the Central Park, New York, the other day, attired in manly costume, and riding a splendid two-wheeled velocipede, which she managed with perfect skill.

—"What have you to remark, madam, about my singing?" "Nothing, sir, it is not remarkable."

So So.

The people of Utah want more mail facilities. The males of that territory have more facilities there now than in any portion of the country.

If a man has any religion worth having he will do his duty, and not make a fuss about it. It is the empty kettle that rattles.

Men may judge us by the success of our efforts. God looks at the efforts themselves.

It is singular how pious new clothes make people. For a whole month after the Misses Flirt get new mantillas they are at church three times a day.

A man of great talents, but void of discretion, is like the Polyhemus in the fable, strong and blind, indeed with an irresistible force, which, for want of sight, is of no use to him.

A verdant couple in Indiana went to a justice of peace to get married. At the first trial the blushing bridegroom got on the wrong side of the blushing bride, but changed his position, saying he would "get the hang of the darned thing in time."

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have; and when it comes, strange to say, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become morally unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your children one the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.

Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.

J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.

I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they come under my observation, but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken down at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies were recommended and tried by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.

This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—the second dose assisted sleep, and she early revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since frequently recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY, and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

THURSDAY, FEB. 11, 1869.

The News.

Josiah Howe, a former resident of Acworth, aged 27 years, committed suicide in Sycamore, Ill., on Christmas day. During a fit of insanity, brought on by lung fever, he placed the muzzle of a revolver in his mouth and blew his head to atoms.

James T. Brady, the celebrated New York lawyer, is dead.

The Wisconsin Senate has voted to assent to the formation of a new State from northern Wisconsin and Michigan.

A correspondent of the Boston Traveller says of the mysterious incendiary at Newburyport:

If the individual whose name is connected with the incendiarism is really the guilty party, his course will be almost inexplicable. He has sufficient means not to be influenced by a desire to plunder, while his own property may have been destroyed as well as that of his neighbors. Public opinion seems much divided as to his guilt, and there is a general feeling that the authorities, by keeping their own counsel, are acting wisely.

Congress.

The Senate after an all night session passed the Constitutional Amendment, on Tuesday. It provides that no discrimination shall be made in the United States among the citizens of the United States in the exercise of the elective franchise, or in the right to hold office in any State on account of race, color, nativity, property, education or creed.

The second clause, first section, second Article of the Constitution of the United States shall be amended to read as follows:

"Each State shall appoint by a vote of the people thereof, qualified to vote for Representatives in Congress, a number of electors equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress, but no Senator or Representative, or person holding an office of profit or trust under the United States shall be appointed elector, and the Congress shall have power to prescribe the manner in which such electors shall be chosen by the people."

In the House Mr. Pike of Maine introduced a bill to compensate the officers and crew of the United States steamer Kearsarge for the destruction of the piratical vessel Alabama.

On Wednesday both Houses met in Convention, the Electoral votes were counted, and U. S. Grant and Schuyler Colfax were declared elected President and Vice President, respectively. It was decided to count the vote of Louisiana, the Senate voting yeas 51, nays 7, and the House, yeas 136, nays 63.—Congressman Ela voted nay. A very important vote has been taken in the Committee on Reconstruction, the proposition being to admit Mississippi with its present government, and with the Constitution framed for it by the last Convention, but voted down by the people. The vote in the committee stood—for the proposition, Messrs. Bingham, Norris and Paine, 3; against it, Messrs. Boutwell, Brooks, Beck, Beaman and Farnsworth, 5.

☞ Western notions of fun are somewhat different from our own. In Georgetown, Colorado, the other day, Mell Greer mortally wounded with a pistol one Maguire. She was merely shooting for fun, she explained, when the unfortunate man put his head around the corner just in time to stop the bullet.

—The Portland correspondent of the Boston Herald tells the following story of an incident at a recent theatrical performance in the former city. The "Captain of the Supes" stepped upon the stage with the announcement "The Duke approaches." He was a little ahead of time and the prompter exclaimed, sotto voce—"No, d—n it, he's not ready." Prompt as an echo, the stupid "utility" announced in stentorian tones, "No, d—n it, he's not ready!" A hand was reached forth and the unfortunate aspirant for historic honors was snaked out of sight, while the audience was convulsed with laughter.

AMERICAN SILKS.—An experience of eight months has proved that these desirable dress goods are all that has been claimed for them, and improvements in their manufacture are from time to time made, in order that they may come up to the French silks in finish as in quality. They are already beautiful and durable, and unquestionably the cheapest black silks in the market. Messrs. Jordan, Marsh & Co., of Boston, continue to supply the trade. Every patriotic lady should encourage home manufactures, especially where the article is fully equal to the imported.—Trans.

—The following error in punctuation is a good illustration of the use of the comma. At a banquet the following toast was given: "Woman — without her man, is a brute."

—The man who is awfully urbane to his wife before strangers, is generally also her bane behind their backs!

New Hampshire Items.

The Messrs. Robinson of Fremont, Carriage Builders are about to erect a Manufactory and Depot for their Carriages, in Nashua.

The Wolfeborough Democrat says: At Tamworth Iron Works, a boy named Parker Rand, was severely injured on the 28th ult., while sliding. He was run into by one of his companions, whose sled struck him on the head, badly fracturing his skull. He lies in a critical condition.

Baptist statistics of New Hampshire shows that there are in the State 85 churches of that denomination, 90 ministers, 7,815 members, and 6,398 Sabbath Schools pupils. The amount of money contributed for all Christian purposes is $67,830.43. The baptisms have numbered 207; other additions, 206. The decrease has been, from dimission, 207; exclusion, 47; deaths, 120; making an addition of 418 and a loss of 374—a gain, during the year, of 39 members.

At Great Falls during the past three months, there have been seven fires, all the work of incendiaries. On the 31st ult., a second attempt was made to fire the Town Hall, but it failed to burn. On the 2nd, an attempt was made to burn a barn on the Berwick side, occupied by Pierce & Hodsdon for storing rags. It was discovered and extinguished without an alarm being given. At Great Falls, the public library has been enlarged. It now has five thousand volumes. The Strafford County Fair is to be held in Great Falls next year.

Col. Gilman Scripture, of Nashua, candidate for State Senator, in Dist. No. 7, is dangerously ill.

Myron Green, a young man, has left Suncook in company with a Mrs. Elliot, wife of Mr. Chas. E., and gone to parts unknown. A Miss Elliot, sister of Charles, also ran off with one Edward Larkin, to Nashua, where they stayed one night; next day L. left for Boston, sending word for her to meet him there at a certain hotel: but when she got there, he was missing; his trunk was sent to Chicago, and she had gone back to Suncook.

Mr. Jacob Emery, a good citizen of Pembroke, died Friday, Feb. 5, aged 93.

The "Hayloader" swindle, by which several farmers in Kensington and East Kingston were defrauded of $50 promissory notes, for the right to make and use the impracticable machines, came before Judge Doe on the 5th, in Exeter. Several of the notes were sold in E. for $25 each, and suits were brought by the present holders against the signers. A test case was decided, and a verdict rendered for the defendants. Judge Doe ruled that the fact of the notes being sold at such a low figure should have aroused the suspicions of the purchasers that all was not right, and they should have made inquiries before purchasing.

T. W. Sargent, one of the leading business men of Grafton, is a raving maniac. He was assaulted recently near Brighton, Mass., soon after disposing of a drove of cattle, and got severe injuries about the head. It is thought that his insanity is the result of those injuries.

Keziah Gage, aged 87 years, died at the Shakers in Enfield Jan. 24th. Abigal Bowdoin, of the same age, still survives. Just over the Enfield line, in Grafton, lives a lady 106 years old, named Mrs. Hall. She remembers the Revolution distinctly, and can read and sew without spectacles.

The Union says that the stone school house in the Depot district in Salem, was struck by lightning on the 4th and a good deal shattered. In a house near by, dishes standing on edge were shaken down by the violence of the shock.

William Foster of Suncook married Mary Roberts of that place in January last. Recently a lady arrived in S., and claimed him by right of previous marriage. Mr. F. cut and ran. His first wife took his goods, and went to Nashua, where her erring spouse formerly resided. The second wife has appealed to the law.

At Littleton, while a son of Curtis Gates, ten years old, was playing in the grist mill, his scarf caught in a shaft and wound up so as to make him insensible, when his father, standing near by, discovered him, caught a knife and cut the scarf just in season to save his life.

C. M. Langley, for sixteen years past a printer in the employ of J. C. Ayer & Co., of Lowell, is to take the place of R. W. Berry of the Nashua Telegraph newspaper, who retires from the firm of Moore & Berry.

The fourth lecture of the Dover Lyceum was delivered on Monday evening, by Dr. Dio Lewis of Boston.

Chronicle Correspondence.

BIDDEFORD, Feb. 8.

Messrs. Editors:—Not only has the velocipede mania reached the classic shades of Harvard, but the contagion has exhibited itself in our midst, and some of our citizens have became considerably exercised in the mind about this new era in locomotion. A school has already been opened, and some very pleasing as well as ludicrous scenes are presented in the practice. Some are able to "go it graceful," while others do not excel in propelling the "g-hicles." Suffice it to say we have got the fever bad, and next summer the watering places will have frequent visitors on the "warry wabblers," much to the detriment of Stable Keepers.

On Thursday last we were the recipients of a loud clap of thunder, an unusual phenomenon, accompanied by a vivid flash of lightning. At the time it was snowing furiously.

William C. Bramley, a young man of sobriety and industrious habits, died last Sunday from the effects of an attempt at suicide a few weeks since at Kennebunk. Disappointment with a young lady is the prevailing supposition as to the cause of the deed, as he had never evinced any explicit reason why he made the attempt.

Alderman D. M. Owen, a merchant, and highly esteemed citizen of Saco, died last Wednesday with the heart disease. A sad bereavement to the community, where he was much beloved. He was a prominent Mason, and the order officiated at the funeral services on Saturday.

Bidwell & Locke's Dramatic Troupe have been performing at Shaw's Hall for the past week, with their usual success. They are to remain one week more, and no doubt will sustain their former high reputation. H.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Do not Trifle with Danger.

A single spark may kindle a flame that will consume a city, and small ailments, neglected, may end in fatal disorders. Bearing this fact in mind, let the first symptoms of debility or nervous prostration be met promptly with invigorating treatment. Foremost among the vegetable tonics of the age stands HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, and whenever the vital powers seem to languish, or there is any reason to suspect that the animal functions essential to the sustenation and purification of the body are imperfectly performed, this invaluable invigorant and antispeptic should at once be resorted to. Indigestion always produces weakness. Sometimes it happens,—and this is more frequently the case in Winter than at any other season,—that the appetite demands more food than the stomach can digest; although not more, perhaps, than is required to keep up the full strength of the frame. The object, under such circumstances, is to increase the digestive capacity of the assimilating organ, so as to make it equal to the duty imposed upon it by the appetite, and capable of supplying the building material of the system as fast as it is required. This object is fully accomplished by the use of the Bitters. They tone and gently stimulate the cellular membrane which secretes the gastric juice, and the result is that the solvent is mingled with the food in sufficient quantity to convert all its nourishing particles into pure and wholesome chyme. If, on the other hand, there is a deficiency of appetite, without any corresponding deficiency of digestive power, the effect of the tonic is to stimulate a desire for food. In nineteen cases out of twenty, headache, nausea, nervousness, spasms, fainting-fits, and, indeed, most of the cardiac aches and pains to which humanity is subject, proceed primarily from indigestion complicated with biliousness; and for both these complaints HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are recommended as a speedy and certain remedy.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade seemingly have to make more profit

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

AMUSEMENTS.—The grand Concert by the Cornet Band on Monday did not pay expenses, we regret to learn. The Concert was a good one and passed off smoothly. Prof. Wallach made delicious music with his favorite Harmonica. Mrs. Marcy was in her best mood and sang delightfully, better than usual. The plaintive little ballad, "Robbie, tell me why," was rendered charmingly. Mr. Chase added to his previous laurels and was encored after applause. Mr. Tompson's cornet solo was very fine, and the duo by Mrs. Marcy and Mr. Tompson was particularly pleasing. Miss Remick's excellent alto made the quartet perfect, and Mr. Tilton presided at the piano with his usual ability.

Whitmore and Clark had a good audience Tuesday evening, and will be welcomed when they come again with deserving success.

The Charity Ball, Tuesday evening, was not largely attended, but the merry dancers enjoyed themselves notwithstanding.

COASTING in this city has been a constant fund of amusement for boys and girls since New Year's, and several accidents have resulted from the carelessness of the youngsters, to pedestrians and the coasters. One little fellow named Randall, finding the coasting good in Daniel Street, set sail on his clipper for a good one down over the hill, heading for Kittery it seems, for when at the foot of the hill he missed stays and went plump overboard. He was rescued from the liquid element, frightened and with a diminished regard for the pleasures of coasting.

DAILY INSTEAD OF WEEKLY.—In consequence of an accidental short supply of Gazettes, this week—discovered too late to print more,—we supply the deficiency as well as we can, by sending the Daily Chronicle to some subscribers to the weekly Gazette, and to many printers also.

☞ At a meeting of the Atalanta Association, held Tuesday evening, Feb. 9th, 1869, Resolutions were unanimously adopted deploring the death of Mr. Chas. A. Barker and tending sympathy to the bereaved family.

BIDDEFORD is a good place; Butler lives there,—not Benjamin F. but John E., the live editor and proprietor of one of the liveliest of our exchanges, the Biddeford Union and Journal. Biddeford also contains at the present time our well known correspondent, "Horatius," as well as Bidwell & Locke's dramatic company, who have been doing a good business there for a week or two, in Shaw's new hall. Thitherward to Biddeford we directed our steps (figuratively) on Tuesday, the occasion being made a sort of re-union for a small squad of press representatives, etc. Arrived at the depot we noticed that there were oceans of small boys, all of a size, infesting the streets, and wondered why they had gathered together if 'twere not to receive the delegation from Strawberry Bank. One of the brilliants made another observation, which was original, to say the least. He said that after mature deliberation, the only conclusion that he could come to was that the entire female population of Biddeford had been accustomed to sliding on their noses, for each and every one, barring exceptions, had nasal organs with a decided upward or downward tendency. We presume he meant it for a compliment—so didn't ask the Journal man if 'twas so.

Shaw's Hall is a gem of a place for exhibitions, and with the fine new scenery of the Bidwell & Locke Company presents a pleasing contrast to most halls in small cities. The block which it is a part of is a handsome edifice and an ornament to the place. Shaw didn't get elected to Congress and so built this block. There is a billiard room connected with the hall, (or is the hall connected with the billiard room?) and a nice dining saloon is conveniently at hand. Biddeford must be endeavoring to be aristocratic, for we noticed on the play bills that private boxes were advertised at the theatre at $4, but where the boxes were we couldn't see from the lower floor. "East Lynne," of which Portsmouth has had quantum sufficit, was the play for the evening, and Dollie Bidwell fairly outdid herself in the part of Lady Isabelle and Madame Vine. The Company will probably visit Portsmouth in March on their way elsewhere.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY.—Rehearsal Friday Evening, Feb. 12th, at Mercantile Hall, at half-past 7.

Comparative Statistics.

Manchester News.—We have not a doubt that what the Chronicle says is true of Portsmouth; [viz., that the 100 liquor sellers here do not all vote with one party, nor is drinking or drunkenness confined to one party, sect or nationality; but about three quarters of these vote with the democrats; and in one case of complaint a premeditated and violent attack was made on a complainant by persons who voted with the democratic party,]—but it would not be fair to judge all other cities and towns by this one—nor would it be right to say that because a majority of the rum-sellers in Portsmouth are democrats, therefore a majority in every other place must be so too.

Uncle Toby.—Certainly it would not be right to say that, for there is no must in the matter; but the seller does it to make money or get a living; and the drinker to gratify a vitiated appetite, to follow a foolish fashion, or to indulge a wretched habit. But now, as facts form the best basis for argument, will the News please to get from the U. S. Assessor at Manchester, the number of liquor sellers taxed, and then state the proportions of the parties, on its own best judgment, i. e., for what parties these sellers usually vote.

M. N.—We know many republicans who sell and drink as much as any democrat could.

U. T.—We know some, more's the pity; and no doubt there are many whom we don't know.—But of the few sellers whom we do know, outside but near this city, a still larger proportion vote the democratic ticket. The statistics of Manchester, when we get them from the News, may be of another character. We shall know when we see them.

For the Chronicle.

THE "PILGRIM."—In striking contrast to the several entertainments lately given in this city of Nature and Minstrels, Theatricals, Dancing, &c., comes to the intellectual and thinking public, that which in its moral influence and attractive character, cannot fail to arrest the attention of all moral and religious minds. In reference to the same we copy from the Providence Press, a notice of the its real merits:

The first of the series of Tableau representations of the above subject came off last evening: and if an overflowing audience and repeated rounds of applause be a criterion, the exhibition was a success. The Hall was filled to its utmost capacity, and numbers unable to obtain standing room were compelled to leave. The Tableaux were excellent and drew forth the wonder and admiration of all, fully bearing out the flattering notices of them published by the press of other cities where they had been exhibited.

NORTH HAMPTON, Feb. 9.

The descendants and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tarlton, recently visited them on the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, and presented them with gifts suitable to commemorate their Golden Wedding. James M. Lovering Esq., of Exeter, made a brief, appropriate address.

The public exercises of the funeral of the late Mrs. Rebecca (Farrar) French of North Hampton were held in the Congregational church on the 6th inst. The services were conducted by Rev. T. V. Haines, assisted by Rev. Messrs Otis and Barrows of Exeter, Eldridge of Kensington and Dr. Tobey of Durham.

Mrs. F. was the widow of Rev. Jonathan French, D. D. who was settled as minister of this town in 1801, and continued pastor of Cong. Church until his death in 1856. They were married in 1804. Their descendants are, 11 children, all of whom are now living, 41 grand children and 9 great grand children. The memory of the just is blessed. M. C.

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD ARE NOW COMPLETED, As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but 667 MILES REMAIN To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $36,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Morigage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,005.97
" Freight	2,040,235.19
" Express	51,423.08
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	91,626.27
" Government troops	104,077.71
" " freight	449,410.33
" Contractors' men	201,179.09
" " material	368,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street, —AND BY— JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street, And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sent free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a) report of the progress of the work to that date, and) a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

JOHN J. CISCO, TREASURER, New York. Jan. 28, 1869. daw

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Morning Chronicle.

Chronicle Correspondence.

PORTLAND, Feb. 8.

Editors Chronicle: — Portland, like other places, is dull. Business is quiet. The Banks are discounting better than a month since. No failures of account have occurred, and it is thought the corner of the winter finances has been successfully turned.

The Portland & Ogdensburg Railroad is now on a firm footing, and with Gen. S. J. Anderson as President and a wealthy, enterprising Board of Directors, every member of which is a prominent influential man, success seems certain. Some years since we predicted the construction of said road, and were subjected to considerable sharp criticism. We are satisfied with the present condition of affairs justifying our assertions.

Surveys are being made, and some five or six different routes to Conway, N. H., are presented, one of them a Union line to the Great Ossipee Valley with the proposed Portland & Rutland road.

The Portland & Rutland corporators are circulating a petition asking the city to loan its credit to the enterprise.—They, however, must obtain authority from the Legislature, which they are intending to do. Portland has a big list of loans in existence, and it will be a close thing to add to it another large one of $1,000,000, or even $750,000.

An ingenious watchmaker here has a No. 8 fine needle enclosing another one inside. The No. 8 is in two parts, and is screwed and unscrewed easily. He also has a small brass pin with a small hole drilled lengthwise. These are indeed curious relics.

Portland is to have a new Steamer to run up and down the harbor the coming summer—the Ulysses, the past few years plying in Boston Harbor. She is 320 tons burthen, and is a beauty of a craft.

Portland has one of the finest Turnverein Associations in the country. One of the Levantine Brothers has been residing here the past season, and under his instruction they have progressed rapidly.

The Velocipede fever has reached us and is raging at full height. C. P. Kimball & Larkin are manufacturing them and have opened a school of instruction. A velocipede rink is also opened at Union Hall. One or two ingenious mechanics each claim a special model for the above named "locomotive agent," and a Frenchman has warned all manufacturers that he is the original inventor.

Some 40 Jersey cows have been imported of late from England for parties in Boston, coming over to this port by the Montreal Line.

The Municipal election takes place March 1st, but as yet but little stir has been made by either party. The prominent Republican candidates are Hon. J. H. Drummond and Hon. F. G. Messer, the former the present Speaker of the Maine House of Representatives and the latter one of the State Senators from this county and formerly Representative and also an Aldermen from Ward Six. Both are A. No. 1 men and sound on the Temperance issue, and the prospect is, either would receive the full vote of the party. The vote and majority at city elections are less than at other times, and although Grant had 1367 majority, at last Spring's city election the Republican majority was 341. Last September (State election) the majority was 978. The latter is about the true average strength.

Maine is behind New Hampshire in militia. Last year a bill to organize one failed, and at the present season of the Legislature an effort is to be made to form one regiment of ten companies to be armed and equipped at the State's expense, in U. S. pattern uniforms, &c., and if any company desires a distinct and more costly suit to pay the difference themselves. Portland has two companies in P. L. I.'s, and the P. M. G.'s, which is more than any other city or town can boast of, as there are no other companies in Maine in active organization. SANCHO.

☞ In Kansas a woman can prosecute any one who sells her husband liquor, subsequent to an official warning; vide the following extract from the columns of a Lawrence paper:

"TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.—Thereby give notice that the sale of spirituous liquors to Homer Hayes is contrary to my wishes, and that I will prosecute according to law any person who disregards this notice.—Catharine Hayes."

—What is the difference between a hen and an idle musician? One lays at pleasure and the other plays at leisure.

—What is the very best of beverages. That is why people are so careful of it, and take almost anything first.

—Every day is a little life, and our whole life is but a day repeated.

TROTTING OXEN.—Travelers between Naples and Rome, a few years ago, used to be astonished at the manner in which that lumbering vehicle, the Italian diligence, was drawn over the road by a combined team of oxen and horses. A friend relates his experience in that quarter, in 1856. "The heavy hybrid between an omnibus and a stage-coach moved at good speed over an excellent road, the 'power' consisting of three wheel-horses abreast and then a yoke of white oxen forward of the horses.—This (to an American eye) singular team trotted along the road at about the ordinary speed of our stages here at home."

We learn from a western paper, just received, that a mail carrier, in Michigan now uses a pair of Texan cattle for carrying the mail, something after the Italian fashion. These oxen are yoked to a cart, and trot as well as horses, making fifty miles a day, two days each week, that being the number of times the mail is transported.—Exchange.

We never could see any reason why steers could not trot well, if properly fed and fitted for travel; nor why cows should not do considerable light draft work, and bulls a good deal of heavy ox work.

LAZARUS & MORRIS' CELEBRATED

PERFECTED SPECTACLES

and Rye Glasses.

The large and increasing sales of these SUPERIOR GLASSES

Is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality.

With a full knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,

NO. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for procuring Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made no twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and practical men of business, with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability as his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to FINE FLAVORED TEAS, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price lists."

EXPERIENCE PROVES the Finest Teas relatively the cheapest, as the Government Duty, 2 cents in Gold, or nearly 40 cents in currency, and also the freight, packing and other expenses of importing, are as much on the poorest as the finest.

OUR COFFEE DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses, in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE, 20 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analysed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours, apl3eodly State Assayer for Massachusetts.

S. DANA HAYES,

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the glossy freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

STOVES, FUEL, HEALTH.

Chemists have had much to say about the immense loss of heat in the escape of the unconsumed gases from stoves; and their statements are in the main correct. There is considerable loss from incomplete combustion in the use of fuel. This fact being generally understood, a whole army of inventors come forward with their "gas-consuming" stoves, and the warehouses of dealers are full of them. We have never yet seen a safe and practical stove of this description,—one that we would use or recommend; and we have examinddd many devices. There are practical difficulties in the way of consuming gases in stoves; and we must be content to suffer some loss of heat, so long as attempts to save it result in danger to the life and health of families.

A stove with few complications, constructed of sheet-iron, is, after all, the safest and best. It has been proved by satisfactory experiment, in this country and Europe, that cast-iron is permeable to the poisonous gases resulting from combustion; and therefore, stoves constructed of this metal, which are to be used for household warmth, should be rejected. No more comfortable or economical wood-burning stove has ever been devised than the old fashioned "air-tight," which were so common twenty years ago. If provision is made for ventilation, this stove may be used with entire safety, at comparatively small expense. It causes little trouble, and affords much comfort.

The new "soapstone stoves," we are reluctantly compelled to condemn, as too wasteful of fuel, too costly, and liable to crack badly. We have two of them in use; and practical experience and experiment confirm our views regarding them, formed several years since. The almost colorless, smooth, greasy outside of soap-stone stoves affords the most imperfect heat-radiating surfaces it is possible to conceive of. The waste of fuel in these stoves is enormous. From some incomplete experiments made with the view of ascertaining the amount of loss, it is inferred that, under the ordinary conditions in which these stoves are used, at least two thirds of all the heat developed is forced into the flue, along with the products of combustion. A small stove of this description, connected with an iron galvanized pipe passing twenty feet through two cold rooms, raised the temperature above 200 deg. F. at the inlet to the flue. There are some desirable points in these stoves, such as the slowness with which heat is evolved, the persistency with which it is retained in the stone walls after combustion ceases, etc.; but these advantages do not compensate for the disadvantages alluded to above.

Wood is, as fuel, so much more healthful and desirable, it is a pity it cannot be more generally used. The difference in the sanitary condition of a family, other things being equal, where a good blazing wood fire is maintained upon the hearth, is most marked, when contrasted with one using hard coal in connection with the stoves in common use. So long as there is a necessity resting upon tens of thousands of families, to use only this kind of fuel, it is of the highest importance that the stoves in which it is burned should be properly constructed, having a fresh, clean draft, and no unnecessary, dangerous "dampness" to jeopardize life and health.—Journal of Chemistry.

TOM MARSHALL OF KENTUCKY.—In the beginning of the late civil war, the eccentric and talented Marshall resided in Newport, Ky.; and, although his professions for the Union cause were well known, he at times espoused the side of his Southern brethern. Especially was this the case when he became intoxicated. Shortly after the first battle of Bull Run, when the Union forces met with a disastrous defeat, Marshall was one afternoon coming up the street pretty full of Bourbon, and staggering from one side of the pavement to the other. In this maudlin state he was muttering to himself the chivalric deeds of the Southern army, boasting of its ability to thrash the —— Yankees.

In his drunken reel he met and accidentally ran against Jim White, a blacksmith, a tall, powerful Kentuckian, whose pugilistic qualities were well known. The blacksmith being an ardent Union man, and smarting under our defeat, hearing the mutterings of Tom, and thinking the collision a direct insult, drew off and administered a sledge-hammer blow upon poor Marshall's head, knocking him senseless upon the pavement. He lay motionless, stunned, and in this condition was picked up and carried home, unconscious from the effects of the blow and his intoxication until the next morning. Upon reviving, he asked of his friends who struck him. The answer was:

"Jim White, the blacksmith."

"Well," replied Tom, "I wish you to inform Jim White that I'll be —— if I want him to make an anvil of my head."

The text was on the terrors of the gospel, as denounced against sinners, to prove which the preacher referred to several passages of scripture, to all of which the lady seemed attentive, and somewhat agitated. Burns on perceiving this, wrote with a pencil, on the blank leaf of her Bible, the following lines:—

"Fair maid, you need not take a hint
Nor idle texts pursue;
'Twas only sinners that he meant,
Not angels such as you."

—An invetérate tobacco chewer was in the habit of declaring about once a month that he would "never chew another piece," but broke his pledge as often as he made it. On one occasion, shortly after he had "broken off for good," he was seen taking another chew. "Why," said his friend, "you told me you had given up that habit, but I see you are at it again." "Yes," he replied, "I have gone chewing and left off lying."

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are exposed to, and, in many cases, it comes, strange to say, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stolidly unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.

Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.

J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.

I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken of rest at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving way. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.

This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon got her accustomed sleep—rapidly revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.

The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.

Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

FRIDAY, FEB. 12, 1869.

COUNTING THE ELECTORAL VOTE.—The U. S. Senate and House of Representatives met in Convention on Wednesday in the Representatives Hall, for the purpose of counting the electoral votes cast for President and Vice President. Senator Wade, the presiding officer of the Senate, took the Speaker's chair, and the Speaker took a chair beside him, and at his left Senator Conkling and Representatives Wilson of Iowa and Pruyn of New York occupied places at the Clerk's desk as tellers.

The presiding officer, without any preliminary motion or formality, handed to the tellers the electoral vote of New Hampshire, open. Senator Conkling read the certificates in full, the result being that New Hampshire had given for Ulysses S. Grant of Illinois 5 votes for President and Schuyler Colfax of Indiana 5 votes for Vice President.

Further reading of the certificates of other States was dispensed with, and the votes only of those States were announced.

In the certificates from Maryland there was an omission of the word "Junior" in the name of Blair, which omission, on its being made known, caused some laughter.

The credentials of Louisiana were read by Representative Pruyn of New York. The word "Junior" was omitted in the name of Mr. Blair, and the word "States" was omitted in the term United States.

Mr. Mullins of Tennessee objected to the counting of the vote of Louisiana on the ground that there was no valid election there. The Senators retired to their chamber and the House voted to allow the vote of Louisiana to be counted, 137 to 63. Messrs. Ela, Stevens and Benton of New Hampshire voted nay. The Senate also voted to allow the vote of Louisiana to be counted, 51 to 7, Senators Patterson and Cragin of New Hampshire voting yes.

Both Houses again met in Convention and the votes of the remaining States were read, Georgia being reserved for the last. Gen. Butler objected to counting the vote of Georgia on the grounds that the electors did not meet on the first Wednesday of December, as required by law, and that the State had not been properly admitted to representation since the rebellion, had not fulfilled the requirements of the reconstruction laws, and had no free, just and fair election.

Senator Edmunds made a point of order, that the objection was not in order, the two houses having by special rule fix the case of Georgia made a substantial change in the standing joint rules.

Mr. Wade, whose abilities as presiding officer are not of the best, speaking with much hesitancy said: "The Chair is very much disposed to hold the Senate and the House to their own doing—the joint resolution, which they passed, the purport of which is, if we understand it, that if the votes of the State of Georgia did not alter the result of the election they might be counted, and if they did alter the result, they were not to be counted."

This simple and sensible decision was received with uproarious laughter, but Butler wouldn't be squelched in that manner and again pressed his objections. At last the Senate retired once more and voted to count the vote of Georgia, 31 to 26. Senators Cragin and Patterson of New Hampshire voted yea and Senator Wade nay. The House voted not to count the vote of Georgia, 130 to 41—the New Hampshire delegation and all the other Republican members but two voting with the majority.

The House having learned of the decision of the Senate, prepared for a fight under the lead of Gen. Butler and when again in convention a disgraceful scene ensued, in which Ben. Butler undertook to bluff Ben. Wade and didn't succeed. Senator Wade ordered the vote of Georgia to be read and Butler objected and offered a resolution that the House was not to be overruled by the Senate in that way. Mr. Wade declined to receive the resolution and Butler appealed. Mr. Wade refused to consider the appeal. Butler got wrathy and laid up his sleeves as if preparing for an encounter. Mr. Wade declared that debate was not in order and the following colloquy ensued.

Mr. Butler [growing mere impetuous and less respectful]—I am not debating it, sir. No arbitrary proceedings will be suffered here.

Mr. Wade—If the gentleman is not debating, he will take his seat.

Mr. Butler—I am debating. I appeal from the decision of the chair.

Mr. Wade [curtly]—The appeal is not entertained.

Mr. Butler [in an appealing, though by no means tender mood]—I appeal from that decision.

Mr. Wade—The teller will declare the vote.

Mr. Ingersoll—An appeal has been taken.

Mr. Wade—An appeal cannot be taken.

Mr. Butler—Mr. President,——

Mr. Wade—The gentleman from Massachusetts will resume his seat. [Great confusion and excitement.]

Mr. Wade, persisting in never minding Mr. Butler, again called upon the tellers to perform their duties under the concurrent resolution.

Mr. Ingersoll—I object

Mr. Wade—I can't help that. [Shouts of laughter.]

Mr. Banks of Mass., making an attempt to throw oil on the troubled waters, asked leave to make a suggestion which he thought would relieve the convention from the difficulty in which it was placed.

Mr. Wade—Objection is made. No debate is in order. The vote will be counted according to the resolution.

Mr. Benton of N. H. [aside, but daringly]—You can't do it.

Mr. Wade—The tellers will proceed with the count.

Objections were vociferously made by several members in opposition.

Mr. Benton of N. H. [aside]—The Senate is a very august body, but it can't rule here.

Mr. Eldredge of Wis.—Would it be in order to let us have peace. [Loud laughter.]

Mr. Butler [who had not during all this turmoil taken his seat]—I again insist upon my appeal from the decision of the Chair.

Mr. Wade—The Chair has decided that an appeal cannot be entertained in this joint convention.

Mr. Butler—From that decision I take an appeal.

Mr. Wade—The Chair decides that in the same way. [Shouts of laughter.]

Mr. Butler—Let us have the House to ourselves. [Laughter and applause.] I respectfully move, sir, that the Senate have leave to retire. [Applause and manifestations of encouragement from the members surrounding Mr. Butler.]

In the midst of all this turmoil and excitement, Senator Conkling, one of the tellers, rose to announce the result of the vote. His first sentences were drowned in vociferous shouts of "no vote—no vote," from the anti-senatorial side of the House. The disorder was so great that at length. Speaker Colfax sprung to his feet and declared that if there was any further resistance on the part of the members of the House to the orders of the presiding officer, he would direct their instant arrest. Mr. Butler tossed up his head, and slowly settled into his seat, and the Sergeant-at-Arms walked over and stood by Mr. Ingersoll. Senator Conkling rose and began to read the result of the vote, and, although interrupted by considerable noise, made himself heard. Mr. Wade declared Ulysses S. Grant elected President and Schuyler Colfax Vice-President for the next four years. In a moment more the joint convention was dissolved and the senators were retiring from the chamber.

The vote as declared gives 214 for Grant and Colfax and 80 for Seymour and Blair.

After the Senate had retired Mr. Butler spoke for half an hour, sneering at Mr. Wade and the Senate, justifying his course and appealing to the bad passion of his associates. Speaker Colfax called Mr. Dawes to the chair and made a brief speech, calling the attention of the House to the two rules under which the joint convention had been acting, rebuking in warm but dignified words the disorderly proceedings, saying that Mr. Wade's course was in strict accordance with the rules passed for his guidance by the two houses, and that he could not possibly have entertained Mr. Butler's appeal.

The House then adjourned without taking action on a resolution offered by Mr. Butler declaring the ruling of Mr. Wade to be an act of tyranny and oppression.

In the Senate on Thursday, Mr. Davis offered a joint resolution that the noisy and disorderly conduct of Benjamin F. Butler, and other members of the House of Representatives, who took part in the disturbances above mentioned, is disreputable to Benjamin F. Butler and other Representatives acting with him, and a wrong and an insult to the people of the United States. The resolution went over under the rules.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Inclement Season,

And its effects on the Weak and Feeble.

The drafts which searching cold makes upon the vital powers of the debilitated and delicate are not less severe than the drain upon their strength caused by excessive heat. The vast disparity between the temperature of over-heated rooms and offices, at this season, and the frigidity of the outer air, is a fruitful source of sickness. To fortify the body against the evil consequences of the sudden alternations of heat and cold referred to, the vital organization should be strengthened and endowed with extra resistant power by the use of a wholesome invigorant: and, of all preparations for this purpose, (whether embraced in the regular pharmacopœia, or advertised in the public journals,) there is none that will compare in purity and excellence with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Acting directly upon the organ which converts the food into the fuel of life, the preparation imparts to it a tone and vigor which is communicated to every fibre of the frame. The digestive function being accelerated by its tonic operation, the liver regulated by its anti-bilious properties, and the waste matter of the system carried off punctually by its mild aperient action, the whole organization will necessarily be in the best possible condition to meet the shocks of winter and the sudden changes of temperature. The weak and sensitive, especially, cannot encounter these vicissitudes with safety, unless their tender systems are strengthened and braced by artificial means.

Every liquor sold as a staple of trade is adulterated, and, were it otherwise, mere alcohol is simply a temporary excitant, which, when its first effects have subsided, leaves the physical powers (and the mind) in a worse condition than before. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, on the other hand, contain the essential properties of the most valuable of those roots, barks and herbs, and their active principal is the mellowest, least exciting, and most innocuous of all diffusive stimulants.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the Jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who think only of what is for their immediate benefit, and in which there is well nigh no worse condition than such parties. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who think only of what is for their immediate benefit, and in which there is well nigh no worse condition than such parties. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch has become so great, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale on such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy just any old watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those who prefer to sell other watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and village of the country some one has purchased a Waltham watch. Let the party about to buy ask this owner of an American Watch this question: HOW DID YOUR WATCH PROVE YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, they will now only have to satisfy themselves that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell to all our producers, at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that to-day we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together. WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the refusal of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all those, and those only, which have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we have ever had, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country.—In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, and carry for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and as a, retail profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

Holloway's Pills.—A successful physician, being challenged by some medical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I know!" CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, rendering it a few days up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few hours he was doing gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby from off the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when she arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. 6m 23

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his universal success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, naturally throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, heetic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of themselves accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery never without them. He has enjoyed uninterrupted health for over 10 years, and now weighs 225 pounds. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Saturday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination in the parts concerned with his disease.—The remedy has also been recommended in Dyspepsia, Chronic Rheumatism, Cutaneous Affections and Dropsy.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

AN OLD ROAD.—As we have before chronicled, the Concord Railroad desire to purchase the old North End Ferry Landing, between the Railroad Wharf and the Stone Store, for the purpose of erecting a storehouse, laying another track to the wharf, and otherwise enlarging their freighting facilities.

The City will doubtless sell it to them, as soon as the necessary legal forms are gone through with. But it appears that a higher power than the City or Town laid out the same, with the land highway connecting; and therefore the consent of the County Commissioners, as messengers of the S. J. Court, is necessary to the legal closing of this old ferry.

As the connecting road (Russell Street) and Ferry, would encroach on the high seas, the premises par excellence of His Majesty George the Third, it was necessary that the petitioners for the same be heard before the King's Court, or the Court of Sessions, or General Sessions of the Peace, as it was called. Accordingly we find by the record, that on the second Tuesday of February 1775, "a piece or parcel of land 25 feet wide, beginning at the N. W. corner of Mr. Eleazer Russell's land by the street, and running N. W. 25 feet, and thence N. E. to the channel of the river, was laid out as a highway and ferryways, by a Committee duly appointed and established" by said Court. [From which it will be seen, the Committee on Streets had much of the public work to do then, as now.]

The names of the eleven Esquires, Justices, recorded as present at the Court, show how well the old family names hold by. The Hon'ble Josiah Bartlett, Ebenezer Stevens, William Weeks, Nathaniel Healey, John Dudley, Jethro Sanborn, Benjamin Adams, Zaccheus Clough, Nathaniel Batchelder, John Haven, John Bryant.

The deed for this land was not recorded nor the price for the same paid, to Daniel Rindge, until twelve years after—probably because the Continental money being worth little or nothing, he preferred to wait till after the peace. Then, in 1787, at a town meeting called for the purpose, it was voted that the Selectmen, (King George and his Courts being done,) pay Mr. Rindge 70 pounds lawful money for the land taken, and 30 pounds as a compensation for the use of said 70 to that time.

Thus after answering a purpose for a century, the Railroad will doubtless now put the premises to a better. We wonder what another cycle will show there?

☞ Two years ago, Mr. Elwin donated about five acres of eligible land, lying on South Road and the Mill pond, to the City of Portsmouth, for a public Park—giving it in charge of five Trustees, for this purpose. Ere this time, at least $5000 or $6000 should have been raised and expended on the premises, as a commencement—but not a move has yet been made. Raised, ah yes, says Mr. Slow, but how? Well, by subscription, at home and abroad, by a Fair perhaps, or something of the sort; and also by City appropriation.

Some may say, the lot is not large enough; true, but it is sufficient for a beginning, and will easily lead to getting more.

The old proposition for a Bridge across the North Pond, is being revived; and many think it should be built, if the abuttors will pay their due share toward it. And the South End will probably also ask a bridge over their Pond—and this should lead to the Park, from the Court House; and we know who will pay for half that expense, if the City will pay for the other.

Now, all agree,—all have agreed for years,—that it would be a fine thing to have a Park. But it will never make itself—somebody has got to take hold and do it. And if there is any better way than to ask the City to appropriate a certain sum, say $2000 to $5000, when a like amount shall be raised by private subscription—we should like to hear it.

☞ We learn that Messrs. Tilton & Somerby, of Newburyport, will open a Velocipede Riding School, in the spacious and well-adapted Mould Loft at the Raynes Ship-yard, (and not at Mr. Deering's Sail Loft,) in a few days. They use the two-wheeled craft, and charge a small admission fee, and so much an hour for riding.

☞ It will be seen that C. Chauncey Burr, Esq., who is noted as a public speaker, and has devoted much time and study to the subject he now presents,—is to deliver a Course of Lectures at Congress Hall, beginning next week, the 19th inst.

☞ The more haste the worse speed—but it is not so with Goodspeed's Pen.

City Council, Thursday Eve. Feb. 11.

In the Aldermen, the Com. on Police presented pipn and details of remodelling Lockup; estimated cost $1500. Ald. Pendexter offered a resolution, that said Com. be authorized to proceed with said repairs, by contract or otherwise. Ald. Cotton moved an amendment, to strike out the word otherwise; negatived, yeas and nays, 6 to 2, strict party vote. The resolution was then passed, to proceed with the repairs. Ald. Cotton and the Mayor, thought the concurrence of the Com. Council was advisable and necessary in the matter, and that a special appropriation should be made.

Com. on Fire Dept. reported in favor of repairs on floor of Engine House No. 2, and that Com. on City Lands and Buildings have power to act in the matter. Adopted.

Message received from Common Council, reporting the adoption of the same joint rules and regulations as last year. Concurred in by the Aldermen.

The Council also reported that they concurred with this Board, in discontinuing the Ferryway as a highway, and asking the S. J. Court to approve the same—also in the sale of said premises to the Concord Railroad.

A petition was received from Samuel Spinney and others, to widen Myrtle Street, running from Dennett Street to the Almshouse. Referred to Com. on Streets.

Morning Street, (running west from Creek St., above Fisher & Eldredge's brewery,) was reported by the Com. on Streets to be in good condition, and they recommended its acceptance as a highway. Voted to accept same, and that said Com. procure plan, &c.

An amendment to Ordinance No. 20, forbidding the carting of night soil in the day-time, was received from Com. Council and referred to Com. on Streets.

Two petitions numerously signed, one by Henry Alton, Wm. Cartlidge, and others,—the other by J. C. Carr, Ichabod Goodwin and others,—asking for a Bridge across the North Mill-pond from Cabot to Mystic Streets,—was received; and after some debate, referred to a special committee consisting of Ald. Miller, Pendexter, Nowell and Spinney, with the Mayor, to report in two weeks. Ald. Slater moved to report in one week, but it was negatived.

Ald. Cotton offered a resolution, that a similar committee be elected by the Board, to consider the building a Bridge across the South Pond—and Ald. Miller, Clark, Spinney, Nowell, and the Mayor, were elected.

Petition of the Sch. Com. Dist. No. 1, for improvements and additions to Franklin School, was referred to Com. on School Houses.

A resolution of Com. Council, to consider and report on the expediency of selling the brick School-house on State St., referred to Com. on City Lands and Buildings.

Various bills approved, including one from Reform School, $104, for board and instruction of various minors, at $1 per week.

The Com. on City Lands and Buildings were requested to report on the matter of compelling owners of buildings to prevent snow falling dangerously from the same, by erecting snow-breakers.

Also to report on the necessity of enlarged accomodations for Hose Carriage in Engine House No. 2.

The Common Council passed a resolution relative to the sale of the brick School House on State Street and the lot of land on Middle Street, near Cass.

An Ordinance was passed amending Ordinance No. 20; this amendment prohibits the hauling of night soil in the day-time.

The joint rules and regulations of last year were adopted, and a vote was passed in concurrence discontinuing the Highway known as North Ferry way.

PORTSMOUTH GAS COMPANY.—At the annual meeting held on the 9th inst., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

President, Ichabod Goodwin; Directors, Ichabod Goodwin, Christopher C. Jackson, John Trundy, Benjamin Cheever, Leonard Akerman; Treasurer, Dr. David Kimball; Agent, John Trundy. The Company is doing a prosperous business and a dividend of 7 per cent, payable in April, was declared.

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD
ARE NOW COMPLETED.
As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but
267 MILES REMAIN
To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.
Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accepted, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS
AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.
THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST
ARE
Payable in Gold.
Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.
SECURITY OF THE BONDS.
It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN
FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,
The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,065.97
" Freight	2,040,233.19
" Express	51,425.08
" Mails	136,255.59
" Miscellaneous	91,626.27
" Government troops	104,077.77
" " freight	449,440.33
" Contractors' men	201,179.09
" " material	908,430.32
Total	$5,056,651.61

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.
As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.
Subscriptions will be received in
PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,
—AND BY—

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.
A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.
☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.
☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.
☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Morning Chronicle.

Chronicle Correspondence.

BOSTON, Feb. 8.

In the American Traveller for Nov. 15, 1825, I find this extract from the Portsmouth Journal of three days' earlier date:

"Progress of Improvement.—Twenty-one years ago, the stage left this place for Boston at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and reached Boston the evening of the next day: on its return it left Boston at 7 o'clock in the morning, and arrived in Portsmouth early in the afternoon of the second day. The newspapers printed in this town in 1794-5 usually had a column with the following title: 'Latest News—from the Boston papers of the day before yesterday.' At present, the Boston papers of the morning are distributed in this town at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, and reach Portland, 60 miles beyond us, before night."

There are many who read your paper, who doubtless read the above in the very paper in which it originally appeared, and they have lived to see a steady improvement in the facilities for travel ever since. About fifteen years later the Eastern Railroad was opened to your city, and by the close of another year the iron horse snorted into Portland. The occupation of the old "whips," whose names have remained familiar to the boys even of this generation, was gone; the splendid four and six-in-hand teams no longer dashed around the corner of Congress street. But the loss was a gain:—the men who had so long breasted storm and sunshine, who had won the confidence of the public by courtesy and integrity, took their places of trust for the control and guidance of more fiery steeds, and otherwise administer to the wants of the increased travel. The number of these old-time servitors of the public has been sadly reduced within a few years, but still some of them remain—a connecting link between two generations—to witness the prosperity which judicious management has won for the "Sea Shore Line" in the last ten years.

Struggling with a heavy defalcation, at a time when such financial "irregularities" were not so common as at present; by strict attention to the wants of its patrons, by a liberal expenditure in the way of improvements, by a careful selection of its employees, and the sound financial policy of its board of management,—the Eastern Road has risen rapidly to the front rank of New England railroads. The three million passengers and quarter million tons of freight carried over its rails last year would have sadly taxed the means of conveyance thirty years since.

The statistics of its increase are fully ventilated in the Company's annual report, but as "excelsior" is its motto, one can hardly travel over the road without noticing some new improvement in progress. At the station in this city the enlargement of the ladies' room and the baggage room have been made imperative by increased business. The proposed purchase of the station of the Lowell railroad and of flats at East Cambridge will give the needed accommodation for the freight department.

At Caryville (in Chelsea) a new station has been established, and the improved buildings at nearly all the small stations on the route rather shame the dens that are offered as depots for passengers on some of the roads leading from the city.

The rolling stock of the road is not only in excellent condition, but is constantly receiving accessions of new cars, built at the company's shops in the very best manner. Two elegant cars for Conductor West's train are now in course of construction, under the supervision of Mr. John P. Somerby.

To mention the Eastern road without mention of its Superintendent, is akin to playing Hamlet with the part of Hamlet omitted. So closely has he identified himself with the interests of the road by his administrative capacity and untiring energy, that on occasions of the slightest accident or difficulty occurring, no matter when or where on the line, the regular travellers on the road look at once for the presence of Mr. Prescott, superintending the removal of obstructions and facilitating the passage of trains.

With its future I must not deal, but as at present conducted the road's prospects are of the brightest, and public feeling is ever kindly towards this road, which seems never to forget that its aim is to please as well as to serve that public.

Broadway no longer boasts its Loew bridge, but Tremont street has a low bridge in front of the Pavilion. Instead of obstructing travel while remodeling these stores, a bridge the width of the walk has been built, the centre high enough for a man to walk under, with an inclined plane at either side for the ascent and descent of pedestrians.

The letter carriers have appeared in their new regulation uniform, of gray trimmed with black—strikingly like many garments I have seen covering rebel soldiers.

The sleighing has been excellent in the suburbs for a day or two, and the Mill Dam and Brighton Road have been alive with teams.

The new Post Office on Devonshire street, (which is not the new Postoffice, but the new office of the Post newspaper—opposite where the new U. S. Post Office is to be,) is well advanced. It is a fine granite building, and shows that all newspaper enterprise is not without substantial reward.

The great National Peace Jubilee, the grandest musical festival ever projected, is beyond paradventure assured a success. It is meeting with almost universal sympathy and proffers of aid and patronage.

Two instances of great age attained by canary birds have recently come to my knowledge. On Friday last one died in Cambridge, known to have been eighteen years old. Showing the dead bird to one of our city editors, he informed me that on Thursday night last he lost by death a canary bird twenty-two years old. Comparing bulk with bulk, Methuselah's age was not so wonderful after all. M.

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such undeniable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. HURSELL'S

PURITY, FOR THE HAIR.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

PRICE 75 CENTS.

No article was ever placed before the public composed of such perfect ingredients for promoting the growth of the Hair, or for rendering it beautifully dark and glossy, causing it to curl, or remain in any desirable position. It prevents the hair having a harsh, wiry look. It prevents all irritated, itching scalp skin. It affords a beautifully rich lustre. Its effects will outlast any other.

STATE ASSAYER'S OFFICE, 20 State Street, Boston.

MESSRS. HURSELL, WOOD & CO.:

Gentlemen—I have analyzed Hursell's Purity for the Hair, and am familiar with the formula with which it is made. This preparation contains ingredients which give to it the desirable characters of a superior hair dressing. It is free from sulphur, lead, silver, acids or alkalies, and may be used with entire safety. Respectfully yours,

S. DANA HAYES,

ap11 eodly State Assayer for Massachusetts.

Prepared only by J. C. HURSELL & CO., No. 5 Chatham Row, Boston.

JOHN E. ROBERTS, Agent for Portsmouth.

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!

FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

THE TOILER'S FATE.

BY PHILIP O'REILL.

The wintry sleet was falling fast,
And o'er the cheerless sky
The cloudrifts, riding on the blast,
Did sweep both wild and high.

The "Burgher" stood within his door
And gazed out on the storm.
When, like a phantom, rose before,
A shivering human form.

His brow was furrowed o'er with care,
His cheeks were tanned and brown,
His hands were hard, his bosom bare,
—Why did the "Burgher" frown?

Incraved for work to earn his bread,
His eyes with famine glared.
The "Burgher" heard his tale of dread,
But little recked or cared.

The poor man tottered slowly past,
Hope from his bosom fled;
That night of hunger was his last,
The morrow found him dead.

From early life, his neighbors said,
He toiled from morn till night,
And yet he died for the want of bread,
Oh! God, can this be right?

O ye who roll in luxury,
Share with the poor man now,
For your wealth came by the penury
And the sweat of the toiler's brow.

Oh! Human Justice sure must be Cut name for vulgar cant,
When the idle feast in plenty,
While the toiler dies from want.

FARM TALK.—The farmers and others of Warner, were favored with an eloquent and attractive address on matters pertaining to agriculture by Dr. Geo. B. Loring of Salem, Mass. In a portion of his address he contrasted the down-trodden serfs and farm-laborers in many portions of Europe, with the independent free-hold tillers of the soil in America. In another portion of his address was devoted to the future prospects of American agriculture.

In the strongest terms he urged upon our farmers the importance of more extensively cultivating root crops, especially the Swedish turnip and the yellow mangel wurtzel—the former for all kinds of farm stock, the latter for milch cows. His forty milch cows are freely fed this winter on good hay and mangels; his horses, five in number, have no other feed except hay and turnips, doing much better on this keep than when freely fed on grain. The free use of roots to his farm stock makes growth, flesh, fat, milk, cream, butter, and also manure, hay, grain, roots, and increased fertility of soil, and a plethoric wallet.

He also strongly urged upon our farmers the importance of greatly increasing the culture of wheat. He thought there were but few farmers in this section that might not supply themselves with their wheaten bread, the product of their own farms.—Cor. Country Gentleman.

HIGH FARMING.—As a natural consequence of the more extended use of machinery in all branches of agriculture, will follow that more careful and thorough cultivation, which I have often urged as the only profitable farming known among us. Whatever farming in New England is to be done at all, it must be done well. A ton of hay to the acre, and thirty bushels of corn, and twenty bushels of rye, and fifteen bushels of wheat, and two or three hundred bushels of roots, are not the crops that can be called remunerative here.—It can not be profitable to feed a worthless animal six months in every year, out of the store of hay secured at the cost prevailing among us. These facts are not to be lost sight of.

And I am confident that what I say is true, when I assert that in these points a constant and steady improvement is going on. The number of well cultivated acres is increasing. In the cultivation of garden vegetables for market, in the production of grass and small fruits, and root crops, we are making constant progress. Farmers who, ten years ago, thought it impossible to raise a mangel or a Sweed, now follow successfully these roots. Where there was one herd of well-bred cattle there are now many. And I have witnessed with pride and satisfaction the devotion of practical farmers to the improvement of stock, and to the purchase of animals which, a few years ago, were looked upon as the special property of those who turned to farming more as an expensive pleasure than as a profitable occupation.—Dr. Geo. B. Loring.

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have; and when it comes, strange to tell, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become morally unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.

Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.

J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.
I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken of rest at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.
This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon got asleep and slept soundly—quickly revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal use. J. W. PECKETT.

The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

SATURDAY, FEB. 13, 1869.

THE CONGRESSIONAL RUMPUS.—Gen. B. F. Butler and his associates, by their absurd and ridiculous proceedings on Wednesday last, in the Representatives' Hall at Washington, while the two Houses of Congress were in joint convention for the purpose of counting and declaring the electoral vote for President and Vice-President, not only disgraced themselves by their outrageous conduct, but debased the offices they hold and rendered what should have been a dignified and important occasion a mere farce, painful to all decent men who, looking above passion and prejudice, have the nation's honor, and the respect of those they represent, at heart. Bluff old Ben Wade, the presiding officer in joint convention, has never been accused of disloyalty or conservatism, and sturdily maintained the position in which he was so well fortified, in spite of the repeated attempts at bluff and bullying which Butler made.

We are of the opinion that the vote of Georgia should not have been counted, but both Houses had passed the joint resolution under which Acting Vice President Wade made his decisions, and it is clear that one House could not repeal it. Mr. Wade voted in the Senate not to count the vote of Georgia, but the majority was against him and he was bound by the law to forget his personal feelings, as he did, and not involve the convention in inextricable confusion by doing otherwise. His conduct in this regard was in marked contrast to that of Butler, who descended to abusive and ungentlemanly language, which met with fitting rebuke at the hands of Speaker Colfax. No purer public man, and no one who commands more respect throughout the country, exists to-day than Schuyler Colfax, and his good-tempered and dignified reply to Gen. Butler after the convention rose, did him honor. His words are worth quoting, as coming from one of the best parliamentarians in the country, and we want no better authority.

"I have never heard before that one house can abrogate a joint rule agreed to by both houses. It is impossible in a joint convention that there should be an appeal. There has been much feeling manifested here because an appeal was not entertained by the presiding officer of both bodies; there cannot be and never has been an appeal in a joint convention of the two houses. There is a right reserved in the twenty-second rule, that if the vote of any State be objected to, the houses shall repair to their respective chambers and decide upon the question; but the two houses subsequently, by a deliberate vote, took the case of Georgia out of the operation of that joint rule, and laid down a specific rule for Georgia, and the vote of that state was reserved until the last, so that the concurrent resolution could be carried into effect by the presiding officer. I repeat there can be no appeal from points of order in a joint convention, because the Senate represents the States, and the House the people. The two bodies are made up differently, and, therefore, no appeals in joint convention have ever been recognized."

We apprehend that the secret of Gen. Butler's course lies in the old struggle for the leadership in Congress, which has been a source of contention ever since he has been a member of that body. We have been defenders and admirers of Gen. Butler's pluck and loyalty, and know that in executive ability he has few superiors among our public men, but in our praise of his virtues we do not blindly uphold his many faults. The country owes him much for the past, and his record during the rebellion may outlive his present doings and protect him from general censure. Yet his conduct on Wednesday is conclusive evidence that as a leader he is not always to be followed. If the issues of the past are dead and the Republican party of the future holds different opinions from those Gen. Butler chooses to adopt, and above all if he usurps the position of leader by adopting all favorable opportunities to attain that position by debasing appeals to the passions of men, regardless of law or order, we think that the sooner he returns to the Democratic camp, where such conduct is better appreciated, the better it will be for the Republican party and the country at large. The party which carried the country so successfully through an internecine war, with one of the best of causes that any nation ever had to incite it to self preservation, can ill afford to follow even one of the most noted and able leaders in any scheme which has for its aim any thing short of honor, justice, law, order and self-respect.

—The Supreme Court has made a decision in the New York bank case.—Opinions were read by Chief Justice Chase to the effect that certificates of indebtedness and U. S. notes or greenbacks were exempt from State taxation.

The News.

The Maine lumbermen, who have been complaining of the scarcity of snow, are now complaining that they have too much of it for practical purposes.

John C. Breckinridge, the traitor, is in Baltimore.

Two female suffrage conventions are in session at Chicago.

The New Orleans and Ohio Railroad, extending from Paducah, Ky., to the Tennessee line, a distance of fifty miles, with its property, stock and fixtures, was sold on Monday under a judgment recovered by the United States, to Mr. E. Norton, of the firm of Norton, Slaughter & Co., of New York, for $300,000.

Congress.

The Senate did but little business of interest on Thursday. Mr. Cragin of N. H. called up the bill for the relief of Henry C. Noyes of Claremont, New Hampshire, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue to him a new one thousand dollar bond in place of the one destroyed. After debate the bill was passed.

The House debated Gen. Butler's question of privilege and got excited again. The Boston Advertiser's special of Thursday night says:

Mr Schenck acted as one of Mr. Butler's private advisers, and the speech he made today was strong in support of the rioters, and bitter against Mr. Wade, Speaker Colfax and the Senate. Mr. Ingersoll of Illinois, who was virtually put in charge of the Sergeant-at-Arms yesterday, was one of Mr. Butler's adjutants to-day, as were also Mr. Shanks of Indiana and Mr. Benton of New Hampshire. The House throughout was in a state of confusion and excitement, and when Mr. Garfield moved to table Mr. Butler's resolution there was a renewal for a few minutes on a small scale of yesterday's turbulence, quieted by Mr. Garfield's withdrawal of his motion. The first part of Mr. Butler's speech was in his best vein, bristling with witty and sudden thrusts at Messrs. Bingham, Shellabarger, and Garfield, but he grew tedious in the latter part of his remarks, and lost the attention of the House. Mr. Bingham was oratorical and declamatory as usual, and there was a roar of laughter when Mr. Butler, quoting Thad. Stevens, said he "liked that speech the first time he heard it, and still thought it rather good."

Speaker Colfax surrendered the chair to Mr. Dawes before the debate began, and occupied a seat on the floor all day, quoting the rules of the House with telling effect, when Mr. Schenck censured him for threatening yesterday to have the members arrested.

In the House on Thursday, a bill was passed giving $190,000 to Commodore Winslow and the officers and crew of the Kearsage as prize-money—the valuation of the pirate Alabama.

THE MANCHESTER SOLDIERS' FAIR, opened on Wednesday night, and was, in full attendance and otherwise, very successful. But the festivities were dampened by an accident which occurred at the "Cave of the Fates," a grotto in one corner of the gallery, where fortunes were told. This was a splendid feature of the Fair, and the ladies who had it in charge were dressed in character—but unfortunately the flowing tresses of false hair, (made of tow,) caught fire from some of the many Chinese lanterns which hung around the cave, and Miss Custer and Miss Straw were badly burned about the head and face before the wigs and masks could be removed. The flags, lanterns and fixtures about the cave were consumed, but the ladies as well as some gentlemen who assisted in extinguishing the fire, though badly burned, are all doing well.

— It is estimated that there are nearly thirty thousand young men in Boston under marriage engagements, waiting for better times.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

VESPERS.—The Vesper service at the Unitarian Church is still continued every Sunday evening, with a lecture from the Pastor, Rev. James DeNormandie. The service is conducted with a peculiar appropriateness and fitness for the occasion It evident that the discourses are result of many study hours, and they are made the more acceptable from the Pastor's allusions to his own observations of the scenes in foreign lands, of many an incident. The Christmas decorations will soon be removed. Though they have lost some of their freshness, their effect in the evening is very fine. The church is favored with an excellent quartet choir.

THE UNION PRAYER MEETINGS have been continued at the churches and chapels of the Congregationalist, Baptist, Methodist, Christian and Freewill Baptist Societies in this city since the first week in January, three or four evenings every week. The interest has continued throughout, and the attendance good—sometimes very full. Nothing like excitement prevails. Judge Chamberlain and Rev. Mr. Langworthy of Boston have been present. Considerable feeling has been manifested in some of the churches, and it is hoped that good results will grow from the efforts now being made. There have been several conversions.

IMPROVED LANDS.—How much would the land granted to the Union Pacific Railroad have been worth if that road had not been built? Wouldn't any private individual be willing to give away half of his unproductive property, to have the remaining half brought into market and quadrupled in value?—Boston Transcript.

BEES, to be prosperous in the spring, should be well wintered. Every person owning bees should be well acquainted with the condition of every stand every month in the year. If you have not done so before now, turn up every stand and ascertain its condition. A little attention may save much, and make your bees prosperous in the spring.—Bee-Keepers Journal.

MISS JUDITH RUSSEL, of New Bedford writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the PLANTATION BITTERS. 15

Communication.

Again are we called to announce the death of one of our most amiable young ladies, who had won for herself the esteem and affection of a large circle of relatives and friends. So sudden! a gloom has been cast over the entire community. But two days since her merry laugh might have greeted the ears of her welcome visitors; to-day all is hushed in death. Husbands, parents and friends, she sleeps! but methinks I hear angel voices shouting.

"We are waiting, waiting for thee,
Welcome, welcome, to this blest abode."

May the Lord bless the afflicted family.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Inclement Season,

And its effects on the Weak and Feeble.

The drafts which searching cold makes upon the vital powers of the debilitated and delicate are not less severe than the drain upon their strength caused by excessive heat. The vast disparity between the temperature of over-heated rooms and offices, at this season, and the frigidity of the outer air, is a fruitful source of sickness. To fortify the body against the evil consequences of the sudden alternations of heat and cold referred to, the vital organization should be strengthened and endowed with extra resistant power by the use of a tonic and some invigorant: and, of all preparations for this purpose, (whether embraced in the regular pharmacopœia, or advertised in the public journals) there is none that will compare in purity and excellence with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Acting directly upon the organ which converts the food into the fuel of life, the preparation imparts to it a tone and vigor which is communicated to every fibre of the frame. The digestive function being accelerated by its tonic operation, the liver regulated by its anti-bilious properties, and the vascular power of the system carried off punctually by its mild aperient action, the whole organization will necessarily be in the best condition to withstand the shocks of winter and the sudden change of temperature. Thus hale and sensitive, especially, cannot encounter these inclemencies with safety, unless their tender systems are strengthened and braced by artificial means.

Every liquor sold as a staple of trade is adulterated, and, were it otherwise, more alcohol is simply a temporary excitant, which, when its first effects have subsided, leaves the physical powers (and the mind as well) in a worse condition than before. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, on the other hand, contain the essential properties of the most valuable tonic, alterative, diaphoretic, and carminative herbs, and their active principal is the mellowest, least exciting, and most incuous of all diffusive stimulants.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. It is to this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the customer finally to conclude that such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of such dealers as to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and village in the country, some wearer of a Waltham Watch may be found. Let the party inquire for himself this owner of an American Watch this question: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise the inquiring to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has only to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the cheaper will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell our products at the lowest possible rate in order to obtain large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that today we manufacture twice as many watches as all other American factories in the United States put together. WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL, AND YET MAKE MORE MONEY, CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VALUE. The SCIENCE OF LIFE, the usual of nearly all inventions intended to improve lime-pieces, and have adopted all those and those only which have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we have ever had, whose services have contributed to improve our product, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country.—In addition to the above we have gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those made by other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a retail profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try it again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some pain for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget leaped from her bed, and ran for water:—Aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light that burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over, the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digested and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is in very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and as it is alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, or hectic fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some one or more of its cavities, tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesions. The lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wrong, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood, and as the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient begins to get well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonic Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the above three medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives his whole time for the purpose of examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

SENATORIAL CONTEST.—The Concord Statesman, in a review of the contest in Senatorial districts, says of that in this vicinity:

"District No. 1 is close, the Republican majority at last March Election being only 75. The district was carried only by the exercise of the utmost energy—the contest being between Hon. E. A. Stevens and Hon. Frank Jones, Mayor of Portsmouth; and the conflict of 1868 is apparently to be repeated in 1869.

The candidates are both young and ambitious men; the Republicans offering Hon. John H. Bailey, a popular man, who successfully filled the office of Mayor of Portsmouth for two years, and the Democrats continuing in the field their candidate of last year, Mr. Jones. The voters of the First Senatorial District will be at the polls on the 9th of March, if zeal and labor can accomplish that work."

Our Republican friends in Concord need not fear the result in this Senatorial district. The nomination of Mr. Bailey is a strong one, and his acceptance means work, persistent and untiring. The canvass here is nearly finished, and the Republicans know where they stand. It is hardly thought necessary to bring home absent voters to elect Ex-Mayor Bailey; but should it be done, his majority will be counted by hundreds. Portsmouth Republicans want just one more chance at Hon. Frank Jones.

☞ O yes, it is all very well to talk of your Park, Bridges, Sidewalks, and what not—but where is all the money to come from, say the tax-payers. Well, get it where other towns and cities get it for such purposes—and it we can't or won't do it, don't let us brag any longer of our beautiful city, &c. All such enterprises must necessarily develope resources, increase taxable property, and thus help defray their cost.

But how would it do to sell a part or all of the City Farm, and apply the $20,000 or $40,000 thus raised, to better City purposes? A cheaper farm, farther from the town would do as well; and the land would sell for houselots, and the buildings be eligible for a manufactory of some sort. Why not make a new City Farm on some of the land opened by the new road to Newington, and thus get back the heavy outlay there?

"THE PILGRIMS."—The advertisement announces the speedy opening in this city of an entertainment of a character which cannot fail to create the most profound interest, and desire on the part of all to witness it.

An exchange says; in many of these magnificent paintings to the lovers of art will find food for study and admiration. Men of mature years and of most highly cultivated intellect may here draw lessons of infinite moment, and persons of advanced piety will find their devotional feelings enkindled and elevated.

These paintings are within the understanding of children, and as the eye opens a direct avenue to the heart and the memory, they must make upon them deep and permanent moral impressions. We hope that all our Sabbath Schools, and, indeed, all other schools, public and private, will be enabled to witness this great moral entertainment. Believing that the eager desire for amusement will thus be turned into an elevating and rational channel, we commend "The Pilgrim" to the liberal patronage of an intelligent public.

☞ Rev. R. P. Ambler has resigned the care of the Universalist society in this city, to take effect the first of April. The resignation was accepted by the parish, which at the same time adopted the following:

"Resolved, That we take this occasion to tender Bro. Ambler our high regard, respect, and esteem for him as a Christian friend and minister, and offer our best wishes for his usefulness, prosperity, and happiness, wherever he may labor in the ministry of the Gospel."

☞ It is a little singular that two orators as famous, and two politicians as ardently opposite, as Wendell Phillips and C. C. Burr,—should be announced to speak in this city at the same Hall, within two days of each other. But this time, so they say, neither of them will put on the political gloves, or assume the position of National gladiator.

☞ The Trustees, to whom Mr. Elwyn deeded the land donated for the South Park, are Messrs. Albert L. Jones, Alfred M. Hoyt, Henry M. Clark, T. Salter Tredick, and Frank W. Miller. Either of them will be pleased to receive any suggestions, and especially contributions, for the object.

☞ The absurd stories respecting the recent discovery of a Portsmouth shipmaster and crew lost years ago,—appear to be the baseless coinage of some idle loafer.

☞ Our advertisers will find their favors earlier attended to if they will send in their advertisements during the day."

Pakcha Specialteth Not.

Messrs. Editors:—Some of your readers may be inclined to speculate; if so, here's a chance for them to go in and—win—if they can. I've no business talent, so I sha'n't go in for it myself.

A short time ago a gentleman signing himself "Elisha A. Saunders, No. 48 Main Street, Jefferson, New York," sent me, unsolicited, "one ticket and scheme for the next drawing of the Delaware State Lottery," representing himself as State Agent to sell tickets for the same. Being possessed of some glimmerings of common sense, of course I took no notice of his favors; but his anxiety to serve me was so great that he soon after sent me a lithographed letter, (grammar awful, to make it seem like a written one,—no date, and postmarked Boston,) as follows:

My Dear Sir:—The ticket I sent you has drawn a prize of $400. Now I have a plan by which you can obtain this money, and if you will agree to give me one half of it I will assist you. To make it appear to the managers that you paid for this ticket before the drawing, you must immediately write me a letter, dated yesterday, and enclose a $10 bill. * * * I shall get the letter and send it unopened to the managers, with a note stating that "This letter being misdirected had but just arrived." They do not know that your ticket drew a prize, and will take the Ten Dolls. and send you a receipt.—Do not register your letter—that would show the date. I can alter the postmark, dating it yesterday. * * *

(Signed) ELISHA A. SAUNDERS.

P. S. Consider this letter strictly confidential.

Isn't that rich? Don't you think I'm generous, to be willing to give up such a chance to make money? Perhaps you will exercise the editorial right of crossing out the gentleman's name, but I hope not, for a person who is capable of concocting such a wonderfully transparent piece of rascality deserves immortality—the sooner the better.

I don't write this to save any one from being swindled, for one single atom of either honesty or common sense is a safeguard to its possessor against any such design; and I don't think we've any fools or dishonest men in this town—if we have, let 'em lose their $10, and welcome. Neither do I write because I am indignant at the attempt to swindle me. On the contrary, I'm rather amused. If Mr. Saunders only knew what hard work I often have to get money out of my pocket-book, he'd know 'twas of no use for him to fish for $10 therein, with a "grand scheme" for bait. Nor am I annoyed at his very low estimate of my morality, —a scoundrel himself, 'tis but natural for him to consider others so, likewise. Even the gentleman's atrocious grammar is not past forgiveness, considering the laudable purpose for which it was assumed. I know a number of estimable men and good citizens who use bad grammar—do it myself, sometimes.—None of these provocatives could have made me burn the midnight oil (kerosene—best kind) to tell the truth about him in this manner.

But what has proved too much for my peace of mind is this: that a man, after telling me in plain terms that he is a liar and a swindler, and that he is desirous of becoming a thief and helping me to become one, too, should tell me that he considers me idiot enough to trust him with $10! That's rather too much. I have to work to get $10; and Mr. Saunders will have to work harder still to get it away from me; he won't manage it with the Delaware State Lottery—not this time. PAKEHA.

☞ Mr. Harvey in his advertisement, gives his patrons and the public, a list of the various Insurance Companies for which he is fully authorized to act, their gross reported assets amounting to the enormous sum of twenty-two millions of dollars. Among the rest, are the English "Imperial," and the California "Pacific," with very heavy gold capitals. Concerning the foreign Company, we give an extract of a letter from one of the oldest and most substantial firms in New York, to a merchant in Portsmouth, under date of Jan. 28th.

"The Imperial Fire Insurance Company of London, is one of the strongest concerns in the world. Its Capital and Surplus are over two millions sterling (say ten millions of dollars), in gold; and you may with perfect safety insure all your property in this one Company. I have a line of about $75,000 gold, and I would gladly make it ten times as large. It is as strong as 75 of the ordinary companies in this State rolled into one.

CONDUCTOR PHILBROOK of the Eastern Railroad has become a veteran in the service. On Tuesday last occurred the eighteenth anniversary of his commencing railroad life. The many passengers who have traveled frequently with him, will regret to learn that his health is such that he may soon be obliged to leave his position as conductor. He has however so far recovered from recent illness as to be able to make his daily trips for the present.

WENDELL PHILLIPS' LECTURE.—We learn with pleasure that tickets are being rapidly sold for the lecture at Congress Hall next Wednesday evening by this eloquent agitator. However people may regard the views advanced by Mr. Phillips—and few are radical enough to give assent to all his declarations—none can fail to be charmed with his eloquence, and every friend of free speech listens with pleasure to his musical utterances, no matter how heterodox they may regard them.

Tickets to Mr. Phillips's lecture (35 cents) may be obtained of Messrs. Foster, Preston, Thacher and Joy. The lecture commences at quarter before eight o'clock.

1000 MILES

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

ARE NOW COMPLETED.

As 500 miles of the western portion of the line, beginning at Sacramento, are also done, but

267 MILES REMAIN

To be Finished, to Open the Grand Through Line to the Pacific. This Opening will certainly take place early this season.

Besides a donation from the Govt. of 12,800 acres of land per mile, the Company is entitled to a subsidy in U. S. Bonds on its line as completed and accep'ed, at the average rate of about $26,500 per mile, according to the difficulties encountered, for which the Government takes a second lien as security. Whether subsidies are given to any other companies or not, the Government will comply with all its contracts with the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Nearly the whole amount of bonds to which the Company will be entitled have already been delivered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR.

By its charter, the Company is permitted to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS to the same amount as the Government Bonds, and no more. These Bonds are a First Mortgage upon the whole road and all its equipments.

THEY HAVE THIRTY YEARS TO RUN, AT SIX PER CENT., and both

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST ARE

Payable in Gold.

Such securities are generally valuable in proportion to the length of time they have to run.—The longest six per cent. gold interest bonds of the U. S. (the '81's) will be due in 12 years, and they are worth 112. If they had 30 years to run, they would stand at not less than 125. A perfectly safe First Mortgage Bond like the Union Pacific should approach this rate. The demand for European investment is already considerable, and on the completion of the work will doubtless carry the price to a large premium.

SECURITY OF THE BONDS.

It needs no argument to show that a First Mortgage of $26,500 per mile upon what for a long time must be the only railroad connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States is PERFECTLY SECURE. The entire amount of the mortgage will be about $30,000,000, and the interest $1,800,000 per annum in gold. The present currency cost of this interest is less than $2,500,000 per annum, while the gross earnings for the year 1868, FROM WAY BUSINESS only, on AN AVERAGE OF LESS THAN 700 MILES OF ROAD IN OPERATION, WERE MORE THAN

FIVE MILLION DOLLARS,

The details of which are as follows:

From Passengers	$1,024,005.97
" Freight	2,040,233.19
" Express	51,433.06
" Mails	136,235.59
" Miscellaneous	91,626 27
" Government troops	104,077.77
" " freight	449,410 33
" Contractors' men	201,179 09
" " material	908,430.32
Total	$5,066,651.64

This large amount is only an indication of the immense traffic that must go over the through line in a few months, when the great tide of Pacific coast travel and trade will begin. It is estimated that this business must make the earnings of the road from FIFTEEN TO TWENTY MILLIONS A YEAR.

As the supply of these Bonds will soon cease, parties who desire to invest in them will find it for their interest to do so at once. The price for the present is par and accrued interest from Jan. 1, in currency.

Subscriptions will be received in PORTSMOUTH, BY THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

And in NEW YORK at the COMPANY'S OFFICE, No. 20 Nassau Street,

—AND BY—

JOHN J. CISCO & SON, BANKERS, No. 59 Wall Street,

And by the Company's Advertised Agents throughout the United States.

Bonds sents free, but parties subscribing thro' local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A NEW PAMPHLET AND MAP WAS ISSUED Oct. 1st, containing a report of the progress of the work to that date, and a more complete statement in relation to the value of the bonds than can be given in an advertisement, which will be sent free on application at the Company's Offices or to any of the advertised agents.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of disease it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no mineral nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Morning Chronicle.

Daniel Philbrick of Hampton

From the Suncook Valley Times.

The summer of 1777, in northern New England, was a time of great consternation and alarm. Especially was this so in New Hampshire and Vermont.

Our Northern Army had retreated from Ticonderoga, and Gen. Burgoyne at the head of the British army was marching down the Valley of the Hudson River, threatening to ravage and lay waste Vermont, New Hampshire, and other portions of northern New England. In addition to the Continental soldiers who had already gone, or were about going to join our Northern army, the convention of our State, which had just assembled at Exeter, resolved to raise two Regiments of three months men to march northward and join Gen. Gates to stop the progress of Gen. Burgoyne.

One of these Regiments was put under the command of Col. Drake of North Hampton; and, under him, was Maj. Mark Wiggin of Stratham, of this Regiment. Among others who enlisted under Col. Drake was Daniel Philbrick of Hampton; a somewhat tall, lank and very muscular young man, about twenty four years old.

His mother filled his pack with many good things, such as food and clothing; so that it weighed about as much as three pecks of corn. Philbrick, having slung his pack on his back, and taken his trusty fowling-piece, and other equipments, bade farewell to home and friends, and, with the other comrades of his company started on his way toward the northern army, a distance of more than three hundred miles.

The company passed through Amesbury, Billerica, Worcester, and then in a direction to cross the Green Mountains at a place called East Hoosac. They reached Bennington a few days after the battle, in which Gen. Stark and his brave men completely routed the Hessians under Col. Baum.

After halting a while to rest at Bennington, Philbrick with his companions in arms, marched on to the main army at Saratoga. Arriving about sunset near Gates' camp, they being weary with the day's march, halted at the door of a tavern, hoping to obtain lodgings for the night. Soon there came out of the house a stout, thick-set young man by the name of Mixter. He had just enlisted in the Continental service under a Capt. Scott, then in the tavern.

Having been treated rather freely this young man looked upon the Company to which Philbrick belonged, and seeing several soldiers who were quite young, (among them were Enoch Blake, Henry Blake and Benjamin Swett of Hampton Falls; none of them were quite eighteen) he called them a pack of babies, told them to go home and see their mothers, and used other insulting language; saying he could whip them all and that he would do it. With that he put down his hands, and coming up to one of these young soldiers cart-wheel fashion, he came near knocking him down.

Upon this, Philbrick standing there, leaning on his gun to rest himself, told Mixter to try him and let those youngsters alone. Mixter replied that he could whip him and he would do it.—Philbrick replied, "try it, my lad."—With that he came at Philbrick in the form of a cart wheel again, when Philbrick, still holding his gun in his left hand and with his heavy pack yet on his back, seized Mixter by the collar with his right hand, and with his knee behind his haunches, he hurled him headlong down a steep bank, some ten feet high, into a muddy creek; at the same time saying, "How do you like, that my lad?"

As soon as he had picked the mud out of his mouth and eyes, he was in the greatest possible rage and declared with an oath that he would get his gun and shoot them all; but some of our officers followed him into the house and told Capt. Scott not to let him come out lest he might lose his life.

Capt. Scott and some of his men had to hold Mixter most of the night in another room, and while our men slept on the floor in the bar room, they could hear Mixter begging to go out and shoot those fellows that threw him into the mud.

The great battle at Saratoga was on the seventh of October, 1777. The firing from the advanced guards of the American and British Armies began in the morning, but did not become general till the middle of the afternoon; when the roar of cannon and discharge of small arms produced a continuous sound like heavy thunder. Regiment after regiment, and Brigade after Brigade, were called and marched to the scene of conflict, as the battle increased.

A part of Drake's regiment had drawn ammunition; and all were expecting soon to engage in the deadly strife, when orders came that Drake's regiment was to line the breastworks and assist in handling the cannon in case of a retreat of Gates' army. At this order some of Drake's regiment were indignant, for they were eager for a fight. None were more disappointed and enraged than Daniel Philbrick.

In theafternoon, the booming of artillery and the roar of musketry became terrible; this nerved up Philbrick almost to madness, (and he was like a tiger pent up in a cage for the first time.) He was one of Drake's regiment who had drawn ammunition and declared he would go into battle and kill some of the Red Coats. Coming to the gate of the breastwork, he found Maj. Wiggin guarding the pass with his drawn sword.

He said to him, "Philbrick, where are you going?" "Into battle," he replied. "You belong to Drake's regiment, and you are to stay here to defend the breastworks." "I shall go into battle," answered Philbrick. Said Wiggin, "If you offer to past this gate, I will run you through with my sword." Philbrick finding Wiggin stern in his purpose, seemed to give up his determination to go to the battle and drew off Wiggin's mind from the subject by changing the conversation.

Wiggin having grown a little careless, and having turned partly around to notice something in the opposite direction, Philbrick shot by him like an arrow, saying, "catch me if you can." Soon after leaving Wiggin, a voice seemed to say to him, very distinctly, "Philbrick, will you go into battle, be killed, and go to hell?" He answered the voice in words, "I'll risk it," and then ran on again with all his might.

This voice was repeated once or twice more, before he reached the battle field, and he answered it in the same way. When he came up to the left wing of our army, he found a pack of cowards. All was in disorder; some were stripping the dead and wounded, others were firing, and the ranks were in such disorder, they killed as many of our own men as they did of the enemy.

Philbrick would not stop here, but ran to the front of the right wing of our army. There were brave fellows, and it was in a blaze. The smoke was so thick he could not see the enemy, and he would not fire till he could see the red coats. He now ran out in front, between two fires till he could see the British lines. Now he thought it was time to fire. He took as deliberate aim at a British soldier each time, as he ever did in shooting ducks in Hampton River, or sea-fowl at Boar's Head.

Having discharged his gun seventeen times, and the bullets flying as thick as hail, both ways, he thought this was rather too hot a place to continue longer, and fell back to the front rank, where he fought bravely till half an hour after sunset, when the enemy retreated from the field. When he came into camp, he found he had lost his hat, and his clothes were peirced with bullet holes; but strange to tell, he was unhurt. In the general rejoicing of our army over the victory, he was pardoned for his disobedience to orders in running into the battle.

After the war, Philbrick settled in Epsom. Having bought one of the best farms in town, he became a neat, industrious farmer. He also became a soldier of the cross. He was an earnest christian. The writer of this sketch when a little lad, well remembered him rising up in the old Catamount meeting house, with his large blue eyes, and checkered blue and white homespun pocket handkerchief tied upon his bald head, and delivering his earnest and weighty exhortations.

He died several years since at a good old age. Several of his great-grandsons (sons of John Tilton of Pittsfield) were in the war of the late Rebellion.

"Prophet Daniel," as he was often called, used to be a zealous exhorter in the old Catamount meeting house, before it was the custom to warm the house.

When a stove was introduced, he was strongly opposed to the "new fangled notion," and even refused to enter the house till the "Dagon" was removed, claiming that the fire of God's love was sufficient to keep every one warm.

The company in which he enlisted for three months, was composed of seventy seven men, mostly of the Suncook Valley, they were commanded by Capt. Nathan Sanborn of Epsom, who afterwards moved to Deerfield. His wife was a Simpson from that town. Capt. Sanborn was born in Hampton.

PERFECTED SPECTACLES

and Rye Glasses.

The large and increasing sales of these SUPERIOR GLASSES

Is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality.

With a full knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

A GOOD STORY.—Well, I was a boy of thirteen, at church with my father; and opposite to us in the gallery, was a lad of about the same age as I was, in a pew with his family.

The sermon was of the order called drowsy, and we were well into the third head of the discourse, and I was trying to get a glance at the MS. in order to see whether we had got through more than half the number of pages, which I am sorry to say was a favorite device of mine, when my attention was arrested by a noise in the pew opposite. Up started the lad I have told you of (we will call him Tom Brown, remembering Tom Hughes's story;) in the most decisive manner he brushed by his family, banged the pew door, and marched away, making a considerable disturbance.

Immediately after church, my father, one of the most amiable of men, said to me, "Johnny, we must go and call at the Brown's directly. Tommy is either very ill, or there is something extraordinary the matter with the boy." Accordingly we went to pay a visit to the Brown's and there we found what really had happened. My little friend Tom Brown had been chaffering the whole week with a gypsy boy from the neighboring common, about the purchase of a donkey. Late on Saturday evening the negotiation stood thus—Tom had offered £1 15s: The gypsy boy stood out for £1 17s 6d.

During the first and second heads of the sermon the wicked Tommy had been thinking over all the good points of the donkey; and in the course of the third head had come to the conclusion that he would give £1 17s 6d. And, being a boy of a most decisive turn of mind, he resolved at once to complete the bargain.

That boy was the only person I ever saw go bodily out of church, banging the pew door, and stamping out as if he thought the whole congregation, if they knew what was in his mind would entirely approve of what he was doing. You know if one has ever so good a reason for going out of church, one generally sneaks out as if one were doing the most wicked thing possible.

Now the recollection of that transaction has stood me in good stead ever since. When I have been arguing before the House of Lords, or the Privy Council, and have noticed that the attention of one of the Lords is wandering a little, I say to myself, he is thinking whether he will give £1 17s 6d for the donkey, so I must quit this branch of the subject, and rouse him up with a fresh argument.

How invaluable this story would be to Members of Parliament! When a man, in a long and tiresome speech that he is laboring through, sees that the attention of the House is wandering, he should immediately realize the fact that it is thinking whether it will give its £1 17s 6d for the donkey, and he should at once conclude by firing off his peroration long ago prepared.

It is the most foolish thing in the world to go on, even with good argumentation, when you see that your audience is tired. I should like it to be told of me that my auditors had always said, "I wish Ellesmere would have given us a longer speech; but he is always so succinct and curt." What an example the late Sir William Follett was to all of us! There was a man. People did not presume to cough, while he was speaking. It was really one of the highest intellectual pleasures to hear that man deal with a difficult case, or a great subject.

And how appreciative even the most uncultivated intellects are of such closeness of reasoning! I knew a common soldier who always went to hear the late Archbishop of Dublin preach, because, to use an expression which delighted me, "it was so well argued and put." By the way, what a good essay that is of that man of many initials, A. K. H. B., on the "Art of Putting Things."—From Help's "Realmah."

WINTER RULES.—Never go to bed with cold or damp feet. In going into a colder air, keep the mouth resolutely closed; this by compelling the air to pass circuitously through the nose and head, it may become warmed before it reaches the lungs, and thus prevent those shocks and sudden chills which frequently end in pleurisy, pneumonia, and other serious forms of diseases. Never sleep with the head in the draft of an open door or window. Let more covering be on the lower limbs than on the body. Have an extra covering within easy reach in case of a sudden and great change of weather during the night. Never stand still a moment out of doors, especially at street corners, after having walked even a short distance. Never ride near an open window of a vehicle for a single half minute, especially if it has been preceded by a walk; valuable lives have also thus been lost, or good health permanently destroyed. Never put on a new boot or shoe in the beginning of a along walk.

THE MILLER'S DAUGHTER.

BY ALFRED TENNYSON.

It is the miller's daughter,
And she is grown so dear, so dear,
That I would be the jewel
That trembles at her ear:
For, hid in ringlets day and night,
I'd touch her neck so warm and white.

And I would be the girdle
About her dainty, dainty waist,
And her heart would beat against me
In sorrow and in rest:
And I should know if it beat right,
I'd clasp it round so close and tight.

And I would be the necklace,
And all day long to fall and rise
Upon her balmy bosom,
With her laughter or her sighs,
And I would lie so light,
I scarce should be unclasped at night.

—The Philadelphia Press says that no less than six fires were set in that city on Friday night last, for the purpose, it is believed, of "christening" a new engine of one of the fire companies. One of the buildings, a stable, was burnt. In the other cases the flames were quickly discovered and extinguished. At the five places named, coal oil had been poured over the door sill and thrown against the door. Philadelphia has a volunteer fire department.

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have; and when it comes, strange to say, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the fear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stolidly unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.
Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.
J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.
I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of resorting to their curative effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken of rest at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.
This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—the second got her through the night—rapidly revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.

In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period, of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

Georgia elects Representatives to Congress on the first Monday in April.

Gov. Brownlow of Tenn., has resigned—to take effect on the 25th inst. He takes his seat in the U. S. Senate on the fourth of March.

A member of the Florida Legislature has sold his orange crop, numbering 209,000, for four thousand dollars.

At the late city election in Pensacola, Florida, the Republicans elected their entire ticket by majorities averaging from 150 to 200. Last year the Democrats carried the city.

Messrs. Grant and Colfax were formally notified of their election, on Saturday. Gen. Grant informed the Committee that he should not make known the names of his Cabinet until the 4th of March, except to those he selected as members of the Cabinet. He also said that there would doubtless be great opposition to some of them from those who had favorites of their own to urge for the positions.

Congress.

In the Senate on Friday, Mr. Cragin of N. H., from the committee on territories, reported with amendments, and recommended the passage of the bill to provide for a better administration of justice in the territories of the U. S.

Mr. Boutwell of Mass., from the committee on reconstruction, reported the bill to provide for the organization of a provisional government for the State of Mississippi, which was ordered to be printed and recommitted.

On motion of Gen. Logan the resolution of censure offered by Gen. Butler was laid on the table by a vote of 130 to 55. Messrs. Ela, Stevens and Benton of N. H. voted nay.

A bill authorizing the building of a military and postal railroad from Washington to New York was passed, 100 to 54.

GEN. BUTLER'S DEFEAT.—The Boston Advertiser's Washington special says of the action of the House of Representatives in tabling Butler's resolution of censure;

The leaders in the late shameful performances were very busy in trying to hedge. They begged to be let down easy, and were ready to do almost any kind of penance for their sin. Mr. Benton of New Hampshire, one of the most violent, opened the debate in an excited harangue, speaking five minutes, and getting leave to print whatever else he wanted in justification of his conduct. Mr. Woodbridge of Vermont read a compact speech of ten minutes' length against the resolution, when Mr. Logan got the floor and rushed into Mr. Butler's line with his usual force and impetuosity. The rioters were ready to lay down their arms some time before he finished, and Mr. Butler offered to withdraw the whole proposition and accept as a substitute one simply directing the judiciary committee to inquire whether any change is needed in the twenty-second joint rule.

In ordinary times this resolution of inquiry would have passed without a word of objection, but the House had resolved to give no terms whatever to Mr. Butler and his followers, and would not allow them even the poor privilege of running away. All overtures were rejected. A score of members were on their feet objecting to any sort of compromise, and when Mr. Logan indicated a purpose to execute the culprits by tabling the whole thing, there were many cries of "good—good—that's right—that's right." Mr. Butler protested that he meant no reflection upon the presiding officer of the Senate; that he sought no end but the good of his country; that he loved Ben. Wade as if he were an only brother, and that he had accomplished his purpose in calling attention to the rule under which the joint convention acted. This sort of talk availed nothing, and Mr. Logan's motion was sustained by the vote already indicated.

It was the most signal defeat any man has had in Congress for many years, and Mr. Butler's manner showed that he very well understood what the House meant. The affirmative vote on the question of tabling was made up of 108 republicans and 22 democrats, the negative of 40 republicans and 15 democrats, showing a majority of 7 democrats and 68 republicans against Mr. Butler.

A WINTER SONG.

"The day is Thine, the night also is Thine;
Thou hast prepared the light and the sun;
Thou hast set all the borders of the earth;
Thou hast made summer and winter." Ps. 74: 16, 17.

Hope on my soul, for summer days
Will surely come again;
And winter may be bright with praise,
Though often dark with pain.
Imprisoned safe the harvest lies,
Until the showers of spring.
Until the sunny summer skies.
Their warmth and music bring.

Fear not the chill and wintry wind
That whistles round thy cot,
The gusts may chinks and crannies find,
The tempest enters not.
And thou shalt have a better home
In glory bright and fair,
Where pelting rain can never come,
For all is sunshine there.

Be patient then a little while;
The howling storm may roar,
'Tis but to herald summer's smile,
Its discord soon is o'er.
Come driving sleet; come snow and hail;
Come chill and wintry blast;
The rainbow promise cannot fail,
And summer comes at last.

On Wednesday evening, at Manchester, N. S. Woodman of Byfield, Mass., a fish peddler, got into a row with a number of persons in Thomas' Saloon. He seems to have been badly beaten, having had his head and his ancle broken, which will cripple him for life. A number of persons were engaged in the fight. Among them, two named Shirley and Place, are arrested. The whole were a precious set of tipplers, who were in one of their favorite resorts.

A story had gone round in the papers, that Mrs. Mitchell was dreadfully burnt by the explosion of a kerosene lamp; but after much urging by her physician, the poor woman now confesses that her husband threw a bottle of kerosene on the open fire, by which she sat, and set her on fire. Perhaps he had been meddling with other bottles; and he appears to be a cruel wretch, every way.

Bowman was arrested and arraigned, acknowledged he was full of whiskey and that the boy was not punished as hard as he ought to have been, was fined five dollars and costs, and put under bonds to keep the peace. SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Inclement Season,

And its effects on the Weak and Feeble.

The drafts which searching cold makes upon the vital powers of the debilitated and delicate are not less severe than the drain upon their strength caused by excessive heat. The vast disparity between the temperature of over-heated rooms and offices, at this season, and the frigidity of the outer air, is a fruitful source of sickness. To fortify the body against the evil consequences of the sudden alternations of heat and cold referred to, the vital organization should be strengthened and endowed with extra resistant power by the use of a wholesome invigorant; and, of all preparations for this purpose, whether embraced in the regular pharmacopœia, or advertised in the public journals, there is none that will compare in purity and excellence with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Acting directly upon the organ which converts the food into the fuel of life, the preparation imparts a tone and vigor which is communicated to every fibre of the frame. The digestive function being accelerated by its tonic operation, the blood is rendered by its anti-bilious properties, and the waste matter of the system carried off punctually by its mild aperient action, the whole organization will necessarily be in the best possible condition to meet the shocks of winter and the sudden changes of temperature. The weak and sensitive, especially, cannot encounter these vicissitudes with safety, unless their tender systems are strengthened and braced by artificial means.

Every liquor sold as a staple of trade is adulterated, and, were it otherwise, mere alcohol is simply a temporary exciant, which, when its first effects have subsided, leaves the physical powers (and the mind as well) in a worse condition than before. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, on the other hand, contains the essential properties of the most valuable tonic and alterative roots, barks and herbs, and their active principal is the mellowest, most exciting, and most incuous of all diffusive stimulants.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the Jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on those watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the purchaser finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold over 400,000 watches. In every town and village of the country some wearer of a Waltham Watch may be found. Let the party about to buy ask this owner of an American Watch this question, HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy a watch to gold guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell our products at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that to-day more watches are made in as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together. WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN WE DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further add that in increasing our production we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the refusal of nearly all inventions intended to improve watches, and have adopted all those, and those only, which have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we found on our hands, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled by any other establishment. In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a retail profit to dealers commensurate with their quality, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted dial lamp. In a moment the blaze snapped as around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upstairs, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed our pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his marvellous success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach. 13

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop the pain, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. Nature does not do so in cases of consumption. Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but its the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost the power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will so change up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, weighed but 123 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands have been cured by the use of Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Thursday, and at No. 36 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. G. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

Morning Chronicle.

ANECDOTE OF GEN. JACKSON.—The following interesting reminiscences of the "old hero of the hermitage," from the pen of Col. T. B. Thorp (Tom Owen, the Bee Hunter), recently appeared in the New York Times:

"Gen. Jackson not only stood by his friends, but he was slow to believe anything against those in whom he put confidence. One of the most honored and oldest citizens now residing in Washington, informed us that just after his arrival in that city, then a young man, Mr. Woodbury, then Secretary of the Treasury under Gen. Jackson, said to him that he was on his way to the 'White House' to inform the General that one of his especial appointees was a defaulter. Mr. Woodburry said further that the General was slow to believe anything against his friends, and that he expected that he, the General, would say or do something unpleasant when he heard the statement.

Mr. Woodbury then took our informant along on the pretence of introducing him to the President, but really to divide the expected fire that would be evolved by the real business of the contemplated interview. The General was found in his favorite room, with his feet against the mantel, enjoying the heat of a hickory wood fire, and the solace of his favorite corn cob pipe. Mr. Woodbury, after a few unimportant remarks, at last stated the object of his visit.

The moment the General comprehended Mr. Woodbury's statement he brought his feet to the floor with a crash, sprang up, and, almost livid with anger, said that he believed the charges made against his old friend were false. He added:—'This man fought by my side in the Florida war; I know he was brave, and I believe he is an honest man.' Mr. Woodbury, who retreated to avoid the first effects of the explosion, now stepped forward and said that he had been unusually careful to inform himself, and that he was forced to believe that the charges were true. He then added, as if to mollify the General, 'I would like to have you, Mr. President, nominate no one; said the General, interrupting Mr. Woodbury, at the same time choking to keep down his feelings, 'Put in the vacant place whom you please, but, mark me, Mr. Woodbury, I shall examine into this case myself, and if my friend has been wronged, I will grind the guilty parties into the earth, just as I do this pipe,' as he threw the old corn cob on the floor, and ground it up under the heel of his boot.

Mr. Woodbury gave his young friend a signal, and the two hastily retreated. On reaching the open air Mr. Woodbury said, 'Thank God, that unpleasant duty is performed. I hope I will never have to perform another one of this kind.'"

WOODEN CAR WHEELS.—The Hudson River Railroad Company has lately placed twelve of the Mansell wooden car wheels upon their drawing room car. These wheels cost treble the price of the ordinary cast iron wheels, but this is regarded as of little consequence compared with the advantages gained by their use. They ride smoothly, making conversation, reading, and even writing, not only possible, but an easy task on the cars. They are made of thoroughly seasoned elm or teak, with steel tires: are very durable, only one accident having ever occurred to one of them, and that through the carelessness of a workman; and will wear, by reason of their elasticity and durability, over four hundred thousand miles of railway, while the average use of the ordinary iron wheel is but fifty thousand miles, after which it is necessary to break it up. It is asserted that this wheel is so constructed that it is impossible for the tire to become displaced, and that the wear to the track is much less than by the cast wheel, which of itself would make an important saving. The Mansell wheel is used on the Metropolitan Underground Railway in London, and there, where the stoppages and starting of the trains are very sudden and consequently extremely trying, no accident has yet occurred with them.

TO WENDELL PHILLIPS.

An admirer of Mr. Phillips has handed us the following selection for publication:

Praise is the grateful heart's o'erflow,
The hero's well-earned meed;
But O! of such poor praise as mine
Thou, great soul, hast no need.
Yet birds will pass the Summer's reign,
Its influence wide and sweet;
And I, unsought, unseen, would lay
My tribute at thy feet.

Heir of a pure and proud old name,
Wealth's dowered and cultured son,
Ancestral glories pale before
What thine own hands have won.
On shrine of pure Democracy
Casting that olden crest,
Thou seek'st to crown with equal rights
The least and lowliest.

Nor wise one's loor, nor rabble's laugh,
Nor traitor's murderous threat
Could move thy heaven-inspired soul
From its strong purpose yet!
That purpose!—ne'er archangel flew
Thro' star-world, roll and shine,
Heaven-hastened on his mission high,
With holier aim than thine!

A crown among the beaded drops
On honest Labor's brow;—
The BALLOT for each hand that holds
The pickaxe or the plow!
For Caroline's long crowded child,
For Erin's rosy son,
Thou claim'st our Freedom's oldest boast—
The right of Conscience too.

Fair, marble fair, thy Saxon brow,
Yet pliest thou no less
The dark, dark brows that turn to thee
To help their helplessness!
Thy matchless gifts, thy stainless name,
In Freedom's neediest day,
Thy life itself—rich sacrifice!—
On Freedom's altar lay!

All calm and pale, how hast thou stood
Near violence and death,
Till, hushed beneath thy voice's spell,
The furies held their breath!
O, voice more grand than roll of waves,
More sweet than song of birds,
How Truth's keen arrows heavenward sped,
Winged by thy golden words!

O knight who Freedom's favor wear'st,
The fearful battle through;
Than Arthur's Lancelot far more brave,
Than Arthur's self more true;
How oft thou'rt wounded in the fight
By friends who know thee not—
Blind to thy banner and thy crest,
Opposed thee fierce and hot!

Thy hand, reached down to help the oppressed,
Dewed with their grateful tears,
Ah! no proud ruler's touch hath stained
Its whiteness, through the years
No popples, strown in Victory's trace,
Might o'er thy senses steal;
Clear rose thy voice o'er party's din,—
Thy free lips none could seal!

Deam not I think to flatter thee
With my poor childish lays;
Thee—whom long since a poet crowned*
Hath tuned his lyre to praise;
All breath should praise thee—thou, whose voice
Made Truth's hard lessons sweet;
And in this spirit I would lay
My tribute at thy feet.

* James Russell Lowell.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

HORTICULTURE EXTRAORDINARY.—We have an account of a very remarkable yield of potatoes, which we should hardly credit if we had not heard it from the lips of the gentleman who raised them, and whose name will guarantee the story. Last spring Abednego Robinson, Esq. whose farm is in Stratham, close by Newmarket Bridge, had two potatoes of the "Early Rose" variety, of Messrs. Goodwin & Sweetser—being unable to procure more. They weighed together nine ounces. By careful dissection, he planted these in thirty flower pots at his house, watched them carefully, severing every possible slip and until he had made enough for sixty eight hills of potatoes which he laid out in rather dry soil, flat ground, putting a little dressing in each hill, but not otherwise manuring the ground. The result was, at the last of July he had from nine ounces of seed raised four bushels of potatoes, weighing about 240 lbs. The largest weighed 1 3-4 lbs. and several others over a pound each. The "Early Rose," as our horticulturists know, are very valuable, worth for seed fifty cents per pound, which makes a handsome return to the culturist in this instance, though he undertook the task more with a view to seeing what could be done by careful culture. Mr. Robinson advertises in another column for seed several varieties of the best and most productive early potatoes.

A PLEASANT DAY.—The genial countenance of our well known musician Mr. Warren K. Day is always so pleasing to look upon that, come rain or shine, the first thought on meeting him has ever been "A pleasant Day." We are sorry to learn that he is to leave Portsmouth. Everybody here likes such Daylight as invariably attends him. It used to be all Day with the Philharmonic society when he was one of their members, where his ability as a musician was eminently displayed, and his energy also, in his activity in the organization and building up of the Society. We have the impression here that he is master of his business and that he will meet with deserved success in Concord where he is going, or has gone. Hey-Day!

A VETERAN PRINTER.—Among the "Sons of Portsmouth" resident in Boston is Mr. George W. Bazin who left here in 1817, and who is the oldest living graduate of the "Oracle" office. He entered that office sixty years ago next June; and he writes us that he is "still able to pick up types every day." The clear, steady hand with which he pens his note evinces that the years have treated him kindly and he is in the enjoyment of the vigor which a well regulated life brings to the advanced years of manhood. He has for many years, until recently been connected with the Trumpet, the Boston Universalist newspaper.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

☞ In 1812, Mr. John Miller, (grandfather of Mr. F. W. Miller of ours, who is expected to say something on the same subject now,) bought of Mr. Henry S. Langdon, a tract of land on the Westerly shore of the North Millpond, laid out the two streets still extending from Woodbury Street to the Pond, (one called Sparhawk as now, and the other Langdon, as it still ought to be, but is not,) and sold a few lots; on one of them a house was built very soon, and a number more at a later date, are still standing. He proposed and projected a Bridge across the Pond, from the cove just to the east of Sherburne's (now called Hale's) Point, to the cove opposite, at the foot of one of his new streets; but as he died in July 1813, the project was abandoned, and no bridge has yet been built there. The one now proposed, is to be a few rods further west. Should the Bridge be built, the market value of the City Farm would be considerably increased; and should it be desired to sell the whole or a large part of it, in lots, the money expended in a bridge there would propably turn out to be a good investment to the City, as well as a benefit to the residents and landholders near the bridge, and a convenience to the people on both sides.

A Bridge over the South Pond has also been the talk for many years, and Mr. Hoyt drew a plan of one leading to a Common beyond, as now designed, twenty years ago or more, from actual survey; as also did Mr. T. P. Moses from imagination, several years later. Whether a Bridge will be built now, remains to be seen,—but we have faith that there will be some footing provided for, there, more substantial than Peter failed to walk on, ere the snows of another winter come to chill all such enterprises. One gentleman of wealth, enterprise and artistic taste, (a combination not common in this ilk,) offered to contribute $1000 for this object, several years ago. If he will do it now, the thing is done; and at any rate, there are no doubt several wealthy Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth, in town and out, who would contribute handsomely toward it.

☞ It is proverbial to speak well of the Bridge that carries you safe over. But what shall we say of the Bridges proposed across the Mill-ponds? These have been talked of for years, but good intentions we never heard would do anything but pave a certain place where water is scarce. A charter was long ago granted for the North Bridge, but if made, it is urged that stone abutments should be used, and not piles, as the ice is continually drawing them up.

As to the South Bridge, if a charter should be necessary, no doubt one could be had; but if only a rustic foot bridge should be deemed advisable, a single span, or two, would be all that is necessary. All persons, at home or abroad, who are interested in the improvement of Portsmouth, are invited to inform Frank W. Miller immediately, of the amount they will subscribe for either the Bridge.

P. S. We also hear of one more Bridge project or suggestion—to lead from Noble's Island o Freeman's Point.

THE PILGRIM.—We understand that this painting has been received in New York and Boston with much satisfaction. An enthusiastic correspondent thinks the people of Portsmouth will greatly miss the mark if they do not improve the opportunity to attend, and calls upon the various Ministers, Sunday School Superintendents, parents, lovers of art, and all persons of intelligence and refinement to countenance and help to bring it to public notice. He says, furthermore, that no entertainment ever in this city, can boast of such a splendid combination of painting, music, lecture and grand transition scenes. One who has seen it speaks to us of it in high terms of commendation, and we have little doubt that it will fully meet public expectation. It opens at the Temple this Monday evening. It is universally commended by the religious press.

FOURTH OF MARCH.—A zealous Republican desires to know if the Boys in Blue and Tanners are to make any demonstration on Inauguration Day, and suggest a parade of those uniformed companies. The occasion is certainly worthy of public notice and the suggestion of a parade is an appropriate one, but whether the organizations above referred to are contemplating such a movement we know not.

MUSICAL.—The Portsmouth Philharmonic Society are to give the Cantata of Esther, at the Temple, March 16th and 17th. The Cantata of the Haymakers is to be brought out at Exeter on March 2d. The P. P. S. will probably attend to hear, if good weather

The No-Kami.

To pronounce the name of a Japanese
Give a cough and a hiccough, a grunt and sneeze,
Then finish the whole with a whistle, and blame me,
If that ain't the name of some grand No-Kami.

They are clad in petticoats made of silk,
And they drink no lager, but whey and milk;
Their money goes down to a tenth of a cent,
And they carry two swords—one straight, one bent.

Copper, and wax, and rice they sell;
In heavy silk goods they bear the bell;
And whenever they chance to fall into disgrace,
Then they rip themselves open before your face.

For this they carry the second sword;
And where'er they're in debt, or detsult, or bored,
Or get a toothache, or make a slip,
They open their bowels, and let things rip.

An Old Homestead.

To the Editors of the N. H. Gazette:—I notice in your paper of Jan. 16, mention made of the Rollins' farm in Stratham passing through seven generations in succession. This leads me to communicate to you some notice of the farm in Eliot where I now live.

I find on Kittery Town Records, the original grant of Kittery to Charles Frost, in the year 1674, one hundred and forty acres. (Charles Frost was son of Nicholas Frost, who emigrated to Kittery in 1630.) The farm passed from Charles to his son, John Frost, who settled in Newcastle, N. H., and who built a house and barn on the lot, which were occupied by tenants. John Frost gave the farm to his son John, who settled on the farm in 1730, and in 1733 built the house now occupied by the writer. He also built a guard house in 1735, and in 1740 another guard house, 40 by 50 feet, of solid timber.—The buildings are at present in good repair. The port holes on the inside are visible in the guard houses. The farm has passed successively through six generations, and five generations have been born in the house.

Eliot, Me. JOSEPH FROST.

☞ An exchange, referring to the report that Gen. Grant has offered the portfolio of the War Department to Gen. McClellan, says:

The only thing which renders the latter story in the least possible, is the remark that Little Mac. has neither accepted nor declined the honor, not having been able to make up his mind.

☞ The country is rejoiced that Andrew has got but seventeen days more to remain in the White House. It is sad to think, however, that all the while the days will be growing longer.

☞ Cory O'Lanus thinks that the Mexicans ought to attain perfection in riding the velocipede, for the more revolutions you make the faster you go.

The large and increasing sales of these SUPERIOR GLASSES
Is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality.
With a full knowledge of the value of the assertion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM
IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.
☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.
☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.
☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

CURIOSITIES OF ADVERTISING.

How Lost Money was Recovered After a Lapse of Five Years.

From the New York Herald, Jan. 25.

Stories romantic, stories tragic, stories of matters of common place fact, stories almost surpassing the farthest stretch of fancy, stories of all kinds, and each revealing more or less that unusual though oft quoted sequence about fact being stranger than fiction, might be given, based on developments brought to light through advertising. We give below a story in point—an "o'er true tale," and only one of many that might be given—in connection with the "Personals" in the Herald:

Five years ago Mr. Homer E. Sawyer came to this city from Boston. He stopped at the Belmont Hotel, in Fulton street. He had $1,650 in bank bills, which, for safe keeping, he carried in his pantaloons watch pocket, and, to make assurance doubly sure as to its safety, keeping his pocket pinned. Being en route to New Orleans, he went to a railroad ticket office, bought a ticket, took out his money, paid for the ticket, carefully pinned it as before, and returned to his hotel.

He shortly missed his money, but on examination found his pocket pinned. The only conclusion he could come to was that he placed the roll of bills inside the waist of his pantaloons instead of in his watch pocket, and thus lost it. This was on January 8, 1862. It rained hard all day. The supposition was that the money soon got mixed up with the slush of snow and mud of the street, and with the street refuse—for they cleaned the streets in those days—would find its way to some dumping ground, an irremediable loss.

"What shall I do about it," asked he of Mr. J. P. Richards, proprietor of the Belmont Hotel, after reciting to him his loss.

"Advertise in the Herald." answered the keenly penetrative Mr. Richards.

The loss of the money, though with no statement of the amount, was advertised as Mr. Richards said. There came no response to the advertisement. Mr. Sawyer went to New Orleans, where two years ago he died of yellow fever. That advertisement was seen in the Herald. The finder remembered it—remembered the name of Mr. Richards, to whom the information was asked to be given, remembered the hotel, remembered everything but giving back the money.

The memory in fact, haunted him, followed him through five years. The struggles of conscience none can know. He determined to restore the money but with the determination resolved not to let himself be known. He wrote a note without signature, to Mr. Richards, asking him to specify in the Herald "personal" particulars of the loss of the money and to whom it belonged. This letter Mr. Richards received on the 4th of December last. In the next morning's Herald he inserted the following "personal:"

(Money lost — on Broadway. Five years ago (a snowy day) about $1,500 in greenbacks; owner is dead; any, communication for his widow, who is in very needy circumstances, will be gratefully received by J. P. R., for Mrs. H. Sawyer.)

The above was not sufficiently explicit. Another letter, by the same anonymous hand, was written to Mr. Richards, upon which the following "personal" was published:

(A.—five years ago money lost, Mrs. H. E. Sawyer, 172 Warren avenue, Boston; amount $1,650; smallest bill $5); the roll might have separated in pieces.)

But yet the anonymous letter writer was not satisfied. He wanted to know more about the death of the original owner of the money and date of his marriage. The name of Waters was signed to this third note, with special request that the answer should be directed to this address, so there could be no mistake that he was holding his communications with the same party. The following third personal was the result of these further inquiries.

(Waters—H. E. S.—married October 28, 1858, Hopkinton, Mass., by Rev. E. S. Hill; died Oct. 10, 1868, at New Orleans, of yellow fever. The remains were brought to Massachusetts and interred. By express to 171 West avenue.)

In a fourth note the money finder—for there can be no doubt of course but this was the individual writing—asks about the circumstances of the widow of the one losing the money, the expense of advertising, and if there is no shadow of doubt that she is the widow of the original owner of the money. This calls out the following personal:

(H. E. S. is the right person; I can give bonds to that effect. Her only means of support is singing in a church. Paid ad't $15. J. P. R.)

It is unnecessary to trace this story out in all its minute details. The anonymous letter writer became satisfied with the correctness of Mr. Richards' statements. And we come to the end. A lady, closely veiled, restored not only money lost, but interest on it from the day of its loss till the day of its restoration, and expenses of advertising; altogether $2,160. On the 19th inst. this money was given to the widow and her fatherless children—the result of one instance of advertising.

THE MEDICINE FOR

THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR

gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have; and when it comes, strange to say, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stoically unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.

Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.

J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.
I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to the marvelous effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken or rent at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.
This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon got her accustomed sleep—rapidly revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.

The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurer as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.

Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

Fuad Pacha is dead. He was a Turk.

Andrew Johnson has accepted the appointment as arbitrator in a quarrel between Great Britain and Portugal about the ownership of the Island of Balama on the African coast.

Caleb Cushing has arrived in Washington with the Darien Canal treaty that he has just negotiated. It gives us the right to construct a canal across the Isthmus, and secures us in its use for a term of years.

The French consul-general, at San Francisco died of small-pox on Sunday. He had performed the consulate duties of France there, for twenty-five years.

A slight shock of earthquake was felt in San Francisco at half-past four o'clock Sunday morning. A shock was also felt with considerable force at San Jose.

In Peru earthquakes continue to be felt at short intervals, and it is reported that the town of Topay, in the Province of Carloma, has been totally destroyed.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher is ill with fever.

Sol. Smith is dead.

The trains on the Pacific railroad on the Sierra Nevada mountains are delayed by one of the most terrific snow storms ever known in that region. The belt extended over 80 miles; the usual distance is about 50. The snow sheds withstood the storm where completed, and furnished full protection to the road.

Congress.

In the Senate on Saturday, Mr. Cragin of N. H. offered a resolution directing the Attorney-General to inform the Senate whether he had directed the suspension or discontinuance of the proceedings against parties prosecuted for frauds upon the internal revenue, and if so, in what cases and for what reason; if compatible, to communicate to the Senate his correspondence on the subject with the United States District-Attorney of New York. Adopted.

A message from Andrew Johnson was received vetoing the colored school bill for Georgetown and Washington.

The House on Monday passed a joint resolution permitting the Northern Pacific Railroad to issue first mortgage bonds on their line and telegraph.

☞ W. Scott Smith, a Washington newspaper correspondent, lately made a statement charging the Post Office Department with making a fraudulent contract with Wells, Fargo & Co., for carrying the mails between the termini of the Pacific Railroads. An investigation was ordered by the National House of Representatives and Mr. Smith when brought before the committee "first said that he knew a great many persons who could prove the facts, but when again brought before the committee confessed that he knew nothing about the matter himself and did not know anybody who did, and the committee then dropped that part of the investigation, having traced the charge to its source."

☞ A very large proportion of last year's crop of wheat in Wisconsin is still in the hands of the farmers, who, in many cases, are paying high rates of interest to enable them to hold on for higher prices. In the ancient book of Proverbs, it is said, "He that withholdeth corn, the people shall curse him, but blessings shall be upon him that selleth it."

☞ A French paper states that every 7th day ex-Queen Isabella receives a parcel containing the chemise which Sister Patrocinio has worn during the preceding week, and that she wears the dirty garment for the next seven days.—Does any body wonder that the people of Spain deposed such a queen?

Mrs. David O. Smith slipped on the steps of the back door, at her residence on Lincoln Avenue, Concord, and in the fall broke her right arm at the shoulder. Dr. Haynes, who was called, says that the accident is a very rare one, having occurred but three times in his practice.

☞ The new and elegant Locomotive "City of Portland," just built for the Portland train over the Eastern Railroad, arrived here on Saturday. She is under the direction of Samuel A. Hawks, the veteran Engineer in the service of the Sea Shore Line.

Letter from Rev. I. F. Holton, So. Malden, Mass.

ON A FEW BOOKS.

Dear Oldest:—I send you with this two long, and to many, more interesting letters than this will be. Still, do not overlook this; for I think there is great value in descriptions of books, provided that their portraits be correct and faithful; if not, they are worse than a nuisance.

Agricultural.—How Crops Grow is an agricultural chemistry by Professor Johnson of Yale College. It is a mistake to suppose that chemistry is difficult. A person who knows nothing of chemistry, would fall fully to understand some pages in the middle of the book; so they would the middle of any connected story, if ignorant of what preceded. What would any one do with the battle of Monmouth in a child's history of the American Revolution, unless he had learned from some previous page,—or elsewhere—to which army Washington belonged? But a man that hopes to ever become fit for a Justice of the Peace, ought to be ashamed of calling a book like this difficult, and ought to despise in himself a disposition to shirk it. It will not long be respectable to be unable to comprehend a simple chemical fact. Sir William of Deleraine might unblushingly say

"Letter nor verse know I never a one, Wer't my neck-verse at Hair bee;"

but in our day even the lowest is ashamed to confess an inability to read. I pity the poor hypocrites who will have to say yes, yes, ten years hence, to chemical explanations of which they understand not a word. Let the little leisure yet remaining this winter be devoted to enquiring How Crops Grow.—The book is published at the office of the American Agriculturist; as is also

Gardening for the South, by Wm. N. White, late of Athens, Ga. A description is given of over fifty different esculent plants not in common use here; some are not cultivable here and others are neglected. It would be a rare trick to serve a northern guest with a dinner of bear-meat with these fifty vegetables, and not an article on the table familiar to his palate. I am sorry to count Salsify (vegetable-oyster) in with the unfamiliar,—it ought to be used extensively.

Geographical. — The Missionary Herald for January contains a map of China, in which (errors excepted) the spelling is authorized by Rev. Dr. W. A. P. Martin, Prof. in the Imperial University at Peking. Fu chau is given for what I recommended to be Fuh Chow. Au, in the general language of the world, sounds like ow in how.

Prof. Guyot has issued a supplement to his Common-School Geography. Besides six pages of valuable statistical matter, it contains three "reference maps" of two pages each; U. S., Central Europe and Europe, which supply a deficiency which we noted in our critique on the Geographies. The mountains are rather too black for reference maps, a fault to which so thorough a geographer as Prof. Guyot would quite incline.

The Atlas to Chambers' Encyclopedia is an important work, showing what can be done with an octavo volume. I never was able to own the old Diamond Atlas, and, excepting Butler's Ancient Atlas, never had any thing so handy as this. The forty two-page maps were executed at sundry times and in divers manners. The best are New Zealand 39, Victoria 37, Tasmania (Van Dieman's Land) 40, and Greenland 33.—Among the poorest is the Spanish peninsula. Most of Europe is as good as we need, except that the battle of Sadowa (a place not found in the atlas) has ruined the German maps. It is a pity that these same maps are among the best engraved in the book, and far better than we commonly see. In Asia we have Turkey, Palestine, Hindustan and China. One should know better than to expect any thing of the New World in an atlas of European origin. The United States occupy two maps, but more places are given in Van Dieman's Land than in them both. Canada has a map; so have Central America and the West Indies. But the strangest thing in the whole is the omission of all the railroads from every map but Denmark, Holland, Belgium, Austria, Africa, Australia and Victoria. The spelling is more correct than in any other atlas I know. I am thus particular because I am persuaded that Mr. Lippincott, who has given us our only decent Gazetteer, will not let the matter rest till he has doubled the size of this volume and cut the wind out of all our huge Atlases by something that a man can put on a shelf of his book-case or carry with him to a lecture. When shall it be, Mr. Lippincott?

—Words are little things, but they sometimes strike hard. We wield them so easily that we are apt to forget their hidden power. Fitly spoken, they fall like the sunshine, the dew and the fertilizing rain; but when unfitly, like the frost, the hail and the desolating tempest.

Take the world as it is, not as it ought to be.

New Publications.

The Publishers of the Nashua Telegraph, (a good weekly,) are to commence the publication of a Daily evening paper, March 1st.

The Experimental Farm Journal, No. 1, for January, 1869, a monthly pamphlet of 32 pages, comes to us from Chambersburg, Penn. Geo. A. Deitz, Editor and Proprietor. $1.50 and $1., club rates.

Hall's Journal of Health for February, has a leader on the Essence of Disease; a good article on Unhealthful Horses, and another on the Post Office.

Demorest's Magazine, is a still farther improvement in this popular ladies' magazine and journal of fashions. It is also really progressive. The fashions, and patterns are sensible and practical, and the reading matter, including Jean Ingelow's, "Seven Sevens," illustrated, is excellent. New York: W. Jennings Demorest.

The Church Union, weekly double sheet, comes out Feb. 13, in new type, and is richly printed; publishers H. W. Beecher's Sermons, stories, and much controversy;—has many advertisements and large circulation.

Gen. Grant's Cigar.—The Boston Journal's Washington special says:—Gen. Grant suffered much during his recent visit to New York from attacks of acute headache, and returned quite indisposed, not having been able to keep his social engagements in Philadelphia. His medical advisers have suggested that he perhaps smokes too many cigars, and the General is philosophically abstaining, to a certain extent from the use of the weed.

The General who has commanded great armies, and achieved great victories, should surely be able so to command and control his own acts to break off entirely and the useless and dangerous habit of smoking. Brother Trask, please send him your Prescription for the Antidote.

Festive.—Small boy, with a bad cold, singing:

"Th Captel Jilks or th' horse berifes,
I feed by herse od cord ad beals,
Ad offed live beyold ler meals
Of a Cabtel id ther arby."

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Dove-like eyes sparkle with pleasure as the exquisite fragrance of Phalon's new perfume, "Flor De Mayo," steals upon the senses of languid beauty. Babylon had her hanging gardens filled with choicest flowers; but such devices are not needed now. You have only to open a bottle of Phalon's peerless extract, and the blended perfumes of a hundred exotics are at once suspended in the air. Sold by all druggists.

Miss Judith Russel, of New Bedford writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using Plantation Bitters, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the Plantation Bitters. 15

Quality and quantity are the two desirable attendants of "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative." New Hampshire Items.

A few days since, Mr. G W. Marden, of Peterborough, having thrown a quantity of hay from his barn scaffold, dropped his pitchfork into it. Hearing a scream, Mr. Marden hastened down and found that his little girl, six or seven years old, had hid herself in the hay, and that one tine of the pitchfork had entered the scalp, tearing a gash about an inch long and then glanced off. Had the tine been turned the other way, it must have entered the brain and proved fatal. As it is the wound is not serious.

A daughter of O. L. Howard of Winchester, ten years old, while coasting about a week ago, was carried over a bank, twenty feet, into the rapids of Ashuelot river, from which she was rescued uninjured. As she was going over the bank she expressed a fear that she should "lose her new sled."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Inclement Season,

And its effects on the Weak and Feeble.

The drafts which searching cold makes upon the vital powers of the debilitated and delicate are not less severe than the drain upon their strength caused by excessive heat. The vast disparity between the temperature of over-heated rooms and offices, at this season, and the frigidity of the outer air, is a fruitful source of sickness. To fortify the body against the evil consequences of the sudden alternations of heat and cold referred to, the vital organization should be strengthened and endowed with extra resistant power by the use of a wholesome invigorant: and, of all preparations for this purpose, (whether embraced in the regular pharmacopœia, or advertised in the public journals,) there is none that will compare in purity and excellence with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Acting directly upon the organ which converts the food into the fuel of life, the preparation imparts to it a tone and vigor which is common to every fibre of the frame. The distinctive function being accelerated by its tonic operation, the liver regulated by its anti-bilious properties, and the waste matter of the system carried off punctually by its mild aperient action, the whole organization will necessarily be in the best possible condition to meet the shocks of winter and the sudden changes of temperature. The weak and sensitive, especially, cannot encounter these vicissitudes with safety, unless their tender systems are strengthened and braced by artificial means.

Every liquor sold as a staple of trade is adulterated, and, were it otherwise, mere alcohol is apt to prove a temporary excitant, which, when its first effects have subsided, leaves the physical powers (and the mind as well) in a more exhausted state than before. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, on the other hand, contain the essential properties of the most valuable tonic vegetable, barks and aromatic herbs, and their active principal is the mellowest, least exciting, and most incuous of all diffusive stimulants.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The Reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that honest support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. The sales of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those interested in our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and village in the country there are WALTHAM WATCHES that may be found. Let the party about to buy ask this owner of an American watch this question: ARE YOUR WATCH AND YOUR SAFE SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell to sell our products at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS, and this policy has been successfully carried out, and the result is, that today we manufacture twice as many watches as all other watch factories in the United States together. WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have been careful of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all those, and those only which have proved to be really valuable; our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country.—Hitherto the gold and silver cases have been not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a retail profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Holloway's Pills.—A successful physician, being challenged by some medical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I can." Dr. Holloway might say the same to the faculty as regards Dyspepsia. His celebrated Pills cure it infallibly, and when all other remedies have proved utterly useless. There is no disease of the Stomach or the Liver, acute or chronic, slight or violent, which the Pills will not ameliorate and relieve. Sold by all Druggists.

The Plaster of the "Time,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be cured while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden lar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. He was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the sanative improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way, and he was enabled to resume his own work. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being consulted by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Ma came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, dashed down upon the floor, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Quick relief was given by DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill, and ache.—Manchester (N. H) Every Month.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.

The best remedy for the cure of CONSUMPTION, and ALL DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It causes the phlegm and matter to rise without irritating those delicate organs (the Lungs,) and without producing constipation of the bowels. It also gives strength to the system, stops all night sweats, and changes all the morbid secretions to a healthy state.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by one bottle. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale. d25

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Cankers, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make good blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 228 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Monday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

CITY MATTERS.—While some members of the City Government seem to be in favor of selling the State Street Schoolhouse,—others ask why not fit up the lower story for a Ward Room for Ward Two? The inhabitants have now no place but the cellar of the Court House, for Town or School Meetings, &c.

As to the Lot of Land on Middle St., (Wibird's Hill,) which it is also proposed to sell,—while it is not good economy to keep too much dead property to eat up interest, neither, on the other hand, is it sound policy to sell every little lot which the City may need bye-and-bye for a Schoolhouse, Engine House or what not. Land in that vicinity is increasing in value, and this rise will no doubt pay the interest.

Public opinion seems to favor Bridges across both Millponds; and the ultimate sale of the City Farm appears to be generally regarded as a foregone conclusion. The cost of the North Bridge, which will be but about 300 feet long, is estimated at $3000 or less—standing on piles, and not including the necessary road-work connecting.—The South Bridge will be nearly 700 feet long; but if merely a rustic structure for foot-passengers is decided on, as many think would be most advisable, the cost of this would probably not be more than $3000. The live men of the city, many of them, go in for this last, and the Park, at any rate, and are ready to contribute their subscriptions or taxes for the object.

☞ Among the numerous projects for public improvements in town this year, a good one is the widening and concreting the sidewalk on Richards Avenue, below the residences. A gentleman resident in an entirely different part of the city, proposes to take hold of the matter, and thinks the abuttors will give the land for a walk of twelve feet wide, and that if the City will grade the same, private subscription will pay for the concrete.

We have no doubt of it, for everybody is interested in this our chief rural promenade, and even the "dead" men must feel a little pride in the road that although made never so glorious, leads but to the grave. And by the way, such is the miserably dilapidated condition of the fences along much of this our only straight street, that a person of good taste, even after closing mortal vision, would prefer to be borne to his long home by some other route, rather than pass such a display of ricketty, tumble-down palings, if apparent to spiritual sight.

☞ Messrs. Chas. E. Shedd & Co., advertise, this morning, their new agency for the sale of through tickets over the Erie, Atlantic and Great Western Railroads.

Mr. Elisha Tripp advertises to sell off his large stock of Room Papers, Borders, Paints, &c., &c., at very low prices, as he proposes to change his business.

From the tip top Grocery of LaFayette Laighton, we have new advertisements of fresh goods, this morning, and a sample can of put-up Tomatoes, which are are good to put down this time of year.

From Lamprey & Wentworth, also nice Grocers, we have a lot of Dessicated Fish, for family use, as put up by the Gloucester and Boston Company—recommended as more neat and convenient, as well as economical, than fresh fish, saving all swell and waste, and much work, in cooking.

☞ The weather and the walking Monday evening, was not such to delight the Pilgrim. Many of the paintings individually, the whole collectively, are rarely equalled as works of art in a Panorama,—excelling in beauty of finish and richness of coloring; and although they are representations drawn in the imagination of a human being, yet they are not only very attractive, but are worthy of much consideration, and must be seen to be appreciated. The Pilgrim will exhibit this evening.

The exhibitor says, combine pleasure with profit in the happiest manner, just take with you your family or friends, and spend an evening with the Pilgrim: —buy the nicest Ingredients for them at No. 44 MARKET STREET. L. Laighton.

PERSONAL.—Chief Engineer William Roberts, U. S. N., was in town on Monday.

For the Chronicle.

LIFE.—"That life is long that answers life's great end." If it be allowed that the great object of existence is to experience happiness, persons naturally will be interested to know how to obtain and secure it. If the result of injury is unhappiness, the person who desires to escape from it, naturally will prevent himself from being injured by himself or by others.

It may be said that persons do not agree in regard to what constitutes happiness, and the means to be used, or allowed, to possess it; but Reason and Experience teach, that he who would be the most perfectly happy, that his circumstances will allow, must be righteous in thought, word, and deed; must be governed by Truth, Justice, and Righteousness. In order to be, and to do thus, he must earnestly labor with a teachable mind to know the Supreme Laws and implicitly obey them; sincerely desire to learn his duties and diligently perform them. To experience the highest quality and the greatest of happiness, demands perfection of character and an existence in a perfect state of society.

God's Will—man's duty—may be learned from the open, plain Books of Nature, Experience, Revelation, and other ways by which Our Heavenly Father manifests himself to those who sincerely desire and earnestly labor to Know Him and themselves, and to learn their relation to Him and the consequent duties involved and required to be performed.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

DORSEY'S DINNER.—The Springfield Republican says that Boston can't indorse Dorsey. We have all heard of the Englishman in the water who declined to be saved from drowning by a man that had never been introduced to him. Boston can furnish an official parallel in her board of directors who would not let Dorsey feed their convicts with poultry, because they said they did not know who he was.

Possibly they did not know, and felt towards him as the Bristol man did who went to Fall River, where his enemy, Parker Borden lived, got tipsy, fell into the dock, and was fished out by the aforesaid Borden. Dripping with salt water, and sputtering with wrath, the Rhode Islander turned to the bystanders and said, "When a gentleman comes up to Fall River and slides off the wharf, haven't you got anybody here but Parker Borden to help him out?"

At any rate, they would have none of Dorsey and his chickens, and so the rest of the State got all the more poultry for their prisoners. We suspect the real objection was that it was contrary to all precedent for anybody but the directors and their guests to eat chicken at the House of Correction, and they could not allow discipline to be interfered with, even when Dorsey offered them the chicken gratis.

Those who, like Boston people, don't know who Dorsey is are informed that Henry C. Dorsey, who has given our prisoners in jails and houses of correction a good dinner, is a wealthy citizen of Providence, who last year gave a sum of money to the Connecticut state prison as a permanent fund, from the income of which the convicts there are every year to have a good Christmas dinner. It is an unusual form of charity, but considering how few there are who trouble themselves at all about prisoners, it is worthy of praise and imitation.

The sum placed in Warden Haynes's hands by Mr. Dorsey was $500, which, distributed among the twenty-five prisons in the state, would give an average of twenty dollars to each.

KNOWING PARROTS.—A parrot belonging to some friends of mine, was generally taken out of the room when the family assembled for prayers, for fear he might join irreverently in the responses. One evening, however, his presence happened to be unnoticed, and for some time, he maintained a decorous silence; but at length, instead of "Amen," he came out with "Cheer, boys, cheer!" On this the butler was directed to remove him, and had got as far as the door, when the bird, perhaps thinking that he had committed himself, and had better apologize, called out, "Sorry I spoke!"

The parrot of a relation of mine also used, whenever he dropped anything he was eating, to say, "Pick up Bobby's crust;" being doubtless prompted by the same train of association as those which led another parrot, which I knew well, invariably to say, "Thank you," when anything was given him. Some parrot-fanciers had agreed to meet in a year's time, when each was to show a bird for a prize—proficiency in talking to be the great criterion of merit. On the day appointed all the rest came, each duly bringing his parrot. One only appeared without his, saying that he was quite ashamed to bring him. This excuse was held to be inadmissible, and his master accordingly went off and returned with him. No sooner was he introduced than, looking round at the large assembly of birds, he exclaimed, "By Jove!" what a lot parrots!" The prize was immediately voted to him by acclamation.

REMEDY FOR INTESTINAL WORMS.—The Boston Journal of Chemistry states on the authority of Mr. E. C. Haserick, of Lake Village,—a chemist of some note and a gentleman who has spent considerable time in investigating the habits of intestinal worms in animals—that worms in horses may be cured by simply keeping the external orifice well anointed with lard, and that this remedy will completely cure every case of worms in the intestines in one week.—From his observation he is satisfied that worms in the intestinal canal cannot propagate their species without access to light and air, and he believes the prevalent idea that the parasitic ovum is deposited in the mucous follicles of the stomach and intestines, and is there developed and matured, is entirely incorrect.

The intestinal cavaties are not the natural breeding places for any variety or species, and the instinct of the worm leads it to crawl to the exterior orifice, and there outside the folds of the sphincter muscle the eggs are deposited and hatched. The process is a rapid one, the egg requiring but five or six hours after it is deposited to germinate and produce a new animal which at once enters the intestinal canal as its natural feeding ground and home. As the life of the worm does not exceed six days, Mr. Haserick claims that if the eggs deposited at the anus can be destroyed so as to prevent a repetition of life, the animal will in one week be entirely free of the trouble, the dead worms passing away in the fæces.

In pursuing his investigations regarding the habits of these worms, Mr. Haserick tried numerous agencies for an external application, before becoming sure of the virtue of lard for the purpose. He says he has observed the worms approach the orifice, move about, and return to die, being unable to lay their eggs upon the oily surface. No internal medicine of any kind is necessary.

Mr. Haserick also asserts that children can be relieved in the same way, by the application of lard to the anus. The severe itching in that locality is caused by the parasites crawling to the surface to deposit the egg, and if this can be prevented so that no new families may hatch and colonize, the old ones soon die out and relief is given.

WILL Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Teas direct to customers, by the pound, as low as by the cargo, a saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to FINE FLAVORED TEAS, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price lists."

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the county at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

MR. POGGELTHORPE.
By Henry Ward Beecher.

It is not wise to make sport of men. If it does not hurt them, it surely will injure us. "To make game" of anything is a very expressive phrase. To hunt a man, to watch for his habits, to caricature his expressions, to ridicule his weaknesses, and, in short, to make game of him, is apt to destroy that justice and fair dealing which are necessary to good fellowship.

And yet, what shall we do? There are men who oblige us either to criticise or to quarrel, or in some mild way to cover their weaknesses and faults with a gentle ridicule. A fault which excites in us a good natured mirth, hardly seems any more a fault. Bitter criticism and scornful raillery are to be reserved for serious offences of a high grade of guilt. But those inequalities and weaknesses in our friends which, like little stones in a good road, jolt and jar our progress with them, are generally best treated with good natured and even complimentary persiflage.

Vanity, especially, is lawful prey. It would seem, too, as if good natured banter was a natural penalty appointed for sin of that kind. Vanity is an indiscreet lust of praise. It is well paid and punished by good natured ridicule.

Mr. Poggelthorpe is a good friend of mine, as you will see by the way I shall pick him to pieces. He has a kind heart, and when his own interests are not concerned, he is generous. Being some few years older than I am, and having a reputation, and a deserved one, for good scholarship, he patronizes me. I never go to his study that he does not treat me to portions of his last sermon—as though I had not enough of that food at home. He recounts at the happy turns of conversation he has lately made. He never leaves out those nice little repartees and those keen thrusts in which he seems to himself always a victor. I look upon him with envy. How happy he is in himself! How fortunate must that die position be that glows and coruscates with such a summer of self-gratulation! I wonder if he ever thinks meanly of himself or of his achievements? Does he ever turn away in disgust from all his performances, as poor and worthless? Does he ever marvel what he was born for, and what use there is in his continuing to live? Does he respect men who decry him, and entertain contempt for those who praise him? Does he feel about once a week that he has mistaken his calling—that he never has done anything and never shall do anything

Never! Such experiences are reserved for men not so nicely endowed with self-complacency. Mr. Poggelthorpe lives in a blaze of satisfaction. He is his own burning-bush, and his own little god in it. He glows and sparkles, he rejoices and laughs, he bubbles and runs over with his own excellence. Lucky man that he is!

But so really good of heart is he, that all this wealth of self-appreciation makes him kind to others. And one really cannot find it in his heart to get angry at this innocent and childlike gladness which he has in his own doings and endowments.

In a lower sphere I have see something analogous to this. I refer to the much misunderstood hen. Nothing that I see all summer long, seems to me so entirely contented with itself as a hen. Hens put on no airs, for they need none. They seem immensely busy all day about trifles. There is a bustling industry in scratching, there is such a look of sharp discernment when a stick turns up, and they are so contempt with their own crooning and singing, that one cannot watch them without a smile.

But, of all their doings, nothing fills them with such wonder as the laying of an egg. The hen stands into her nest with the most perfect silence. Patiently she awaits the event. Once sure of the fact, she feels all the joy of a discoverer, the enthusiasm of an inventor, and the vanity of an author! She has laid a world! It is more an era than an egg! This is creation! She listens. Shall nothing celebrate the event? It shall not die unknown. Off she flies with exuberance of noise, with an intensity of cackle, and excitement of delight, that seems to say, "A new thing!" "A wonderful thing!" "An admirable thing!" "And I did it!"

She plumps down from the hay-mow. She goes proclaiming aloud her marvellous luck, till the neighborhood echoes her cackles. The hens in the barn-yard, expecting the same favor in their turn, all join and cackle. The cock, with imperious satisfaction, moves about cackling "qui facet per atium facit per se."

To-morrow it will be just so again! The egg of to-day hides the egg of yesterday. The wonder is never stale. The joy breaks out afresh on each occasion, as if there had never been another such experience!

These are the Poggelthorpes of the barn. Or is it that Poggelthorpe is the hen of the pulpit? Every day he lays an egg, and Sunday he lays two!
—N. Y. Ledger.

—The encroachments of the sea upon the New Jersey shore have been frequently mentioned. The process still continues, and the lighthouse at Atlantic City is said to be in danger from the washing away of the shore. The sea has advanced from two to three hundred feet within six or eight years.

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have; and when it comes, strange to say, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stolidly unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.
Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.
J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.
I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they come to my notice; but feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken of rest at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.
This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine to her going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon got her accustomed night-rest, and by revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The News.

The Boston Advertiser's Washington correspondent thinks that Gen. Grant will not select either Senators Sumner, Wade nor Wilson as members of his Cabinet, and that the New England member will be either Mr. Motley or Congressman Boutwell.

The editor of the Montgomery (Alabama) Mail has been sentenced to $50 fine and five days' imprisonment for refusing to do jury duty.

The bodies of all the conspirators in the assassination of Pres't Lincoln have been disinterred and given in charge to their friends.

The city of Trinidad, Cuba, has been declared in a state of siege. An engagement has taken place at Moncarqua, between the troops and revolutionists. Official accounts claim a victory for the government. Sugar continues firm, and operations are limited.

Weston arrived in Auburn, N. Y., on Monday. He had travelled 747 miles.

New Hampshire Items.

Myron Green and Mrs. Elliot, who eloped together from Suncook, have been arrested at Chicago; also Edward Larkin, who ran off with a Miss Elliot. A pack of fools.

A man who called himself Geo. T. Trask, and pretended to be a Mason, recently spent some time at the Ashuelot House in Hinsdale, and on leaving paid his bill with a $150 check on a Boston bank, saying that he would come back and take the balance due him. The check has been returned with "bogus" stamped upon it.

Trees in Fremont and Kingston were shivered by lightning in the thunder storm of week before last.

Rev. John M. Merrick, who for the past two years has had charge of the Universalist Society in Foxboro' Mass., has accepted a call from the Unitarian Society in Charlestown.

The town of Epping voted on the 10th not to raise money to aid in building the Rochester and Nashua Railroad.

A Mrs. Blanchard, of Walpole, who is nearly eighty years of age, is cutting her third set of teeth.

The Concord Patriot understands that there are twenty-five thousand bushels of potatoes held in the immediate vicinity of Bradford waiting for a rise.

Mrs. Blake of Hopkinton, a lady of seventy-one years of age, has spun since last June, eighty-eight skeins of woolen yarn, and woven a hundred and seventy yards of cloth on an old-fashioned loom —and has done a large share of the household work.

Mrs. Polly Clark of Hampstead, ninety years old, made twenty or thirty cheeses during the past season, and a large amount of butter. She has done all the knitting for a family of four sons for years past, and performed a fair share of house work for the son with whom she lives. Her stories of olden times indicate a mind as vigorous as her body.

In Bethlehem, Jan. 3, Mr. Asa E. Swasey was thrown down and run over by a four-ox team loaded with logs. His right leg was broken below the knee.—Mr. S. remained beneath the team fifteen minutes before he was released. It was thirty hours before a physician could be had, but it is said the limb will be saved.

At Walpole, Rev. R. N. Bellows is to preach for the Unitarians during the next year. The young ladies have raised $130 in cash, besides clothing, for the Boston Children's Mission. Rev. F. S. Fisher preached his farewell sermon to the Episcopal Society on the 31st ult. On the 26th ult., Mr. William Mellish attempted to cross Cold River on an unfinished railroad bridge, and fell twenty feet upon the ice. He lived but three days.

The Lake Village Times alludes to the man who sent 25 cents for "a splendid steel engraving of Andrew Jackson," and got a postage stamp; and thinks a citizen of that place came off about as well. He sent one dollar for "a music box in a highly polished case, metallic tongues, eight select airs," and got a harmonicon. So much for swindlers, and for trying to get more than your money's worth.

Peter Mitchell of Manchester was run over and fatally injured, on Tuesday, by the morning train from Nashua. He was 65 years of age. The sleigh he was in was carried 20 feet and the horse was knocked into a ditch.

A weekly paper in the French language is to be started in Manchester.—It will be called the Voice of the People.

Rev. S. C. Kimball of Newmarket has accepted a call from the Freewill Baptist Church at Wells, Me.

Chronicle Correspondence.

EXETER, Feb. 15.

During the past eight days we have had an almost continuous round of entertainments. On Sunday, 7th inst., Rev. R. G. Toles, Sup't. of the Baldwin Place Home for Little Wanderers, delivered their interesting addresses in behalf of that beneficial institution. He gave a graphic account of the important work performed by the Home, and the substantial benefits resulting from its operations. During the three years and seven months since the Home was established, no less than 2100 children have been received; most of whom have been placed in good homes;—"just where they ought to be," said Mr. Toles: "in the arms of christian affection,—the only home ever ordained of God." Eight of the Little Wanderers were present, and rendered several hymns and songs in excellent style.

Monday evening, Till, Alix, and Weston's minstrel troupe played to a fair house. I understand this troupe intend visiting your city soon, when your readers can judge of their merits for themselves.

On Tuesday evening J. F. Manning, of Worcester, Mass., delivered his popular lecture, "The Power of Culture," in which he demonstrated the necessity of education in a masterly manner. Mr. M. has a very pleasing address, and his entire lecture is searching and comprehensive; showing great ability and careful study in its preparation.

The officers of Star in the East Lodge were duly installed on Thursday evening, at Masonic Hall. The installation services were performed by Post Master J. J. Bell, who was deputized for the occasion, and to whom I am indebted for the following list of the officers;—Master, Chas. G. Conner; Sen. Warden, Jos. S. Parsons; Jun. Warden, Dan'l W. Ranlet; Treasurer, N. A. Shute; Secretary, Wm. H. Hobbs; Sen. Deacon, Chas. C. Hunkins; Jun. Deacon, E. K. Wheler; Chaplain, Jas. H. Wilkinson; Marshal, Eben Folsom; Dep. Marshal, Thos. Leavitt; Stewards Jos. E. Lang and Geo. E. Lane; Tyler, H. S. P. Rollins. The ceremonies were witnessed by nearly 100 members of the Lodge, and about the same number of ladies. A collation and dance succeeded, much to the enjoyment of all present. The Lodge now numbers 100 members, and is constantly receiving accessions.

Friday and Saturday, day and evening, was devoted to exhibitions and instruction in velocipede riding. Mr. J. J. Smith of Haverhill, Mass., has opened a school at the Town Hall, and has a large number of pupils, several of whom have become quite proficient in velocipedistocal evolutions. The awkward attempts of green horne provoke hearty laughter, but a little practice enables one to propel the novel machines in a very creditable manner.

Political matters are unusually quiet for the season. Only three weeks to election, and no more excitement than in April, generally.

The News-Letter ascribes this change to "the election of Gen. Grant to the Presidency." It is to be hoped we shall be favored with addresses from prominent Republicans, between now and election.

Mr. Geo. E. Lane, a popular bookseller, has purchased the stock of H. P. Clement's newspaper and periodical store, at the old stand of Fogg and Fellows, and has associated with himself Mr. H. P. Rollins, who will conduct the business of the new store. H.

Congress.

The House passed a joint resolution on Monday giving the consent of Congress to the Northern Pacific Company to issue its bonds and secure the same by mortgage on its railroad line, for the purpose of raising funds with which to construct a line between Lake Superior and Puget's Sound, and on its branch to a point at or near Portland, Oregon; the term Puget's Sound to apply to all waters connected with the straits of Juan de Fuca, within the territory of the United States.

The Senate amendments to the Constitutional Amendment were non-concurred in and a joint committee of Conference was appointed.

☞ Elder Knapp, the noted revivalist, has made a grand land speculation in California. He bought 18,000 acres of land for $18,000, and another speculator gave him $18,000 in gold for his bargain. The elder considers this a special providence, as the land first, and the gold afterwards, were offered to him without his seeking.

☞ The 5th Avenue Baptist Church have withdrawn their fellowship from Rev. Crammont Kennedy, author of a book on Close and Open Communion, —probably on account of the book.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A Curiosity for the Ladies.

There is on exhibition, at the salesroom of Messrs Wheeler & Wilson, No. 625 Broadway, the first Sewing-Machine (No. 1) made by that Company, the present number being 350,000. Let the interested compare the machine sold in 1869 for $125, with those now offered for $55. The former owner of this machine gives its history as follows:

The machine was finished early in 1851, and I learned its use from Mr. Wilson himself. I was thus you see, the first to work the Wheeler & Wilson Machine, and learned on the first machine they ever manufactured. In 1854, I left with the machine, $293, besides doing my own housework and taking care of my baby. In 1856, we came to Davenport, and brought the machine with us. I believe it is the first machine ever brought to Iowa.

I run that machine almost constantly for more than fourteen years, on all sorts of work, from the finest dressmaking to the heaviest tailoring. I quilted a full-size white bedspread with it, which has been exhibited three times at the fair. It took me three weeks to do it with my other work; but it could not have been done by hand in as many years. I have stitched leather with it, and at the time I exchanged it (in 1865) for No. 193,320, it worked just as well as when made.

It is, perhaps, unnecessary for me to add that I believe the Wheeler & Wilson to be vastly superior to any other machine made.

f20 Yours respectfully, P. E. B.

MISS JUDITH RUSSEL, of New Bedford writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the PLANTATION BITTERS. 15

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Holloway's Pills.

—A successful physician, being challenged by some medical martinets, to describe a certain complaint, quietly replied:—"Gentlemen, it is a disorder which you can't cure and I can." Dr. Holloway might say the same to the faculty as regards Dyspepsia. His celebrated Pills cure it infallibly, and when all other remedies have proved utterly useless. There is no disease of the Stomach or the Liver, acute or chronic, but yields to this great remedy, which the Pills not ameliorate and relieve. Sold by all Drugg'ists.

The Plaster of the "Time,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, but his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

They are perfectly safe and innocent; no need of changing the working of your cattle. They increase the appetite, give a fine coat, cleanse the stomach and urinary organs; also increase the milk of cows. Try them, and you will never be without them.

Col. Philip P. Bush, of the Jerome Race Course, Fordham, N. Y., would not use them until he was told of what they are composed, since which he is never without them. He has charge of valuable horses in his charge, and for the last three years has used no other medicine for them. He has kindly consented to the working of your cattle for him. Over 1,000 other references can be seen at the depot. Sold by Druggists and Saddlers. Price 25 cents per box. Depot, 10 Park Place, New York.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted fluid lamp. In a moment the blaze wrapped us around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—Jane came up from the kitchen and put out every light then burning, "because the house was afire;" and Bridget, returning with a pail of water, tumbled down, upset the water, and bumped her nose. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the polished floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly bruised.

Then how quickly DAVIS' PAIN KILLER soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

It contains no opium in any form. It is perfectly harmless for the most delicate child. It is everywhere in good demand and gives good satisfaction.

The result of its use is proof of its great value.—Its extraordinary healing properties are experienced by all who use it. Their testimony will be found in a pamphlet, which can be had of the agents where the medicine is for sale.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes healthy blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To those three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions; relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care, that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which is a preventive of rheumatism, made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give one medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Cancker, Ulcerated Throat, unless Sick liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, or bronchial irritation, plears adhesion to the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting away, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; the healthy blood begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly healthy.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the early last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the celebrated medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer he makes a fee of $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yja4

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A Curiosity for the Ladies.

There is on exhibition, at the salesroom of Messrs Wheeler & Wilson, No. 625 Broadway, the first Sewing-Machine (No. 1) made by that Company, the present number being 350,000. Let the interested compare the machine sold in 1869 for $125, with those now offered for $55. The former owner of this machine gives its history as follows:

The machine was finished early in 1851, and I learned its use from Mr. Wilson himself. I was thus you see, the first to work the Wheeler & Wilson Machine, and learned on the first machine they ever manufactured. In 1854, I left with the machine, $293, besides doing my own housework and taking care of my baby. In 1856, we came to Davenport, and brought the machine with us. I believe it is the first machine ever brought to Iowa.

I run that machine almost constantly for more than fourteen years, on all sorts of work, from the finest dressmaking to the heaviest tailoring. I quilted a full-size white bedspread with it, which has been exhibited three times at the fair. It took me three weeks to do it with my other work; but it could not have been done by hand in as many years. I have stitched leather with it, and at the time I exchanged it (in 1865) for No. 193,320, it worked just as well as when made.

It is, perhaps, unnecessary for me to add that I believe the Wheeler & Wilson to be vastly superior to any other machine made.

f20 Yours respectfully, P. E. B.

MISS JUDITH RUSSEL, of New Bedford writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the PLANTATION BITTERS. 15

QUALITY and quantity are the two desirable attendants of "Barrett's Vegetable Hair Restorative." LOCAL AFFAIRS.

WE'VE SEEN IT and the elephant attracts much attention, while its keepers are doing a good thing for themselves by letting it by the minute. The velocipede is at last an institution among us, and the "rink" is well filled day and evening by riders and spectators.—Said "rink" is about 25 feet square and affords room (?) for three of the machines.

Our first glimpse of the animal was convincing. A grave and dignified gentleman bestrode a narrow cushion, before and behind which were two wheels, an inch or more wide—or narrow. A rudder in front steered the concern, which wabbled about in unskilful hands like a returned sailor a little over the bay. The individual in question wore on his countenance a fierce look of determination, like one possessed of persistent will. Large drops of moisture trickled in rivulets adown his manly brow, and a flush, the result of exertion, illumed his countenance.

Thrice he essayed to start the untamed steed, and thrice came he to the ground, amidst the hearty applause of the appreciative lookers-on. At last success seemed about to crown his efforts, when another awkward rider appeared upon the scene and the machines went down instantly, spilling their riders. An enthusiastic pitcher of base ball renown joined in the sport and succeeded in moving several feet (his own) with ease--more ease than elegance. The machine seemed to prefer a recumbent position, and was constantly balking the frantic efforts of its patrons to make the thing go on like a good-natured velocipede.

Lawyers, doctors, merchants, naval officers, clerks, and representatives of all professions and trades in town were anxious to learn, and some made good progress. The speed attained by proficients in the art is truly astonishing, and the desire to own and occupy the new go-hicle is general. Next summer our staid citizens will no doubt see scores of the artists in this line mounted on their own veloce, going through our public streets at a fearful rate, regardless of the presence of envious pedestrians. The only objection that can be made to the practice will come from the ladies (who can't ride unless some new style of velocipede is invented for their benefit), as the machine will promote more "gander" parties—with the dear creatures left out in the cold.

How convenient it will be for excursionizing to the beaches when pleasant weather and good travelling shall have rendered the amusing performance agreeable. The new propellers are in a degree taking the place of horses.—They cost nothing for keeping and are said to be healthy as exercisers. Just now it costs ten cents to see the fun (in doors) and a cent a minute to learn to ride them. They are decidedly a sensation, and will come into general use when sold at reasonable rates, instead of at the enormous fancy prices now charged.

An enthusiastic student of the new art will soon become an adept, and invalids can (it is claimed) get their fresh air and exercise in this way cheaper than in any other.

In gaining health, if you'd succeed,
Just mount your grand velocipede;
To take a turn around the town,
Make both your legs go up and down.
Thus, if you'd strengthen limb and lung,
Begin to go it while you're young.

☞ The audience in attendance at the Temple last evening, to witness the Bunyan allegories of the Christian, in his Pilgrimage to the Better Land, fully endorsed by general approval the Visions as they passed before their view.—A breathless stillness pervaded the hall, and the expectation, sincerity and hope, from the countenance of the Pilgrim, seemed reflected in the faces of the audience. Such scenes might indeed create a feeling of reverence and piety, for nothing of the character of this exhibition, that we have seen, can compare with it as a work of art, or in sublimity and beauty of the subject. At the close, the grand transformation scene elicited much applause and wonderment, at the marvelous and enchanting effects which portrayed so fairy a scene of the future home of the blessed.

Again, this evening, the exhibition will be open—and the School Children should bear in mind the Matinee this Afternoon for their benefit, when at the nominal price of 10 cents they will all be admitted. Let all see the Pilgrim, as he journeys on.

☞ The Manchester Mirror says of Hon. John H. Bailey, Republican candidate for Senator in this first district; the Republicans present a new man of ability, energy and prudence,—one for whom the boys will work and who cannot be easily defeated. With such a man and such earnest friends, there is no such word as fail.

☞ The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Colcord of this city, surprised that worthy and hospitable couple, on Monday evening, by calling upon them in crowds, on occasion of their Silver Wedding. May they see their Golden anniversary.

The latch-string of Albert Blaisdell, Esq., of Greenland, is always out, and everybody knows it; and so a numerous and gay company of his friends from all parts, to the number of sixty or seventy couple, rushed in upon him Tuesday eve'g, and took possession of the spacious and elegant premises. Mr. B. was present himself, and received a handsome present; Conductor Batchelder seemed to be largely responsible for such conduct; and General Natt. Head, as usual, appeared among the head ones in the general arrangements. But we can't stop this morning to give details. The ladies were of course charming, only Lamprey's Band kept 'em flying round so, it was not slow work keeping near the dear creatures.

For the Chronicle.

ATTENTION is called to the great Auction Sale of a Bankrupt Stock of Irish Linens and other Staple Dry Goods commencing this day at 70 State Street, and for a few days only. Among this Stock will be found some of the finest Linens imported, rich Irish Silk Poplin Dress Patterns, Marseilles Quilts, White and Colored; Broadcloth, Cassimeres, and many other desirable goods, Ladies Particularly Invited to attend. All goods warranted as represented. Sale each day 2 1-2 & 7 P. M. H. F. WENDELL, auctioneer.

☞ His friends, and those who enjoy a fine lecture, will bear in mind Wendell Phillips' Lecture on the Lost Arts this (Wednesday) evening at Congress Hall, commencing at a quarter before 8. All citizens who appreciate finished oratory will be glad once more to hear the man of whom Mrs. Stowe says, "his oratory is so captivating that even the unpopularity of his sentiments could not prevent the multitude from rushing to hear him." In this lecture, however, we are safe from all danger of offensive political sentiments to any.

☞ Mr. Jerome C. Butler is fitting up the fine chamber over Messrs. Shedd & Co's store, in very neat style, for his Insurance and Piano business.

Mr. Montgomery is getting quite a list of pupils in the Penmanship line, next door; and the more the better, for the public as well as himself. We wish it were practicable for such an instructor to teach this science in our public schools; and another, equally thorough in that department, to teach music.

HANDSOME BEEF,—That yoke of 5-year old steers, now hanging on the shambles at Garrett's Provision Store on Market Street. They weigh between 2300 and 2400 dressed, and are from the farm of M. H. Wentworth, Esq., at Gravelly Ridge. They were fatted on cooked food, under direction of Mr. Wm. B. Jenness, the farmer in charge; and the meat looks good enough to eat, sure.

☞ There is said to be much more Hay unsold in this vicinity than is usual at this time of year. A well-informed correspondent estimates the quantity in this city at 1000 tons, and another 1000 within ten miles. The price is low, and little prospect, he thinks, of being higher—and he is a large seller rather than buyer. The best time, ten years together, for farmers to dispose of their hay, is October.

☞ The copious rain of Monday, about finished the sleighing in this vicinity, and wheels have generally taken the place of runners, although a few horses still try to scrape around in sleighs in the city. We have had but very few days of good sleighing this season, and are not likely to get much more now.

THE VENISON SUPPER that was to come off at the Sagamore House on the 15th, and was postponed on account of the weather, will come off this (Wednesday) Evening at 8 o'clock.

☞ Among the list of Americans registered at Paris, for the week ending January 28, was William H. Rollins, Esq., of this city.

☞ The country is rejoiced that Andrew has got but fifteen days more to remain in the White House. It is sad to think, however, that all the while the days will be growing longer.

We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality. With a full knowledge of the value of the assortion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable. Mr. J. F. THE "AMERICAN PROTESTANT," DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE AMERICAN PROTESTANT ASSOCIATION, and Republican Principles. THE BEST ADVERTIRING MEDIUM In America. CIRCULATING IN EVERY STATE IN THE UNION. PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY BY THE American Protestant Publishing Co., NO. 32 CONGRESS ST., ROOM 8, BOSTON.

This journal will contain Editorial articles on the present situation of affairs throughout the Republic, always keeping a watchful eye over "our faith and our firesides."

The time has come for Protestants to take action. The success of our cause, the triumph of Civil and Religious Liberty, is too great to jeopardize by trivial or personal differences.

Let us go forth with "Loyalty, Justice and Liberty," and be true to ourselves and our cause—and "Rebellion and Popery" will crumble in the dust. The paper is 24 by 34 inches, printed on new type, and contains the general news of the day.

We ask the support of every Republican, and promise in return to make our journal a welcome visitor to every Protestant home in America.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs. ☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease. ☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time. ☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time. Morning Chronicle.

Letter from Rev. I. F. Holton, So. Malden, Mass.

ON A FEW BOOKS.

Concluded.

Drawing comes next after reading writing and arithmetic in importance. The rudiments in drawing are the cheapest means to good penmanship. A painter's eye is worth more to a man than a flower-garden or even a choice picture-gallery. Most wisely then has Boston given her grammar-schools and higher schools a drawing-master—Prof. W. N. Bartholomew, in charge of this department, is preparing a series of twelve drawing-books, each to contain twelve plates and twelve leaves of drawing-paper. Nos. 1–3 and 9 are already issued by those men of worth, Woodworth, Ainsworth & Co. Nos. 1 and 2 are lines; 3 is perspective; 9 contains horses, cows and sheep. The pages are of sufficient size to draw each copy twice. Ample directions for the teacher are printed on the covers.—Prof. Bartholemew has not so strictly followed the laws of bibliography as to enable us to determine whether a pamphlet of his contains the whole of his Teachers' Guide, or only some extracts from it. This series is to be used in classes, and all the scholars are to be kept together. Every school ought to try this series unless something better can be found, which we deem doubtful.

Government.—New Hampshire is frequently on the eve of election. It is now not inopportune to introduce to your readers the Analysis of Civil Government, by Calvin Townsend; published by Ivison, Phinney, Blakeman & Co. Here in only 342 pages—a book which a stump speaker can carry in his pocket,—we have a history of our civil institutions, a most thorough analysis of the Constitution, with annotations showing its working. Here I discover my mistake in supposing that a district must select one of its own inhabitants to represent it in Congress. The efforts of the Federalists to elect Burr to the Presidency are recited with no comment on their suicidal folly. The volume must be smaller by a leaf or two in consequence of having been prepared before the impeachment of Andrew Johnson. We see that Pennsylvania has had a bad Governor before our remembrance, for Franklin tells of one (p. 210) who would never sign an important bill without "an increase of salary or some donation." We have no substitute for this book except in works of great extent. Even lawyers will find this thorough, well-indexed schoolbook a great convenience. I see the retail price marked at $1.50, but a chart of 52 pages, 15x20 inches each, to be read across the room by pupils or unbelievers, accompanies it at $6.

Webster's Dictionaries, small, smaller, less, lesser and least, next occur to us, from the publishers last mentioned. They are to be seven in number, at prices .50, .60, .70, .75, 1.00, 1.75 and 2.25. The first is for the vest pocket. The second is like it, but for army and navy, complete, with ample accessories, and weighs but four ounces. All the others are illustrated, and bear the names of Primary-school, Common-school, High-school, Academic, and Country-house and Family. Besides the illustrations scattered through the text there is another set at the end, nor are these the same in any two. I doubt whether the question of right and wrong has had so much to do with settling our spelling as printer's enterprise. And of that enterprise these seven volumes, rising one above the other like Shakspeare's "seven stories of life," are the pinnacle. And, best of all, the decision is right. I see no sense in stealing an l from dul and adding it to travell to make dulness and traveller with Worcester. And we read that Webster's dictionary was called into court to settle the precise meaning of the word survivor in Worcester's will!

Poetry.—Four very small volumes from Fields, Osgood & Co., containing the entire poetical works of Longfellow, Tennyson, Scott and Whittier, close this too long letter. In their more bulky form they would fill quite a shelf and cost not a little. Their portableness is a great merit, and the fineness of the type but little detraction. What most I miss is the notes of Scott. "When I get rich" I will seek an octavo Scott with notes, maps and views. It seems to me that his vast amount of prose has made less impression on the public mind than this little handful of poetry.

Just So.

Dogs are the greatest wags we have.
Cod livers—the cod fishermen.
Is a male eel a gent-eel fellow?
Tailors are very much like scared horses, they shear so.
"One among a thousand"—he who hasn't a cold.

A Farmer, more than most men, needs pluck, faith in himself and in nature, and above all, patience. He must wait for results; and, while doing so, it is important that his surroundings should be as pleasant as he can afford to make them. A cheerful healthy location is of more value than a fine house. Farming is a trade; and a man has to learn it, however much he may know; the knowledge must be applied, and made the man's business. He cannot learn it in a day, but must expect to improve constantly.

—A gentleman, driving up to a country inn, accosted a youth thusly:

"My lad, extricate my quadruped from the vehicle, stabulate him, donate him a sufficient supply of nutritious aliment, and when the aurora of morn shall again illuminate the oriental horizon, I will award you a pecuniary compensation for your amiable hospitality."

The boy becoming puzzled, and not comprehending the meaning of the gentleman's high sounding effusion, ran into the house, and exclaimed: "Daddy, there is a Dutchman out here who wants some lager beer."

THE ORIENTAL TEA COMPANY

Will Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Teas direct to customers, by the pound, as low as by the cargo, a saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to Fine Flavored Teas, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price lists."

EXPERIENCE PROVES the Finest Teas relatively the cheapest, as the Government Duty, 3 cents in Gold, or nearly 40 cents in currency, and also the freight, packing and other expenses of importing, are as much on the poorest as the finest.

OUR COFFEE DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, or satisfactory reference.

WE GUARANTEE all our Goods to be precisely as represented, and WARRANT them to give perfect satisfaction or to return the money at any time and pay all expenses.

SEND FOR PRICE LIST and blank club orders. Address all orders and communications to the

THE CHURCH ON ZION'S HILL.

Messrs. Editors:—A friend has shown me a paper professing to give some accounts of the Universalist Societies in Newmarket and Portsmouth, — which accounts are about as full of error as they could be, if it was designed to misrepresent every circumstance.

It is not my purpose now to say any thing in particular about the Portsmouth Society, which I suppose is able to take care of itself, and whose members must laugh at the trash, if they read the paper referred to.

But I deem this a suitable time to give a brief sketch of the Universalist Society in Newmarket, and of their Church on Zion's Hill, as Bro. Hanscom used to call it.

The Universalist Society in Newmarket was admitted to the fellowship of the Rockingham Association, in 1831.

Rev. Wm. C. Hanscom, their first pastor, took part in the Association of 1835, as Clerk, and the society was then large and prosperous. His ministry, however, was short; he was succeeded by Rev. Messrs. Bunker and Bulkley. The Rockingham Association met there in 1840, Mr. Bulkely being Moderator. After the year 1842, he does not appear in the minutes of the Association.

In 1847, Rev. J. W. Gage preached at N., and took part in the Association, —that year only; and since that time, during the last twenty years and more, the Universalist Society in Newmarket has had preaching but a very small part of the time.

About a dozen years ago, the Unitarians hired and occupied the Universalist Meeting House, for one year.

In the year 1857, the Rockingham Association met in Newmarket, and Rev. Mr. Damon, the Unitarian minister there, took part in the exercises, which were held in the stone Meeting House, recently sold.

Since that time the House has been used but little, for any purpose. The Adventists have held some meetings in it, and a very few sermons have been preached by others. The organ was sold some years ago, because it would decay or depreciate: and lately the bell, a very fine one, was sold to the Methodist Society in Greenland, and the House to the Catholics. The net proceeds are advertised to be distributed to the owners of pews, on the 5th of March.

As a society for public worship, it has had no prosperity, and not much vitality for at least a score of years. Of course it did not die, as suggested, of loyalty, or disloyalty, or any modern disease, but of old, chronic, domestic complaints.

The Agents of the Manufactories there, who were favorable at one period, were succeeded by others who took another course: the operatives in 1835 were many of them Universalists: in subsequent years they have been removed, and their places filled by others. A very considerable number of the pew-owners, (who only were parishioners,) have lived elsewhere for years, and for this reason in part, it is, that the distribution is advertised in the papers.

But the sale of the House, now, has no significance beyond the sale of any other unoccupied building; and it gives the Catholics a good house at a low price. A UNIVERSALIST.

THE ELEPHANT.—The elephant of the Jardin des Plantes at Paris, says Mrs. Lee, used to play his visitors a trick which could not have been thought of but by an animal of intelligence.—His house opened upon an enclosure called the elephant's park, containing a pond, in which he would lay himself under the water, concealing every part of him except the very end of his trunk, a mere speck, that would hardly be noticed by a stranger to the animal's habits. A crowd would often assemble around the enclosure, and, not seeing him in it, would watch in expectation that he would soon issue from his house. But, whilst they were gazing about, a copious sprinkling of water would fall upon them, and ladies and gentlemen, with their fine bonnets and coats, would run for shelter under the trees, looking up at the clear sky and wondering from whence such a shower should come.—Immediately afterwards, however, they would see the elephant rising slowly from his bath, evincing, as it seemed, an awkward joy at the trick that he had played. In the course of time his amusement became generally known, and the moment the water began to rise from his trunk, the spectators would take flight, at which he appeared exceedingly delighted, getting up as fast as he could to see the bustle that he had caused.—Anecdotes of Animals.

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the paroxysms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have; and when it comes, strange to say, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stoically unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and benificent medicine.

Important Certificate.

Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.

J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.
I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken of rest at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.
This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The first dose administered left the impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon got her accustomed sleep—rapidly revived in health and strength in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.

The News.

The committee appointed by the Union League Club of New York to memorialize Congress for a change in the naturalization laws, have left for Washington. Their memorial is a monster petition, being 500 feet in length and containing over 27,000 signatures. It includes several hundred names from this city.

The President of the U. S. Senate has appointed as a committee to make arrangements for the inauguration of General Grant as President, Senators Yates of Illinois, Cragin of New Hampshire and McCreery of Kentucky.

The British Parliament was formally opened on Tuesday.

Popular outbreaks have occurred in various parts of Spain. Six thousand troops will soon sail from Cadiz for Cuba.

Gen. Dulce's course in Cuba renders him unpopular. The authorities have imprisoned American citizens. The insurrection is gaining strength.

A lad in South Paris, Me., ten years of age, son of J. K. Hammond of Paris, was killed on Tuesday while coasting. He ran against a stake which pierced his body and caused death almost instantly.

The New York World says that Chas. Jefferds, who was killed in the New York State Prison by a fellow-convict a year ago, was the murderer of Dr. Burdell 12 years ago, and that Mrs. Cunningham, with whom he was intimate, was accessory to the murder.

Congress.

In the Senate, on Tuesday, the House bill for the removal of political disabilities was passed.

In the House a long bill providing for the publication of the Congressional Record was introduced by Mr. Ela of N. H., and the bill for the removal of political disabilities was taken up and passed. The evening session was devoted to the tax bill, which was finally passed.

Chronicle Correspondence.

DOVER, Feb. 17.

The indictment against Dr. David McDaniel of Barrington, who was indicted for the murder of Elizabeth Currie, by means of instruments used for the purpose of procuring an abortion, is still on trial before the Supreme Judicial Court, Judge Bellows presiding.

The testimony on behalf of the State was concluded this afternoon, and the case was opened on behalf of the Defendant. The State relies on the dying declarations of the deceased, while the defence will attempt to show that the deceased was not in the place where she stated she was on the day she was operated upon, and that the Dr. was not at home at the time she fixed as the period of operation.

The Court room is filled with spectators, among whom are about fifty of the fair sex.

HARD ON THE ENGINEER.—An engineer on the O. & M. R. R. tells the following story on himself: One night the train stopped to wood and water at a small station in Indiana. While this operation was going on I observed two green-looking countrymen, in "humspun," curiously inspecting the locomotive and occasionally giving vent to expressions of astonishment. Finally one of them looked up at me and said,

"Stranger, are this a locomotive?"

"Certainly. Didn't you ever see one before?"

"No, haven't never saw one afore. Me'n Bill come down to the station tonight purpose to see one. Them's the biler, ain't it?"

"Yes, certainly."

"What yer call that you're in?"

"We call this the cab."

"And this big wheel?"

"That's the driving wheel."

"That big black thing on top is the chimbly, I suppose?"

"Precisely."

"Be you the engineer wot runs the machine?"

"I am the engineer."

"Bill," said the fellow to his mate, after eyeing me closely for a few minutes, "it don't take much of a man to be engineer, does it?"

"All aboard!"

Vice Presidents—Sam'l Adams, Thos. H. Odion, William H. Hackett.
Secretary—Jerome C. Butler.
Treasurer—Henry M. Clark.
Managers—Ezra A. Stevens, Frank Jones, Benjamin Cheever, Joseph Parry, William R. Preston, Frank W. Miller, Thomas S. Nowell, Isaiah Wilson, Charles Robinson, John H. Bailey, Jeremiah C. Carr, Charles H. Mendum.

THE GRAND BAL MASQUE next Monday evening will be a merry affair. Tickets are in great demand, but Mr. Eldredge has but few at his disposal. No person will be admitted to the floor without being properly costumed and masked. Messrs. Curtis and Woodbury of Boston will be in town, Saturday afternoon, to receive orders for costumes.

Begging Off—a Dialogue.

Manchester News.—The Portsmouth Chronicle desires the News "to get from the U. S. Assessor at Manchester, the number of liquor sellers taxed, and then state the proportions of the parties, on its own best judgment, i. e., for what parties these sellers usually vote."

Uncle Toby.—It was not the request of the Chronicle, but of Uncle Toby personally; but let that pass, and give us the statistics.

M. N.—That might be a good way to find out what political party, as a party, sells or tries to sell the most rum—but we do not see that any particular good would result from such an exposure.

U. T.—We do not know exactly how much good it might do, but the true statement of such facts cannot do any harm. When you put to us the fair questions, "How many rumsellers have you in Portsmouth? and do they vote with your party or some other?"—we gave the plain and direct answers,—that between 90 and 100 liquor sellers were taxed by the U. S. here; and that they did not all belong to any one party;—but that about one quarter of them voted with the republican party, and the remainder with the democratic. We then requested the News to give the number of sellers in Manchester, and to tell for what parties they voted.

M. N.—It constitutes no part of our business to try to find out whether republicans or democrats, protestants or catholics sell the most rum.

U. T.—We did not ask that.—We only asked from you, the same kind of information which we gave you at your own request. And we insist upon a plain answer.

M. N.—We do not think it would please the republican party, its candidates, or the editor of the Chronicle to be informed how many republican voters sell rum, here in Manchester—our people are human, and have their failings as other people have, and "comparisons are odious." Still, if the Chronicle insists upon it, we will try find out how many republicans sell rum in this city.

Uncle Toby insists upon it; no matter who may be pleased or displeased. No backing down in such a matter. If the News is Neutral in politics, as its prospectus said, or Independent, as the paper has said, or Democratic as it seems to be sometimes, it need not be afraid to tell how many Republicans are in the traffic in Manchester,—and we shall look for the Census.—When we get that, we will get some other friend to give us the whole number, and the difference will be the vote on the other side. All of which, we hope, can be accomplished without damaging the independence, the neutrality, on the democracy of the News.

We shall have the comparative statistics somehow, and publish them. If the proportion of parties in the traffic should turn out in Manchester, to be opposite to that in Portsmouth, Portland and Boston, so be it. No honest man need be afraid of facts. Let us have them.

ADVANCE IN SUGAR.—Within a few days refined sugar has advanced about 3 1-2 cents per pound, owing to the political troubles in Cuba. The market is very buoyant for raw sugars, and holders of stocks are indisposed to sell even at the late advance. The present rise will have a tendency to stimulate shipments from Manila and other sugar producing countries.

RANGER'S GRAVE.

He's dead and gone! he's dead and gone!
And the lime tree branches wave,
And the daisy blows,
And the green grass grows,
Upon his grave.

He's dead and gone! he's dead and gone!
And he sleeps by the flowering lime,
Where he loved to lie,
When the sun was high,
In summer time.

We've laid him there, where the blessed air
Disports with the lovely light,
And raineth showers
Of dewy silver drops
So silver white;

Where the blackbird sing, and the wild bee's wings
Make music all day long,
And the cricket at night
(A dusky sprite!)
Takes up the song.

He loved to lie where his wakeful eye
Could keep me still in sight,
Whence a word or a sign,
Or a look of mine,
Brought him like light,

Nor word, nor sign, nor look of mine,
From under the lime tree bough,
With bark and bound,
And frolic round,
Shall bring him now,

But he taketh his rest, where he loved best,
In the day of his life to be,
And that place will not
Be a common spot
Of earth to me.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

DOVE-LIKE eyes sparkle with pleasure as the exquisite fragrance of PHALON'S new perfume, "FLOR DE MAYO," steals upon the senses of languid beauty. Babylon had her hanging gardens filled with choicest flowers; but such devices are not needed now. You have only to open a bottle of PHALON'S peerless extract, and the blended perfumes of a hundred exotics are at once suspended in the air. Sold by all druggists.

MISS JUDITH RUSSEL, of New Bedford writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the PLANTATION BITTERS. 15

DEATHS.

In this city, Feb. 17, FRANCIS MASON WYMAN, aged 16 years and 4 days.

A large circle of friends mourn the loss of one who, though so young, had endeared himself to them by his gentle disposition and many acts of kindness. His dying request was, that the High School, of which he was a member, should be presented with a volume for the Library as a token from him. Amiable and possessed of rare gifts of mind and heart, he will be sadly missed and never forgotten by school-mates and friends. He was a patient sufferer, and with calm resignation passed peacefully to a better land where anguish and sorrow are unknown, and partings never come.

Why is it

That the feeble totter, with uncertain steps, over the face of the earth, in danger every day of falling victims to the morbid influences by which we are all surrounded, when a tested and proven vegetable tonic, capable of endowing them with the vigor they need, is procurable in every city, town and settlement? It might reasonably be thought that after the twelve years' experience which the world has had of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, ALL would know that its effect is to prevent disease.

At this season, the atmosphere is surcharged with the seeds, of intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, pulmonary disorders, bilious complaints and the like. Persons whose nervous systems are relaxed, are the first to succumb to these distempers. Brace up the physical energies, then, with this potential vegetable tonic. It is the most powerful recuperant which the botanic kingdom has ever yielded to patient research and experiment. TRY IT. The blindest disciple of the old medical dogmas will at least admit that a tonic and alterative, compounded of approved herbs, roots and barks, can do no harm, while the testimony of thousands invites a trial of its virtues.

Vigor is the thing most needed in these cases, as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS is the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted. As a tonic, it is both mild and agreeable to the taste, and stimulating in its action upon the system.

Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the official receipts, and prescribed this harmless tonic as a preventive and cure for all cases of Chills and Fever.

The Great Medicine of the World.

Perry Davis & Son's "PAIN KILLER" may most justly be styled the great medicine of the world; for there is no region of the globe into which it has not found its way, and none where it has not long been largely used and highly prized. Moreover, there is no climate to which it has not proved to be well adapted for the cure of a considerable variety of diseases; it is a speedy and safe remedy for bruises, sprains, cuts, bruises, wounds and various other injuries, as well as for dysentery, diarrhœa, and bowel complaints generally. It is admirably suited for every race of men on the face of the globe.

It is a very significant fact that, notwithstanding the long period of time it has been before the world, it has never lost one whit of its popularity or shown the least sign of becoming unpopular; but, on the contrary, the call for it has steadily increased from its first discovery by that excellent and honored man, Perry Davis, and at no previous time has the demand for it been so great, or the quantity made been so large, as it is this day.

Another significant fact is, that nowhere has the Pain Killer ever been in higher repute, or been more generally used by families and individuals, than it has been here at home where it was first discovered and introduced, and where its proprietors, Messrs. Perry Davis & Son, have ever been held in high esteem. That the Pain Killer will continue to be what we have styled it, the great medicine of the world, there cannot be the shadow of a doubt.—Providence Advertiser. f18

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of the most confirmed cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

A TRUE STORY.

Tripping down the stairway once long ago, we fell, shattering a large, lighted dial lamp. In a twinkling the blaze spread up and around like a fiery serpent. Every tragedy has a comic side; Bridget tossed the baby on the bed, and ran for water;—aunt Mary seized the spread to extinguish the flames, and pulled the baby down on the floor;—we rushed up the spiral staircase to save a nursery light then burning, "because the house was afire," and Bridget, returning with a tub of water, tumbled down, upsetting the water, and burning herself. Meanwhile, we rolled over and over on the parlor floor, till the flame was extinguished, when one arm was found to be terribly burned.

Soothed the pain, and to-day, with a hand and arm unmarred by any scar, we write the praises of Pain Killer, valuable for many an ill and ache.—Manchester (N. H.) Every Month.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the Jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. It is the class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

We believe a great deal of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold over 700,000 watches. In every town and village of the country some wearer of a Waltham Watch may be found. Let the party about to buy ask this owner of an American Watch this question: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy a watch to place themselves by such answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself as to the price, and as to where he can buy the best value for the money.

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell our products at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that to-day we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together. WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our production we have constantly improved in STYLE AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the refusal of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all the best designs in only which, have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we have ever had, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country.—In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a retail profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders at a retail character.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, and throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care), that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood, without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop the night sweats, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesions, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will build up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Keep up this treatment. Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and never weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many Physicians similarly situated have tried Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to see Dr. Schenck personally, but Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 38 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yj4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

A DOUBLE SURPRISE.—For several days there had been whisperings that Mr. Albert Blaisdell of Greenland was to be surprised; and on Tuesday evening he was—and some other folks too. And this was the way of it.

A few of his many friends, who chanced to meet a certain benedict Conductor with an unmarried name, or another indicating freshet time, were invited to contribute toward a surprise party and fitting present, and rendezvous at the homestead at a given time. The family were informed of all, and well seconded the affair; and the fact that the whole thing was utterly unknown to Mr. B. till the last moment, proved that ladies can keep a secret, and also showed some other things.

Now said Blaisdell senior does business in Boston, but does not go up every day for a certainty; and great was the anxiety lest he might not happen to go for a day or two previous to the affair. But luckily he did, the day before; and now the point was to keep him from coming home that night—which was adroitly managed by his friend Mr. Comee of Boston, who agreed to come down with his wife and family to spend Tuesday night at Greenland, if only Mr. B.. would stay in Boston Monday night. So he did—both did, as the sequel shows.

The party having been made up, in Portsmouth, Boston, Manchester, Concord, and all about; an elegant full Dining Set of China, white with delicate green edge, and consisting of 180 pieces, selected for presentation; and a bountiful supply of the nicest refreshments, furnished by the committee,—a large portion of the guests (or hosts) of the occasion, came from Boston in the 6 o'clock Express train, which for this once was stopped a moment at Greenland at a quarter to 8.—The rest, from this vicinity, went in sleighs or other carriages,—those who took wheels wishing they had runners, and vice versa—arriving about the same time.

But how to get rid of the proprietor of the mansion, for the time being, was the question. And this, like much of the rest, was so nicely worked by Mr. and Mrs. Comee, that they proved themselves Comme il faut in all things.

Mr. C. is, like his friend Blaisdell, quite a fancier of fine horses, and he told Mr. B. he would like to try his span of blacks. So on arriving at Greenland, Tuesday at half-past 5, he insisted on driving that evening. Mr. Blaisdell observed that some things looked strange about the house, and inquired why this or that was moved, the dining room was not lighted, what the big boiler was on for, &c., and was told (alas, Mrs. Opie!) that the Church Aid Society was to meet there that night, but were coming late. On inquiring for his supper, Mr. Comee told B. that they didn't want any yet, as they dined so late. Off at last, with the span to sleigh, they got,—to call on Mr. J. L. Hobbs at North Hampton.

And just here is where the laugh comes in. After the party had all gathered in the house, and the music was ready to set the dancers to whirling; instead of the master of the premises coming back as expected,—neatly and squarely into the yard trotted the team, but without driver or rider in the sleigh—robes none, and one blanket lying on the whiffletrees! What now? The horses didn't appear at all frightened, nor were they much heated, and no damage done to anything; but what could this mean? The team was at once turned about, to seek for the riders; and although during the long, six hard miles' delay, the Band called the dance, yet the company could but ask whether they themselves had not been sold, or possibly an accident happened to mar all.

But no, it finally turned out, not that anybody was turned out, or hurt, but that the team being left standing untied in front of Mr. Hobbs' residence, some dogs started the horses off, as Mr. Comee suggested they might. The chief damage, besides the delay, was the loss of a dress blanket, but this did not prove much of a wet blanket on the fun of the thing afterwards.

Well, finally, things got to working smoothly, and all went merry enough, as is their wont here. But on looking over this company of a hundred or so, it seemed to us a little singular, that of all the much larger party in attendance at the house-warming here about fifteen years ago, there should now be but one couple (Mr. and Mrs. J. S.) and ourself present. We recollect, we went with Ned Fuller, and ladies, in a hack, on that occasion; and we think that was a pretty good time too.

As Mr. Blaisdell approached home, all lighted up and showing finely, he remarked, "I guess the Sewing Circle have got there;" and as they drove into the yard, and saw a score or so of carriages, "Why, it looks like a caravan;" and again, on entering the house, as the Band resumed playing, "What is up?" He soon found out, and supper was forthwith served,—even Mr. Comee being ready for it by this time, and offering no objections. Previous to attacking the well-loaded tables of tempting viands, William H. Hackett, Esq., on behalf of the doners, presented the elegant China Service to Mr. B. and lady, in a few fitting remarks, to which the host responded by a word of thanks, evidently felt by all.

With the subsidence of the clash of knives and forks, the clatter of the dancers was resumed; which, with fine singing by a male quartet from Boston, was kept up till to-morrow's early train—as not uncommon with such night training.

A laughable feature for all, was the old-fashioned set of four gentlemen, (including the host, the Adjt. Gen. of the State, and a jolly Provisioner of this city before referred to, and one other we didn't know) with the double-shuffle and walk-around. But all things have an end—so did this party, (though we didn't see it,) and so must our account of it. We left for home early next day, but we believe they kept Lamprey and his Band playing till daylight did appear, when after another supper, or breakfast, "All aboard" secured once more the accustomed quiet of the neighborhood. Let us hope that Set of China ware and of dancers, may long remain unbroken. F.

FUN AHEAD.—By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that Messrs. Tilton and Somerby of Newburyport are to open a Velocipede Riding School, next Tuesday, in the spacious mould-loft at Raynes' ship yard, where there is ample opportunity for ladies, as well as gentlemen, to attend and see the sport. The loft is 140 feet long by 40 feet wide, we think, and the learners will have plenty of scope for their practice without the trouble of being in each other's way,—while the spectators can enjoy the fun as much as the participants in the exercise. The ladies will be glad of the opportunity of seeing how ridiculous their gentlemen friends appear in their first attempts to manage the two-wheelers.

☞ We learn that it is probable that the Methodist Society in this city, will repair their Church on State Street, the coming season—expending, perhaps, from $5,000 to $8,000. There has been some talk of selling, and building a anew elsewhere; but the Society has lost much of its strength heretofore, for want of an earlier move in this direction, and several prominent members are opposed to the Catholics having their old house, even if they are ready to buy. It always seemed a pity to us, that such public buildings should not have plenty of land about them—and we think the best move this Society could make, would be to go half a mile at least out of town, and build on a lot of an acre or two.

THEFT AND SPEEDY ARREST.—Mr. Joseph Blackmar, on his way to Boston, on Tuesday, left his overcoat in the Eastern depot a few minutes, and William Locke of Seabrook appropriated it for his own use. Mr. B., at first, on finding out his loss, thought it best to go on to Boston and leave the coat, but was persuaded to stay and give notice of his loss at the Police Station. Officer Shannon was soon on the trail and Mr. Blackmar recovered his coat within half an hour. Locke was arraigned before Judge Odell, for theft, and bound over in the sum of $400 for his appearance at the next term of the Supreme Judicial Court.

THE PILGRIM.—This interesting entertainment was received on Wednesday by the largest attendance of children at the Temple for years. The salutary lessons taught in these remarkable allegories cannot fail to be beneficial, and leave a lasting impression for good upon the youthful mind.

To those of mature years there is food for study, and most interesting religious meaning is brought vividly to the mind, touching the heart by the genious of the author and the artist.

Words cannot express the beauty of these scenes;—they must be seen to be realized. And combined as they are with eloquent description and charming singing, an entertainment is furnished which has met the unanimous approbation of all who have seen it. It is open again to-night,—let all attend.

☞ We are desired to state that owing to the previous engagement of the Temple, the grand Distribution of fine Horses, Carriages, &c., by Messrs. John H. Ferguson & Co. this (Thursday) Evening, will take place at Rechab Hall, over the Store of Mr. B. Cheever, on Market Street, commencing at 7 o'clock. Tickets $1.

UNFAILING EYE PRESERVERS!

LAZARUS & MORRIS' CELEBRATED
PERFECTED SPECTACLES
and Rye Glasses.

The large and increasing sales of these
SUPERIOR GLASSES
Is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality.

With a full knowledge of the value of the assortion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

Mr. J. F. SHORES, Jr., Bookseller,
Has always on hand a full assortment, suitable for every difficulty.

We take occasion to notify the public that we employ no peddlers, and to caution them against those pretending to have our goods for sale.

Let us go forth with "Loyalty, Justice and Liberty," and be true to ourselves and our cause—and "Rebellion and Popery" will crumble in the dust. The paper is 24 by 34 inches, printed on new type, and contains the general news of the day.

We ask the support of every Republican, and promise in return to make our journal a welcome visitor to every Protestant home in America.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

Morning Chronicle.

HOW I ENVIED HENRIETTA.

BY SOPHIE MAY.

When I was a little girl,—some fifty years ago,—we lived in the country where stone walls were as plenty as blackberries, and where the sun kissed the tops of high mountains every morning before he showed his face to us.

Our house was painted red, "to blush for its own ugliness;" and right across the road was a great weather-stained barn. So when we had company, and sat in the "foreroom," we could not look out of the front windows without a full view of the horses and cows, sheep and poultry, sunning themselves in the barnyard.

From the east window we saw a field black with stumps. Father was "clearing it up" for a pasture. Mother said he found it hard work to "make both ends meet;" though I did not know what that meant, or why the ends would not do just as well apart. But for some reason I had taken a great dislike to a farmer's life. Perhaps it was because Henrietta Palmer lived in a white house with green blinds, and her father was a lawyer.

Oh so "genteel" as Henrietta was, with her pale face and taper fingers! It was of no use for me to aspire to be like her, while my father wore a striped frock and wasn't a "squire." I had to wash dishes till my hands were as red as a prince's feather; but Mrs. Palmer kept a girl named Matilda in the kitchen, who did all the work, and Henrietta could spend her time curling dandelion stems if she chose.

I didn't dare say much about it, for mother wouldn't listen to idle complaints, and was always ready with the meek words of St. Paul: "For I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content."

"But I am not content with my state or town, or anything else," thought I, as I sat knitting my stint; "why couldn't my pa have been a lawyer, and then at any rate he wouldn't have kept cows."

I had to go after those cows down to the pasture. Such unlady like business, when Henrietta Palmer was actually afraid of a cow, and her mother bought milk by the quart!

And in the winter when Miss Henrietta wore a lovely "pelisse," I had to burden my shoulders with an old checked cloak, fastened at the throat by a clumsy brass clasp.

Dear! Dear! When I covered myself up in it one December morning and went to school, I was wretched enough; but before noon my silly heart danced for joy, because Henrietta had invited me to go home with her and spend the night. It was not every little girl who had such an honor, and I felt as proud as if I had received a gold medal.—Mother said I might go, but I must wear my home-made woolen gown and carry my knitting-work; I mustn't be so foolish as to ask for my Sunday clothes and my red flannel shoes.

When I went home with Henrietta, a little ashamed of my coarse frock, we found Mrs. Palmer sitting by the parlor fire, very grandly dressed, I thought. She greeted me kindly, without even looking at my clothes; but her eyes were quite red, as if she had been weeping. I glanced at the gay rings on her fingers and at the beautiful furniture of the room, and wondered what the rich Mrs. Palmer could have to trouble her!

Then I suddenly remembered that I had heard some one say;

"O yes, Mrs. Palmer has every thing heart can wish, except a bottle to put her tears in!"

I did not see why a handkerchief would not answer the purpose as well; but I continued to look at the great lady with childish curiosity. There was some mystery about her. If she really had a decided preference for crying into a bottle, why didn't her rich husband buy her a bottle; a glass one, beautifully shaped and ornamented with gold? It might be a foolish whim of hers, but of course he could afford to gratify it.

Mr. Palmer was away from home, and I was not sorry, for he had a cold, lordly air, which was very oppressive to me. I should surely have dropped my bread and spilled my tea, if he had been at the head of the table.

We played games that evening,—Henrietta and I,—and Mrs. Palmer smiled now and then; but somehow I couldn't help thinking she made believe. Sometimes Henrietta would leave the play and throw her arms about her mother's neck as if she were trying to comfort her.

When we went to bed Mrs. Palmer tucked us in and kissed us "good night." I heard her sigh most drearily as she left the chamber, and that was the last I knew till, ever so long afterward, right in the midst of a dream, a noise awoke me. It was a sound of scuffling, and of something being dragged up stairs. I saw the glimmer of lights, and I heard men's voices, and one said: "Don't hit his head against the wall."

"What in the world has happened?" I whispered.

Henrietta covered up her head with the bedclothes, and didn't speak for as much as a minute. Then she said:

"I suppose it's father, he's—he's sick."

It seemed very strange Henrietta didn't get up and go to him.

"It was my father," said I, very much excited, "I should run for the camphor bottle the very first thing."

But Henrietta only lay there and shook like a tree full of leaves.

The next morning I had to run home before breakfast, for mother needed me. I told her what I had heard in the night, and she looked very sober.

"Pooh," said she, "you have been sheltered from most of the evil and sorrow of this world; perhaps you do not know that Mr. Palmer sometimes drinks too much liquor, and it makes him so sick that he has to be carried to bed like a baby."

"Why mother!" said I, "and was that why Henrietta didn't get up for the camphor?"

"You must be very kind to the poor little girl," said my mother, "she hasn't a happy home like yours."

Only think of calling Henrietta Palmer a "poor little girl!" I did not tell my mother how I had envied her, for I was dreadfully ashamed.

"Squire Palmer is said to be very cruel when he has been drinking," continued my mother; "and sometimes his wife and daughter are really afraid for their lives. Henrietta is so womanly that she never tells her griefs. She is a great comfort to her mother."

I looked up just then and saw my homespun father cutting potatoes for the cattle. All in a twinkling his striped frock looked as dignified as a king's robe.

"I don't care if he is a farmer and burns stumps for a living," thought I, "it's so splendid to have him sober."

Then I thought how Henrietta's poor little heart must have ached under that lovely "pelisse," and I never envied her again.

No, children, nor do I envy anybody else, for I am old now and have put on "far seeing" spectacles. In whatsoever state I find myself, therewith I am content.

THE ORIENTAL TEA COMPANY

WILL Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Teas direct to customers, by the pound, as low as by the cargo, a saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to FINE FLAVORED TEAS, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price lists."

OUR COFFEE DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by a new patent method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our warehouse.

A FISH STORY.

A whale of great ferocity,
And small specific gravity,
Dived down with great velocity
Beneath the sea's concavity,

But soon the weight of water
Squeezed in his fat immensity,
Which varied—as it ought to—
Inversely as his density.

It would have moved to pity
An Ogre or a Hessian,
To see poor Spermaeti
Thus suffering compression.

The whale, he lay a-roaring,
In agonies gigantic:
The lamp oil out came pouring,
And greased the wide Atlantic.

(Would we'd been in the navy,
And cruising there. Imagine us
All in a sea of gravy,
With billows oleaginous!)

At length old million-pounder,
Low on a bed of coral,
Gave his last dying flounder;
Whereto I pen this moral:

MORAL.

Oh! let this tale dramatic
Anent this whale Norwegian,
And pressure hydrostatic,
Warn you my young collegian,

That down-compelling forces
Increase as you get deeper;
The lower down your course is,
The upward path's the steeper.

Four Hundred Miles Up Stairs.

"Reading about electricity, lightning and the telegraph, the other day," said Uncle Peter, "reminded me of a curious story I once heard, when I was in England."

It seems there was a newspaper in the city of Glasgow, in Scotland, which employed a London correspondent. This correspondent made it his duty to gather the news every day, and send it to Glasgow every night by telegraph.

He had made an agreement with an operator at a certain office, by which his news was sent to Glasgow at a reduction, by the year.

One night he arrived at the lower door, at the foot of the stairs leading up into the telegraph office. The door was locked, and he could not open it.

The telegraph office was way up at the top of the building, in the sixth story. The operator had a bed there, to which he retired promptly at 3 o'clock; and it was now half-past two.

The operator, up-stairs, yawned and looked at his watch. "Jenkins won't come to-night," said he, "I may as well go to bed."

And there was poor Jenkins all the time pounding away on the door at the foot of the long stairs, unable to get in.

"Hillo! up there!" he cried looking up at the window of the little telegraph office that glowed with light. "Hillo, Jones! Somebody has locked the outside door, and I can't get in."

"What's the row?" said a policeman, coming along.

"I'm locked out," said Jenkins.

"Here I've got a batch of the most important news for my paper,—a murder, three fires, and a riot—and the door is locked in my face, and I can't get in.—What will I do?"

So the policeman began banging the door, but Jones, the operator, up in his office was as unconscious of the tumult as if it had been in the moon. He was whistling to himself and yawning prodigiously.

"Why don't yer go to some hother hoffice?" asked the policeman.

"No authority to use any other line," said the correspondent. "Ah! I've got it!" he added, and before the policeman could ask what 'it' was, the excited Jenkins had dashed off down street as a mad dog was after him.

Jenkins rushed breathlessly into another telegraph office, six blocks off.

"I say!" said he to the operator: I'm in a fix. Got news to go off inside of half-an-hour, and the stupid operator at my office has gone to sleep, and I can't get in,—and and—and—"

"Well, that is a fix."

"Tell you what I want," said Jenkins; endeavoring to catch his breath. "I want you to telegraph down to Glasgow, and ask the operator there to telegraph up here to Jones, and bid him come down stairs and let me in!"

The operator roared with laughter at this, but went at once to his instrument and began rattling away at a great rate.

This is the message he sent:

"Glasgow. Wake up Jones, Station X; tell him Jenkins at the foot of stairs can't get in."

Jones was looking at his watch again, and concluding that he had better put out the lights and go to his little bedroom across the hall-way, when clatter! clatter! went his instrument.

"There's Glasgow calling me," said Jones; and hurried to his instrument and ticked of:

"What's wanting?"

Back came the answer:

"Jenkins down stairs—door fast—go let him in."

Off went Jones with a rush down stairs—threw open the door—and at last the anxious Jenkins got up and sent off his news.

So you see how a man sent a message through a solid door, and up four pair of stairs,—four hundred miles around, by way of Glasgow—and all within twenty minutes.

Wasn't that four hundred miles up stairs?—Youth's Companion.

—Charles F. Potter won a $25 silver goblet at Lawrence, Thursday night, in a velocipede race. He made a half mile in 1.38 1-2.

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have; and when it comes, strange to say, they are let fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stolidly unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.
Important Certificate.
Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.
J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.
I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR; a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken down at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.
This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine just before going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—the second dose completely subdued it—rapidly revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced are made as favorable to the Insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Mutual Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, on annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, FEB. 19, 1869.

The News.

The city of Havana is practically in a state of seige.

There are nine velocipede schools in Boston, and all of them are well patronized.

Considerable excitement was created, in Madrid, Spain, by an unsuccessful effort to assassinate General Prim on Wednesday.

Arizona advices have been received which state that Captain Young's command of 140 men were attacked by Indians, numbering 300, on the night of the 27th, between Williams and Prescott. The savages succeeded in capturing the pack train belonging to the command.

The Toledo Blade says Maggie Mitchell was secretly married to Mr. Henry Paddock of that city last July, and that she will never appear again on the stage.

Montreal has 8 feet of snow. Many of the streets are impassable.

Congress.

In the Senate, on Wednesday, the report of the conference committee on the bill to amend various acts relating to the navy, was agreed to. The constitutional amendment was taken. The Senate voted first to recede from its amendments to the original House proposition; then it refused to concur in the House amendment, and then took up the amendment as reported by its judiciary committee, which was finally passed by a vote of 35 to 11.

RAILWAYS AND TRADE.—The project of the Boston & Lowell Railroad, in connection with the Eastern Railroad, to take eight acres of land in Boston, near their present depots, for the extension of the terminal facilities of the two roads, is an important undertaking, and the freight and passenger buildings proposed to be erected will be an ornament to the city. Few persons are aware of the length of the iron track over which the stream of trade [and travel flows into the Lowell and Eastern Railroad depots.

Col. George, in his very able argument before the Legislative Committee, in favor of the request of the Lowell Railway, stated that the Boston & Lowell Railroad, with its tributary connecting roads, formed a line, present and prospective, of 900 miles, discharging its passengers into that little depot on Causeway street. Of the Eastern Railroad, Col. George said, that with its tributaries, either built or in process of construction, it included 1584 miles of iron rail, and upwards of $60,000,000 of capital.

Connected with the two routes, the Lowell and the Eastern, are 2500 miles of railroad—nearly one-third as much as the length of track of the entire English railways. Yet in the city of Liverpool one railway corporation occupies 82 acres of ground.

☞ Charles Sumner is the senior U. S. Senator. He has served eighteen consecutive years, and has now been elected for six more. Hannibal Hamlin has served, including the term of the Vice Presidency, 17 years; Fessenden 16 years, and Trumbull, Wilson and Harlan, 14 years each. Cameron entered earliest, viz., 1845. He has served 10 years, with 4 to go.

THE MARINE CORPS.—The Naval Appropriation Bill passed by Congress reduces that corps from 3500 to 1800 men, and makes a considerable reduction in the number of officers. The saving to Government by the change will be nearly a million dollars, yearly.

☞ We learn from an exchange that the son of the late Edwin P. Stevens of New York, will be worth $150,000,000 when he attains his majority. His property is largely in real estate which is rapidly growing in value.

☞ There is nothing new under the sun. History but repeats itself. Velocipedes were used in this country half a century ago; their great improvement is in the crank.

☞ The price of a stolen kiss has been fixed by a Bridgeport (Ct.) Judge at $2 and costs.—Cheap enough in some cases.

☞ James Fiske, jr., of New York, is leasing railroads, steamboat lines and theatres in all sections of the country.

—A woman in Ridgway, Lenapes county, Michigan, lately sued a saloon keeper of the place to recover money spent by her husband for liquor, and after an exciting trial, a verdict of $65 was rendered in her favor.

Chronicle Correspondence.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Feb. 5th

Editors Chronicle:—This city is very lively this winter, both as regards business and amusements. Business last year at this time was at a stand still, and a large number of the stores vacant; now they are apparently doing a good business.

In walking through the French section, one would hardly think he was in the United States. The houses are built in French style, the signs on the stores and the advertisements and all in French and, if you wish to make any enquiries, you will be no better off unless you understand the French language. There is in this vicinity the Cathedral. It is a magnificent building and faces Jackson Square. This square is the handsomest place in the city. The trees are trimmed very handsomely. There is a large number of Oleander, orange, palm and cocoanut trees, roses, &c. They are at this time of year green, and some in bloom.

In the centre of this square is the celebrated equestrian statue of Gen. Jackson with his immortal expression—"The Union must and shall be Preserved" engraved upon the base. I have thought very often what a thorn in the side of the people of this city it must have been during the war, to have that motto staring them in the face as they promenaded through the square, and many thousands must have seen it every week, for it is a great resort on Sundays.

No person visiting the city is considered as having seen New Orleans unless they have been to the French Market of a Sunday morning. The reason why Sunday morning is considered as the time to visit this place is this: The French are all devout Catholics and they attend the five o'clock morning mass every Sunday at the cathedral, and the majority of them stop and take their breakfast at the market. In the markets all the year round are all kinds of garden truck and all the tropical fruits of the seasons—oranges, bananas, figs, pine apples, plantains, lemons, cocoanuts, strawberries, apples, &c. You pay five cents for an orange, but then it is fresh that day, or the day before, from the tree. They are not picked until they are ripe.

The ladies of New Orleans dress gaily,—wear no bonnets. It is the custom here to sit on the front steps of an evening, and a lady very often entertains her callers on the broad stone of the front door steps. What would a young gentleman of your city say to call on a young lady, and not be invited to enter the house?

Mardi Gras day is a great carnival day here, when almost everybody dresses up in some comic attire and mask, and parade the streets—some on foot, some on horseback, others in barouches. One great trick is throwing little paper bags filled with flour at each other, and woe be unto any one who goes around town with good clothes on. The gaieties of Mardi Gras subsided in a great measure during the war, but it is gradually coming back to its original standard (?). The day generally winds up with masque balls. Mardi Gras day is a church day, the last day before Lent.

New Orleans is the gayest city in the Union. They keep their theatres and concert halls open, have horse and other races on Sundays; in fact, Sunday is a holiday instead of a holy day—church in the afternoon, theatre in the evening. What a contrast to staid old New England!

I met the other day some officers of the Peruvian navy. They are here to take charge of some vessels—3 ironclads and 3 wooden steamers, lately purchased by the Peruvian Government. The vessels are laying now at Pensacola, and will sail as soon as they get their complement of men. Capt. T. B. Dubois, late of the U. S. N., who sailed from your port in the U. S. S. "Albatross," goes with them as pilot, he having had experience on board of the ram Stonewall while en voyage to Japan.

The snow in Francestown and vicinity is covered with such a thick and icy crust as to afford excellent facilities for skating, which the young men in that locality are improving to the best of their ability.

Charles Burgess, of New Ipswich, committed suicide on Sunday morning last. He was a man about sixty years of age, and for some time had been an inmate of the County Farm.

The Mail Robber, J. Davis, who was arrested a few days since, was formerly a member of State Capital Lodge I. O. of G. T. Concord, and carried on a small retail tea trade while he resided there. He was employed by those who knew him least in delivering lectures, and while so employed became somewhat noted in Suncook in that respect.

☞ A very fine organ, of large size, has recently been put up in the Universalist Church, Boston Highlands, where Rev. A. J. Patterson is pastor. The organ and other improvements are thus described:

The case is black walnut, unique and rich in design, and the pipes are silvered, with gilt mouths. The great organ has eleven complete stops; the swell nine; the choir six; and for the pedal there are three; the principal sixteen feet, the bourdon sixteen feet, and the violoncello eight feet. Five couplers and a crescendo complete the registers. The bellows are constructed upon a new principle.

In order to make room for the organ it became necessary to build a large recess in the rear of the church. While doing this it was also decided to make other improvements, and rooms for the Sunday School library, pastor, choir, kitchen, etc., were provided. The arrangements of the Roxbury church are now complete.

—Two "gentlemen" were recently sentenced in London to five years' imprisonment with hard labor, for having wilfully damaged a railway carriage on the Dover and Chatham Railroad. All pecuniary offers were refused point blank by the magistrate.

—In New York there is a partial strike of masons, plasterers, painters and slate-roofers—the first named for an increase of pay, the last to oppose a reduction of pay, and the other two to resist a return from eight to ten hours per day.

—A letter from Havana says that unless a peace is speedily made with the insurrectionists, fifty thousand men will not be able to put down the rebellion.

—A Texas railroad was lately sold for $500, and was dear at that price.

DOVE-LIKE eyes sparkle with pleasure as the exquisite fragrance of PHALON'S new perfume, "FLOR DE MAYO," steals upon the senses of languid beauty. MISS JUDITH RUSSEL, of New Bedford writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the PLANTATION BITTERS.

— "My son," said the veteran at the foot of the stairs, "arise and see the newly risen luminary of day, and hear the sweet birds singing their matin song of praise to their great Creator; come while the dew is on the grass and tender lambs are bleating on the hillside—come, I say, or I'll be up there with a switch, and give you the biggest larruping that you ever had."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Why is it

That the feeble totter, with uncertain steps, over the face of the earth, in danger every day of falling victims to the morbid influences by which we are all surrounded, when a tested and proven vegetable tonic, capable of endowing them with the vigor they need, is procurable in every city, town and settlement? It might reasonably be thought that after the twelve years' experience which the world has had of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, all would know that its effect is to prevent disease.

At this season, the atmosphere is surcharged with the seeds, of intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, pulmonary disorders, bilious complaints and the like. Persons whose nervous systems are relaxed, are the first to succumb to these distempers. Brace up the physical energies, then, with this potential vegetable tonic. It is the most powerful recuperant which the botanic kingdom has ever yielded to patient research and experiment. Try it. The blindest disciple of the old medical dogma will at least admit that a tonic and alterative, compounded of approved herbs, roots and barks, can do no harm, while the testimony of thousands invites a trial of its virtues.

Vigor is the thing most needed in these cases, as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS is the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted. As a tonic, it is both mild and agreeable to the taste, and stimulating in its action upon the system.

Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the official receipts, and prescribed this harmless tonic as a preventive and cure for all cases of Chills and Fever.

The Plaster of the "Time,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there;—they do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with quickness.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"a tipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

"How Shall I Recover My Health?"

This is the mental cry from those who have tried and after repeated failures. Have you used BRANDRETH'S PILLS? This is a medicine which simply "cleanses" the blood and every organ of the body. This "purgative" is sure to restore your health, if pursued in accordance with the printed directions. One who has recovered his own health by this means tells you to have courage and do likewise. J. J. Cook, publisher of the Banner for twenty years, at Bennington, Vt., says, "Brandreth's Pills cured me of dyspepsia when every other means had failed, and I was actually given up by my physicians and friends."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Great Medicine of the World.

Perry Davis & Son's "PAIN KILLER" may most justly be styled the great medicine of the world, for there is no region of the globe into which it has not found its way, and none where it has not long been largely used and highly prized. Moreover, there is no clime to which it has not proved to be well adapted or the cure of a considerable variety of diseases; it is a speedy and safe remedy for burns, scalds, cuts, bruises, wounds and various other injuries as well as for pain, chills, diarrhœa, and bowel complaints generally. It is admirably suited for every race of men on the face of the earth.

It is a very significant fact that, notwithstanding the long period of years that the "Pain Killer" has been before the world, it has never lost one whit of its popularity or shown the least sign of becoming unpopular; but, on the contrary, the call for it has steadily increased from its first discovery by that excellent and honored man, Perry Davis, and at no previous time has the demand for it been so great, or the quantity made been so large, as it is this day.

Another significant fact is, that nowhere has the Pain Killer never been in higher repute, or been more generally used by families and individuals, than it has been here at home where it was first discovered and introduced, and where its proprietors, Messrs. Perry Davis & Son, have ever been held in high esteem. That the Pain Killer will continue to be, what we have styled it, the great medicine of the world, there cannot be the slow of a doubt.—Providence Advertiser. f18

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be induced to purchase by the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold over 1,000,000 watches. In every town and city of the country some wearer of a Waltham Watch may be found. Let the party about to buy ask for it when an American Watch this company HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our Company has always been to sell at small profits at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that to-day we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together.

WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT. CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the refusal of nearly all inventions intended to improve the manufacture, and have adopted all those, and those only, which have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we have ever had, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country.—In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a respectable profit to the purchaser, we respectfully ask the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

"How's Your Poor Head?"

Strange that you will suffer from headache! when you can purify the blood, stimulate digestion, and strengthen the system with SONOMA WINE BITTERS, made by C. A. RICHARDS & CO., Boston. f18

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the disease matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, attributes his success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, loosens the phlegm and hoarse expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has ceased the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care), that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which is the preparation made by nature, gives the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into pure blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to dry the chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and these will stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the above named medicines, and since then hundreds of many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Boston St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 25 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1y1ad

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

City Council, Thursday Eve. Feb. 18.

In Board of Aldermen, the Com. on Streets reported in favor of widening Fleet Street, between Congress and Hanover, to the width of 40 feet, which is the width of the rest of the street. Fleet Street is much travelled, and is only from 16 to 20 feet wide in much of the Southerly portion. Voted to have a hearing of petitioners and abuttors as soon as can be legally notified.

Com. on Bills on 2d Reading, reported in favor of non-concurrence in the amendment of Com. Council to Ordinance No 20, (to forbid moving Night Soil except by night.) Voted to non-concur, and also to notify the City Marshal, to enforce said Ordinance in all its provisions—requiring water-tight carts and casks to be used.

Com. on Streets reported in favor of widening Myrtle Street. Voted to hear the petitioners and aluttors on same, as soon as they can be legally notified, which requires several weeks.

The Board voted that the Repairs of the Lockup be proceeded with, as per plan of Isaiah Wilson; and that the sum of $1500 be appropriated, in concurrence, therefor. [In this vote the Council non-concurred, but the repairs will nevertherless be proceeded with, no doubt, as they are indispensably necessary, and must be completed before warm weather.]

The Com. on Schools, to whom was referred the petition of Sch. Com. of Dist. 1 for better accommodations at Franklin Schoolhouse for the Primary School,—reported in favor of removing said School from the basement now occupied, to the room above, and to distribute the scholars of Mr. Hoyt's School among other Schools of the same grade in the city, where there is plenty of room; also to place Mr. Hoyt as Principal in Mrs. Hilton's School on Hanover Street. This report was adopted by the Board, and recommended to the Sch. Com.

Petition of Wm. Plaisted, for appropriation of $500 toward Sprinkling Streets next Summer, (to sprinkle public Squares, street crossings, and in front of City Buildings, &c.,) was referred to Joint Com. on Streets. [The Council reported their concurrence in this.]

Petition of Wm. Claggett, for payment of Bill of $15, for alleged services as Counsel, &c., regarding the continuation of Myrtle Road last year, was accepted and read.

Com. on City Lands and Building, reported it inexpedient to legislate respecting the prevention of the fall of Snow from roots of buildings. The Board adopted the report, and directed the City Clerk to return the thanks of this Board to the City Clerk of Boston, for his very kind and explicit letter on the subject.

Same Com. asked further time to consider the subject of selling the State St. Schoolhouse and the Lot of Land on Middle St. Granted.

The Deed from Mr. Elwyn, donating 5 acres of Land to Trustees for a City Mall, was read and approved.

It was ordered that the Bells of the city be rung, as usual, on Washington's Birthday, Monday next.

WENDELL PHILLIPS.—Congress Hall was filled, Wednesday evening, to hear Mr. Phillips' Lecture on the Lost Arts—and the audience were well entertained, even those who heard the lec ure before, when given here several years ago. Every available seat was occupied, and the sharp, ironical allusions which frequently escaped the speaker's lips, kept all in good humour, while the inexhaustible subject was presented in glowing language by the gifted lecturer. It is one of his best lectures, and a favorite with himself we believe; and evinces the author's thorough scholarship, great research, and finished oratory. In our present dearth of literary entertainments, this was a repast indeed,—and showed up the good old times in a very favorable light in many respects, especially as regards the arts and sciences.

After the lecture, Mr. Phillips met a few friends very pleasantly, at the residence of J. P. Bartlett, Esq.; and perhaps we may be excused for mentioning, that it was to his invitation, that the audience were indebted for this opportunity to hear Mr. P.; and we hope all entertainments as valuable, may have as judicious and successful managers.

☞ Those who attended Mr. Carswell's Temperance lecture on Wednesday evening enjoyed a rich treat. The audience was not numerous, for several reasons, but those who were there were highly entertained, both from the home truths which were uttered, and the assurance that the speaker was not only a celebrated orator, but an earnest worker in the cause of temperance.

BUNYAN TABLEAUX OF THE PILGRIM. There was an appreciative audience at the Hall last evening to witness the exhibition of this great work of art which has elicited such flattering encomiums from the press of the other cities. The artist has fully entered into the sublime conception of the immortal bard, and so far as the task was within the scope of human art, has faithfully conveyed it to the canvass. Many of the scenes, especially the landscapes, are surpassingly beautiful, while the great allegory is wrought out in all its grandeur and sublimity.

The Lecturer's remarks on these pictures as they pass are brief but instructive, and very agreeable. The Music, Vocal and Instrumental, is of a highly elevated character and forms one of the most charming features of this very attractive, intellectual and moral entertainment.

☞ C. Chauncey Burr, (the unadulterated copperhead of past notoriety, whose name has not been favorably connected heretofore with any honorable movement in politics,) commences a course of Scientific Lectures at Congress Hall this (Friday) evening, on the "Origin and History of the Different Races of Mankind," illustrated by an "Anthropological Museum."

As an apologist of the present dilapidated school of fossil demagogues of the rebel variety, he has succeeded in placing himself in no envied position before the American people. His appearance in this new role may indicate a desire and intention on the part of the lecturer to appear in a different field of labor, for the purpose of finishing his public career in a more creditable manner. His lectures are said to be valuable and entertaining.

SHIPWRECKED.—A large schooner from Belfast, Me., bound for Boston with a cargo of hay and potatoes, went ashore at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning, on Duck Island—one of the Isles of Shoals—and vessel and cargo became a total wreck. The crew, consisting of four men, swam for the shore, from which they were taken off the afternoon of same day by schooner Sea Spray, Capt. John Fletcher, and brought to Kittery, where they were amply provided for and sent on their way rejoicing.

For the Chronicle.

☞ The Mercantile Library Association has decided the question, "Are Early Marriages conducive to the well being of Society," after three weeks debating, I know a lady in our Parish, who would have answered it ("Sub Rosa") in half the time. MERCHANT.

Our correspondent forgets that the M. L. A's voted in the negative on the question. No doubt "Sub Rosa" would have decided in less than three weeks, but would she have come to the same conclusion?—Eds. Chronicle.

VELOCIPEDES of a pattern very similar to those now brought out, were in use in our streets and roads, almost 50 years ago.—Mr. Simeon Stiles, the faithful wheelwright, made several, and kept them to let, to riders. One of his sons was a skillful rider. The new ones have some improved machinery.

☞ The Gift Enterprise of John H. Ferguson & Co. was successfully decided at Rechab Hall Thursday evening. Ticket No. 116, said to belong to a young man named Watkins, clerk in Rider & Co.'s store, took the splendid Lady Palmer.

☞ Col. Henry D. Pierce, of Hillsborough, is expected to deliver an Address on Temperance, in this city, on Sunday evening, March 14. Col. P. is well known in his own vicinity, as a steadfast, thorough temperance man, and has lectured at Manchester and other places recently, with the approbation of the hearers.—He is a brother of ex-president Pierce.

☞ The Republicans of Rye reorganized Tuesday evening and elected the following persons for officers of the club:—

Dr. W. Parsons, President; Jedidiah Rand, R. W. Philbrick, Vice Presidents; J. T. Walker, Secretary; E. B. Philbrick, J. J. Rand, R. J. Shapley, J. O. Foss, Orion Foye, Ex. Committee.

☞ Rev. A. J. Patterson delivered his admirable lecture, the "Receding Wave," to a large and appreciative audience, at the Town Hall, Hampton, Tuesday evening.

UNFAILING EYE PRESERVERS!

LAZARUS & MORRIS' CELEBRATED PERFECTED SPECTACLES and Eye Glasses.

The large and increasing sales of these SUPERIOR GLASSES Is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality.

With a full knowledge of the value of the assortion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.

☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Corry O'Lanus on Banks.

This astute philosopher enlightens the public with his bank experience. How his willingness to accommodate a friend led to his faith in banks being shaken, and his chequered career in this path is told with charming simplicity:

Shakspeare says: "Put not your trust in banks." I don't put my trust in banks. Nor my cash either.

I always felt able to take care of all the money I got. And more too.

I don't see why I should trust banks —they never trusted me. I never asked them to, but to oblige a creditor of mine who had a singular hallucination on the subject of my financial standing, I let him try the value of my name on a check.

I owed him some money. The bill had been standing for some time; but he hadn't said anything to me about it, and I hadn't said anything to him, because I could afford to let it stand as long as he could, and if he hadn't revived the subject I shouldn't.

He did at last remind me of the fact, in a very polite note, stating that he had some engagements to meet. That is the way with creditors, I find. They are always making engagements and expecting their debtors to furnish the money.

But as I said before, he was very polite about it, and merely said he would like to have my check for the amount. As he had accommodated me so long, I could hardly deny such a reasonable request. I sent him a polite answer, requesting him to nominate the bank on which he would prefer to have the check drawn.

He said he would leave it to me, whatever bank my credit was good at. I told him it was immaterial to me; my credit was just as good at one bank as at another.

I finally sent him a check on the Wall-about National bank for the amount.

Naturally I felt some interest in learning how my creditor made out at the bank. He didn't make out anything. He came to me in a more excited state than I had seen him in before.

"Sir," said he, "your check is not worth anything."

"I am sorry to hear it" said I, "though it is not entirely unexpected."

"But why did you give me your check when you had no money in the bank?" said he.

"Because you said you would like to have my check, and when a man makes a reasonable request I like to accommodate him if I can."

I have had no faith in banks since then.

The Time to Farm.

There has seldom been a more favorable period in our agricultural history than the present. In the early days of farming, all the implements in use were clumsy and slow-working. There was nothing in the line of machinery employed for farm work. Mowing and raking were literally manual labor; planting was done by the hoe and the hand, and the cultivator and scarifier were unknown; hay was lifted solely by the fork, and when put into the barn, it must be lifted by arm-power to high scaffolds; harvesting of all kinds was done in a similarly laborious manner; the threshing of grain knew no machine but the flail, and huge piles of wood yielded to no force but the axe in the reluctant hands of farmers' sons. These processes added to the expense and labor of producing. The prices, too, were less remunerative than now, and the compensation received for pork or beef, for grain or potatoes, for wood or hay, was too often in goods from the village store, the trader determining the price of the article purchased, as well as those which he sold.

Then, too, but little was understood of the soil and its treatment. Heavy loads of manure were yearly drawn from the cattle yards and hog-pens, spread upon the surface and turned under the sod, or placed in the hill at planting time, with no certainty on the laborer's part of its fitness for the seed it was designed to nourish into a harvest.

The farmers' sons and daughters attended their six weeks' winter schools, and, at an early age, an equal period in the summer. This was the sum of their educational facilities, and such as these the inducements to remain on the farm.

It is no wonder, with such obstacles in the farmers' path, and with so little to encourage them to cultivate the soil, that their sons should seek the shop for a trade, the city for employment that would bring the ready money, or engage in the field of speculation, that they might escape the trials and restraints of rural life. The country was drained of its young men. They filled manufacturing villages; they sought the town; they rushed to the open fields of the West, the sunny clime of the South, and the unwrought soil of the Pacific coast.

But this is the record of a former period—of a day to be remembered but not restored. Now, the sons of farmers receive an education in the schools, and in the daily pursuits of active life; they understand the nature of the lands they till; they apply the fertilizers required; they employ mechanical power and labor of beast to accomplish the severer processes of the farm. With the present facilities for agricultural pursuits, there is a pleasure as well as a profit in the work. All the products of the farm command a remunerating price, and are sought at the producer's door.

Now, then, is the time for the farmer to engage earnestly in the work before him. Let his hands find no idle day, and his mind no hour unimproved. Now is the time to sow and gather in, and to reap the rewards of an energetic industry. Farmers of New England,—study, learn every improvement; adopt, but not rashly, new modes of culture. Economize your strength, and you will reap compensating harvests.—Manchester Mirror.

HARD ON VELOCIPEDES.—It is supposed that some fellow invented the velocipede, as an improvement on the treadmill. In both, the motive power is the same—leg; but the velocipede is a locomotive, while the treadmill is a stationary engine. The velocipede is, however, only an ambulatory treadmill, the forced use of which would be about the same as the constant tramping upon a treadmill. As a means of locomotion, it will not be generally used, for the very simple reason that few people care about working their passage.—New Bedford Mercury.

SOOT AS A MANURE.—Every gardener, every raiser of flowers, and every farmer's family, can find good use for the soot which is usually so abundant in their stove-pipes and chimneys. Water, well mixed with soot will make a powerful liquid manure, which will improve the growth of flowers, garden vegetables, and root crops. In either a liquid or solid state it makes an excellent top-dressing for grass or cereal crops.

—A German country paper records the presentation of a gold pin to "Herr Ed. S. Salomon, the present governor of Chicago," and further compliments "Herr Governed-General Salomon" as one who served with distinction in the Tanner corps in the late war in America. It says that he fought his way to his present rank, "from the pike up."

ON A SILVER WEDDING.

Twenty years and five the Summer suns have faded,
And the Summer perfumes died upon the breeze;
Twenty years and five the autumns, crimson shaded'
Have lit up the trees.

Twenty years and five the clover has been blowing
And the lilies whitening in the summer sun;
While your inner lives and pulses have been growing
Nearer into one.

Twenty years and five you have gone on together,
Yet Time's beaten path may seem such little way,
That perchance you both may smiling, marvel whether
'Twas but yesterday.

What if change and shadow have swept o'er
Life's splendor?
What though bitter partings have shed bitter pain?
Love brings sweet fore-knowledge, beautiful and tender,
Thus each cross is gain.

Down life's troubled ocean, with life's passion swelling,
You can look together, whatsoe'er betide,
Till the Eternal Whisper, human anguish
quelling,
Stills the throbbing tide.

Many a coming year the Summer flowers may whiten,
And the Autumn reapers gather in the grain,
Till some blissful morning heavenly skies shall brighten
As you meet again.

A LITERARY CURIOSITY.

The following is one of the most remarkable compositions we have ever met with. It evinces an ingenuity of arrangement peculiarly its own. Explanation: The initial capitals spell "My boast is in the glorious Cross of Christ." The words in italics, when read from top to bottom and bottom to top, form the Lord's Prayer complete. Like all such efforts, it is hard and stiff.

Make known the Gospel truths, our father king,
Yield up thy grace, dear Father from above,
Bless us with hearts which feeling can sing,
"Our life thou art for ever, God of Love!"
Assuage our grief in love for Christ, we pray.
Since the bright prince of Heaven and glory died
Took all our sins and hallowed the display,
Infant be-ing, first a man, and then was crucified.
Stupendous God! thy grace and power make known;
In Jesus' name let all the world rejoice.
Now labor in thy heavenly kingdom own
That blessed kingdom for thy saints the choice.
How vile to come to thee is all our cry,
Enemies to thy self and all that's thine,
Graceless our will, we live for vanity,
Loathing thy very be-ing, evil in design.
O God, thy will be done from earth to heaven:
Reclining on the Gospel let us live.
In earth f om sin deliver-ed and forgiven.
Oh! as thyself but teach us to forgive,
Unless it-a power temptation doth destroy,
Sure is our fall into the depths of woe,
Carnal in mind, we've not a glimpse of joy:
Raised against heaven, in us no hope can flow.
O give us grace and lead us on thy way;
Shine on us with thy love and give us peace.
Self and this sin that rise against us slay.
Oh! grant each day our trespass-es may cease,
Forgive our evil deeds that oft we do,
Convince us daily of them to our shame.
Help us with heavenly bread, forgive us, too,
Recurrent lusts, and we'll adore thy name.
In thy forgive-ness we as saints can die,
Since for us and our trespasses so high,
Th Son, our Saviour bled on Calvary.

EGGS IN WINTER.—J. L. Peabody of Macoupin, Ill., tells the Peoria Farmer what he learned of a Kansas man about making hens lay in winter:

"He told me if I would let my hens huddle together in some warm corner, and not let them roost, I should get plenty of eggs. I had about twenty hens; my hen-house was a rough shed, eight feet square, with a small window and door on the east. I took down all the roosting-poles, leaving the nest-boxes only. With few short boards I made a small shed, about four feet square, on the south side of the larger one, and covered it with corn fodder.—(Straw is better.) I made a hole for the hens to pass from the large house into the small one.

The result was, my hens continued to lay all through the cold weather. You will have to drive them in a few times at first; they will soon learn to go in themselves. Put in wood ashes occasionally to keep them from vermin.—There are a great many who are not able to build an extensive hennery, but any one can fix up a place like this with very little expense."

Poultry should be furnished with materials for making shells. Sand and gravel will not answer. They are useful to grind up the coarse grain and other food as it passes into the gizzard, but not for making shells. They must have something that affords phosphate of lime, and nothing is better than pulverized bones. Fresh meat chopped fine, bits of fish, rinds of cheese and such like things saved from the table to-day, will come to the table in due time, in the shape of new laid eggs.—That the poultry may remain healthy during the winter, they should occasionally be fed with vegetables. Poultry, to fatten rapidly, must be, like hogs, restricted to a limited space. Freedom and fat are incompatible.

THE EQUITABLE
LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES,
Office No. 92 Broadway, New York,

The most successful Life Insurance Company in the World.

All surplus premiums of profits returned to the Policy-holders, instead of being partially or wholly appropriated to the use of the Stockholders, as is the usage with all "Mixed" (and "Proprietary" Companies.

Dividends made annually, from the start, and not postponed until the third, fourth or fifth year, as in most other companies.

Profits apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division; and not by the mode adopted by many companies, which is grossly unJUST to a large proportion of the Policy-holders.

Assets in Cash, - - - - $8,000,000.

(None of this is in the Note-of-hand of Policy-holders, as in many other Companies.)

Its Annual Income, - - $5,000,000.

(No portion of this is composed of Promissory-Notes, as in all Note-Companies.)

The Cash Income is constantly increasing with tremendous rapidity, and, as a necessary consequence, swelling the enormous cash accumulation which forms the security to Policy-holders.

All Premiums and All Losses Paid in Cash.

No Promissory-Notes to be deducted from the face of the Policy when it matures, as in all Note-Companies.

Next Dividend, February 1, 1869.
All participate who are insured prior to that date.

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have; and when it comes, strange to say, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stoically unconcerned about them. Let them cough, it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the wrong agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.

Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.

J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.
I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken or rest at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving way. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.
This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon got her accustomed sleep—rapidly revived in health and strength, and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of its Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy Holder.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented, which read only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as the INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income equal to ten per cent. (10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. In the latter, the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.

The Daily Chronicle.

Portsmouth, N. H.

SATURDAY, FEB. 20, 1869.

The News.

Special dispatches from Cuba state the insurrection is rapidly spreading throughout the island. Many plantations have been deserted by both owners and employees, and the crops are spoiling for want of care. Large numbers of Cubans leave the island daily.

George D. Prentice and James Guthrie of Louisville, Kentucky, are both dangerously sick.

The Paris Conference has dissolved, Greece having signed the protocol.

Postmaster Lander of Salem, Mass., who it was said, absconded a few weeks ago, has settled up his accounts with Government.

Robberies are frequent in Portland.

Washington Territory has had an earthquake shock of several second's duration.

CUBA.—A dispatch from Havana says the insurgent chiefs are constantly on the move.

A dispatch from Sagua says there is no sugar in that market, and that the insurgents had burnt the railroad at La Cruces.

A dispatch from Santiago says that more estates have been burnt, that the cholera is raging and that 22 deaths have occurred. Many troops are in the hospitals.

Advices from Guantanamus state that sugar is arriving rapidly, and that three vessels have cleared for New York.—The presence of the insurrection reduces the crop 20,000 hogsheads, and no tobacco can be procured.

Congress.

The Senate, on Thursday, passed the House bill limiting the franking privilege.

The House passed the bill supplementary to the national bank bill.

Mr. Butler's amendment to the army appropriation bill was adopted. It reduces the army.

GEN. GRANT'S IDEAS.—The Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser says;

Gen. Grant himself has made a declaration in conversation, which will doubtless ease the sensitive souls of those who fear that he may take a democrat or two into his cabinet. He said that if he were a republican senator, and a democratic President were to select a democratic cabinet, he should vote for their confirmation; but if under similar circumstances a President elected by the republican party should select democratic advisers, he would think he failed in doing his duty if he did not vote for their rejection. It is thought that this remark may be taken as conclusive by even the most stubborn who profess to believe General Grant wanting in sympathy with the republican party, though after all it is no stronger than his declaration to other day that the members of his cabinet would be gentlemen who supported the administration during the war and the congressional policy of reconstruction since the war.

The New York Sun's dispatch says:

"Gen. Grant remarked to a Republican member of Congress to-day that he would consider it an insult to the party which had elected him, to think of putting any man in his Cabinet who had not acted with the party during the war, or who had not acted with it since. He knew the party had rights, and he should not allow personal feelings to interfere with those rights."

☞ That Republics are indeed ungrateful, is shown again, by the fact that Lincoln's Birthday, as well as Martyr day, are not publicly remembered and observed. Every bell in the land should ring a joyous peal for his natal day, and toll their saddest dirge for his murder. Not Washington himself, nor Franklin, in some respects greater than either or almost any other, is more desiring of lasting remembrance or reverence, than America's truest Republican, Abraham Lincoln.

☞ The scene in Congress in regard to counting the vote of Georgia the other day, was not original, for a similar disgraceful scene occurred in 1821 on counting the vote of Missouri in which John Randolph was the prominent actor, as Gen. Butler was in this, and which finally resulted in just such another compromise as was in this case adopted in advance—viz., Senator Edmund's resolution.

RIDICULOUS SHOEBERY.—The practice of some of our cotemporaries, of putting the word the before titles of our public men—such as the Rev. So and So, the Hon. Rhodomontade Blowhard of Buncombeville, &c. The style is copied from the English press, and is supremely ridiculous, besides lacking sense. Why not say "the Gen. Grant," "the Prof. Blot," "the Mayor Brown," as well!

☞ Syracuse, N. Y., elected Republican officers on Monday, by 300 gain over last year's vote.

New Hampshire Items.

On Thursday last, the family of Mr. Crawford, of Jefferson, being alarmed at his absence in the woods, where he was chopping, made search for him, and found him lying insensible at the foot of a tree, with his head seriously injured by a fall. The theory of his hurt, is, that he ascended a tree to cut it, another which he had cut off having lodged against it fell, and that in some way he was thrown or fell to the ground. Crawford has since died of his injury, which we learn was a fracture of the skull, fatally affecting the brain. He remained throughout in a comatose state.

The condition of the Grand Trunk Railway in New Hampshire, demands the immediate attention of the Railroad Commissioners.

The family of Capt. David Wilson, of Wilton, celebrated his 90th birthday on the 6th of February.

Melvin Mitchell, of Sutton, who is in jail for assault and cruelty to his wife and child, is said to be sometimes intemperate, but it is also said there is no evidence that he was "in liquor" when he committed the crime. [By "in liquor" we suppose is meant drunken;—but a man who is intemperate sometimes, does not commonly do horrible things without first taking a drink.]

Periodicals.

Peterson's Magazine for March has for a frontispiece, Father's Return; other embellishments; and a good table of contents.

The Fireman's Journal, is a semi-monthly newspaper, in the interest of Firemen, Underwriters, and Inventors: published in New York city, by Fred. J. Miller. Price 6 cts.; $150 a year.

The Nursery for March, is a charming number, abounding in the best of wood cuts.

The Galaxy for March is a brilliant monthly. Chas. Reade's new story commences in this number.

Godey's Lady's Book for March, has for a frontispiece, On the Expectation: many cuts and patterns, and fascinating stories.

Harper's Monthly for March, has three illustrated articles, all of present interest, viz. Policemen of the Sea, South Coast Sauntenings in England, and the Lands of the Earthquake.

The Practical Painter.—Small Monthly paper, New York city: 50 cts. per annum.

LONDON DETECTIVES.—An attempt has recently been made in London to close up the "night houses" in the vicinity of Leicester square. These places are the haunts of foolish young men about town and accomplished criminals. The detectives, dressed in black with opera hats, kid gloves and varnished boots, succeeded in securing evidence in some cases, and heavy fines were imposed for selling liquor after the hour mentioned in their license. But the keeper soon began to criticise their customers. At one house the detectives announced that they had "just come from the Opera." The proprietor instantly responded, "There is no opera in London now," refused to sell any liquors, and escaped the snare. At another house one of the detectives, in a manner quite characteristic of his craft—outside of plays and novels—ordered "supper and beer." The keeper cried out, "I've spotted you. No real gent ever calls for beer. It's champagne you ought to have said;" and he, too, eluded the trap.—Exchange.

The above paragraph shows two things. First, that there is real difficulty in the way of enforcing any restraining clause of a liquor law,—and second, that it is about as hard to enforce a gentle regulation, as an absolute prohibition, of the traffic.

ABOUT HORSES.—From the Rochester Union we take the following:—

Horses as a general thing get too much licking and too little feed. If a man loses his hat while driving his horse, he licks the horse to pay for it. If he runs into another wagon through his own carelessness, he licks his horse to make it all right. If his horse slips or stumbles, he gets licked for it—if he does anything he gets licked, and if he don't do anything he gets the same. A great many horses know "a sight" more than their drivers, and if they could change places with them, society at large would be the gainers, and so would horses.

INJURIES TO THE HORSE THAT MAY BE EASILY AVOIDED.—Many horses are made vicious from cruel treatment.

More horses fall from weariness than from any other cause.

When a horse falls he is more frightened than his rider.

A frightened animal cannot use its senses aright; it must first be reassured by gentle treatment.

It is speed that kills the horse.

Never strike an animal upon the head.

Careless application of the whip has blinded many horses.

More horses are lamed from bad shoeing than from all other causes together.

Never kick nor scream at a horse, nor jerk the bit in his mouth.—London Horse Book.

—The Germans, by their accomplishments in art and science, as well as by their industry, love of order, and general intelligence, form an important element of the population of this country.

WOOL GROWERS, STOCK RAISERS AND DAIRYMEN.—Once and again the editors of the New England Farmer have urged the wool growers to be awake to their interest, in securing needed protection. The wool growers' protection is the grass growers' protection, as wool is but grass and grain. Beef, pork, butter and cheese have the same origin, and consequently the same interest in a just wool tariff that wool growers have.

Still, there is a feeling among dairymen and stock growers, of indifference, if not of hostility, towards the wool growers interest. How extensive that feeling is I leave every man to judge for himself. Depress wool growing until cattle shall take the place of sheep, and all the products of the land will fall in price. Make all grass growers feel they have a common interest in everything that effects any class of grass consumers, and the wool growers and dairymen will be heard as one man, and their just claims will be heeded.—Cor. N. E. Farmer.

While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. CHURNING IN WINTER.—The trouble with churning in winter is, that cream raised in winter must be warmer when it is churned than cream raised in warm weather. While 60 deg. to 62 deg. is about the right temperature for summer churning, in winter it must be as high as 67 deg. Stir the cream and warm it till you get it to that pitch, and your butter will come in a few minutes and be solid and good, and of good flavor, while if you attempt to churn it at 65 deg. it will froth and foam and swell up, and if you succeed in getting butter at all, it will be white, frothy and bitter. The cream from old cows, treated in this way, will make butter as quick as cream from young cows.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Why is it

That the feeble totter, with uncertain steps, over the face of the earth, in danger every day of falling victims to the morbid influences by which we are all surrounded, when a tested and proven vegetable tonic, capable of endowing them with the vigor they need, is procurable in every city, town and settlement? It might reasonably be thought that after the twelve years' experience which the world has had of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, ALL would know that its effect is to prevent disease.

At this season, the atmosphere is surcharged with the seeds, of intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, pulmonary disorders, bilious complaints and the like. Persons whose nervous systems are relaxed, are the first to succumb to these distempers. Brace up the physical energies, then, with this potential vegetable tonic. It is the most powerful recuperant which the botanic kingdom has ever yielded to patient research and experiment. TRY IT. The blindest disciple of the old medical dogmas will at least admit that a safe and alterative, compounded of approved herbs, roots and barks, can do no harm, while the testimony of thousands invites a trial of its virtues.

Vigor is the thing most needed in these cases, as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS is the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted. As a tonic, it is both mild and agreeable to the taste, and stimulating in its action upon the system.

Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the officinal receipts, and prescribed this harmless tonic as a preventive and cure for all cases of Chills and Fever.

The Plaster of the "Time,"

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected a Plaster of ALLOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days something gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the admission or lesion was found to be gone.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Great Medicine of the World.

Perry Davis & Son's "PAIN KILLER" may most justly be called the great medicine of the world, for there is no region of the globe into which it has not found its way, and none where it has not long been largely used and highly prized. Moreover, there is no clime to which it has not proved to be well adapted for the cure of a considerable variety of diseases; it is a speedy and safe remedy for bruises, cuts, burns, scalds, and various other injuries, as well as for dysentery, diarrhœa, and bowel complaints generally. It is admirably suited for every race of men on the face of the globe.

It is a very significant fact that, notwithstanding the great number of "PAIN KILLERS" that has been before the world, it has never lost one whit of its popularity or shown the least sign of becoming unpopular; but, on the contrary, our call for it has steadily increased from its first discovery by that excellent and honored man, Perry Davis, and it now proves to the last the demand for it been so great, or the quantity made been so large, as it is this day.

Another significant fact is, that nowhere has the Pain Killer ever been in higher repute, or been more generally used by families and individuals, than it has been here at home where it was first discovered and introduced, and where its proprietors, Messrs. Perry Davis & Son, have ever been held in high esteem. That the Pain Killer will continue to be, what we have styled it, the great medicine of the world, there cannot be the shadow of a doubt.—Providence Advertiser. f18

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the Jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders easy the sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch, he does make more in the aggregate, as it is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waltham Watches, use that kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made not sell about 400,000 watches. In every town and village of the country some wearer of a Waltham Watch is to be found. Let the party about to buy ask this owner of an American Watch this question: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTION? We are not afraid to advise those wishing to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer now only has to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell our product at the lowest possible price in order to secure large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that today we manufacture twice as many watches as all other factories in the United States put together. WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL BETTER—EVERYBODY'S CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the refusal of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all those, and those only, which have proved to be valuable improvements. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we have ever had, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country.—In addition to this we make our watches not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a retail profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

"How's Your Poor Head?"

Strange that you will suffer from headaches! when you can purify the blood, stimulate digestion, and strengthen the system with SONOMA WINE BITTERS, made by C. A. RICHARDS & CO., Boston. f18

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This the only way to cure Consumption.

To these three medicines DR. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed, Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel to greatly relieve the liver, which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, that it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much: they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they destroy the digestive powers, which, by locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Cancer, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

Consumption is a long disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years, and who now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians all pronounced him incurable, gave up and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see a Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Friday, and at No. 36 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1yjas

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE BRIDGES.—The Mayor and Aldermen visited the proposed sites of the two Millpond Bridges, on Thursday, for examinations. At the North Pond, the chief obstacle seems to be the Railroads, and the difficulty of providing a suitable Crossing of them. There are now five sets of tracks, and may be more, and it would be both difficult and dangerous to cross on a level with them, as proposed at Cabot Street; while if a bridge be thrown above the road, as suggested at Dover Street, it must necessarily be carried to a great height, probably nearly 25 feet from the lower track,—very difficult, if not impracticable. On the opposite shore there is quite a village,—some very good houses, but mostly small and rather unpromising. The streets originally were not laid out so well as they should have been; but there is a small Common left, of a few acres, called Washington Park,—which should have been three times as large, and named Woodbury. The petitioners are ready to aid the project to a reasonable extent with their own money and land; and if a bridge for carriages is deemed not to be advisable, they will be content with a Foot Bridge, [Another and independent project is suggested—to run a bridge on the Christian Shore side, ending at Dearborn Street, which would open all this land and more below.]

At the South Pond, the Board were agreeably surprised to find Mr. Elwyn's land given for a Mall, to be so beautiful and eligible a lot for the purpose.—This slope, as given, would to-day probably sell for $3,000; and it was unanimously decided that the premises are eminently worthy of acceptance and improvement for a Common or Park, by the City and the citizens. Of which, more anon. An important question to decide, will be, whether to build the Bridge (from the Court House to the Mall), for carriages, or only foot passengers,—the decision of which not only will affect the cost of the bridge considerably, but also involves the other question, more important still, whether horses and carriages shall be allowed in the Common at all—as we are decidedly of opinion they should not.

The Mayor said, on the spot, that he would give $100 towards this Bridge, (which is not the first offered, by considerable,) and we think there will be little trouble in building the Common and a means of getting to it, when the Trustees shall have decided on a plan and put it properly before the people, which should have been done before this time.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.—The basement of the Franklin School House, at Christian Shore, has long been a subject of just complaint from the citizens of that section of the city; and the District School Committee having again recently called the attention of the Board of Aldermen to the condition of this half-under-ground room, the subject was referred to the Committee of the Board on Schools—Ald. Pendexter and Nowell—who after acknowledging the unfitness of the present room, suggest as a remedy, the following:

The Committee who were appointed to examine the School Room in the basement of the Franklin School House, at Christian Shore, have attended to that duty. They agree fully with the petitioners as to the unfitness of the room, as set forth. To remedy the same the Committee would suggest the following. First, that the children occupying the basement be taken to the room now occupied by Miss Manson, after having a new floor laid and some other small repairs.

Second, that the School now kept by Miss Manson, be removed to the room now occupied by Mr. Hoyt, after some small repairs.

Third, to provide for Mr. Hoyt's School, the Committee would suggest distributing the pupils in the following schools, where there are 101 vacant seats, as follows: Mr. Durgin's, Academy, 22; Miss Whittem's, Academy, 26; Mr. Buzzell's, Hanover Street, 14; Mrs. Hilton's, Hanover Street, 39.

Fourth, to retain the valuable services of Mr. Hoyt, the Committee suggest the filling up of Mrs. Hilton's School to its full capacity, seventy-five; this number would require a Principal and Assistant, making the School more efficient than it could possibly be under one teacher.

The Committee have visited six Grammar Schools, and find at Mr. Durgin's (Academy), 56 benches, 34 occupied, 22 vacant; Miss Whittem's (Academy), 48 benches, 22 occupied, 26 vacant; Mr. Buzzell's (Hanover St.), 62 benches, 48 occupied, 14 vacant; Mrs. Hilton's (Hanover St.), 72 benches, 33 occupied, 39 vacant; Miss Manson's (Christian Shore), 64 benches, 36 occupied, 28 vacant; Mr. Hoyt's (Christian Shore), 63 benches, 40 occupied, 23 vacant. Total number of benches unoccupied, 152.

This suggestion was approved by the Aldermen, and recommended to the petitioning School Committee for adoption.

☞ C. Chauncey Burr's lecture, Friday evening, was attended by about 300 persons.

THE LUCKY NUMBERS.—We give below the list of Tickets, to the owners of which were awarded the valuable Gifts as named, at Rechab Hall, in this city, on Wednesday evening, by Messrs. John H. Ferguson & Co. The Committee chosen by the audience to make the Drawing, were Messrs. Clark of Amesbury, Smith of South Newmarket, Adams, Wentworth, Tibbetts, and C. H. Sides, of Portsmouth, Leavitt of Newmarket, T. W. Rand of Rye, Hoyt of Newington, and Randlett of Dover.

Mr. Charles C. Cushman of this city was chosen Secretary, and the whole affair passed off in the fairest manner, and satisfactory to all—especially the fortunate fellows who now own the two splendid black Lady mares, and other Gifts.

This was the mode of deciding the Lot, as usual: 5772 numbered patent lozenge-shaped Gun Wads were placed in a revolving wheel, and 55 other wads, each having the name of a gift, were placed in another smaller wheel; and a number drawn from the large wheel entitled the holder of the ticket of that number, to the prize drawn from the smaller wheel at the same time. So the first drawn 55 numbers, decided the matter, and those we give:

☞ The young man Watkins, who drew Lady Palmer, the superb black mare, we believe had but the one ticket 116; while the friend who sold it to him a few hours before the drawing, kept seven of the ten he had originally, including the numbers next on both sides the lucky one! Watkins we hear was offered $1,000 for his prize, but preferred to swap with Mr. Stoddard for his gray mare Little Mischief, and a round $500 to boot. We hope Watkins will not allow all the fruits of his good luck to slip away from him without benefit, as is often the result in such cases. We do not hear the ownership of Lady Cram.

As usual in all such affairs, the casualties are singular. One man, with just two tickets, came in and carried off two good prizes; while of 300 tickets sold in Amesbury, and 600 returned unsold to Mr. Ferguson himself by his agents at the last moment, not one drew anything whatever. Such are the fortunes of war and the Lot.

ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.—Mr. Hector Melnoth of this city, living on Water street, shot himself just below the heart, Friday morning. His recovery is doubtful. Family difficulties caused the attempt of the wretched man to kill himself. He was about 45 years of age.

THE PILGRIM.—This great and costly illustration of the world-renowned allegory of John Bunyan, seems to be rapidly increasing in interest with the public as the exhibition progresses. The attendance, as we are informed, nightly grows larger, commendatory reports of the visitors are heard in different quarters of the city and neighboring places. The magnificence of the paintings is talked of by all who have seen them, and the attraction arising from these numerous fine works of art, combined with the beautiful music and accompanying lecture, renders the entertainment one alike novel, charming and instructive. Its exhibition at the Temple is to continue this Saturday afternoon and evening.

SUNDAY EVENING SERVICES.—There will be preaching Sunday evening (if the weather is favorable) in the houses of worship of the five churches which are united in the Union Prayer Meetings;—in Court St. Chapel, in Pearl St. Church, in Middle St. Church, in the Methodist Church, and in the North Church. Seats free—all are invited.

The Union Prayer Meetings will be continued next week.

From the Journal.

OBITUARY.—We chronicle to-day the death of Capt. HANSON M. HART, formerly of this city, at the advanced age of 93 years and 8 months. He died in Portland, Me., on Wednesday, the 10th inst., at the residence o his son, which had been his home for a number of years. Capt. Hart was the last survivor of the founders of the Mechanic Association of this city, which was organized in 1802, and continued an honored member thereof to the time of his decease. An old gentleman in years as long ago as the writer can remember him, his heart was ever young, while his memory was a storehouse of interesting information, and his genial disposition and pleasant conversation made him so general a favorite that we think it may truly be said of him that he had not an enemy in the world.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Rev. Mr. Kellogg, of Sanbornton Bridge, N. H., recently went up on the scaffold in his barn to feed his cow, when he was seized by a sudden faintness and fell on his pitchfork, one of the tines of which entered his nose about an inch below his left eye, passing nearly through his nose obliquely. The other struck a little above the chin and passed through the lip into the mouth.

THE SHOE BUSINESS.—We understand that Mr. Thomas S. Nowell is meeting with much success in his business of shoe manufacture in this city this season, having very large orders which will keep him busy for sometime to come. We cannot understand why his success here does not draw others to this city to enter the field which he has laid open. Three or four good factories here, to do only first class work, would give a new start to the business and buyers from abroad would willingly call and make purchases. Where are the enterprising "Sons of Portsmouth" who will come home and start the ball.

INSURANCE.—There are few men in active business in Portsmouth who have toiled so long and steadily as John S. Harvey, Esq. Ever at his post, he is a pattern in business habits for the young men of the present day, and will apparently for years to come move on side by side with them in successful pursuit of his calling, to which habit rather than necessity binds him. With the vigor of more youthful years, and a mature experience, he wheels into column (our columns, to-day, we mean) a strong battalion of Insurance Companies of which he is agent. Our last page Insurance column has our other Portsmouth Insurance agencies, all of whom we consider equally reliable.

NOTICE.—All persons are hereby notified that my Daughters, MARGIE PRIME and SUSIE PRIME, have been for a long time permitted to make their own contracts and to collect their own earnings; and public notice is hereby given that I have given them their time, and shall pay none of their debts and claim none of their earnings from this date. Morning Chronicle.

Written for the Chronicle and Gazette.

A WHALEMAN'S FUNERAL.

On some parts of the shore of the Ochotsk Sea is found a species of spruce, called by whalemen "sparwood," which makes excellent masts, yards and booms; and as our fore-topmast was sprung and we had no spare one on board, our chief mate pulled in for the shore one morning, to see if he could find a tree that would answer our purpose.

At about ten o'clock the mate returned to the ship with the information that a whale had just drifted ashore at a point some ten miles from us—a large fish evidently but a few days dead.—Here was an unexpected prize, and all four boats were dispatched at once, with boat-anchors, tackles, &c., to secure it. Arrived at the spot, two anchors were dropped well outside of the surf, which, though nothing in comparison with that of our Atlantic coast, was still heavy enough to annoy us; a line was run to the shore, and made fast to the whale's flukes; the tackles were rigged "luff upon luff" and a heavy strain put upon the line, and then we had to wait for the flood tide.

Having done so much, we went on shore to view the fish. He was a big fellow, and had evidently been killed by human agency, for, though we could find no lance-holes, a large quantity of whale-line was wound round and round his "small," just forward of his flukes. As the tide rose we kept all the strain we could upon our line, and just at the top of high tide had the satisfaction of seeing the whale come off into deep water; picked up our anchors and towed him to the ship, arriving too late to commence cutting in, and pretty well tired out.

The next day we cut in our fish, finding nothing to tell us what ship had killed him, until late in the day, when we had got him stripped of his blubber down to his small,—when the fore yard was braced round to plumb the mass of entangled line, a tackle got up and hooked into it, hight after hight cut with a cutting-in spade, and the whole lot hoisted in on deck. It was a whale-boat's big tub (250 fathoms) of line, with two irons still attached, and also a drag—"drug" in whalers' parlance.

The irons were blunted and worn from contact with the bottom, where the whale had probably rolled in his endeavors to free himself from the annoying gear, in doing which he had certainly cleared himself from the irons, but had got his flukes and small hopelessly fouled in the line, his fruitless attempts to throw off which had doubtless exhausted his life, for the trifling wounds inflicted by the harpoons could not have destroyed him.

The drug was carved with representations of whales, flowers, irons, men, &c., and had stamped on it the letters "S. B., Bk H.," and the irons were similarly marked,—from which we knew that the whale had been struck by the starboard (captain's) boat of a barque whose name commenced with an H. More than this we never knew.

Had the boat's gear been all that we found, the circumstance would have been forgotten long ago; but as we roused the tangled mass of rope in over our rail, we found, crushed and mangled by a dozen round turns of the line, the remains of what had once been a human being,—a young man, not more than twenty-five years of age, with the frame of a giant. Portions of clothing still adhered to the body, but we could find nothing to tell us who or what he had been. Around his neck was a cord of braided hair, to which hung a little leathern bag containing a small silver cross and a lock of hair,—perhaps a charm, or a keepsake. On one arm was tattooed a circle, embracing two transfixed hearts and some initials, but no name. All we could tell was that he had been one of a whaler's crew, had been fouled in the line and killed, and picked up by us. We laid the body away; the tryworks were started and try-watches set; those who were off watch turned in; and the carpenter made a rude shell to hold the sailor's remains, for our captain, who was a Christian, had determined to give him a Christian burial on shore.

Next day we were all very serious, as we made preparations for the seaman's funeral. A broken oar was put in one boat, for a head-mark to the grave. Axes, shovels and a crow bar were mustered, and all was ready.—The captain called all hands, and then addressed the chief mate:

"Mr. C., you and the bow-boat will pull straight in for that high bluff, pick out a landing place and dig a grave; Mr. B. (the second mate) will bring the body ashore in the waist-boat.—He'll bring the prayer-book with him, and you will please read the burial service over the grave. Pile plenty of big rocks on the top of it after you fill it up, so the wild critters can't dig him up again. I'd mark it with some crotched sticks and poles, too—I suppose somebody cares about him. That's all, sir."

"Very good, sir," said the mate; "Mr. S., clear away your boat and we'll make a start."

The boats were lowered, and we pulled leisurely for the shore. The water was smooth as glass, the day clear and cool, and the prospect of a twenty-mile pull (we were at least that distance off shore, having drifted a long way during the night) was nothing unpleasant. The mate's crew had a fashion, when leaving the ship, of always shooting away from the other boats, and particularly from ours. Their boat pulled well, and ours dragged heavily; besides which, our men were not to be compared with their long-backed, long-armed Martha's Vineyarders for bone and muscle. To be sure, they had had more weight of themselves to pull than we had, but the difference in strength more than made it up to them. As usual, they pulled ahead of us for a bit, and then eased their oars until they were within speaking distance; again shot ahead and fell back,—repeating this until Mr. S. was not a little vexed.

"Look here, boys," said he, "if you say the word, we'll beat that boat from here ashore. We can do it, and I'm just about tired of seein' 'em show off at our expense. What say?"

"Aye, aye, sir, — we'll try it, anyhow," was the answer; and monkey jackets were discarded, and we settled ourselves on our thwarts, ready for a hard pull. One great advantage we had, in our after-oarsman, who pulled a splendid stroke,—although he was so slow and clumsy about the ship that he never received any other name than that of "Farmer," the officers saying he "would never get the hay-seed out of his hair,"—while the mate's stroke-oarsman pulled a little irregularly sometimes.

The next time the mate started ahead after dropping down alongside, agreeably to our officer's directions we laid back on our oars with a long, steady sweep, which we could keep up a long while, and which sent the boat for the shore at seven knots an hour. Our antagonists immediatey accepted the challenge, and away they went, fully two knots faster than we, till they were a quarter of a mile ahead, when they eased again, and let us draw up a little.

To be concluded to-morrow.

THE ORIENTAL TEA COMPANY

WILL Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Teas direct to customers, by the pound, as low as by the cargo, saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to FINE FLAVORED TEAS, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price lists."

OUR COFFEE DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

HAVE CHARITY.

BY FRANCIS S. SMITH.

Through the great, sin-blasted city
Tolls a homeless little one—
Not a friend to soothe or pity—
Not a bed to lie upon—
Ragged, dirty, bruised and bleeding—
Subject still to kick and curse—
Schooled in sin and sadly needing Aid from Christian tongue and purse.

But the rich and gay pass by her,
Full of vanity and pride,
And a pittance they deny her,
As they puff their skirts aside.
Then a sullen mood comes o'er her—
Reckless she of woe or weal—
Death from hunger is before her—
She must either starve or steal.

She does steal, and who can blame her?
Hunger-pangs her vitals know—
None endeavor to reclaim her,
And she violates the law.
Then the pampered child of fashion,
Who refused to give relief,
Cries, with well affected passion,
"Out upon the little thief!"

Censors full of world-wise schooling,
Cease to censure and deplore—
When the girl transgressed man's ruling
She obeyed a higher law.
Take her place—feel her temptation—
Starved, unhoused—no succor nigh—
And, though sure of reprobation,
Ye would steal ere ye would die!

RETRIBUTION!!

In spite of the exertions made by the "Children's Aid Society," "The News Boy's Lodging rooms," and city missions generally, there is still much to do in the matter of relieving the necessities of the suffering little ones known as "The City's Children"—little, white-faced, penury-pinched sufferers who live in pestilential, subterranean abodes, dark courts and filthy air-poisoned alley-ways, or roam the streeets in the day time and sleep at night in covered wagons, coal-boxes, or any other place they may be able to steal into—some of whom have neither parents nor friends, and others who have relatives but would be better off without them.

Everybody will remember the case of the unfortunate orphan girl who, some twelve or fourteen years ago, was taken from the poor-house by a fiend in human shape named Mrs. Decker, who resided at the time on Staten Island. It will be in the recollection of many how this poor, friendless little creature was fortured by the wretch who had adopted her, till death kindly put an end to her sufferings. How she was beaten till her little body was a mass of bruises—starved till her bones seemed bursting throug the skin—turned out into the bitter cold almost naked till her feet were blistered with frost, and her emaciated frame racked by rheumatism—while all the while the monster who subjected her to such tortures attended church regularly and was regarded as little less than a saint by those who did not know her.

This, as we have said, occurred nearly a score of years ago, but who can say how many similar cases have happened since—are happening every day in fact. The Mrs. Deckers are not all dead yet—society is full of them and their victims, and, what is worse, this will always be the case till the millenium comes. We cannot alter human nature, but we can do the next best thing—we can expose such atrocities when they come to light, and such is our purpose at the present time. Anybody who will follow us through the following narrative of wrong and retribution will acknowledge the full force of all which we have said and will feel themselves well repaid for their trouble as well.

Please, sir, may I shovel off your sidewalk?

No, boy!—go home and tell your mother to take care of you.

I only want five cents, sir—just five cents—let me have five cents for half an hour and I'll do any work you're a-mind to set me at—I don't care what it is.

No, I tell you! Go home and keep out of the streets! Go to school! I don't see what parents can be thinking of to allow their children to go running around begging!

The first speaker was a stout-built lad, who carried upon his shoulder a rudely-constructed wooden shovel, and the person to whom he addressed himself was the wealthy Mr. Seymour, who occupied a palatial mansion in one of the streets cutting the Fifth avenue at right angles.

The boy was about fourteen years of age, and though shabbily dressed and wretched-looking enough, there was something about his countenance which could not fail to impress a close observer favorably.

Mr. Seymour had just returned from a drive out on the Avenue in his magnificient sleigh, and was about entering the door of his residence when the boy, who had been looking wistfully, as he walked along, at the window of the rich mansions in front of which he was passing, paused and accosted him.

About an hour after the above conversation, Mr. Seymour, again dressed for the street, stood gazing from the window of his front parlor. Already he regretted that he had so rudely answered the boy's petition, and in imagination he again beheld the pleading face. Suddenly an exclamation, half of fear, half of surprise, burst from his lips as he actually met the mournful gaze of the boy's large, sorrowful eyes.

It was but a single glance, and the boy passed away without offering to stop, but soon recovering himself, Mr. Seymour sprang to the hall, then out at the door, and in an instant was at the boy's side.

Here, boy! he said, hurriedly, as he touched the lad on the shoulder, have you got what you were asking for yet?

No, sir replied the boy, dejectedly; the people tell me that I am too small to shovel snow, and too big to beg, and so I s'pose I shall have to go home without anything No I won't though, he added, suddenly, while a look of savage recklessness settled upon his pallid features—no I won't! I have never done anything wicked yet, but I'll steal—I'll murder before I go home without anything!

Good gracious, boy! exclaimed Mr. Seymour, what are you saying? Upon my life you talk like a perfect young savage. Here—here's some change for you! And he placed in his hand a few silver coins.

Instantly the look of blank despair vanished from the boy's face, and an expression of intense satisfaction took its place, as eagerly clutching the money which the rich man held out to him, he hastily ejaculated a fervent Thank'ee, sir! and fled away up the street at his topmost speed.

Mr. Seymour stood looking after the boy till he saw him enter a baker's shop on the corner, and then he mechanically followed in the same direction.

"So he was hungry," he muttered as he walked along, "and perhaps he may be connected with some one who is also hungry. Who can tell? I don't know that it's anything to me, but, by George, something which I cannot exactly understand, impels me to follow him, and I will do so, let what will come of it."

The boy was hungry—very hungry—for as he emerged from the baker's shop clutching a loaf of bread in his nervous grasp, Mr. Seymour, who followed closely, observed that he tore a piece from it and ravenously gnawed it as he started on a run.

At length the boy darted up a dark alley-way, the entrance to which Mr. Seymour reached just in time to see the object of his pursuit enter a tenant building which stood far back in the rear.

Mr. Seymour also entered the dismal habitation, and, after some delay, found himself in an apartment on the second floor. The room was a small one, and from its position the light of day, except at meridian (it was about three o'clock then,) was almost excluded. The floor was cleanly scrubbed, the walls were white, and the window-panes, what few were left, glistened brightly in the sunlight, but save a clean board which, resting upon a barrel, served as a table, and a bed which occupied the darkest corner of the room on the floor, the apartment contained no furniture.

Sitting bolt upright upon this letter article was a woman, wasted away almost to a skeleton. In both her bony hands she clutched a loaf of bread, from which she had ravenously torn a mouthful, and lying prone at her side, with his face buried in the pillow, and groaning and sobbing piteously, was the boy whom the rich man had followed.

Mr. Seymour was unable to scan the woman's features closely, for the bright glare of the sun upon the snow without had temporarily affected his eyes to view objects in a subdued light, but he saw enough to shock him greatly, and stooping down he placed his hand upon the shoulder of the boy, and shaking him gently, he said in a kindly tone:

Get up my little man, and run out for some more fitting food than that. You shall want for nothing more, for I will be your friend. See, here is money!" And as he spoke he took some silver coins from his pocket.

Rising from his recumbent position as the first tones of the gentleman's voice fell upon his ears, the boy turned and faced the latter, who was surprised to see upon his features, not a look of gratitude, but an expression amounting almost to malignity.

Go away! exclaimed the boy, bitterly, go away, and leave me alone. I hate you.

And why should you hate me, my poor lad? inquired Mr. Seymour, in a tone of unfeigned surprise—I never injured you!

You have! exclaimed the boy, passionately, you have always injured me, and such as me. I hate you because you are rich, and because you don't care who starves so long as you have plenty to eat and drink, and to wear, and to throw away; I feel as though I could kill you, and I may, too, if you don't go away, for I have the strength to do it now, although I am only a boy!

Upon my life I believe the boy is getting crazy! exclaimed Mr. Seymour, in a sort of half soliloquy.

I believe I am, returned the boy, vehemently and it wouldn't be much to wonder at if I did. I wish I was crazy or dead, I wouldn't care which!

Mr. Seymour was about to make some conciliatory reply, but before he could do so the door opened, and a little girl about nine years of age entered, bearing in her hand a bowl of of soup. She was a beautiful, bright-looking child, although her clothes were untidy, and her hair was uncombed, and fell straggling around her face. Her large blue eyes were full of gentleness and love and an almost angelic look rested upon her meek retiring countenance.

She was somewhat disconcerted upon discovering a stranger, but beckoning the boy to a corner, she said in a whisper, while a smile of joy lighted up her little thin face:

Here, Charley, I've brought a bowl of real nice soup for your mother, and I know it will do her good. Mrs. Maddox, who lives up stairs, gave it to me for fetching her a pail of water, but I'm not hungry, and it will be so nice for your poor mother."

The boys lip quivered as he struggled to subdue some terrible emotion, and he answered, at last, in a husky voice:

"She don't want it, Maggie—I know she don't—you eat it yourself.

Who is that gentleman? whispered the girl, at the same time stealing a glance a Mr. Seymour.

He is a rich man, answered the boy aloud, who lives in a great house up town.

Oh, I am so glad! exclaimed the girl, joyously, for I am sure he will do something for your mother!

Of course I will, my little lady, said Mr. Seymour—that is what I came for.

No you won't! exclaimed the boy, bitterly, because you can't help her now! If you had given me only five cents when I first asked you for it, it might, perhaps, have done some good, but its too late now. Look at her! And again throwing himself face downward upon the bed, he gave away to another passionate out-burst of grief.

A horrid suspicion flashed across the mind of the millionaire, whose eyes by this time had become accustomed to the moderate light, and looking directly at the woman,—God! Heaven, what a sight broke upon his startled vision!

Merciful Heaven! he exclaimed, holding his hands before his eyes to shut out the frightful spectacle, she is dead!

Yes, sobbed the boy, dead—dead—dead! And when they put her in the cold ground, I shall be alone—all alone! There will be no one to care for me then!

While he was thus wildly lamenting, the little girl had placed her bowl upon the rude table, and with the tears standing in her mild eyes had advanced toward him. Kneeling beside him as the despairing words left his lips, she threw her little white arms around his neck, and looking upward, in a tone of mingled pathos and gentle reproach:

"No one, did you say, Charley? No one at all?

Instantly the boy checked his violent grief, and looking up through his tears, he replied, as he affectionately pressed her hand:

Oh, I forgot you Maggie—I forgot you, but you mustn't blame me. I was thinking of nothing but her. It will be so very, very hard to see them take her away!

By this time Mr. Seymour had recovered somewhat from the first shock which his feelings had sustained, and approaching close to the corpse he began to peruse the features attentively. A thrill of horror shook his frame anew, as he did so, for notwithstanding the change death had made, he felt morally certain he had seen the face before under far different circumstances.

What is your name, boy? he asked excitedly, turning toward the sorrowing lad.

The boy was stubborn, and would not answer, but his little companion replied:

His name is Charley Hollister, sir.

It was, and we have met again at last, but under what terrible circumstances! Oh! what a frightful, frightful death for her to die!

He spoke truly. It was a frightful death, for the woman had died of starvation! Starvation in the midst of plenty! Starvation in the midst of plenty! Eager to appease the frightful cravings of hunger she had seized the loaf and torn from it a mouthful, but even as she essayed to masticate it, the fatal reaction took place, death seized her in the effort, and she who had once tasted the sweets of affluence, now sat there, the victim of cruel want, a stiffened corpse, grim, gaunt and ghastly!

Casting a look at the children, who, in their great grief had not noticed his agitation, the millionaire rushed from the house and took his way toward the Coroner's office.

An inquest was held upon the body of a wretched and—except by the weeping boy she had left behind her—apparently unknown woman—the coroner's jury, composed of men who had suddenly been taken from their business and forced into the service, had promptly and without striving very hard to find out who or what she was, returned a verdict that Mary Hollister, the unknown woman aforesaid, had come to her death by starvation—a wealthy and exemplarly citizen had seen the poor victim of cruel want decently laid to rest in Greenwood Cemetery, all the expenses attending the funeral having been paid out of his own pocket—and four persons had assembled in the room adjoining the one in which Mary Hollister died, to talk over ar the sad event. These were Charles Hollister, the son of the deceased woman; the little girl, Maggie; Mrs. Bridget Mullins, a washerwoman of unmistakably Celtic orgin; and Mr. Philip Ferry, known in the neighborhood as Phil, the Philosopher.

And so the fine gentleman has offered to find a place for you, has he, Charley, dear? asked the widow, addressing the deceased woman's son.

The poor boy, who, absorbed in his deep grief, sat in an out-of-the-way corner, did not hear her, and little Maggie once more became his mouth-piece.

Don't speak to him yet, now, Mrs. Mullins, please don't, pleaded he little creature—he feels so bad he don't want to talk. I know all about it, and I'll answer your questions! Mr. Seymour has offered to find a place for Charley—I heard him!

The conversation was interrupted by a knock at the door, which was opened by Mrs. Mullins, and a tall, bilious looking man, of a sinister expression of countenance, wriggled his way into the room.

Exit! whispered the philosopher, musingly, as soon as his eyes fell upon the new-comer—I can see him sticking out all over. Slippery and tricky—twist himself into any shape he pleases and adroitly make his escape thro' the smallest kind of a hole. Every hair on his head—to be sure there isn't many of them—is an eel, and if an eel's eye was magnified to the size of his with a proper lens, I will venture to say you couldn't tell one from the other.

The individual concerning whom Phil Ferry thus soliloquized, looked sharply round at the group for a moment or two, without speaking, and then turning his gaze toward the widow, he said:

So she's gone at last, eh?

She is, Docther McNab, replied Mrs. Mullins, she is, poor crayther! Heaven rest her sowl.

And the boy, what will become of him now? asked the man, while a greedy look lighted up his dull, gary eyes—I hear that a rich man—a Mr. Seymour—has offered to take charge of him. Is that so?

I believe it is, answered Mrs. Mullins, but divil a much mesilf knows about it. But don't throuble the boy—poor little Billy, the thribulashin is keen on him!—ask Maggie—she knows.

Oh, yes, Maggie! My dear little Maggie! exclaimed the doctor, with affected tenderness, as he approached the child—she will tell me all about it. She will come and live with me, now, I guess. She won't want to stay here after they take away her playmate? Won't you come with me, Maggie?

"No, I wont!" exclaimed the child, with a shudder, and at the same time she crept close to Mrs. Mullins, and seized tightly hold of that good woman's apron, as though she feared the doctor might seize her forcibly and bear her off.

"And why not, my little dear?" asked the doctor with grand blandness.

"Because I don't like you," replied the child, with great candor—"I'd rather go and live in that dark dungeon where my father died than to go home with you. I'm afraid of you!"

"Now, that is hard, isn't it, Mrs. Mullins?" said the doctor, appealingly. That is really hard. I attended that little girl's father professionally all through his many fits of sickness without charging him one cent, and now when I want to continue my kindness by giving her a home, she won't come near me. I dare say the boy is just like her. I attended his mother professionally, also, without receiving any pecuniary recompense save a few trinkets, and I don't suppose he has any more gratitude than Maggie has. Will you come and learn to be a doctor, Charley?" he continued, addressing the boy.

No, not with you, sententiously answered the grief-stricken youth, turning his tear-swollen eyes upon the questioner.

No, said Maggie, Charley and I will go together. Wherever he goes, I will go. If Mr. Seymour takes him, I will beg Mrs. Seymour to take me.

Dr. McNab had good reasons for feeling interested in the children, and what those reasons were will appear in the course of our story.

It was one morning about a week after the events just narrated took place, that Mr. and Mrs. Seymour sat at the breakfast table, the gentleman reading the morning paper and sipping his coffee by turns, while the lady remained silent, apparently in deep thought about something.

At length, throwing down his paper and emptying his cup at a draught, Mr. Seymour said, with a sigh:

I never take up a paper of late, my dear, that I do not come across the details of some horrible case of destitution and misery.

I have noticed, Andrew, said Mrs. Seymour, that of late you seem more than usually interested in the sufferings of the poor. My attention, too, has been much attracted to such cases since I heard of your praiseworthy action in reference to that unfortunate woman who died of starvation. Although I must admit that your conduct was commendable, I cannot understand why you have taken such an interest in her orphan boy. After superintending the funeral, and paying all the expenses, you bring two destitute children here to your own home, one of them the unfortunate woman's son.

Mrs. Seymour paused, in order to give her husband an opportunity to say something in explanation but he remained silent, and she continued:

And another singular phase of this most singular matter is, that you seem less inclined to converse about the boy than you do about the girl. Without any inquiry upon my part, you told me all you knew about the girl, but when I ventured to question you concerning the boy, you evinced a palpable disinclination to converse on the subject, and would not give me the slightest satisfaction.

Well, my dear, said Mr. Seymour, apparently with great reluctance, it is true that I have all along tried to avoid this subject, but as you force me to it, I will admit that there is a mystery about the boy and his mother—a mystery which I have reasons of my own for not wishing to explain, and which could advantage you nothing, even should I do so. Let me implore you then, as you value our domestic quiet, not to allude to the subject again. The boy will be out of the house shortly, and, after he is gone, let us cease to talk of the poor. I spoke to an employing acquaintance of mine, yesterday, Mr. Barak Jeffries, and Charley is to be placed in his care to-morrow. But how about your little protege, Maggie? Have you found a place for her yet, or do you mean to adopt her?

I would willingly adopt her, replied Mrs. Seymour, who saw at once that it would be useless to attempt to penetrate her husband's secret, and who assumed a satisfaction she by no means felt, if I could reconcile such a course with my conscience, but I fear I am growing too fond of her, and we should not place our affections upon things of this earth. The fact that our Heavenly Father has never blessed us with children is the best proof that He intended I should devote myself entirely to His service. She is a sweet child, and I am happy in having been able to pluck her as a brand from the burning, (this was a favorite expression with the lady) but I cannot make up my mind to assume the entire care of her, and so I think I will permit a Mrs. Dockett, who has made application to our Society for a little girl to adopt, to take her. She seems a very pious kind of woman, and has promised to bring Maggie up in the faith.

Poor Maggie! she little knew the fate that awaited her. And had Mrs. Seymour been aware of it, her philanthropic heart would have thrilled with horror, and she would as soon have thought of placing the helpless little one in the keeping of a wild beast.

An hour later, after Mr. Seymour had left the house, to attend to business, Mrs. Dockett made her appearance, wishing to consult with Mrs. Seymour about taking charge of Maggie.

How old did you say she was? asked Mrs. Dockett, after some preliminary observations had passed between herself and Mrs. Seymour.

It is impossible to say, exactly, replied the latter lady for the child does not know her age. I should suppose her, however, to be about nine years old.

The dear child! exclaimed Mrs. Dockett, with fervor; and what is her name, ma'm?

Of that we are also ignorant, answered Mrs. Seymour—she is a poor little waif, of whose history we have been able to learn but little. About three years ago her father, a besotted creature, who was not fit to have the charge of a dog, much less a tender child, hired a room in the house from which we took her. He died miserably in prison not long afterward of delirium tremens, and from that time till we found her, the little unfortunate picked up her living by running errands for the tenants. Maggie is the only name by which she is at present known.

The poor darlin', unfortnit little soul! exclaimed Mrs. Dockett, applying her handkerchief to her eyes. Oh, Mrs. Seymour, I must have that child! I feel like I could eat her up without even seein' of her. I wanted to get some poor little waif, as you call it, without no father or mother, or any friends to care for it, and I'm so glad I applied to your blessed, Heavenly Society, you don't know!

Had Mrs. Dockett known how inextricably interwoven was the past history of that little unfortunate with her own, she would not have been so perfectly self-possessed as she contemplated taking charge of her. But she did not know it and she was happy in her ignorance.

You will treat her in all respects as if she were my child, and I had placed her with you to board, will you? asked Mrs. Seymour, delighted with the flattering allusion which had been made to the Society.

Mrs. Dockett looked up to Heaven, as if calling the Sacred Hosts to witness her sincerity, then wiping her eyes energetically, she sighed heavily, and then said emphatically:

Won't I, indeed!

And you will bring her up in the faith? continued Mrs. Seymour; you will studiously teach her to renounce the pomps and vanities of this wicked world and all the sinful lusts of the flesh? You will see to it that she listens only to sound doctrine?

Mrs. Seymour, responded Mrs. Dockett, half reproachfully, but ecstatically, if I thought there was one hair in my head that wan't Episcopal, I'd have my head shaved clean on purpose to get rid of that one, and wear a horrid cap for the rest of my days!

Mrs. Seymour wanted no further proof of her visitor's fitness for any work which she might be called upon to do, after she had given such powerful evidence of the faith that flows in her, and so the second waif was furnished with a mother.

The next morning, when the children met each other in the kitchen, the eyes of each were red with weeping.

We have got to go to different places, now Charley, said Maggie, laying her hand upon his arm, and looking tearfully into his face.

Yes, Maggie, replied the boy, sadly, I am sorry we can't keep together, but it is better that we should do something for ourselves.

I suppose it is, replied the little creature dejectedly, but I never thought of parting from you, Charley.

Never mind, said the boy, hopefully, and a bright smile overspread his fine features as he spoke, we shall see each other often. Mr. Seymour has promised me that already. He has told me where Mrs. Dockett lives on Long Island, and if I work smart, perhaps I shall be allowed to visit you every week. Who knows! Oh, if I was only sure of that! exclaimed the child, joyfully.

Besides, continued the boy, energetically, I am to learn a good trade, and I am to have a peaty of overwork. Who can tell how much I may be able to save up? Why, I might be able to pay your board and buy clothes for you in a little while, and then you could come and live in the city where I could see you every day! Only think of that, Maggie!

Poor children! Their happy anticipations were short-lived. They had yet to become familiar with misery, but there was a deeper deep of wretchedness for them still!

Mr. Seymour had placed Charles Hollister with the silversmith for a fortnight on trial, at the end of which time, if all parties were satisfied, he was to be duly apprenticed; but the boy had not been under the charge of his employer a week before he discovered that there was something wrong about the man, although the latter tried hard to appear excessively parent-like and amiable.

Among the apprentices who operated in the bee-hive, as the shop was termed by Mr. Jeffries, was a little, pale-faced, consumptive-looking boy, about the age of Charles Hollister, who at once attracted the attention and excited the commiseration of the newly entered apprentice, who felt a secret satisfaction in, whose name was Richard Manners, was to be his room-mate. The two boys became fast friends the very first night that they slept together, and they grew more and more attached to each other as their intimacy became closer.

The first effort of the new apprentice, naturally enough, was to gather from his companion some idea of his employer and his fellow apprentices; but, strangely enough, the boy would never allow himself to be drawn into a conversation on that subject. He would talk freely enough on any other theme; but the moment the shop was mentioned, he was dumb; nor could all the ingenuity of young Hollister put him off his guard.

It was the night before the one upon which the probationary fortnight of the new apprentice would expire, and he and his room-mate had retired to their room.

Hollister was the first to throw his clothes off and jump into bed, and as he lay there watching his room-mate, he could not help noticing the look of painful anxiety which rested upon the features of the latter. The boy was never at any time disposed to be mirthful; but now his face wore a look which plainly spoke of some especial source of regret, and before getting into bed, he, contrary to his usual custom, carefully looked under it, and around the room, and finally, he opened the bed-room door and looked out into the entry.

What's the matter, Dick? said Hollister, when the latter had at length stretched himself out at his side. You ain't afraid of burglars, are you?

No; replied the boy, in a whisper; Wass'en that.

What is it, then? asked Hollister. Come, speak out, don't be alarmed!

Hush-h-h! whispered the boy, trembling as he spoke! don't speak so loud—he might hear you.

And who is he? asked Hollister, without altering his tone.

I won't talk to you Charley, replied the boy, in a whisper so low as to be almost inaudible, if you don't speak lower. I know he is around somewhere, and I tell you he will hear you.

Well, then, whispered Hollister, who, will ing to gratify the lad, brought his voice down to the lowest pitch, I will speak low; and now tell me who is that he you are so much afraid of?

The Boss! replied the boy, in a frightened tone; and you'd be afraid too, if you knew him as well as I do.

Well, I don't like him very much myself, Dick, replied Hollister; but I don't see anything in him to be frightened at, and I don't see as we've much to complain about. He uses us pretty well. We've got plenty to eat, and to drink, and to wear, and don't have to work very hard.

Oh, yes, whispered Dick, significantly, that's cos he's got a new boy on trial. We allers do have a high old time whenever a new boy comes; but we have to pay up for it afterward. It seems to me almost as if you were my brother, Charlie, and I will say this much to you, if I die for it—don't you be bound to him!

What are you whispering about there, Richard? broke in the shrill voice of the kingbee from the entry outside; I am afraid I will have to curtail your sleeping hours; you've got too much time for sleeping—you have!

I knew he was around! whispered the little unfortunate. Oh! won't I catch it for this! And turning his back to his companion, he refused to say another word.

The boy's warning was not without its effect upon the mind of young Hollister; but, having once resolved upon his course of action, he was not easily to be swerved therefrom; and before closing his eyes in sleep he determined to carry out his original purpose, let what would happen—which he subsequently did: but he had not been an indented apprentice forty-eight hours when he bitterly regretted not having taken his little room-mate's advice.

From the moment the documents were signed which placed Charles Hollister beneath the tender control of Mr. Jeffries for seven years, the demeanor of the latter toward his apprentices underwent so complete a change, that the newly bound lad; although prepared to witness something of the kind from whom Dick Manners had said, was greatly astonished. Ignorant of the world, and thoroughly artless and honest himself, he never imagined that anyone could exercise such perfidious hypocrisy. During the whole fortnight while he was on trial, he had noticed that the boys were treated with great consideration. As this was changed, however, as soon as the neophyte became a full-fledged bee—then tasks were imposed upon the ill-starred apprentices the completion of which took them from twelve to sixteen hours per day, and they not compelled to submit daily to a thousand harrowing pieces of injustice, which were calculated to wound the pride and lacerate the feelings of any boy possessing the slightest spirit.

It was on the morning of the second day of young Hollister's apprenticeship, and he was busily employed at the side of Dick Manners, under whose tuition he had temporarily been placed, when Mr. Barak Jeffries entered the bechive, and, as was his wont, began the exercise of his daily tortures. Walking from one to another of his apprentices, he bestowed upon each as he passed along some biting innuendo or soul-cutting remark which admitted of no reply, till at length he stood behind Dick Manners, who felt his presence although he did not see him, and who doubtedly as he continued his work without too king up.

Richard! squeaked the immaculate proprietor of the beehive.

At the sound of his voice both boys looked up and Hollister noticed that the tyrant held in his hand a rawhide, which till then he had kept concealed behind him.

Richard! repeated Jeffries, you did not finish soldering them 'ere thimbles last night.

No, sir, replied the boy apprehensively, if you please sir, I couldn't.

Couldn't exclaimed Mr. Jeffries, assuming a look of offended dignity, couldn't, sir! Do you mean to tell me to my face that I have imposed a task upon one of my boys which he couldn't perform? I am grieved, I rarely am grieved, Richard Manners, to find that you are sich a hard case, sich a very hard case—in spite of all my talkin' to you, and advising of you, and persuadin' of you to do better. I can't allow sich conduct in my beehive, sir, and although I am ready to shed tears when I think of doin' of it, I shall have to punish you severely as a very first-rate man of my sensibilities, but I shall have to do it. I can't help myself, it's a dooty wot I owe to you and your mother, and to myself!

He took the poor trembling lad by the shoulder, as he spoke, and elevated his whip in the air: but before he had struck a blow, Hollister, who was at first rendered dumb by surprise, exclaimed imploringly:

"Oh, don't whip him, Mr. Jeffries! Please, don't, sir, I know he tried his best to finish his stint, for it was three o'clock this morning before he got to bed. Besides, sir, he's sick. He couldn't get to sleep for coughing, for an hour after he laid down!

Mr. Jeffries dropped his uplifted arm and stood gazing at the new apprentice with a look of perfect astonishment.

It is possible that I can be in my right senses? he exclaimed at length, has I acted as principal of the beehive up to this late day, to have a fresh-made apprentice a given of me advice. Master Hollister, you have committed a very grave offense, sir—a offense sir, which nothin' but your ignorance of my rules and regulations could induce me to overlook. I will forgive you this time, sir, but look out in future, if you venture to speak afore you're spoken to, as for this 'ere boy, I can't forgive him—I wish I could—I shall have to give him some wholesome punishment, and I shall also, much against my wishes, be obliged to report his outrageous conduct to his mother!

This last sentence was one of Mr. Barak Jeffries' master-strokes in the exercise of his art. It pierced like a sharp knife, the heart of the boy, and the fiend knew it would when he uttered it. Mrs. Manners, the boy's mother, was a widow, and he was her only son—the child of her old age. She idolized him, almost, and before she apprenticed him to the monster of the beehive, she had fondly hoped that he would grow up respected by his fellow and a blessing to her—the pride of her heart and the staff of her declining years. But all such happy anticipations were crushed as soon as communication was established between herself and Barak Jeffries, who pictured her poor boy as a very member of disobedience and ingratitude—a juvenile fiend, in whose character it would be hard to discover one redeeming trait.

The poor woman did not wish to believe these terrible stories; but when they came from a man, of such unquestionable respectability as Barak Jeffries—a man who dwelt upon her son's shortcomings with apparent reluctance, how could she refrain from condemning him by the memory of his dead father, not to add the sin of falsehood to his other misdeeds by denying the charges which were alleged against him?

Oh how many tender hearts have been broken, and how many sternet ones render callous and dead to all feeling by the devilish skill of a Barak Jeffries! How many thieves and assassins, and desperate ruffians have received the bent of their dispositions from such establishments as the beehive?

No cry of pain escaped the lips of Richard Manners, as the fiend who had him in his gripe, proceeded to shower upon him a succession of heavy blows. He did not strive to get away, although the assault increased in violence with his passiveness, and the vital fluid stained his shirt as the instrument of torture lacerated his flesh, for his heart was bleeding too, and the pain which he felt there was greater than ever his physical suffering.

He was thinking of his mother and of the punishment so oft repeated, which his cruel

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THAT GRAND BAL MASQUE comes off this (Monday) evening at Congress Hall, and will be the event of the season. There is a great demand for tickets, now, and we learn that there were but few unsold on Saturday. Mr. Marcellus Eldridge, the energetic manager of the affair, has worked untiringly to bring to a successful conclusion this unique and rare festivity, and judging by what we have been able accidentally to hear from those who are to attend, we are prepared to expect some very original and ludicrous exhibitions of "ye costumes of ye past.—and present." We are requested to announce that dancing will commence promptly at half past 8 o'clock, and masks are to be removed at midnight. We shall endeavor to give a full account of the interesting proceedings in our issue of Wednesday.

THE GREAT PANORAMA. — The announcement that "The Pilgrim" is to prolong its stay, will meet with the approval of all who have thus far not found it convenient to attend this splendid exhibition. This (Monday) evening, for the last time, it will be unrolled in this city,—and a closing exhibition for the accommodation of families is also announced for the Afternoon,—and to meet the desires of many, the admission fee has been reduced to 25 cents. It is unnecessary at this late day, to speak of its great merit and attractiveness; the fact of its having drawn good houses so long and given universal satisfaction, is a sufficient evidence of its worth. Don't fail to attend on this, the last opportunity.

The News.

India has famine.

The steamship race across the Atlantic between the Russia of the Cunard line, and the City of Paris of the Inman line, terminated slightly in favor of the last named steamer. They sailed from New York on the afternoon of the 10th inst., and arrived at Queenstown Friday morning, the City of Paris at 5 o'clock and the Russia an hour and a half later.

The revolution in Cuba seems to be steadily gaining strength. The revolution now extends over one-half the island. Two thousand Spanish troops arrived at Havana on Friday.

Congress.

The Senate, on Friday, passed bills providing for the payment of certain sums of money to the New Orleans fleet under Admiral Farragut, and the officers and crew of the steamer Kearsarge; the Indian appropriation bill, and the joint resolution authorizing the Northern Pacific Railway to issue bonds to aid in the construction of its road and telegraph line. In the House the army appropriation bill came up after the usual preliminary business, and after a pretty sharp contest Mr. Butler's amendment for the reduction of the army was rejected, all the amendments reducing the ordinary appropriations were agreed to, the sum for military surveys was stricken out, and the bill was passed.

—A Rocky Mountain paper publishes an obituary notice of the famous "Jim," chief of the Washoe Indians, who died recently. Jim seems to have possessed many virtues. He seems to have been a good though very dirty red man. He possessed a well-balanced head of hair, and stomach enough for all he could get to eat. His regard for truth was notable—he never meddled with it. He left no will, and his estate, consisting of a pair of boots, will have to be settled by his heirs through the medium of a game of "old sledge."—After life's fitful "fever and ague" he sleeps well.

—St. Thomas' Church, in New York city, is to have a full chime of bells, the largest of which will weigh 5500 pounds and be the heaviest harmonic bell ever cast in the country.

A GRAND PARTY,

—not political, but what is far better, social.—A resident of Washington states that the bridal party at Admiral Lee's Feb. 3d, was in point of number and distinction of the guests, brilliancy of the same, and the general "success," as they term it in New York, the most magnificent given in the capital for the last twenty years. It was in fact, historical, it we consider the number of Generals, statesmen and scholars present. It was given in compliment to the bridal pair—General and Mrs. Comstock, the bride a daughter of Hon. Montgomery Blair. The correspondents of course give full accounts of this crush—and we make a few extracts;

Coming out of the gentlemen's room, I saw General Grant, looking in prime health, his face wearing the expression of calm and assured triumph one might expect to see on the eve of a battle. He was going to encounter what he had never triumphed over, and to be, alas! extinguished in the encounter; for we saw no more of him after he had descended to the ladies, parlor. Only the Generals who had commanding height, whose epaulettes floated on a level with the heads of the mass, could be discovered. "Thick as leaves in Vallambrosa" were the generals, and some were able to be recognized by their inches. * *

The Secretaries were seen as they passed, and the next moment lost in the flutter of lace and silk. The bride was attired in white satin, properly trimmed in the corsage with orange flower buds, which also were wreathed around her head. Her long veil floated from the fastening on her head, over her shoulders, and was suffered to fall over her face. The ceremony had taken place shortly before the reception, in Ascension Church, where the font was filled with beautiful flowers, and inside the church was a stately arch of evergreens, from the center of which hung a monogram of the wedded pair Rev. Dr. Pickney performed the ceremony. The three Misses Blair were among the bridesmaids.

There was no room to sit at the reception, and a procession was continually pressing along towards the verandah, which was enclosed and draped with flags for the supper room. The venerable Frank P. Blair, Sr., was seen; a thin frigile looking man, rather more self-possessed than when he was first announced to the company in General Jackson's presence, before the Globe sprang into existence.

Generals Delafield, Woodruff, Schofield, Eaton, Parker, Miller, Dent, Babcock, Ramsey and many others, Secretary Welles, Mayor Wallack, General Humphrey, &c., all escorted ladies, and all were intent on the banquet. It was elegantly set out, under hanging baskets of flowers, and ample justice was done to "every delicacy of the season" by the ever advancing throng. A large pyramid in the center was the wedding cake.

The greatest lion of the evening, in my opinion, was Mrs. Levi Woodbury, the mother of Mrs. Montgomery Blair. This lady came from Portsmouth to spend the winter. Looking not a day older than forty-five, and still very handsome, she brought back, like a dream, recollections of the days when, in Gen. Jackson's second term, she was the hostess in many a brilliant party at the Secretary's residence. She has a highly intellectual countenance, with graceful self-possession, and the most winning, cordial kindness beams from her eyes and speaks in her voice. An elderly gentleman whom I had noticed at several parties, was her escort to supper; he was Colonel Wheeler, the historian of North Carolina.

Passing into the hall, a familiar voice and a bright familiar face greeted me, and I saw Mrs. Fremont. The daughter of Senator Benton and the wife of so distinguished a man as General Fremont, she is always a celebrity, besides being the most brilliant woman in conversation in America.

"How changed she is!" ejaculated a gentleman in my hearing. But her gray hair is a mark of distinguishing honor; her locks having changed from a dark brown to their present frosted aspect, in three days, during the troubles of the war.

Several young ladies were seen with powder on their hair, giving it the appearance of gray; one scarcely beyond childhood, and not full grown. The custom is not so prevalent as last season. Some had diamond dust sprinkled, not only over their heads, but over their necks. The length and quantity of trains that lay on the floor to be trampled on by irreverent feet, were "a caution." I noticed some country dames and damsels—the wives and daughters of Members of Congress—who seemed not to know a soul, and had a fixed look of dullness or gloom on their faces. The dresses, crushed and trodden on, could hardly afford them a gratifying subject of contemplation: the supper could be practically discussed but once. Yet I doubt not their constituents will have the benefit of a highly colored description.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

ELWYN PARK.—This is what we, and probably most of the friends of such an enterprise and embellishment, would prefer for the name of the new Common; but Mr. Elwyn likes Road or Mall better, and also the possessive termination, as say Elwyn's Road. But this last would only be pertinent, of course, with a carriage road made through the premises, which would seem to be undesirable on many accounts, especially until the area for the Common shall be much enlarged.

The deed of the lot for the Park, as read before and approved by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, last week, is in substance as follows:

"In consideration of the need of Public Grounds in Portsmouth, I, John Elwyn, do hereby lease and let to Albert L. Jones, Henry M. Clark, Alfred M. Hoyt, Frank W. Miller and T. Salter Tredick, a certain tract of land 200 feet wide, extending from South Millpond to South Street, being the middle field, so called, containing about 5 acres.

To have and to hold, to them and their successors forever—but in trust, nevertheless, for the following purposes:

To lay out, improve and put in order said land as a Mall, in such way and at such times as their judgment shall decide and the means at their disposal will allow.

To keep it open for the use of the Public, under such rules and regulations as said Trustees may judge most expedient for the preservation of the property and maintenance of good order.

To make such by-laws and rules for their own government, and to elect and appoint such officers as they deem necessary or expedient.

And the said (named) Trustees do hereby accept said trust, and covenant to and with said Elwyn, that we will cause said Grounds to be put in proper order for the use of the public, as soon as can properly be done with the means which may be put at our disposal.

That we will prohibit the erection of any Building thereon, except such as may be necessary for the economical putting and keeping in order of said grounds, or may beautify said Mall and render it more useful for the purposes for which it is leased. That we will make such rules and regulations as we deem expedient—and will pay all taxes on said premises.

And if said Trustees and their successors shall neglect to perform and execute this covenant according to the true intent and meaning, then this lease or deed shall be null and void, and said Elwyn and his heirs may enter and repossess the premises, as if this deed had never been given.

Signed, sealed, delivered and recorded, June 1867.

The South Pond and Mill property is owned, we believe, by Messrs. J. W. Peirce, Wm. P. Jones, A. R. Hatch and Oliver Ayres; and the marsh behind the Court-House, which it would be necessary to cross in constructing a Bridge, belongs we think to the estate of Mrs. Burroughs,—all of whom would probably aid and encourage the Park movement. This Pond could be cleared out and deepened, but rather bids more fair to be filled up ultimately; and the best, though not at first the cheapest bridge, would be to fill in earth and stones for nearly the whole distance.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Great Medicine of the World.

Perry Davis & Son's "PAIN KILLER" may most justly be styled the great medicine of the world, for there is no region of the globe into which it has not found its way, and none where it has not been found to be used and highly prized. Moreover, there is no clime to which it has not proved to be well adapted for the cure of a considerable variety of diseases. It is a speedy and safe remedy for burns, scalds, cuts, bruises, wounds and various other injuries, as well as for dysentery, diarrhœa, and bowel complaints generally. It is admirably suited for every race of man on the face of the globe.

It is a very significant fact that, notwithstanding the long period of years that the "Pain Killer" has been before the world, it has never lost one whit of its popularity or shown the least sign of becoming unpopular; but, on the contrary, the call for it has steadily increased from its first discovery by that excellent and honored man, Perry Davis, and at no previous time has the demand for it been so great, or the quantity made been so large, as it is this day.

Another significant fact is, that nowhere has the Pain Killer over been in higher repute, or been more generally used by families and individuals, than it has been here at home where it was first discovered and introduced, and where its proprietors, Messrs. Perry Davis & Son, have ever been held in high esteem. That the Pain Killer will continue to be, what we have styled it, the great medicine of the world, there cannot be the shadow of a doubt.—Providence Advertiser. f18

That the feeble totter, with uncertain steps, over the face of the earth, in danger every day of falling victims to the morbid influences by which we are all surrounded, when a tested and proven vegetable tonic, capable of endowing them with the vigor they need, is procurable in every city, town and settlement? It might reasonably be thought that after the twelve years' experience which the world has had of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, ALL would know its effect is to prevent disease.

At this season, the atmosphere is surcharged with the seeds, of intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, pulmonary disorders, bilious complaints and the like. Persons whose nervous systems are relaxed, are the first to succumb to these distempers. Brace up the physical energies, then, with this potential vegetable tonic. It is the most powerful recuperant which the botanic kingdom has ever yielded to patient research and experiment. TRY IT. The blindest disciple of the old medical dogma will at least admit that this is a safe and alterative compounded of approved herbs, roots and barks, can do no harm, while the testimony of thousands invites a trial of its virtues.

Vigor is the thing most needed in those cases, as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS is the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted. As a tonic, it is both mild and agreeable to the taste, and stimulating in its action upon the system.

Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the official receipts, and prescribed this harmless tonic as a preventive and cure for all cases of Chills and Fever.

"How Shall I Recover My Health?"

This is the mental question asked by the sick, and after repeated failures. Have you used BRANDRETH'S PILLS? This is a medicine which simply "cleanses" the blood and every organ of the body. The Plaster of the "Time,"

ALLCOCK'S POROUS.

In lumbago they act like a charm. In a few hours a violent cough is relieved by a Plaster applied to the chest. Many persons believe a cold cannot be taken while a Plaster is worn there—this we do know, they greatly assist in the cure of a neglected cold, so often the introducer of Consumption.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar produced severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he therefore applied another plaster. In a few days the nasty thing gave way—"slipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an easy sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on the sale of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support which it deserves. This portion of the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale on such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked for a Waltham Watches, use the kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waltham, the Company have made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and village of the country some wearer of a Waltham Watch may be found. Let the party making the inquiry to this owner of an American Watch this question: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTORY SERVICE? and we are not afraid to advise those inquiring to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words to say:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured of one description, the cheaper will be the cost of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell our productions at the lowest possible price for good watches, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS, and have found this policy successfully carried out, and the result is, that today we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together.

WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITIES, AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the refusal of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all those, and those only, which have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we have ever had, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country.—In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and as a retail profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, and the food will not sour in it, then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his world-wide fame in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relaxe the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the doses will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made from, enables the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to dry the pus, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Sore, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleurisy adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only medicine that can cure Consumption, three medicines which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; the blood then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the last stage of Consumption, and pronounced by physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the above medicines, and for the benefit of his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

All directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirator, the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1y ja4

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Pakeha vs. Burr.

Messrs. Editors:—On Friday evening an audience big enough to fill Congress Hall comfortably full, assembled in that place to listen to the first of a series of lectures by Mr. C. C. Burr, on the origin and history of the different races of men. Mr. Burr takes the ground that each species was created a species, and that it is as impossible to educate one species up to the level of another as it is to educate the tiger to be a lion, or the ass or zebra to be a horse. He discards the theory that climate has anything to do with the difference in the races, as false, absurd and unchristian—arguing that, if we allow climate to modify man at all, we may throw aside the Creator altogether, and say that chance did everything.

It may possibly be a scientific fact that climate does not modify and alter the human races, but any man who has seen the sturdy, vigorous Englishmen of England, and compare them with their tall, thin, active, brown-haired descendants in Australia and Van Dieman's Land, will acknowledge that something has caused a most wonderful change in that hardy race.

Mr. Burr asserts and attempts to prove that civilization destroys any savage or barbarous people. Civilization destroys barbarism, I admit, but I am not so certain that it has always destroyed barbarous races. If it has, how is it that the ferocious barbarians of Europe were not destroyed by the civilizing process, — including the Britons, who made uniforms for their whole army and court dresses for all their ladies out of a few pots of blue paint? In support of this idea (or theory) Mr. Burr mentions the destruction of the natives of Tasmania. But they were not destroyed by civilization—they were simply murdered; and I heartily endorse all the lecturer said in condemnation of the heartless manner in which that simple race of savages was brushed from existence. The ancient heathen nations did not utterly destroy the savages they civilized—they killed most of them outright, perhaps, but some were allowed to live. Christian civilization (probably what the lecturer referred to) does better. "With the Bible in one hand and the sword in the other," the civilizer introduces to the savage the blessings enjoyed by the superior races—rum and tobacco and loathsome diseases—and civilization destroys the savage!—The Sandwich Islanders are dying out rapidly, but it is not from the effects of civilization, but of the vices and diseases introduced by white men, which have poisoned every drop of native blood on the Islands; and it is the same in nearly every South Sea island where the white man has gained a footing.

New Zealand gives us a good example of several methods of civilizing barbarians. The first start was made by American whalemen, who used to land men, gear and provisions, and establish a "shore-whaling station." Wherever one of these stations was placed, the natives fairly rotted off the face of the earth, and their bleached bones are to be picked from the surface of the ground to-day. In other places Christian men—Roman Catholics, Episcopalians and Presbyterians—took their lives in their hands and went to do their master's bidding, and they did it; and the civilized natives of the North Island have been increasing in numbers and culture, under their own ministers, teachers and judges, until within ten years, when a war of conquest was commenced—and now it is a war of extermination. A hundred years from now, and civilization will probably have wiped out another savage race.

Mr. Burr didn't seem to think very highly of the intellectual capacity or the personal beauty of the native Australian, whose picture he has, and who was "the fattest man in all Australia," according to the lecturer. The picture represents a native from Victoria, New South Wales or South Australia, and is a perfect likeness of the native of those colonies; but the writer of this once travelled overland from Melbourne to Queensland, and found the natives to improve in intelligence and physique throughout the entire distance, until, at the end of the journey, the "black fellows" were not only tall, muscular and well formed, but strikingly handsome in feature. The mounted police (native blacks) of Queensland are splendid men, brave and skillful as policemen—and their worst fault is their color.

Mr. Burr scoffed at the "Darwinian Theory," and at the belief that the negro is black because God cursed Ham. He scorned the clergyman who would teach anything of the kind,—and so should I. If I ever heard such a doctrine from a clergyman (I never did), I should advise him to purchase, beg or borrow a Bible, and read some in it; for my Bible only tells me that Noah got drunk and went to sleep, woke up (as men rousing from a drunken sleep are apt to) in no very amiable mood, and cursed Canaan, the son of Ham, because the father had been lacking in filial respect. Not a word is said in the scripture to show that anybody ever cursed Ham, that anybody but Noah cursed Canaan,—or that Noah's curse took any more effect then than the curses of drunken men do in modern days.

The lecture was interesting, took nearly two hours to deliver, and contained no political allusions whatever.

PAKEHA.

R. E. Porter Velocipedeth, and Cometh to Grief.

Messrs. Editors:—It may not be amiss to record my experience as a Velocipedist, for the behoof of generations yet unborn to the delightful sensation of "going it" on two wheels. By way of preface, let me explain the derivation of the name "Velocipede." It is a word of Anglo-Saxon-Celtic origin—and is thus composed; Velo—rapid: Cipi—bringing up: and Pedo—at the side of the house—or any other obstruction that happens to be conveniently in the way. I visited the Rink and observed a man inside begging. I answered his touching appeal with a check on the U. S. Treasury for ten cents, and entered the grand apartment, where I found two foaming steeds of the genus V., describing very irregular figures under the guidance of ambitious neophytes. One charger remained quiescent near the wall; him (or it) with becoming dignity I bestrode, determined to exhibit to those ignorant fellows already engaged, a poetry of motion of which I proposed to become the chief—nay, the chiefest exponent.

Alas for human ambition! I discovered several important things straightway. Prominent among my discoveries were the facts—that my bifurcations had stopped at too early a period—or the steed was too many "hands high." I was forced to the conclusion also—that I wanted a few more legs, or the V wanted more wheels. After several efforts, the result of which was not progress, but a bountiful exudation instead, I paused to observe my fellow artistes.

They were gambolling around and across (especially across) the Rink—with all the freedom of a well-spent and virtuous life—their faces indicating a feeling that the weal or woe of the nation depended on their success. Judging from the frequent full stops with which they punctuated their performances,—I should say that the whoa element was largely in excess of the wheel.

My exhalents having recovered their normal condition, I resumed my exercise. (Exercise! Ye gods! what do you call labor?) Having failed hitherto to achieve such perfect success as the muscular and nervous expenditure seemed to warrant, I essayed a new style of propulsion, with like effect.—In despair I applied to the instructor, who told me not to look at my feet.—With renewed vigor I again took the field, eager for the laurels that seemed just within my grasp. I looked up—and came down. Still undaunted, I resolved to win or perish. (That is, I think, the correct expression.) By this time, I had become somewhat fatigued. The exhalants had returned to their work, assisted largely by the sebacious glands, much to the detriment of clothing generally, but especially to my paper collar,—bran new only a week before. While making a highly successfull advance of three feet, I was stopped in my mad career by some clumsy beginners, whose awkwardness so disconcerted me that without any previous intention of so doing, I inserted my dexter pedal between the crank and the iron frame of the machine. The result you may imagine. I wear a No. 14 boot, (sometimes two 7's). Fancy a No. 14 in a space 2 inches wide.

I came to grief. I withdrew my injured metatarsals, seized them with the right metacarpals, and indulged myself in a vertical movement involving all the bones and muscles of my left nether limb, but particularly the tendon Achilles. At the same time I addressed a neat little extempore speech to the machine I had bestridden, which speech, for elegance of diction and force of argument, has rarely been equalled.* It was not complimentary to the machine, but it consoled me.

I went home. I saved two day's wear of my right boot, and remembered the Velocipede man, constantly, in my prayers. Do you suppose he would return my quarter? Would you ask him? I wouldn't have a Telocipede—they're uncertain. R. E. PORTER.

*This speech has not been published.

☞ We saw more drunken men on the streets in Portsmouth on Friday, than we have for months previously. What's up?

THE WAY TO DO IT.—An invalid once sent for a physician, and after detaining him some time with a description of his pains, aches, &c., he thus summed up: "Now, doctor, you have humbugged me long enough with your good-for nothing pills and worthless syrups; they don't touch the real difficulty; I wish you to strike the cause of my ailments, if it is in your power to reach it." "It shall be done," at the same time lifting his cane and demolishing a decanter of gin that stood on the sideboard.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.

The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. Ordinarily, sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.

☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.

☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids, simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.

Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

tyrant had threatened to inflict upon her. But there was one who felt every blow which descended upon the back of the helpless boy as keenly as though it had been inflicted upon himself. Of just and generous, but impetuous and fiery nature, his young spirit chafed under such an exhibition of manifest cruelty and injustice. Tractable and mild to a degree under the power of kindness, he was a very demon when excited by wrong and oppression. A boy in years he was at heart a man, and fear had no part in his composition.

From the moment that Barak Jeffries struck the first blow he had dropped his tools, and stood looking on like one suddenly stricken dumb by surprise. As the punishment progressed, however, his dark eyes assumed an expression of ferocity, his broad chest rose and fell with the tumultuous passion which agitated it, the large veins upon his neck and forehead swelled nearly to bursting, and at length suddenly rushing at Jeffries, he jerked the whip from his hand, threw it to the farthest corner of the room, and in a voice husky with emotion, shrieked out:

Stop! and seizing a hammer the boy wielded it aloft and aimed a wicked blow at the head of his master.

The continuation of this truthful and deeply interesting narrative will be found in a serial story, entitled MAGGIE THE CHARITY CHILD, published in No. 17 of the NEW YORK WEEKLY, now ready. The N. Y. Weekly is beautifully illustrated, and contains forty long columns of closely printed reading matter, making the NEW YORK WEEKLY the best Story and Sketch Paper published. The New York Weekly is for sale by every News Agent throughout the Union and Canadas.

A WHALEMAN'S FUNERAL.

Concluded from Yesterday.

"Don't hurry your stroke, Farmer—pull just as you go it now, boys," said our officer; "we'll show them long Vineyarders a race yet, before we are beat, I know."

We were allowed to get some distance ahead, and then the "long Vineyarders" would come up with a rush and pass me—not running away from us altogether—we pulled too fast ourselves for that—but just fast enouth to show us that we were only allowed to keep up at all on sufferance. A dozen times, at least, did the mate's boat go ahead and drop astern in this manner, until at last, between two and three hours after we left the ship, the low white streak of surf at the foot of the high bluff was in sight, little more than a mile distant.—The mate was astern, and again overhauling us, when Mr. S. spoke:

"Now, boys, now's our time! When I start to heave on the after oar, lay back all you know. That boat's crew is winded, I know—worse'n we are; and if we can only keep even with 'em for two minutes they're licked. Mind your stroke, Farmer, whatever you do. Here they come, showin' off—but we'll take the starch out of 'em, just about now!"

They drew up steadily until they were alongside, a couple of hundred yards distant, when Mr. S., for the first time since we left the ship, commenced backing up the after oar. The mate instantly followed suit, in his boat, and both crews laid back with all the weight and strength they possessed, making the boats quiver as they cut through the water at nine knots at least. For perhaps a minute we were side by side, each man straining every muscle, the officers heaving with all their might, and keenly watching for the least advantage,—while no sound could be heard but the labored breathing of the rowers, the rapid, steady rullocking of the oars, and the rippling of the smooth water as our clinker-built boats cut their swift way for the shore.

"By jingo! we've got 'em, boys," said Mr. S. heaving with increased exertion on the after oar; "don't hurry your stroke, Farmer. They're doing their best, and don't gain an inch—they can't stand it much longer. There they drop—they're licked, they're licked!—Shoot her, bullies—shoot her!"

There was no "selling" in that race. We had no brilliant concourse of spectators to cheer us on—not even our own ship's crew to watch our exertions and applaud the victor or laugh at the vanquished; but we were just as ambitious to win as though a rich prize was to reward the conqueror—more so than many who pull in more renowned regattas.

"Buckle the white ash, boys—there they go astern—buckle the white ash, and let her rip! Don't look at 'em, boys, but keep her whistlin," said our officer; and, cheered with almost a certainty of winning, we did bend our oars and shoot through the water at a rate which not only surprised us but discouraged our opponents, who fell astern, slowly at first and then more rapidly, until the mate stopped heaving, his crew ceased their exertions, and the race was won—by the bow-boat, too.

Hot, tired and pleased, we soon reached the foot of the high bluff which had been our objective point at starting, and found a landing place in a little cove behind it, where a small stream emptied into the sea. For many miles up and down the coast the cliffs were inaccessible, this being the only place where we could get a foothold, so here we determined to dig a grave and bury the unknown seaman. One boat was anchored some distance out, with a whift set as a signal to the second mate; the other one was hauled up on the beach, and we started to select a spot for the grave. At the farthest point from the water we found what was evidently the last resting place of some other poor fellow, laid there years before. Four stout crotches were set in the ground, and two strong poles, one on each side, laid upon them. Heavy stones were piled on the grave, and an oar-blade, much decayed, still stood upright at one end of the heap. We dug another one by its side, and then pulled out to meet and pilot ashore the second mate, who was now in sight.

We laid the rough coffin in the grave, and stood around with bared heads while Mr. C. read the burial service.—We had certainly raced from the ship to the shore, yet we were very grave now! There was something, to us, very solemn, in paying the last offices of respect to this nameless sailor,—burying him in such a wilderness, by the side of another as unknown as himself: and we filled his grave in silence, rolled heavy stones upon it and built a rude fence similar to the other around it; planted our broken oar as his head, and left him to his rest.

We were so well satisfied with our laurels that we would never race with the mate's boat again. Mr. C. was a little sore on the subject, and the third mate used to chuckle a little, sometimes. "We can do it again if we like, easy enough," he would say, "but we don't care anything about racing. We want to take fish—not to beat you fellows." But we always declined the mate's challenges, which he threw out at every opportunity; and to the end of the voyage boasted of being the champions of the ship.

I WANT to rouse each sleepy head,
With a strain upon the brink,
Where yawning gulfs disclose the dead,
Who might, but did not, think.
I want to warn the living ones
Who blindly grope along,
Ye fathers, daughters, mothers, sons,
What perils round you throng!
Look out, my reader, are you free,
Or do you serve the bottle?
Most all are blind and cannot see,
Yes, groping in the dark.
Catarrh, a demon in the head,
Consumption is its close—
Kill hosts, yes, countless millions, dead;
Perhaps you may be one.
That hacking, hawking, spitting, shows
Catarrh affects your nasal bones;
Matter and slime in throat and nose
Runs down your throat instead.
Your lungs and liver soon will show,
Consumption has its fort;
Catarrh, its sire, will feed it, too,
'Till you return to earth.
If colds affect your head and throat,
ANNIHILATOR buy;
Now don't forget what I have wrote,
Or think this subject dry.
WOLCOTT'S ANNIHILATOR cures
Catarrh—the demon flies;
It saves the lungs, good health insures,
And Catarrh quickly dies.
I want to protect my friends,
Who wish to understand
About PAIN PAINT, its use, its ends,
And why its great demand.
I want to save your lives, pals as day,
Why PAIN PAINT stops all pain,
That you may never have to say,
"Ut not try paint again."
PAIN PAINT is safe and never stain;
Pumps indismination out;
'Tis harmless on the breast or brain,
A trial stops all doubt.
When inflammation forces the frame,
All pain will cease at once;
Remove the cause, 'tis all the same;
None doubt, unless a dunce.
The pores will use and drink PAIN PAINT,
Absorbents fill with ease;
Restores the weak, the sick, the faint,
The greatest skeptic please.
Evaporation cools the fever,
As inflammation flies;
Hot blood at the absorbent's base
Makes it a vapor rise.
'Tis thus PAIN PAINT removes all doubt,
Removes the very cause,
By pumping inflammation out;
On this we rest our claim.
WOLCOTT'S PAIN PAINT is sold at all Drug Stores; also, WOLCOTT'S ANNIHILATOR, for cure of CATARRH and COLDS in the head.—Sent by express on receipt of the money, at $1000 Chatham Square, N. Y. R. L. WOLCOTT, Prop. f20 4w

THE MEDICINE FOR

THE WHOOPING COUGH! DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR gives immediate and permanent relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are expected to have; and when a common, strong remedy, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And it is a fact established that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children are thought little of, and the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stoically unconcerned about them. Let them pass through it as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous Disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A safe and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.

Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.

J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.

I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor certifying to their curative effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken of rest at night that—by excessive coughing loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies had been kindly recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician, not now in practice, to Dodd's Nervine.

This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine in the evening to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon fell into a refreshing sleep—rapidly revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
Late Agent of the United States Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Bonds, Assignments, and all papers or drawings for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents or Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered on all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

My Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice, made on twice rejected applications, SIXTEEN APPEALS, EVERY ONE of which was decided IN HIS FAVOR by the Commissioner of Patents.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGHART."

AYER'S

HAIR VIGOR!
FOR THE RENOVATION OF THE HAIR.

The Great Desideratum of the Age.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy and effectual for preserving the Hair.

Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color and the gloss and freshness of youth.

Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use.

Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous.

Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.

Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it.

If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable.

Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts longer on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

LITTLE BELL,
And the Things She Loved.
BY. E. W. J.

I sat me down 'ceath the waving willow,
And heard the wild birds sadly say,
Chirping low to one another,
"Little Bell has died to-day:

When they make her grave to morrow,
Where the pretty May-flowers blow,
We will meet, and round her coffin
Sing the songs she loved to know."

And I listened, and heard the lambkins
On the bright, greensward at play,
Stop, and say unto each other,
"Little Bell has died to-day:"

"When they make her grave to-morrow,
Where the pretty may-flowers blow,
We will keep close watch above her,—
In the twilight we will go."

"Through the bright days of the summer,
She would watch us at our play,
And would fondle and caress us,
In her gentle loving way."

Then I heard the wild bees humming,
And they said, or seemed to say,
In the bright and pleasant morning,
"Little Bell has died to-day:"

"If they make her grave to morrow,
Where the pretty May-flowers blow,
We'll leave the honey in the blossoms,
That beside her grave will grow."

"She would never hate nor hurt us,
And if ever there befell
Harm to bee, or bird, or lambkin,
Who would come but little Bell."

And I heard the little children,
Softly to each other say:
"Let us go and gather garlands,
Little Bell has died to-day:"

"They will make her grave to-morrow,
Where the pretty May-flowers blow,
And to cover it with blossoms,
In the sunshine, we will go."

"She was ever kind and patient,
And in heaven she is blest,
For she loved to help the needy,
And the weary and oppressed."

Then I said—while softly musing—
All do mourn for little Bell,
And the reason is, it seemeth,
That she loved them all so well.

RELIABLE TONIC FOR LOOSENESS OF MORALS.—Furnished to the Afflicted without Enclosing any Stamps, by a Sympathetic Sufferer.—Where the patient is young in years, or the symptons are premonitory, constant, hard; physical labor, from sunrise to sunset, should be practised daily, excepting Sundays. Living upon plain food and sleeping in a well-aired room; going to bed at 9 o'clock and getting up at 4; frequent abutions in cold water, and religious practices day and night: these, when taken regularly, will effect a cure.

For the more aggravated cases, particularly in middle-aged persons, the most powerful detergents, self-denial and repentance, in connection with the directions for the primary stages of the disease, must be applied constantly during life, or the severities of prison discipline will have to be resorted to, for the public as well as personal good.

Words for the Boys to Remember.

Liberty is the right to do whatever you wish, without interfering with the rights of others.

Save your money, and you will find it one of the most useful friends.

Never give trouble to your father or mother.

Take care of your pennies, and they will grow to be dollars.

Intemperance is the cause of nearly all the trouble in this world; beware of strong drink.

The poorest boy, if he be industrious, honest, and saving, may reach the highest honors in the land.

Never be cruel to a dumb animal: remember that it has no power to tell how much it suffers.

Honesty is always the best policy.

Life and Epistles of St. Paul.—R. W. Bliss & Co., publishers, of Hartford, Conn., have sent us some advance pages of a work in press;—The People's Edition of Conybeare and Howson's "Life and Epistles of St. Paul," a standard English work of great value, published hitherto only in London. The introduction to this edition is from the pen of Rev. James McCosh, D. D., President of Princeton College, whose endorsement of the work in this way will be regarded as sufficient testimony to its high character and value. It is to be a volume of 1000 pages: price $3,50; sold only by Agents; persons wishing agencies will address the publisher.

—"I used to coast once myself," was the remark of a suburban gentleman—who made no objection to the proper use of his premises by polite and well-behaved boys delighting in sleds. This is as good as the remark of a conductor to an aged lady: "Don't hurry, madam, we've all got to be old some time."

—Two New York mechanics have invented a "monocycle"—a one wheeled velocipede—which they claim can be driven sixty miles an hour.

— A lady lecturer at the West is described in a newspaper critique as "an ornament to both sexes."

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH! DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children are exposed to have; and when it comes, strange to say, they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its violence or help the sufferers along. And when it is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the severe strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become totally unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the uniting word. Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and beneficent medicine.

Important Certificate.
Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.
J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.
I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past. My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken of rest at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies or palliatives were recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called by a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.

This was tried and continued commencing at once—with such effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon got her accustomed sleep—rapidly revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to several family friends, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

I WANT to rouse each sleepy head,
Who stands around the brink,
Where yawning gulfs disclose the dead,
Who might, but did not, think.

I want to warn the living ones
Who blindly grope along,
Ye fathers, daughters, mothers, sons,
What perils round you throng!

Look out, my reader, are you free,
Or do you wear the fetter,
Most all are blind and cannot see,
Yea, groping in the dark.

Catarrh, a demon in the head,
Consumption is its son—
Kill hosts, yea, countless millions, dead;
Perhaps you may be one.

That hacking cough, that spitting, shows
Catarrh affects your head,
Matter and slime in throat and nose
Runs down your throat instead.

Your cough and your voice will show,
Consumption has its birth;
Catarrh, its sire, will feed it, too,
Till you return to earth.

If colds affect your nose and throat,
ANNIHILATOR buy;
Now don't forget what I have wrote,
Or think this subject dry.

WOLCOTT'S ANNIHILATOR cures
Catarrh—the demon flies;
It saves the lungs, good health insures,
And Catarrh quickly dies.

I want to pray my friends,
Who wish to understand
About PAIN PAINT, its use, its ends,
And why its great demand.

I want to show you, plain as day,
Why PAIN PAINT stops all pain,
That you may never have to say,
"I'll not try paint again."

PAIN PAINT will cool, but never stain;
Pumps inflammation out;
'Tis harmless on the breast or brain,
A trial stops all doubt.

When inflammation leaves the frame,
All pain will cease at once;
Remove the cause, 'tis all the same;
None doubt, unless a dunce.

The pores will open and drink PAIN PAINT,
Absorbents fill with ease;
Restores the weak, the sick, the faint,
The greatest skeptic please.

Evaporation cools the place,
As inflammation flies;
Hot blood at the absorbent's base
Makes PAIN PAINT its vapor rise.

'Tis thus PAIN PAINT removes all doubt,
Removes the very cause,
By pumping inflammation out;
On this we rest our cause.

WOLCOTT'S PAIN PAINT is sold at all Drug Stores; also, WOLCOTT'S ANNIHILATOR, for the cure of CATARRH and COLDS in the head.—Sent by express on receipt of the money, at 161 Chatham Square, N. Y. R. L. WOLCOTT, Prop. f20 4w

A splendid Oration by Dr. Geo. B. Loring of Salem, one of the finest orators and most accomplished gentlemen in America. A beautiful Poem by Lieut. Geo. A. Marden, of Lowell, followed by remarks from His Excellency, Governor Harriman, interspersed with singing by the choir, and music by the Manchester Cornet Band. Seats were reserved for the ladies of the Veterans at the Church.

After the exercises at the Church, the Battalion escorted their guests to their respective Hotels, and proceeded to the Armory for a Business Meeting, after which they were dismissed till evening, when they held a brilliant Levee at Smyth's Hall.

— Hydrophbia has been successfully treated with iodine by Dr. Mussey of Chicago. He has published a paper detailing his experience in eight cases in which the patients were thought to have been bitten by rapid animals. He makes the important statement that in not morethan one case in 20 does hydrophobia result from the bite of animals supposed to be rapid. Of the eight cases promptly treated with iodine, not one resulted fatally, nor were any decisive symptoms of hydrophobia subsequently manifested.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Pakeha vs. Burr.

Messrs. Editors:—The second of Mr. Burr's course of lectures or the origin of races of men was delivered in Congress Hall on Saturday evening to a good audience. One part of the lecture was devoted to an attempt to show that the speaker's assertion that "there never was, nor ever can be, a barbarous white race" was correct. (This disposes of my question in your last issue, "why the whites were not destroyed by the civilizing process?") He took the Ancient Britons as an example of what history has considered barbarian whites, (saying that if ever any, whites were barbarous, they were,) and stated that at the time of the Roman invasion the inhabitants of England were superior to their conquerors in civilization.

In support of this position he quoted from Cæsar, about the huge iron chains which the Romans found barring the British rivers, and the artificial defences by which they were opposed, as proofs that History for centuries has been groping in the dark on this question. But I have an authority (and I am assured by one who has all his life been familiar with the classics that it is the very highest authority, too,) where I find the following description of the Britons, collated from Cæsar and other early writers:

"When discovered by Cæsar, the Britons were hardly to be called a barbarous people, being scarcely removed from the condition of primitive savagism. They generally went, both sexes, wholly naked, though some of them (whether separate tribes or separate individuals is not stated) wore garments of dressed leather. They tattooed their flesh, and stained themselves blue with wood, practices indicating a very low scale of humanity. They were polygamous, but the polygamy, like that of the Todahs of Hindostan, was the converse of that of the Mahommedans, every woman having nine, ten or more husbands, the first husband in point of date having some preferences in position. They wore no armor but bucklers, but understood the working of iron, brass and tin."

Mr. Burr also quoted Pomponius Mela, who, speaking of the Druids, says, they "profess to understand the movements of the heavenly bodies * * and the will of the gods," (I quote from memory, as I heard at the lecture,) as proof that the Britons were far advanced in astronomy and religion. But professions are sometimes but professions. I once knew a South Sea Islander who professed to be able to cure fever and ague by incantation; but I never saw him do it, and don't believe he could.—The last authority quoted was Lucan the poet; but poetical quotations will hardly decide a disputed question in history, or overturn what has been accounted fact for a thousand years. As correlative evidence of the old Britons' high civilization, the grand and beautiful ruins of England were adduced, and the wonderful works at Stonehenge; but I always held the belief that the most ancient British ruins dated (so far as can be proved) long after the Roman conquest; and as to Stonehenge—who is to decide by whom its stones were put in position? May it not have been a black, as easily as a white race?

Mr. Burr asserted that no savage nation ever had "laws and religious mysteries;" therefore the ancient Britons, having both, were civilized. Before New Zealand was christianized, when human captives were eaten, and wars made to get more when the old stock was all gone, any one, no matter who, who infringed upon or violated the provisions of the sacred "taboo," (or tapu,) was doomed to die; and this sentence was always carried out. Here were both law and religion,—but does it follow from this that the New Zealander, who tattooed his whole body and ate his enemy (and his friend, too, if he could get him,) was a highly civilized man?

Mr. Burr confines his comparisons to the black and white races principally, as the black race has been known and can be traced for thousands of years, while our acquaintance with the yellow and red men is comparatively recent.—He believes that the white man was created a civilized man; that his intellectual capacity never has been, nor ever can be increased one iota by cultivation, or decreased by neglect or circumstances; that the black man was created a barbarian; that he never was and never can be either more or less; and that the terms progress and retrogression, as applied to human races, are simply absurd. He says it is as possible to educate an ass into a horse as to educate a negro into a white man. I never heard of either of these remarkable educational feats being attempted, but I have seen a donkey that had been educated to be equal to a horse, in intelligence: and not twelve months ago I was acquainted with a black—a very, very black man, who was certainly my equal (and I fancy myself a white man, as good as white men average, now-a-days,) in intellectual acquirements, for he was a Latin, Greek and Hebrew scholar, a good cook, and interpreter to Her Majesty's Consul in a Chinese seaport; while I claim but little knowledge of either dead languages, cooking, or speaking Chinese.

The theory that the "capacity" may be cultivated, but not increased or diminished, I do not pretend to understand. Mr. Burr says that if we grant that man's capacity can be increased, we grant that the white man may have been gradually improved from the races below him, down to the negro, who in turn may have improved from the apes, &c. &c., way down to the bottom. I don't see that such an admission should lead to such disastrous consequences. I once knew a mongrel pointer, whose ancestors for generations had run wild and uncultivated, that had been taught to "point" game only with great trouble. Her puppies were taught to point much more easily, and some of the third generation from the uncivilized, uneducated dog, actually stood on a point the first time they were taken out, without ever having been trained in any manner, or seen a bird before. Was not their capacity increased by education? I think so; yet I do not believe those dogs will ever be educated into men, or degenerate into oysters from neglect; and if a brute may be improved why may not a man, or race of men?

I believe I know what Mr. Burr means when he says, "your race has never been improved since the Creation; you never have improved yourselves—and you never can." So far as he has gone, this is merely an assertion. I am curious to see how it will be sustained.

The lecture, like the first, was well worth hearing, and the remaining ones should be heard by all who take any interest in the origin of mankind.

DOVE-LIKE eyes sparkle with pleasure as the exquisite fragrance of PHALON'S new perfume, "FLOR DE MAYO," steals upon the senses of languid beauty. You have only to open a bottle of PHALON'S peerless extract, and the blended perfumes of a hundred exotics are at once suspended in the air. Sold by all druggists.

MISS JUDITH RUSSEL, of New Bedford writes: I have been afflicted with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. While visiting some friends in New York, who were using PLANTATION BITTERS, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a wineglass full after each meal. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I had not done for years. I feel like another being. My appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the PLANTATION BITTERS.

TO FARMERS.

The Lodi Manufacturing Co. invite Farmers and others using Manures, to send for a pamphlet descriptive of their Fertilizers. They offer their equal to the best Super-Phosphate, at the low price of $30 per ton.

DOUBLE REFINED POUDRETTE,

They also make superior articles of

NITRO PHOSPHATE AND PURE BONE DUST.

We ask attention to the following Testimonials:

Prof. Geo. H. Cook, of the New Jersey Agricultural College at New Brunswick, says: "The Double Refined Poudrette and Nitro Phosphate of Lime paid us full 100 per cent. above their market value, in the success of our crops this year."

D. A. Haughton, North Hadley, Mass., says: "I used it on my Tobacco plants (where no other manure had been used for years) and the result came quick and were pronounced the best plants ever raised in this vicinity."

Dan'l D. Rogers, New London, Conn., says: "The Double Refined Poudrette is the best fertilizer I have ever used in the hill, taking the price into account. The Nitro Phosphate is ahead of anything I have ever used in producing a crop without the aid of Stable manure."

Abram T. Peckham, Newport, R. I., says: "I used the Poudrette on corn, side by side with Super Phosphate, and in every case it came out ahead."

Chas. Rowland, Weston, Conn., says: "It gave the corn an early start, ripened it early and increased the yield more than sufficient to pay all expenses."

Wm. S. Sheffield, South Lynne, Conn., says he found it superior to Super Phosphate or fish scrap.

On Corn and Buckwheat it far surpassed any other manure.

Bradley Ingalls, Sheffield, Vt., says: "Your Double Refined Poudrette gave me the best hill side with Coe's and Bradley's X L Super Phosphate, and one or two other kinds, and it has given as good satisfaction as any. My crop of one and two bushels from four rows with manure, three bushels from four rows with Poudrette, and only one and three quarters from Bradley's X L."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

The Great Medicine of the World.

Perry Davis & Son's "PAIN KILLER" may most justly be styled the great medicine of the world, for there is no region of the globe into which it has not found its way, and none where it has not long been largely used and highly prized. Moreover, there is no clime to which it has not proved to be well adapted for the cure of a considerable variety of diseases; it is a speedy and safe remedy for burns, scalds, cuts, bruises, wounds and various other injuries, as well as for dysentery, diarrhœa, and bowel complaints generally. It is admirably suited for every race of men on the face of the globe.

It is a very significant fact that, notwithstanding the long period of years that the "Pain Killer" has been before the world, it has never lost the white of its popularity or shown the least sign of becoming unpopular; but, on the contrary, the call for it has steadily increased from its first discovery, and that excellent and honored man, Perry Davis, said at no previous time has the demand for it been so great, or the quantity made been so large, as it is this day.

Another significant fact is, that nowhere has the Pain Killer ever been in higher repute, or been more generally used by families and individuals, than it has been here at home where it was first discovered and introduced, and where its proprietors, sons, Perry Davis & Son, have ever been held in high esteem. That the Pain Killer will continue to be, what we have styled it, the great medicine of the world, there cannot be the shadow of a doubt.—Providence Advertiser. f18

That the feeble totter, with uncertain steps, over the face of the earth, in danger every day of falling victims to the morbid influences by which we are all surrounded, when a tested and proven vegetable tonic, capable of endowing them with the vigor they need, is procurable in every city, town and settlement? It might reasonably be thought that after the twelve years' experience which the world has had of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, ALL would know that its effect is to prevent disease.

At this season, the atmosphere is surcharged with the seeds, of intermittents, remittents, rheumatism, pulmonary disorders, bilious complaints and the like. Persons whose nervous systems are relaxed, are the first to succumb to these distempers. Brace up the physical energies, then, with this potential vegetable tonic. It is the most powerful recuperant which the botanic kingdom has ever yielded to patient research and experiment. TRY IT. The blindest disciple of the old medical dogmas will at least admit that a medicine composed of approved herbs, roots and barks, can do no harm, while the testimony of thousands invites a trial of its virtues.

Vigor is the thing most needed in these cases, as well as in dyspepsia and nervous affections, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS is the safest, surest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted. As a tonic, it is both mild and agreeable to the taste, and stimulating in its action upon the system.

Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the official nostrums, and prescribed this harmless tonic as a preventive and cure for all cases of Chills and Fever.

CURE OF LESION OF THE LIVER.

A gentleman, after a severe sickness, had lesion of the liver. Every quick movement or sudden jar gave him severe pain, often laying him up for days. Hence he was unable to follow any occupation with regularity.

In this condition, he applied over the part affected an ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTER. At first it seemed to irritate, so it was taken off. But the marked improvement he experienced afterwards gave him courage to try again, and he thereupon applied another plaster. The result was, nothing gave way—"a lipped," to use the gentleman's own words. There was some soreness for a few days after, then his health was perfectly restored. Upon being sounded by his physician, the adhesion or lesion was found to be gone.

Waltham Watches.

To Buyers of Watches Everywhere.

The greater part of the jewelers of the United States keep Waltham Watches, and cordially recommend them to their customers, notwithstanding the fact that less profit is made on these watches than on any others generally sold by the trade. The reason of this is, that the reputation of the Waltham Watch renders it an article for sale, and the result is, that, although the dealer does not make as much money on each individual watch as he may on other articles for sale, yet he is still the gainer through larger and livelier sales.

There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waltham Watch that hearty support it deserves. In their opinion, the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in Watches about which the public are ignorant, and concerning which there is room for such a kind of language which leads the customer finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell.

For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those unfriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following suggestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated in this country, there have been made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and village of the country some wearer of a Waltham Watch can be found. Let the party about to buy ask this owner of an American Watch this question: HAS YOUR WATCH GIVEN YOU SATISFACTORY TIME? Waltham Watches are not claiming to buy a watch to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the silver, they now only inquire and are satisfied that the Waltham Watches are THE CHEAPEST as well as the best. On this head we have a few words:

It is a well-known fact in manufacturing, that the greater the number of articles manufactured the greater the facility for producing the best of each individual article. Keeping this in view, our policy has always been to sell not products at the lowest possible price to dealers, but in large sales, and thus enable us to manufacture watches at a minimum cost.

WE BELIEVE IN SMALL PROFITS AND A LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that today we manufacture twice as many watches as all the other factories in the UnitSStates put together. WE CAN, THEREFORE, AFFORD TO SELL CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, AND ACTUALLY DO SELL THEIR OWN QUALITY CHEAPER THAN THEY DO, QUALITY FOR QUALITY.

We would further remark that in increasing our products we have constantly improved its QUALITY AND ITS VARIETY. We have been the refusal of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all those, and those only, which have proved to be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every head of a department we have ever had, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present corps of designers and master mechanics cannot be equaled in this or any other country.—In addition to this we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours being the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a retail profit made more reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,

Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens in the lungs, and the patient coughs the disease and pits well.—This is the only way to cure consumption.

To those three medicines Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, owes his success in curing the most fatal disease of the lungs, Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this compound is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop the fever, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleurisy, adhesions, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood, the blood will begin to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow the lungs commence to heal up, and the patient gets healthy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills will do the work without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the above medicines, and he feels it his duty to every many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Doctor SCHENCK, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and advice free, which can be obtained at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Hanover St., New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 36 Hanover Street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half-dozen.—Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. G. C. GOODWIN & CO., 38 Hanover Street, Boston, Wholesale agents. For sale by all druggists. d1y*ja1

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

THE BAL MASQUE at Congress Hall, in the evening of the 22nd, was an occasion long to be remembered by the dancers and spectators. The latter crowded the galleries and filled every available seat and every inch of standing room where there was a possible chance of getting a glimpse of the busy and amusing scene below.

The costumes adopted by the dancers were on the whole rather lacking in the humorous,—with few exceptions, most of the parties selecting serious representations.

We have been unable to obtain a complete list of the characters assumed for the evening, but by the kindness of Mr. Woodbury, of the firm of Curtis & Woodbury of Boston, who furnished most of the costumes for the occasion, we are enabled to publish nearly a complete list of the costumes, and add some from memory. We have endeavored to obtain a complete list, but presume that several have been unintentionally omitted. Many of the dancers had no disguise beyond dominoes. There were about 45 or 50 couples on the floor, and shortly after 9 o'clock the grand march commenced, most excellent music being furnished by De Witt's full Quadrille Band of six pieces.

By far the richest costumes displayed were those of Mr. and Mrs. Marcellus Eldredge, the former appearing as "Charles Second" and the lady as "Zenobia, Queen of Egypt." Other characters assumed were the "Spanish Matador," by J. H. K. Downs, Mrs. Downs being attired as "Columbia;" Mr. and Mrs. James F. Jenness, as "Spanish Musquitaire" and "Mercury;" Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Stoddard as "Sir Walter Raleigh" and "Satanella;" Mr. and Mrs. John Stokell effectually disguised themselves so that they could not recognize each other, as an "Indian Chief" and "Kitchen Girl;" Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Norton as "Charles Second" and "Night;" Miss Olivia Dill as a Persian Lady; Mrs. Chas. W. Adams as "Esmerelda;" Miss C. N. Shaw as "Queen of Clubs;" Miss Lizzie Gerrish as a Spanish Lady; Miss Clara Dow as a Bohemian; Miss Katie Green as an Italian Peasant; Miss Abbie Marden as "Di Vernon," capitally taken; Miss Eunice Hill of Dover as "Morning;" Miss Clara Hartshorn in Highland Costume; Mr. Parker Goodrich as a Tambourine Girl; Miss Carrie Whitcomb as "Child of the Regiment;" and last, though by no means least, Miss Lucy Locke in an Egyptian dress, as "Folly," as the lady spectators decided, was the most tastefully dressed lady present, looking like a little fairy.

The remaining gentlemen appeared to good advantage in the following costumes. Ellis W. Marden, as "Hamlet;" Dr. Riley of Haverhill, Mass., as a Chinese Mandaria; Jos. R. Curtis as "Duke Alphonzo;" Fred. E. Willis as the "Devil's Lieutenant;" James F. Hartshorn as "Gen. Washington;" Jas. H. Emery as a Mexican; Plumer D. Norton as a Venetian Count; C. G. Pickering as "Joseph" (in Richelieu); W. A. Ashe as a "Dromio" (Comedy of Errors); S. G. Hooper, as a Musquetaire; J. C. Perkins as a Caucasian Prince; Jas. A. Rand as "Allessandro Massaroni," a Brigand Chief; J. H. Lowd as a Caucasian Noble; G. B. French as "Louis XIV;" W. I. Moore as a Jockey; Sandford Woodward as a Briton; C. H. Lee as "Chic des Chico," a fop; J. Horace Jennes as "Champagne Charlie;" Jas. W. Lord in the double character of a Monk and "Don Cæsar." A Paymaster's clerk was arrayed in execuciating style as "Brother Jonathan," and behaved so ridiculously that some of the spectators thought he should have been in-Karc(h)erated.

Daniel Webster, whose other name is Barnabee, made the most sport, being dressed as an Irish Washerwoman.—Web. did some tall dancing, and his double shuffle balancing and exquisite waltzing provoked roars of laughter.

Altogether the whole affair was a complete success (including the hot supper at the "Kearsarge"), and reflects great credit on the indefatigable Manager, Mr. Marcellus Eldridge, who so successfully engineered the only bal masque Portsmouth has had for eight years.

PAKEHA's communications are making quite a sensation among our citizens, by their practical common sense, and we cheerfully give up a column or so to his review of Chauncey Burr's second lecture. To answer many inquiries as to who "Pakeha" is, we have to say that he is a native of Portsmouth, who has seen the world as it is and kept his eyes and ears open all the while—profiting by the use of these valuable organs. He wields a facile pen and we hope to hear from him often.

☞ The Maine legislature has passed an act to authorize the extension of the town-wharf in Kittery.

BELLS, on Churches, Temples, Factories, Schools, and Ward Rooms, are a convenience, when used within reasonable bounds, but they may be so excessively and persistently rung as to become a great annoyance to sick people, and a nuisance to a neighborhood.—The Church Bells in this old town used to be rung at certain hours on Sundays, and each particular bell was tolled rapidly and continuously till the minister of that particular church arrived in his place. Thus, the tolling for the lazy or tardy shepherd was a standing annoyance to all the other flocks. Then, for the funeral of any person whose family would pay the expense, two or all four of the bells would be tolled slowly at noon for half an hour, then at half-past one for another, and lastly at the time fixed for the funeral, till the procession arrived at the grave. But this practice became so common and so odious that the town, many years since, passed a vote limiting the funeral to one bell, which should be tolled only twice, and five minutes each time; and the bells for public worship are also limited, as every one knows.

It would seem proper that the bells for factories, ward rooms and entertainments at the Temple or elsewhere, should be placed under similar regulations. A five or ten minutes peal is as good a notice for all who wish to go as one twice as long; and vastly better for all who don't like a din.

GLAD OF IT.—The Pilgrim exhibition has gone, and we rejoice at it, as do all citizens within hearing of the Temple bell, which has been rung so unmercifully since the Pilgrim first visited this city. May his pilgrimage abroad be extended till the tongue of said bell shall refuse to do its duty in the annoying manner which has made it a nuisance, the past week.

MR. ALFRED LARKIN has the honor of being the first velocipedarian who has been seen on our streets since the new art came in vogue. His first appearance, on Washington's Birth Day, made a decided sensation, and he was immediately surrounded by a crowd of youngsters who kept after him as if he were a circus instead of a bicyclist.

REMOVAL.—W. F. Russell, Democrat, who was appointed Mail Route Agent between Portsmouth and Concord a little more than a year ago by Andrew Johnson, has been removed, and Mr. William Conn, Republican, appointed in his place. This is only an indication of what is coming in a few weeks.

THE 137TH ANNIVERSARY OF Washington's Birth Day was ushered in here by a drizzling rain and bell-ringing, and ushered out by the Pilgrim, Bal Masque, snow, and hail. The sleighing is fair.

☞ The down train on the Concord Railroad, Tuesday evening, was two hours late on account of the sleet on the rails.

UNFAILING EYE PRESERVERS!

LAZARUS & MORRIS' CELEBRATED
PERFECTED SPECTACLES
and Eye Glasses.
The large and increasing sales of these
SUPERIOR GLASSES
Is a sure proof of their superiority. We were satisfied that they would be appreciated here as elsewhere, and that the reality of the advantages offered to wearers of our beautiful lenses, viz.: the ease and comfort, the assured and readily ascertained improvement of the sight, and the brilliant assistance they give in all cases, were in themselves so apparent on trial, that the result could not be otherwise than it has, in the almost general adoption of our Celebrated Perfected Spectacles by the residents of this locality.
With a full knowledge of the value of the assortion, we claim that they are the most perfect optical aids ever manufactured. To those needing Spectacles, we afford at all times an opportunity of procuring the best and most desirable.
Mr. J. F. SHORES, Jr., Bookseller,
Has always on hand a full assortment, suitable for every difficulty.
We take occasion to notify the public that we employ no peddlers, and to caution them against those pretending to have our goods for sale.

THE BEST ADVERTIRING MEDIUM In America.

American Protestant Publishing Co.,
NO. 32 CONGRESS ST., ROOM 8, BOSTON.
This journal will contain Editorial articles on the present situation of affairs throughout the Republic, always keeping a watchful eye over "our faith and our freedom."
The time has come for Protestants to take action. The success of our cause, the triumph of Civil and Religious Liberty, is too great to jeopardize by trivial or personal differences.
Let us go forth with "Loyalty, Justice and Liberty," and be true to ourselves and our cause—and "Rebellion and Popery" will crumble in the dust. The paper is 24 by 34 inches, printed on new type, and contains the general news of the day.
We ask the support of every Republican, and promise in return to make our journal a welcome visitor to every Protestant home in America.

MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM

IS A SPEEDY and certain remedy for Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Influenza, Hooping Cough Asthma and the various Affections of the Lungs.
☞ The attention of those afflicted with COLDS COUGHS, and with any disease of the lungs, is directed to this valuable remedy. On account of sudden changes in the weather, colds and coughs are easily taken, and if neglected may lead to disease of the lungs. What is needed under such circumstances is a reliable remedy—speedy in affording relief, and effectual in arresting further progress of the disease.
☞ To arrest the existing irritation of the air-passages and the lungs, speedily and effectually, the seat and cause of cough is an important step gained toward relief and cure in the first stages of the disease. MASTA'S PULMONIC BALSAM possesses this important power, and while it promptly and effectually arrests all existing irritation, and rapidly relieves cough, it renders the lungs further relief by promoting a free discharge of the accumulated mucus in the air-passages, imparting a healthy action and vigor to the chest at the same time.
☞ Those suffering with cough and the first stages of lung disease will therefore find in this valuable preparation a speedy and decided relief. Even those whose condition is beyond recovery, will derive from its use great benefit as well as comfort. For the class of diseases it is designed to relieve, the general commendation it has received has proved its efficacy beyond question. For the past ten years have been speedily and effectually cured by its timely use while suffering from severe colds, protracted coughs, and from other forms of lung disease. It is prepared from vegetable balsams and the medicinal properties of roots and herbs, with no minerals nor poisonous acids; simple and safe in the material used, it can be taken at any time.
Sold in Portsmouth by J. H. THACHER, and by Druggists and Dealers in medicines throughout the New England States.

Adam Dearborn, aged 40 years, a hostler in Manchester, was found dead in his lodging room at a stable, on Monday morning. He probably died in a fit. He leaves a wife with whom he has not lived for some years, and two children who did not live with him.

A new Catholic Church, now nearly completed, in Manchester, is said to cost $70,000. It is 130 feet long and 70 feet wide.

Oscar Chapman and John Lord are under arrest charged with stealing from a boarding house in Manchester.

Mr. Mitchell, who was injured on the railroad near Manchester, on Tuesday, died on Thursday evening.

Capt. Gilman Richardson, a prominent citizen of Candia, died a few days since of typhoid pneumonia, at the age of 71.

T. W. Challis, Commander of Post No. 3, G. A. R., at Manchester, says the receipts of the late Fair amounted to $2419.21, and the expenses to $496.37, leaving a balance to the charity fund of $1922.84.

The Dover Gazette says that "the revival meetings under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and the lead of Mr. H. F. Durant of Boston, came to a final wind-up Wednesday night, amid religious excitement, such as we have not seen since the day of Father Miller in 1843." The meetings lasted many days and the converts are said to be numerous.

The old Columbian Hotel, in Concord, was damaged by fire Feb. 19; unoccupied; insured.

Mr. William Mellish lately attempted to cross Cold River near Walpole, on an unfinished railroad bridge, and fell 20 feet upon the ice. He lived but three days.

Mr. John Fifield, of Meriden, caught three skunks in a box-trap Thursday night. Two of them were jet black.

The snow is five feet deep in the mountains at Lebanon, and the lumbermen have stopped work in consequence. Rounsavel & Colburn have taken twenty cattle out of the woods and driven them to Claremont to sell.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Friday evening, as a party left Manchester to visit Col. Evans on the North Weare Railroad, Mr. C. Henry Hurlburt, a well-known and much respected citizen, and station agent at Manchester, was fatally injured. He was acting as conductor on the train which left at 6 o'clock. When near Oil Mills Station, 11 miles from the city, and while the train was running at the rate of eighteen miles an hour, Mr. H. attempted to pass from the car to the engine, and missing his hold, while on the tender, fell off on one side upon a snow bank and rolled under the train so that the rear portion passed over him, severing the foot from the leg near the ankle, and severely injuring him in the side.

He was at once taken back to M., where he lay unconscious to the moment of his death, which occurred at 3 o'clock Saturday morning. He was in his forty-first year, and had been station agent about thirteen years. He was deservedly popular, and a general favorite with all who knew him.

He leaves no family but sisters. He was a genial man sociably, and the Mirror says one of the most popular men in the city. He was one of the gayest of the gay, at the party at Mr. Blaisdell's in Greenland, only a day or two before his death. He was also a very efficient and highly esteemed business man and Railroad officer.

NATIONAL PRAYER MEETING.—We hope that the suggestion of the New York Observer, of February 11th, in regard to "Inauguration Prayer Meetings," on Thursday, March 4th, may be generally adopted. How suitable that earnest prayer should ascend from all Christian hearts in behalf of a new President and Vice-President, and in behalf of the new Congress, which will assemble on the same day. We are taught in the word of God that "supplications, prayers, intercessions and giving of thanks be made for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceful life in all godliness and honesty."

The President elect has said, "Let us have peace." Let that noble sentence find a responsive echo in every heart, North, South, East and West. Wherever practicable, let union prayer meetings be held, on the 4th of March, from twelve to one o'clock.

Let us unitedly pray for a general and mighty outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon all the people of the United States, a glorious season of refreshing from on high. In our national and in our religious affairs let our motto be, "Let us have peace."

For the Chronicle and Gazette.

On the Death of Mrs. Robert Otis of Kittery.

BY PHILIP O'NEILL.

Oh cruel Death, what hast thou done?
Oh bitter stroke of fate,
That took our darling from her home,
And left us desolate.

O Woman of the loving smile
And of the radiant brow;
For thee we grieve, tho' know the while
Thou art an angel now.

Affliction in its bitterest mood
May oft a blessing prove,
And she cut off by death so rude
Is now more blest above.

A new love came to her ere while,
To bind her unto earth;
She did not see her infant's smile,
She died to give it birth.

Oh dear bought child, and at such a cost,
Be thou a father's solace, pride,
A pledge of love, from his love lost,
Bequeath'd as she died.

Then twine for her that floral wreath,
And may she gently rest,
More fair, more beautiful in death,
And O, we feel more blest.

☞ A man suspected of being the famous box incendiary, whose operations have caused such wide-spread terror and loss for several years in Newburyport, has been arrested at St. Paul, Minnesota. His name is Leonard Choate. It is estimated that he has caused the destruction of fifty buildings, including four churches.

— The ladies who lead in Washington society will attempt to inaugurate the custom of giving dinners without wine. This movement will have the sanction and support of our new President and Vice President, and, we trust, will be countenanced by all the wives and daughters of officials in Washington.

WILL Hereafter Break Packages and sell the FINER SORTS of Black, Green and Japan Teas direct to customers, by the pound, as low as by the cargo, a saving to families of one-third to one-half.

WE DEVOTE PARTICULAR ATTENTION to FINE FLAVORED TEAS, of Full Strength, which competition among the great Importing Tea Houses has sacrificed for "low price lists."

EXPERIENCE PROVES the Finest Teas relatively the cheapest, as the Government Duty, 2 cents in Gold, or nearly 40 cents in currency, and also the freight, packing and other expenses of importing, are as much on the poorest as the finest.

OUR COFFEE DEPARTMENT is the largest on this continent, and we are now selling more Pure Coffee by several tons per week than any other house in America.

ALL OUR COFFEES are carefully selected for our trade from the best field-ripened berries, and we roast them in our establishment every day, by our new method, which removes all the acidity and renders them perfectly pure.

THROUGH OUR CLUB SYSTEM we supply families, hotels and boarding houses in every section of the country at the same low prices as at our principal warehouse.

WE PAY FREIGHT and deliver our Goods Free of expense at any railroad station East of the Rocky Mountains, on orders for $50 and upwards, when accompanied with the cash in advance, free of expense to us.

WE GUARANTEE all our Goods to be precisely as represented, and WARRANT them to give perfect satisfaction or to return the money at any time and pay all expenses.

SEND FOR PRICE LIST and blank club orders. Address all orders and communications to the

ORIENTAL TEA COMPANY,

THE ERIE CONDUCTORS.

A New York paper says; Not long since, while regulating the Erie, its branches, and all connecting railroads in the country, it was decided, in solemn conclave, to regulate the Conductors a little. Acting upon this basis, Manager Fisk lately undertook the job of correcting the evils existing among the conductors, or supposed to exist; and, after having estimated that they had bagged enough during the last five or six years to build a double track over half the route of the Erie, decided to have them disgorge. The other day one of the conductors, whose name it is not necessary to give here, who resides in Oswego, was called down, ushered into the superintendent's office, and from there into Manager Fisk's room, when it is reported, the following conversation took place:

Manager—"You are a conductor on the Eric, I believe?"

"Yes, Sir."

"How long have you been on the road?"

"Fifteen years."

"Had a passenger train all that time, I believe?"

"Yes, sir."

"Worth considerable property, I believe?"

"Some."

"Have a very fine house in Oswego. Cost you some thirty thousand dollars?"

"Yes, sir."

"Some little money invested in bonds, I am told?"

"Yes, sir."

"Own a farm near where you reside?"

"Yes, sir."

"Had nothing when you commenced as conductor on our road?"

"Nothing to speak of; only a house for the future."

"Made this property since?"

"Yes, sir."

"Been at work for no other parties?"

"No. But I have been saving of my money; invested it from time to time to good advantage."

"Well, sir, what will you give to settle? Of course you cannot pretend to say that you have acquired this property from what you have saved from your salary? You will not deny that you have pocketed a great deal of money belonging to the road—at least fifty or sixty thousand dollars. Now, sir, what will you give to settle, and not be disgraced, as you certainly will be if a trial is brought, and you are compelled to give up your property, which you profess to own; but which in reality belongs to the company?"

"Well, Mr. Manager, I had not thought of this matter. For several years past I have been running my train to the best of my ability. Never looked at the matter in this light before. Never thought I was doing anything wrong. I have done nothing more than other conductors have; tried to earn my salary and get it—and think I've succeeded. I don't know that I owe the company anything. If you think I do, why, there's a little difference of opinion, and I don't want any trouble over it.

I have a nice family, nice father and mother; relatives all people of good standing—they would feel very bad to have me arrested and charged with dishonesty. It would kill my wife. She has every confidence in me in the world and the idea that I, her husband, would take so little as a penny that did not belong to me, would send her broken-hearted to the grave. I don't care anything for the matter myself; but on account of my family and relatives, I want to make it right with the road and the officers, and if you won't say anything more about it, I'll give you a dollar!"

We understand there was some tall swearing done about that time in the vicinity of one end of the Erie Railway.

The next day a conductor from the neighborhood of Elmira was brought down on a similar errand, and ushered into the presence of the official judge and jury, when something like the following dialogue ensued:

"Well, sir, you have been seventeen years on the Erie road as conductor?"

"Yes sir."

"How much are you worth?"

"Well—fifty thousand dollars."

"Family to support?"

"Yes sir."

"Made all this money since you have been on the road?"

"Yes sir."

"Well it is the opinion of the directors that the conductors have been stealing at least half passenger money, and what we want of you now is to divide. If you will not consent to this we will bring a suit to recover the money and you will be discharged. If you will divide fair and square, we may say no more about it, and you can go on with your train."

"Well, now, Mr. Manager, that strikes me as the fairest thing I have heard of. Us boys on the road heard some time since that there was to be some muss raised, but we did not expect anything of this kind, or that we would be dealt with so liberally. We are perfectly willing to divide. If this is all the directors ask of us, I can say on behalf of the conductors of the entire line, we are satisfied. I know I am for one, Half of what I have taken, your figure will be $25,000. I am ready at any time for a division; handing my half over to you if you will hand the half of what you have taken over to me. I will invest the difference in United States bonds and quit railroading for ever."

Rumor has it that there was more profanity about that section.

One day this week a conductor on the Corning and Buffalo Branch, who has a brother high in authority on a road running out of Buffalo, as we are told, was invited down, when he offered to settle with the company on the receipt of $5, a silk dress for his wife, season ticket to the opera-house, and a $10,000 accident insurance ticket to cover him from danger on returning.

THE MEDICINE FOR
THE WHOOPING COUGH!
DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR
gives agreeable and almost instant relief in the spasms of Whooping Cough. This is a complaint that all children have expected to have; and when it comes, arrange to stay they are left to fight it through as they best can, little or nothing being done to break its intensity or help the sufferers along. And what is reflected that very many of the diseases of older and adult years have their origin in the tear and strain of Whooping Cough, this neglect would be utterly unaccountable but for the fact that children's diseases, like many of the weaknesses of women, are considered so much a matter of course that people have become stolically unconcerned about them. Let them cough it through, as we did, seems generally to be the unfeeling word. But Whooping Cough is a Nervous disease, and Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator treats it with COMPLETE SUCCESS. Mothers, TRY IT, and save your little ones the worst agony of this distressing affection. A sure and proficient medicine.
Important Certificate.
Speedy Cure of Whooping Cough.
J. W. PECKETT, Esq., Brooklyn, N. Y.
I am not in the habit of taking advertised medicines, nor of certifying to their curative effects when they come under my observation; but I feel constrained to make an exception in favor of DODD'S NERVINE AND INVIGORATOR, a medicine I have used in my family for some time past My little daughter had been suffering from severe Whooping Cough for several weeks, and was so much broken at night that—by excessive coughing and loss of sleep—her constitution and general health seemed to be giving away. Various remedies had been used, some recommended by intimate neighbors, but nothing was tried until our attention was called to a physician not now in practice to Dodd's Nervine.
This we procured and commenced using at once—with an effect immediate and surprising. As the convulsions were hardest at night, we began by giving the Nervine on her going to bed. The first dose administered made its impression; the cough became less frequent, and very much less severe—she soon got a long uninterrupted sleep—rapidly revived in health and vigor—and in a few days was as well as ever. What was left of the Whooping Cough was thereafter of no trouble. Of course I cannot but consider Dodd's Nervine and Invigorator an invaluable remedy for this distressing malady. I may add, that I have since recommended it to other families in my circle, in like circumstances, and have found it in every case to be equally successful. It needs only to be known to come into universal demand. J. W. PECKETT.

I WANT to rouse each sleepy head,
Who stands upon the brink,
Where yawning gulfs disclose the dead,
Who might, but did not, think.
I want to warn the living ones
Who blindly grope along,
Ye fathers, daughters, mothers, sons,
What perils round you throng!
Look out, my readers; are you free,
Or do you wear the mark?
Most all are blind and cannot see,
Yes, groping in the dark.
Catarrh, a demon in the head,
Consumption is its son—
Kill hosts, yea, countless millions, dead;
Perhaps you may be one.
That hacking, hawking, spitting, shows
Catarrh affects your head,
Matter and slime in throat and nose
Root down your fatal seed.
Your lungs and liver soon will show,
Consumption has its birth;
Catarrh, its sire, will feed it, too,
'Till you shall perish.
If colds affect your head and throat,
Annihilator buy;
Now don't forget what I have wrote,
Or think this subject dry.
WOLCOTT'S ANNIHILATOR cures Catarrh—the demon flies;
It saves the lungs, good health insures,
And Catarrh quickly dies.
I want to gratify my friends,
Who wish to understand
About PAIN PAINT, its use, its ends,
And why its great demand.
I want to show you, plain as day,
Why PAIN PAINT stops all pain,
That you may never have to say,
"I'll not try pain again."
PAIN PAINT will cool, but never stain;
Pumps inflammation out;
'Tis harmless on the breast or brain,
A trial stops all doubt.
When inflammation leaves the frame,
All pain will cease at once;
Remove the cause, 'tis all the same:
None doubt, unless a dunce.
The pores will ope and drink PAIN PAINT,
Absorbents fill with ease;
Restores the weak, the sick, the faint,
The most skeptic tease.
Evaporation cools the place,
As inflammation flies;
Hot blood at the absorbent's base
Makes PAIN PAINT in vapor rise.
'Tis thus PAIN PAINT removes all doubt,
Removes the very cause,
By pumping inflammation out;
On this we rest our cause.
WOLCOTT'S PAIN PAINT is sold at all Drug Stores: also, WOLCOTT'S ANNIHILATOR, for the cure of CATARRH and COLDS in the head.—Sent by express on receipt of the money, at 781 Chatham Square, N. Y. R. L. WOLCOTT, Prop.
